$5,000,000 Fire Damage At Chats Falls

Four Generating Units Destroyed After Blast, Blaze

Sections of Concrete Walls, Roofs Collapse in Ruins

FITZROY HARBOR (CP)—Fire in the huge Chats Falls power house was brought under control today almost six hours after it broke out. Estimates of the damage ranged as high as $5,000,000.

Four power generating units were in ruins, cutting off the 220,000 horsepower output of the plant which supplies Toronto and other southern Ontario centres.

Flames still were burning fiercely in several ruined sections of the quarter-mile-long dam in the Ottawa river about 30 miles west of Ottawa.

Sections of the concrete walls and roof collapsed into the building, causing millions of dollars worth of turbines and dynamos.

Breaks Out Early

The blaze broke out before 7 a.m. EST, apparently following an explosion in an oil circuit-breaker transformer. A spark is believed to have ignited oil in the breaker, spattering burning oil over the equipment.

Fire spread rapidly through a three-storey building on the powerdam. The roof over three of the eight power units crashed into the lower part of the building about an hour after the blaze started. Thick concrete walls also fell into the maelstrom. Older sections of the walls were in danger of falling.

Fourth Made Useless

Besides the eight units buried under roof rubble, a fourth nearby was made useless by the flames. The four units make up the south-east-end of the big station, while the transformer which handles the power generated by the whole dam. For that reason the entire output of the station is cut off.

Hydro officials said it may be days before temporary cables can be installed to carry power from the four remaining generator units into a power pool supplying southern Ontario.

Firemen doused gas masks in penetrate the maze of debris and concrete. Men from the power station were joined by volunteers from this village and the Ottawa fire department, the RCAF and National Research Council fire brigades at Arnprior, 12 miles west.

Smoke and flames were visible as far away as Arnprior.

Ontario Hydro officials launched an investigation into the damage to goodwill and insurance, both to a brave man and to the sturdy and hard-working power community of which he is the head."

Several Roman Catholic leaders have voiced objections to Tito's visit March 23.

Roman Catholic officials in Glasgow, have called a meeting next Sunday to protest the visit. A notice for the meeting urged Catholics to "do all that can be done to stop the persecution of religion in Yugoslavia."

Plane Owners Are Disgusted, Give It Away

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Those gray skies kept coming closer and closer to earth.

And a little plain plane kept flying lower and lower, until finally it plopped right in the middle of the field near here yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chesser inspected it and they were disgusted. They told Wedell Irish, 18, who came to lead them out of the rig field, to take the plane and keep it. They boarded a bus to continue their trip.

Church Leaders In Controversy Over Tito Visit

BARNSLEY, England (AP) A new Roman Catholic - Protestant controversy stirred in Britain today in Britain today because the Bishop of York, Church of England's second-ranking prelate, has urged Britons to welcome Communist Yugoslavia's President Tito when he visits this month.

Dr. George Dwyer, superior of Society, told his congregation Sunday: "We must be pardoned if we find it grotesque that Dr. Garbett (the archbishop of York), a minister of the Christian religion, should offer one of the very silences whose avowed intention is to declare Christ an imposter and the worship of God an antiquated superstition."

Dr. Cyril F. Garbett had said in a diocesan letter last week:

"Our welcome to Marshal Tito will not imply approval of his religious, political, or economic views and policies, but it will be a tribute to goodwill and friendship, both to a brave man and to the sturdy and hard-working people community of which he is the head."

Churchill Says U.S. Terms Proper For Stalin Talks

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today he could "see no reason" why Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin should not join President Eisenhower in a meeting with Premier Stalin.

However, the talks would have to be on the "basis outlined by President Eisenhower," he said.

Eisenhower told a press conference Feb. 25 he was willing to meet Stalin at any reasonable place between Washington and Moscow anytime he thought it would reinforce world peace.

Eisenhower said that any such conference would have to take place with the full knowledge of U. S. allies.

Churchill asked if there is any likelihood of such a meeting, replied:

"Speaking for myself and Her Majesty's government, I should be quite ready at any time to meet President Eisenhower and Marshal Stalin on the basis outlined by President Eisenhower if suitable arrangements could be made."

Churchill said accomplishment he has had with the U. S. on the subject of Russia and Communism.

But they "will no doubt be continued by the foreign secretary Anthony Eden, who is due to arrive in the United States on Wednesday."

World's Oldest Known Cargo Ship To be Raised from Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (AP)—The oldest known cargo ship in the world is being raised from the spot where it sank in the Mediterranean sea off the southern coast of France some 2,200 years ago.

Included in the cargo: bottles of wine, some still intact after all these years.

The ship was found by the National Geographic Society-Calypso marine archeological expedition. Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic, announced the discovery Saturday.

The society's news release said of the ship:

"One of the rarest finds of archeological treasure in recent years."

And Grosvenor said of those on the expedition:

"Their drilling discoveries promise to add much to mankind's knowledge of the ancient world."

He said that the ship carried almost 1,000 amphoras—pottery vessels for wine.

It also had 1,400 pieces of fine export dinnerware, probably from the Greek province of Latium. This now is Campania, Italy.

Scholars already have figured out who owned the 110-foot, 600-ton ship. He was a fellow named Marcus Sestius, a Roman naturalized as a Greek who lived on the Greek island of Delos.

The expedition was headed by Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau who said the ship will be cleared of sediment and silt late spring and then will be raised to the surface.

TWO MEMBERS SOVIET EMBASSY STAFF WOUNDED

Refused to Obey Order Of Burmese Sentry

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—A Burmese Army sentry shot and severely wounded two members of the Russian embassy staff early today when they ignored his halt order at an army protected area.

The Russians were Constantin M. Anikine, 36, embassy first secretary, and a Dr. Barbizo, 33, also a member of the embassy staff.

Police said the Russians drove in an embassy automobile into the military area on the eastern side of Rangoon and were challenged. The sentry ordered them to stop three times. Then he fired a burst from his automatic rifle.

Anikine was shot in the abdomen. Barbizo suffered multiple wounds on his face, neck and right arm and was reported in the more serious condition.

Both were taken to hospital. A sentry Burmese military official stood guard in the corridor to their ward. He refused to let reporters speak to the injured men and declined to answer questions himself.

Burmese foreign office officials said no official word had been received yet from the Russians. The Burmese authorities were unable to give further details.

U.S. Navy Developing Corps Of Atomic Bombardiers; Trained in Secret Schools

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Navy is developing a corps of atomic bombardiers: fliers and ordnance experts trained in the high-level and secret schools of nuclear weapon use.

Graduates of these courses already are with the fleet or at naval air stations.

Pentagon officials today would confirm only that such a program exists, but published reports and previous brief comments by other officials make it possible to say that:

The navy men receive their training in atomic warfare at the same joint armed forces schools used for air force crews.

They use precise duplicates of atomic bombs, complete in all details except the actual nuclear fission charge. They work together with air force crews and technicians, both in bombing technique practice and in conducting research and experiments for the scientists.

No Official Denial

Reports that components for the atomic bombs are carried aboard some of the larger carriers, published last year, have gone without official denial.

Comments by officials during recent months that the navy now was able to conduct atomic operations were interpreted generally to mean that the weapons were the newly - developed, small-packaged A-bombs designed for tactical use by fighter-type aircraft.

However, the navy has at least one type of plane, operating from carriers, probably able to toe the same size A-bomb carried in the belly of the biggest land-based, long-range bombers.

The AJ-1 "Savage" is the heaviest of the operational carrier-based planes, with a gross weight of more than 55,000 pounds and powered by two piston engines and a jet. Its range is given as "more than 2,000 miles."

The capability of atomic warfare, the navy holds, is needed as one of the methods of carrying out its primary mission—gaining and keeping control of the sea in time of war.

Britain Rejects Hungary's Plan To Exchange Imprisoned Man For Girl Guerrilla in Malay

LONDON (CP) — Britain today rejected Communist Hungary's offer for the immediate exchange of an imprisoned British businessman and a woman guerrilla condemned to death in Malaya.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons:

"There can be no question of bartering a human life or defacing the course of justice of mercy in Malaya for the sake of obtaining the release of a British subject unjustly imprisoned in Hungary."

However, he added that the offer might still be considered once the question of the death sentence has been settled.

Serving 11 Years

Edgar Sanders is serving 13 years in a Hungarian prison on charges of spying and sabotage. Britain and the United States have branded the charges as trumped-up on a travesty of justice.

The woman, Lee Meng, is under death sentence in Malaya for being caught with a hand grenade. Hungary, obviously acting on Kremlin orders, offered last week to swap them.

At present, however, the question of communist terrorism in Malaya is being considered by the sultan of Perak.

Churchill said his rejection of the Communist offer "does not exclude any further consideration once the question of the capital sentence has been resolved by the responsible authorities."

"I do not wish to say any more at present."

Two British newspapers today urged Churchill to reject the Communist offer.

Canadians Lead World in Travel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Canadians are way out front in world travel statistics, a UN report shows.

The UN statistical yearbook for 1952, published Sunday, says 2,548,190 of Canada's 14,009,429 citizens travelled abroad in 1950. That's about one in five. Compared with one in 20 Americans.

All but 100,00 of the Canadians travellers went to the U.S.

The figure for the U.S. was 5,012,908 out of 150,697,361.

Canada and the U.S. are each other's best tourist customers. Americans who went to Canada in 1950 totalled 2,631,370. Canadians who went to the U.S. totalled 2,468,030. 1950 is the last year for which the UN had figures.

Italy is far and away the favorite country for the world's tourists with 4,839,276 persons visiting that land of art and history.

Embargo Against Canadian Beef Imports Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson today signed an order opening the U.S. border to imports of Canadian cattle, sheep and other domestic animals and their products, effective immediately.

Imports had been barred for a year because of an outbreak of the dread foot-and-mouth disease in the province of Saskatchewan. Benson said the disease no longer exists in Canada.

Officials said the action means that import conditions and regulations in effect before Feb. 25, 1952, when the embargo was put into effect, are back into operation.

The ban had applied to animals as well as to chilled or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb or pork, and straw, hay and other materials that might possibly bring the infection into this country.

Lifting of the embargo reopens the $130,000,000-a-year market to Canadian cattlemen.

Also to be lifted soon was imposed, Canadian meat, whether on the hoof or on a sandwich, will be admitted to the U.S. Canadian cattle were not allowed to enter the country after Feb. 25 fairs and even U.S. hunters were not allowed to bring in hunting theis kills back from Canada.

Police Sergeant Faces Careless Driving Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban Etobicoke township police today laid careless driving charges against Sgt. William Martindale, 58, of the York county force after a collision Sunday night on Toronto's western outskirts.

Sgt. Martindale's automobile is said by police to have collided with a car driven by Stanley Farell of suburban Port Credit. Farell and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farell, were injured.

Martindale was uninjured in the crash, but there was a hole as big as a person's head in the passenger side of his auto windshield. Etobicoke police are investigating the possibility of another person being in Martindale's car.

Martindale was demoted from chief to a constable in 1938 after conviction of leaving the scene of a crash in which he was involved.

YOSHIDA REGIME IMPERILLED BY CENSURE MOTION

Political Observers Feel P.M. Will Resign

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida threatened today to dissolve Parliament after the House agreed to consider a motion of censure against his pro-American administration.

A spokesman for his dominant Liberal party, Eiaku Sato, said Yoshida might be forced to invoke a law requesting Emperor Hirohito to dissolve the elective body. The spokesman cannot deny the request.

The House threatened to overthrow Yoshida's shaky government earlier today by sending to a censure committee a motion to reprimand the 74-year-old Prime minister for calling a rival a "stupid fool."

Yoshida's deputy, Takeiuro Ogata, told reporters the adoption of the motion on the committee illustrates the unstable political situation. But he promised not to make Yoshida resign."

Opposition members protested against the threat to dissolve the Diet (Parliament).

Yoshida called an emergency meeting of the cabinet today to study the situation.

If the Diet committee recommended a secret censure and Yoshida lost the ensuing vote in the House, he almost certainly would be forced to resign. The vote last went against him 191 to 162.

In a heated exchange in the House floor Saturday, Yoshida blurted out "bakayaro" (stupid idiot) at Eichi Shidnara, a right-wing Socialist. Yoshida apologized almost immediately.

But the touchy House jumped on him, forcing today's vote.

The result was a face-losing defeat for the man who charted Japan's course through the end of the Allied occupation and into its present independence.

Production Has Tripled Since '32

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The free world's industrial production has tripled since the dark depression years of 1932, the UN said on Sunday, and now is more than twice as high as in the boom year of 1929.

The UN's statistical yearbook for 1952 offered no figures for the Soviet Union, which has never cooperated with the UN's statistical services. It offered a few estimates but treated them with extreme caution.

The yearbook also reported that government spending by the world ate spending money at an unprecedented rate.

It offered no reason for the spectacular growth in industrial production and other data, content to remark in passing that prodigious climbs were registered almost immediately after the Second World War and again after the outbreak of the war in Korea.

Facts and figures covering the years from 1929 to 1951 were put forth in 177 tables takinp up 554 pages.

Iranian Student Stabbed To Death In Savage Fight

Government Arrests 70 Army Officers for Inciting

By WILTON WYNN

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Mobs shouting anti - American slogans stoned United States cars and homes today as riots continued in Iran's capital.

Supporters of Premier Mohammed appeared to be gaining the upper hand in the demonstrations which have alternately assailed and defended the nationalist leader.

Crowds buried rocks at American cars, at the U. S. embassy's administrative counselor, Laurence C. Frank, and at cars driven by embassy employees, but no one was hurt.

One Iranian student was stabbed to death in a fight between Mossadegh supporters and members of the outlawed Communist Tudeh party trying to join a demonstration backing the premier.

Carried to Square

The enraged mob carried the body of the student a Mossadegh follower — to the Parliament Square and paraded it above the crowd, which swelled to an estimated 1,000 persons.

The crowd finally became so threatening that police dispersed the fighting mob with tear gas, firing tear gas bursts.

At the anti-American outbreak, popular offices in the city were closed and embassy personnel ordered to keep off the streets.

Mossadegh, meanwhile, moved to re-establish his hold on the government's reins after the mob attack on his home Saturday which sent him dashing in pajamas for the traditional sanctuary of the Parliament building.

70 Officers Arrested

The government arrested 70 army officers — 61 retired and five on the active list — and accused them of inciting the demonstrators against the government.

Mossadegh also fired his army chief of staff, Gen. Mahmud Bakhtiarmat, accusing him of not letting promptly the attack on anti-government rioters.

These continued today — as anti-Mossadegh mobs raided the headquarters of the pro-Mossadegh Iran party and smashed furniture and windows — but generally today's demonstrations were in support of the premier.

Same Battle Cry

Despite the week-end cry of "Death or the shah," the mass outpouring of pro-Mossadegh demonstrators crowding the Parliament building today screamed "Death or Mossadegh"—the same battle cry which has helped avert previous threats to the premier's hold on the government reins.

The attack on Mossadegh's home on the outskirts of Tehran yesterday erupted after an announcement by Mossadegh's Tudeh Party rival, with whom the premier has been on the outs lately, was about to be dissolved.

At the demonstration, the ruler had been ordered to go only for his health but was cancelling the trip.

PRINCESS HAS COLD

London (AP) — Princess Margaret has caught a heavy cold and in two weeks and is remaining indoors at Buckingham Palace, it was learned today. The illness was described as light.

Nurse at Lonely Arctic Outpost Dies When Warehouse Roof Falls

OTTAWA (CP)—A veteran of 15 years of Arctic nursing, Mildred V. Hall of St. Catharines, Ont., was killed Saturday at a lonely Arctic outpost, the health department reported today.

Miss Hundle, a native of England who graduated in the Canadian nurse from St. Catharines General Hospital in 1937, was killed when a warehouse roof collapsed at Lake Harbor on Baffin Island, about 200 miles south of the Arctic circle and 1,200 miles northeast of Ottawa.

The 44-year-old nurse has been a health department nurse at the remote Arctic station since 1951. Previously she served at Anglican mission hospitals at Aklavik and Pangnirtung in the Arctic.

Her brother, Leslie N. Rundle, lives at Simcoe, Ont.

Details of the mishap were unavailable. The health department said the RCMP detachment reported that she was killed when a warehouse roof collapsed. The warehouse was part of a wartime military station taken over by the department of transport and the health department.

Miss Rundle played an important part in several northland disease outbreaks. She volunteered for the Lake Harbor assignment and last year helped fight an outbreak of measles among Eskimos. She has handled everything from pneumonia cases to childbirth in the Arctic.

German Court Rules 'Pighead' Not Libellous

STUTTGART (Reuters)—The court at Neuulm, near here, ruled that calling a woman "pighead" was not a ground for libel.

It dismissed a suit in which a woman charged that a man had made insulting remarks about her while she was looking out of her apartment window. He shouted: "Take your pighead out of the window."

The court decided that the word was the "print" it used in such cases "merely to emphastize a statement."

Miners Report Staking Claims On Rich Deposit

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) —Three mining men returned from a helicopter expedition into the mountains of northern British Columbia today and said they and a rival group have staked claims on a fabulously rich copper deposit.

The trio reported they have staked 72 claims on an interested 7,000-foot peak known as Leduc glacier for Frobisher Ltd. and Thalgain Consolidated, a large eastern mining interests.

The copper find was made by described as a claim-staking race with Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Co. Ltd., Granby, taking out claims on the remaining quarter of the Leduc deposit.

The mining men, en route to Victoria for talks with the provincial government after spending a night in Prince Rupert airport, are Bill Richardson, Wendell Dawson and Howard Fraser, all former Alaska government mining engineer.

SAP IS RUNNING IN P.E. COUNTY

C. C. Mullins, R.R. 1, Picton, who tapped his maple trees last Wednesday, said over the weekend the sap was running well. He does not expect a large run but added: "it ran faster than I've ever seen before."

GALE BELIEVED CAUSE DELAYED-ACTION FIRE

The heavy gale like winds, which swept through the district a week ago were believed responsible for a delayed-action blaze, that caused a run for local firemen early Sunday morning. Firemen were called to 72 Crest St. James' street, the residence of H. L. Balyx, where lead-in electrical wires were reported ablaze.

It was believed that the gale of a week ago had in some way loosened the wires causing a short circuit. No damage was caused other than to the wires leading to the house.

Arthur Jackson, district field commissioner, presented a Scout send with a plan achievement for the pack. The Rev. Bruce Bessey gave the closing prayer.

Refreshments were served by the ladies' auxiliary of the church.

$400 Damage In 3-Car Crash On Trent Road

Approximately $400 damage resulted Sunday afternoon in a three-car rear end collision which occurred on the Trent Road near the Ontario School for the Deaf.

There were no injuries.

Donald Weeks, Donald Street, Belleville, was eastbound when he stopped to give a friend a lift. The following car driven by Augustus MacDonald stopped a few feet behind, but a third car driven by Reginald St. Clair Smith, R.C.A.F., Trenton, crashed into the rear shorting the Smith vehicle into the Weeks' auto.

Provincial Constable Perry investigated.

Quinte Skating Club Presents Colorful Ice Extravanza; Guest Stars Delight Crowd

Gayly colored costumes, realistic scenery.... all accentuated by effective lighting combined with splendid skating by members of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club to give pleasure to attending the club's 11th annual ice show held in the arena Saturday afternoon and evening. Some of the finest showings of local talent seen in some time.

The splendiferous show opened with selections from the Carnival in Overture style but the real lead off was the first number, "Fairies." The scenery, depicting the lower half of a forest, tree trunks, toadstools, mushrooms, underbrush and the rest of the trampings which go to make up the woodland floor. Cavorting on and around the forest playground was the fairy queen and her attendants, Jacqueline Woodcock, Prince Charming by Maurice Wright and four other charming fairies, Frances Dickens, Nancy Van Dusen, Patsy Miller and Patsy Bradford.

The children's number, entitled, Midsummer Night's Dream, had all the cast, included a sprinkling of the adult members, dressing for food, bees collecting honey, a lonely skunk on his fruitless search for a mate and Punch and with skate-shod worms. Even the lady of the moon was represented, gliding down the moonbeams to frolic with the fairies in a wood-land glade. Mary and Linda Hogg were the "worms from the apple."

Ann Kirk and Margaret Van Alstine featured in portrayal of bees and they had a moonlight duet. Georgia Brown, George Empson played the part of the lonesome skunk and Lynn John Taylor and Bobby Wecse were "Mars and Jupiter."

Presented with Flowers

On reaching the conclusion of the children's Midsummer Night's Dream, Mrs. Blake Weese, skating director, was presented with a bouquet of flowers by little Frances Dickens. The children's part was followed round her for the presentation.

Miss Beverly Barber, of the Toronto Skating Club, followed the children's number with an exhibition of gyrations and ice-skimming, as the graceful doe "single" to gain a heavy ovation from the crowd.

The Bellevue Café at the Hippodrome, number eight on the program, was a comedy number featuring a cast of 12. The scenery and players represented penguin stations normally undergone by those wishing to produce a show taking the audience back stage, the item showed ballet dancers, orchestra members tuning instruments, comedians and other members of the production in staging a rehearsal. Generally the item was quite humorous.

Also featured on the bill of entertainment was the Club Waltz, judged by 25 to 30 members of the cast, skating to three-quarter time music. This was followed by Mary Hamilton of Oshawa, a professional stilt skater, and the Gingham Dogs, eight girls, who danced to the "Sunny Side of the Street."

Ted Bekewell at the Hippodrome was the Waltz of the Flowers, a number featuring a ballet dance wherein the girls are guests at the marriage of the Sugarplum Fairy. Especially was the American Beauty who played the part of Sugarplum Fairy, Barbara Hall and Willo Wilkes were the two Arabian dancers featuring the juvenile pupil, Gordon Davies.

Comedy, Too

The president of the skating club, Jack Dickens, all but brought down the house with his portrayal of the comic cross-bar ball team, complete with oversized bat and traditional baseball regalia.

Active on his whiter show committees were the following people: Jack Dickens, general chairman; Mrs. Blake Weese, skating director; Dr. A. Wilkes, secretary; Mrs. A. Wilkes, treasurer; Mrs. Wilkes Fox and Beverly Fox, also Jack Dickens, secretary. Costumes for the evening and program; C. A. Morgan, visiting skaters; O. Hales, classified advertising; Bob Smith, lighting effects; G. Woodcock and Ridley, music; Miss Lillian Sprackett, make-up.

New Fire Station on Dundas St. Officially Taken Over by City

With the completion of its second new firehall since the war, the Belleville Fire Department now has one of the most modern quarters for its fire fighting personnel and equipment of any city in Ontario.

The new Dundas street firehall officially turned over to the city only two weeks ago and the old Victoria Road station has been vacated. All fire fighting personnel and equipment is now quartered either at the new No. 1 firehall, or at No. 2 firehall on Moira Street.

The city now has two new fire stations, one on each side of the city. Both were built from the same plans, the Dundas Street hall having only two minor changes from the station built four years ago. No. 2 hall on Moira Street will remain as the main station.

Six on Duty

Alderman Angus Duffy, chairman of the city council fire committee, said today that six men on duty at each firehall with two shifts per day. The department now has 36 firemen with 12 men making up the "extra fire".

Due to its closer proximity to the downtown area the aerial ladder will be kept at the No. 1 station, while Fire Chief Vance will also use this station as headquarters.

Here also will be kept one large pumper and a small pumper.

One large pumper and the old ladder truck will be kept at the Moira fire station for the needs of the city.

Although built four years later in a period of rising prices, the cost of the firehall recently completed was only $3,000 more than the one built earlier. Contract price of the new hall was $33,000. Landscaping costs will be additional. General contractor for the new station was Bert Bell. Belleville's first new fire-hall.

Nothing has been left undone to make the new firehall as modern as possible.

Adequate storage space with plumbing connections is provided for equipment. Racks for drying hose are of latest design. Even Belleville's coal has been outdated with installation of an oil-burning furnace.

Comfortable Quarters

Upstairs accommodation leaves nothing desired in the way of comfort for firemen. Included is a lounge and recreation room, a kitchen, showers and sleeping accommodation with two beds to a room. A "den" for the fire officer in charge is provided on the ground floor.

The coming spring will see the entrance from the street paved and the entire property landscaped. A traffic light at Dundas and Victoria Road will help traffic when firemen are leaving the station in answer to alarms.

Action are study only in the formative stage but it is expected the official opening of Belleville's second new fire hall will not take place until some time in June. A special map be planned to tie in with the Coronation celebration.

March Roars In With Temperature Little Above Zero

The March lion, its tail twisted by an unseasonable February, roared back into the picture over the weekend, with plummeting temperatures.

The mythical lamb was shoved into the background as the mercury dropped to almost zero levels, the lowest being four above early this morning, according to Purification Plant thermometers.

Some thermometers in the city registered as low as one and two short at six a.m. No matter, the mercury reading, early morning workers on their way to office, plant and factory, shivered in the freezing temperature.

It was slightly warmer at 8.30 when the thermometer reading 8.5 above zero.

The early weather, however, was tempered somewhat with a brilliant March sun.

Weather for March Leo's entry appears to be a one-day show. Weathermen say it will be warmer tomorrow with temperatures expected to reach 15 and 20 above for this district and possibly a little snow.

TORCH SAVES FISHERMAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A feeble glimmer from a flashlight bulb brought rescue Saturday to a fisherman who spent four hours in icy Pacific waters. Brian M. Walker clung to a stuffed settee cushion after the fishboat struck a submerged log and sank off Darcy Island, near here. The dull beam of his flashlight was finally spotted by crew members of the patrol vessel Victoria-New Westminster car ferry Canora.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Public interest in a wide list of western oils, "penny" mining issues and base metals today boosted stock market volume above the 2,000,000 mark in the first hour. Prices generally were firm.

Uranium issues were mixed as Gunnar, a leader dropped a fraction and a number of other issues gained pennies. New Brunswick base metals followed a similar pattern. Northern Ontario rare metal prospects turned firmer as Inspiration added 25 cents.

Western oils gained and golds and base metals showed small advance.

Industrials mixed as refining oils slipped and banks held firm. Senior golds traded lightly with little change. Junior golds and higher-priced base metals were mixed.

RESCUE DOWNED FLIERS

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP)—Three U.S. Navy fliers were rescued from a life raft Saturday about two hours after their TBM torpedo plane plunged into icy Lake Michigan. Coast guardsmen picked up the trio off the raft and headed into port here in a rescue boat.

Albert Cheese Factory Re-Elects 1952 Officers

The Albert Cheese Co. processed 1,495,564 pounds of milk during the 1952 making season, it was shown at the annual meeting held recently.

Total cheese made was 134,307 pounds, total fat 50,863.6 with patrons receiving and average of 66.6 cents per pound fat. The average test was 3.34. The average price per hundredweight milk was $2.23. It was expected that a further payment for May and June cheese would be made later, although there will be nothing official on this until all cheese is disposed of.

President James Corrigan conducted th meeting with James Meagher giving the secretary's report which showed a successful year.

A short address was given by Mr. Fish, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville.

The following officers were re-elected: James J. Corrigan, president; James T. Hanley vice-president; James J. Meagher secretary and Harold Power, auditor. The same board of directors were also re-elected. Alva McAllister is the cheesemaker.

He was crushed by an ore truck when he slipped while climbing into the empty truck.

LIFT CONTROLS HERE

OTTAWA. (CP)—Canada today lifted import controls on meat and livestock.

A trade department spokesman said an order-in-council eliminating the trade restrictions became operative with the opening of the United States border to Canadian shipments. The order-in-council was passed Feb. 26.

National Official Is Speaker At Y's Men's Club

At the last meeting of the Y's Men's Club, Thursday evening, the members were addressed by C. A. Schell, executive-secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada. The speaker has been associated with the Y.M.C. since 1911 and with the exception for service during World War I has been active since that year.

Mr. Schell spoke of his trip to Europe and the contacts he made with the YMCA and Y's Men's Clubs while there. The prime purpose of his visit was to attend a meeting of the International Committee of the YMCA at Athens, Greece. Highlights of the meeting were the report of the YMCA extension committee, when it was stated that Malaya has requested a British general secretary to manage their YMCA, and the report on the refugees and displaced persons committee. The latter committee was formed when the YMCA was asked to assist the rehabilitation of displaced persons after the war. A committee was formed, and for the past seven years, it has been working with people of different countries in Europe, helping them and giving them an opportunity to re-establish themselves. The Athens Y's Men's Club is working with the Y on this project, and has set up educational classes for the children.

"Unfortunately," the speaker said, "conditions are difficult in Greece. First, because they are hemmed in by Communist nations, and secondly, there is a great contrast in their economy. The people are either very poor or extremely wealthy. There is no middle class."

Strong Initiative

In Rome, he found conditions exactly opposite. There is an industrial upheaval in southern Italy, and the Italian people have a strong initiative for improvements and the reconstruction of their country. There are no Y's Men's Clubs in Italy because the Italians simply do not like going to meetings.

Mr. Schell's impression of France was that it has placed too much value on entertainment. They are not as active or thrifty as the Italians.

The people of West Germany are rebuilding. They are ambitious, and are actively building and constructing new buildings for housing developments and offices. There are two Y's Men's Clubs in Germany. Mr. Schell mentioned the life of the Canadian soldiers stationed in Europe. The Canadians seem to be getting a poor grade of entertainment, because of a lack of entertainers. They are constantly faced with the same type of programs, whereas the English have a much better arrangement. The English soldiers have a much larger group of people who present a wider range of entertainment.

The YMCA's throughout Great Britain function similar to our Canadian Y's. They have the same type of programs, projects, etc., but do not have Y's Men's Clubs working directly with them like we have here in Canada.

"In closing," said Mr. Schell, "I will tell you what my thoughts of the trip were in general. In London, Versailles, Paris, Rome, and Athens, I would look around and come up with the same question. Are Christians putting our effort into the right thing? Are we placing too much confidence in material power, or are we giving enough to the spiritual things. Remember, it's the spiritual things that count."

Mr. Schell was introduced by Lloyd Skeaff, and thanked by Harold Bankier.

Three Rewarded For Assisting To Capture Bandit

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A short chase and a flying tackle, which last November brought a bandit to justice, paid off Saturday for three men. They each received a $1,000 cheque from the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Charles McAuliffe, 23, London; Bruce Grant, Granton, both of the Fred Hall Paper Company, Ltd., and Tommy Nunns, London Free Press employee, received the money in payment for their participation in the capture of 28-year-old Alfred Barr, who held up the main branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and escaped with more than $7,000.

Barr was convicted and was sentenced to five years in Kingston penitentiary.

GETTING A CLOSER LOOK

The observance of Education Week throughout Canada occurs this year at a time when Canadians were never more conscious of the importance school problems have assumed in their affairs. This week parents are urged to get acquainted with their schools and with the teachers. They will have the opportunity of getting a closer look at the local character of education that is being provided for their children. They will have a chance to acquaint themselves with many aspects of the "school problems" which are looming larger each year.

This will be all to the good. There never was a time when the ordinary citizen should be taking closer interest in school matters. There is no doubt about the proportions of the education crisis which so much is being heard about. What can be done and should be done about it is the business of every parent and every local taxpayer.

The reasons behind the emergence of this problem suddenly in the last few years are quite apparent. Canada is in a period of quickly expanding population following war years when expansion of educational facilities was impossible and an earlier depression period when they were necessarily curtailed to a minimum. And when the catching-up programs got under way steadily increasing costs, the inclusion of modern features in construction, new features in curricula and teaching techniques and higher wages, all contributed to imposing heavy charges for school administration upon the taxpayer.

The important thing is to be brought home to the average citizen-taxpayer, is that the worst is yet to come. Only the first squeeze of increasing population is being felt now. Schools are already overcrowded but the school population is to increase by hundreds of thousands more in the years ahead.

Even with all possible economies being put into effect in school administration, we will face new and extraordinary costs to accommodate new pupils now in the elementary schools and a few years later in the secondary schools.

It is this province it is extremely unlikely that there will be a willingness to sacrifice the standard of education. It will be necessary to find some other means of meeting the financial problem. To this end there have been increasing demands for federal aid. The big stumbling block here, however, is that the present government of Ontario has taken the stand that education is a matter for the provinces and that it would be a threat to national unity for Ottawa to step into that field. In Quebec, there is no doubt that this view is clearly held. Only this year Premier Duplessis refused to accept the federal government's university grants.

The time approaches, however, when the local taxpayer outside of Quebec might well look at the burden of school costs and decide that the Ottawa treasury must be called upon. If Education Week serves to bring more citizens of this province in touch with the schools to prompt a quickened interest in these problems it will serve a good purpose.

UNLIKELY MEETING

Last week President Eisenhower expressed willingness to meet Premier Stalin, but there are no indications that a meeting of the conditions prescribed by the President are to be met it is unlikely any meeting will be held between the two men.

Mr. Dulles told Congress that such a meeting is "entirely in the realm of conjecture" but Mr. Eisenhower stressed that he would not consider a meeting until there is proof Stalin is prepared to change his whole policy of conquest and that there is assurance he would deal in good faith.

It being obvious in the light of historical record that no credence whatever can be placed in Stalin's promises it might be concluded that a meeting with him is not even in the realm of conjecture. At the same time there is little evidence to indicate that Stalin is interested in a deal of any kind. The terms upon which the Western world could do business with Stalin have already been pretty clearly stated before the United Nations and repeatedly rejected there by Stalin's delegates.

The time must come, however, when some basis of settlement of world problems is found. Mr. Dulles explained that the time for negotiations will be when treaties with Moscow can be made "self-enforcing". They will involve prior fulfillment by the Soviet of many obligations which are assumed. Beginning at the United Nations there are many points upon which agreements of this kind could be reached.

Korea and Germany are the sorest points at issue right now and offer ample opportunity for settlement when Stalin is prepared to demonstrate his good intentions with deeds rather than words. But so long as the attitude in the Kremlin remains what it has been we can look for no early negotiations which will lessen the existing cold war tensions.

JUST FOLKS

THE GREAT AND THE SMALL

The little man rushed through the town
On business bent.
He greeted strangers with a frown
Where'er he went.
For naught but self he seemed to care.
He walked along, head high in air.

So eager to be great was he
He quite forgot a friend to be.

The great man walked at slower pace
And loafed none.
He greeted with a smiling face
The humblest one.

Though weighted down with large affairs,
He kept in mind men's smaller cares.

And never in one heedless hour
Used pride or scorn to prove his power.

A weeping child upon the street
Could catch his eye.
With cheery word he'd always greet
The passer-by.
Though busy, he found time to spend
To play the neighbor and the friend

And gather in, from far and wide,
The love the small man tossed aside.

Letter to the Editor

No World Surplus Of Wheat

The Editor:

Sir: A recent page story from Chicago in your Feb. 19 issue "Dust Storms Ruining Winter Crop are Worst Seen in U.S." Makes one suggest that Canada's wheat farmers sell should be interested?

Only a couple of days earlier I had noted in him in one of the financial journals, in which it was pointed out that supplies of wheat, as of January 1, in the four major exporting countries, available for export and carry over at the end of their respective crop years, amounted to 1,422,000,000 bushels, about 48 per cent. greater than the 1,027,000,000 bushels available a year earlier, the Bureau of Statistics reports.

Apart entirely from the dangerously unsteady political climate among the various nations these days, and the many millions of underfed people in a dozen countries, maybe just 'counting our money' does not supply the whole picture?

My farm friend assures me that within the next thirty days we should learn just what damage has, in fact, been done to the prospective winter wheat crop in the United States. He says—and I have found his opinion on such matters in the past to be sound and moderate: "According to my thinking, and remembering the shortage of nigh 400,000,000 bushels in the official Washington Dec. 1 estimate—on the winter wheat crop conditions, I won't be surprised to hear that another drastic weather cut into potential wheat reserves and lowered prospective supplies by about 450,000,000 bushels."

If this prospect is reasonably in line with the facts, it shows what the weatherman can do, and also a trend which merits the study of the International Wheat Council, in session at Washington this week.

In a global sense, so far as I am aware there is nothing remotely like a wheat surplus at the present hour.

"FARMER".

Peck of Dirt For Everyone

(Montreal Gazette)

In grandmother's day, when a child swallowed something not considered wholly nutritious, she was apt to say, "Well, never mind, that has to have its peck of dirt." Today, the tendency would be to put in an emergency call for the stomach pump. Perhaps it is obviously much the safer, and may mean the difference between life and death.

Yet, strangely enough, there are some remarkably healthy people walking around who grew up before the Antiseptic Era and tasted their own mud pies.

Like a Member

(Moose Jaw Times-Herald)

The doorkeeper hurried down the steps of a west-end club to open the car door, slipped, and rolled down the last few steps. The manager who happened to be standing in the entrance called sympathetically, "For goodness' sake are you a member?"

Every Parent Should Know

(New York Times)

Looking up from the supper table a junior member of the family observed that the sky was quite light, whereas not long ago at the same hour it had been pitch black. True, one observed sagely: spring was coming, heralded only by the day's lengthening but also by a large flock of robins discovered the other day had paused on its journey. Where, asked youth, do the wanderers go in winter? Into Canada, one replied unwisely among the beginnings of a series of questions.

It is of course, one of the duties of parents to be on hand at mealtimes and at other hours of the day to answer questions and from time to time, to ask them. The best mealtimes are those when the junior members of the family report at length on what went on at school during the day —how dreadful was the lunch at the cafeteria, how unfair and impossible to complete in the time allotted was the arithmetic test, what Charley said to the student B, and on and on without end. These are times, for example, the parent's careful attention and an occasional remindant that the food is getting cold. The flow of words cannot be shut off, but, fidgety as the parent may dam it, because it is interesting to learn about the daily life and attitudes of the young. A minimum of response from the parent who has labored hard all day at that delightful task of earning notes that they allow to grow cold and then refuse to eat.

Then there are mealtimes at which the giving of advice is indicated. The junior members of the family are not infallible, fantastic and social, about which they are not quite able to differ, advice is the offering of advice room exists for differences of approach and opinion. The giving of counsel is not an exact science, and advice can be bestowed on the basis of broad general principles availed to specific instances. Nothing of this kind normally requires no great intricacy of thought or brain.

But when a mealtime turns into a quiz session it is a different matter. The parent is supposed to know a great many things and it does not look well when he has to say "I don't know" more than just occasionally. If he says, in reply to a question, "Why don't they look it up in the encyclopedia?" a junior member of the family perceives that this is the same as confessing ignorance and he is not impressed. When the questioning comes from the very young it is painfully evident how much a parent does not know about the things everyone should know about.

Spring, for example. What comes the question, makes the day grow longer? Why does spring begin on March 20 this year and sometimes on March 21? Or at one time or another every parent has been exposed to the answers that should follow. These simple questions and, undoubtedly, at one time or another he has explained them to some one else in understandable terms, but here is the old wearying day, and as his potato grows cold, the little founder sees nothing wrong with the "notation," "earth's tilt" and "vernal equinox" and is content hoping his hearers will catch them and not toss them back.

That is a vain hope. What, you ask, is the real mental equipment? Just what happens then, and how can it be acquired in summer solstice? Which way does the earth tilt, and precisely what is a spinning? Here little or no room exists for differences of approach and opinion. Questions of fact and one either pops with the right answer or does not. It is embarrassing how often one does not. Supper may grow cold, tempers may run, conquista almanacs and books and, when one is at last released, frustrated are the questioners. But they no longer are fascinated by the subject. Chinese checkers and do not want to be bothered about the seasons and the equinox. The golden opportunity has come—and it has been fumbled miserably. One resolves to read the whole encyclopedia from first to (circle), determined to be unconfortably aware that when the junior members of the family are in a questioning mood one set of books will not begin to tell a parent all the things he ought to know. And doesn't.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BEING NEIGHBORLY

I have never been able to understand why a nation would want to rob its neighbor any more than I would want to rob my next-door neighbor. The fact that I might have more nationality wouldn't make any difference.

But it's different among nations. Maps tell the story about it. They don't seem to be able to stay good neighbors for very long. Take the case of Mr. Rogers was a guest of the late Dwight Morrow, then Ambassador to Mexico, the latter said to him: "Will, I don't know anything about the problems that two people are our neighbors, and we have to live by each other, so their problems can't be any different from those of any other neighbors."

If nations could only get down to basic neighborliness, the waste and wickedness of all 'hot' and 'cold' wars would be over. But, of course, that would take a lot of intelligence, and we haven't advanced that far yet, to our grief and sorrow.

The Good Neighbor idea, as it is being exemplified by Uncle Sam in Ecuador, is one of the most intelligent of human things ever attempted, and I'm sure that it may endure forever and be an object lesson for the entire world.

I don't care what color a man's body may be, nor what his religion may be, nor what his views on this globe he may have been for a few years or a few centuries old. And the weird looking squatty human beings on the television screens are in very good company indeed with the queer beasties and birds in midget with whom they share the television screens. President Eisenhower making a speech lately, and his shadow appeared on a grassed sideways, his already ample mouth was stretched horizontally, and his arms seemed to be attached some inches below his left shoulder.

For this, let all of us who are not tall, dark and handsome give thanks. Never since the movies made the perfect male and the perfect female has it been acceptable and known to us all, life has been a little tough for the normal, ill-made, homely, squat or gangly individual amongst us. It took some imagination for most of us boys have to see a Barrymore, a Taylor or a Gable as friends. And girls who are supposed to have far greater beauty and feminine gifts than men would be hard pressed indeed to see a Gregory Peck in a Gregory Clark.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE KING LOSES AND WINS

Frederick the Great, desiring to possess a property adjoining on the royal domain in Potsdam, first tried to purchase it and when this was not possible, confiscated the property. His miller, the subject who owned the property took the matter to court, and won his case. The king had to rebuild the buildings he had torn down and compensate the miller for the property and the injury which he had done a subject who had such abundant his rights.

A century passed, and the king who was ruling in Prussia received a note from a descendant of the miller reminding him of what had been case against the king. This subject notified the king that he was in need of money and that although the inheritor would not sell the property, he would be willing to lease it.

The king immediately wrote back as follows: "As a good man member of your family exists, it will not be taken from you in Prussia. I lament, however, that you are in circumstances of embarrassment, and therefore send you $6,000 to arrange your affairs in the future. This sum will be sufficient for the purchase of a house or always your affectionate neighbor. Frederick William."

Good neighborliness at its best —and in a land we only recently invaded and devastated!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

A GOOD CIRCULATION

In a piece released for publication some years ago in January, 1941, physiological and clinical evidence of the wisdom of getting the coronary thrombosis (occlusion) patient out of bed in a week or ten days, instead of sentencing him to 3 or 10 weeks of confinement in bed as the best doctors decided to say when Tony was a pup.

In the sitting position, it is true, gravity carries the blood to dependent portions of the body. This is generally unimportant, although in certain circumstances it may be undesirable—for varicose veins, varicose ulcer or phlebitis, for instance.

The recumbent position (lying down), especially the supine (lying on the back), favors settling of blood (stagnation, stasis) in the vast network of veins in the lower part of the chest, base of lungs and abdomen, overfilling of the ventricles and increased venous pressure.

All this may be as clear as mud to the layman but a medical student or physician will not dispute it in a word.

In view of these facts I have to intensely believe that in not many cases the heart gets more work to do when a patient is more efficient when the patient sits up in arm chair than when one is forced to remain on prolonged bed rest.

Let no trick specialist dismiss this as a pipe dream. Drs. Samuel Levine and Bernard Hoop, recently had the good psychological effect of the "arm chair" treatment. They were very much impressed by the prompt improvement of some of the patients who were permitted and encouraged to sit up in arm chairs for gradually increasing lengths of time each day after about a week in bed. Some of the patients with coronary trouble will be able to sit up in a chair and proceed to walk on eggs for the rest of their lives.

All that's another story for another day—if the eminent ones do not get my scalp for this.

Dick and Jaffy. Coronary occlusion, coronary thrombosis, as the erudite old timers still like to call it, coronaries, for short, is now virtually the same thing, namely, obstruction, constriction or narrowing of the caliber of any of the numerous branches of the arteries that deliver blood to the heart muscle itself. When this happens, of course the portion of the heart wall deprived of adequate blood supply or reduced to a trickle, clotting is likely to follow (thrombus, a plug or clot in a blood vessel). The effect of such shutting off or reduction of blood supply to the area to which the arterial branch is distributed is degeneration or necrosis of the affected are, cardiac infarction.

While we are messing around with morbid matters it may do no harm to repeat that the proportion of coronary cases which are asleep or at least, in only slight distress when the patients were moderately active, in one-sixth when they were walking and in only one-fiftieth of them when they were exerting themselves to the point of elegance.

Now I hope readers who have the idea that they have pretty much trouble as we talk about today will not let any medical monkeyshines get in the way of the ideas or suggestions set forth in these pieces. Coronary trouble is "dangerous." They are the ideas of real doctors, and the greatest danger is that too many patients with coronary trouble will be afraid to get out of bed—afraid to walk on eggs for the rest of their lives.

All that's another story for another day—if the eminent ones do not get my scalp for this.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"Thanks to television, a lot of us short, fat, middle-aged men are feeling a little better these days. The distorting television screen is making shorties, wides and fatties of us all.

"Television has changed the stage and screen come on television and we are all a lot faces wider than they are long, bodies like barrels, thickest in the middle and fit be less than all they are bowed.

"Now, in addition, all the ads assure us that there is no distortion. But that must be the way we are seeing ourselves as referring to. Most of the people I know have been a few weeks or a few months old. And the weird looking squatty human beings on the television screens are in very good company indeed with the queer beasties and birds in midget with whom they share the television screens. President Eisenhower making a speech lately, and his shadow appeared on a grassed sideways, his already ample mouth was stretched horizontally, and his arms seemed to be attached some inches below his left shoulder.

For this, let all of us who are not tall, dark and handsome give thanks. Never since the movies made the perfect male and the perfect female has it been acceptable and known to us all, life has been a little tough for the normal, ill-made, homely, squat or gangly individual amongst us. It took some imagination for most of us boys have to see a Barrymore, a Taylor or a Gable as friends. And girls who are supposed to have far greater beauty and feminine gifts than men would be hard pressed indeed to see a Gregory Peck in a Gregory Clark or any of the rest of us run of us short, fat, middle-aged men.

Television is going to remedy all this, probably. And, still probability, television talent scouts will be combing the country for tall string beans of the type who play basketball, and who will widen out for the sake of video screen. And those of us who are just tall, squat and tubby will have a big opportunity to be comedians or comedy relief and everybody else is looking like an ape, a cadaver or a gargoyle. Thanks to the saud's waxworks on the old drizzle-screen.

Houde Disgusted With Referring Saturday Night

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal said Saturday night he was "disgusted" with the refereeing of the Montreal Canadiens-Detroit Red Wings game here Saturday.

"Never have I witnessed such a disgusting spectacle" in seeing the way penalties were given "at random" by the Canadiens, Mayor Houde said in an interview.

Detroit won the game 6-3. The encounter came to a halt five times when fans vented displeasure at referee Frank Udvari by throwing rubber shoes, programs, jelly beans and other assorted articles on the ice. The first period took 54 minutes to play.

"The conduct of the referee (Udvari) was shocking," said Mayor Houde. "Protests from the fans did not surprise me at all, since provocations were numerous.

"I do not understand why the National Hockey League does not employ more competent referees. The Canadiens were not treated right and again I want to protest personally. They were superior in every game and the final score should have been in their favor."

Mayor Houde claimed Glen Skov was in the Montreal goal crease, blocking goalie Gerry McNeil's view, when Ted Lindsay scored his second goal of the night in the first period. The Canadiens had two men in the penalty box at the time.

Union President Denies Statements Of Pat Walsh

QUEBEC (CP)—Gerard Fortin, president of the Canadian Woodworkers' Union, said Sunday "the attitude and statements of Pat Walsh constitute an act of treason against the working class and particularly to the woodworkers, whose confidence he has betrayed."

In a press release, Mr. Fortin said that "in his statement, Walsh claims that through Brown Magnuson the woodworkers union will receive orders from Moscow to set our forests afire in case of war. This statement is all the more ridiculous and unfruitful because no officer of our union has had any contact whatsoever with Mr. Magnuson since his return from Europe."

Pat Walsh resigned from a number of Communist-front organizations Friday and told of Kremlin direct orders for wartime sabotage in Canada. Walsh said Magnuson, of Port Arthur, former head of the lumber and sawmill workers' section of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (A.F.L.-TLC), had received direct orders from Moscow for sabotage of Canada's forests in time of war. Magnuson visited Russia last year.

Stoned to Death

VANCOUVER (CP) — Little Glenda Bedford, whose guardians claimed she had been stoned by sadistic playmates, died Saturday in hospital here.

The 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. Clara Bedford was taken to hospital unconscious and covered with bruises four days ago.

She had been boarding at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Person, who told police the child had been stoned by other children.

Mrs. Person also told police the child had fallen down some basement stairs and had fallen out of her crib.

Mighty Wave of Loathing, Revenge Building Up Among People of Eastern Europe

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Intelligence reports say a mighty wave of loathing and revenge is building up among the people of Eastern Europe behind the Iron Curtain, waiting to be released.

There is a small amount of active, armed resistance. There is passive resistance that inserts itself in industrial and political sabotage. And finally there is a great leaderless, muttering dissatisfaction so elusive that the Communists cannot come to grips with it.

There are a few men with guns; maybe a few thousand hunted partisans hiding in the high woods, groups of five to 10 men without families.

Admits Existence

Occasionally, the Communist press admits their existence. Bulgaria's interior minister, Gen. Georgi Zankov, recently warned of armed "underground groups" and a report quoted by the Committee for a Free Europe says there may be as many as 17,000 armed guerrillas in Bulgaria's Balkan mountains.

In Poland and the Soviet Ukraine, there are the mysterious Bendervci fighters; in Czechoslovakia's high Tatras an armed group known as the "White Legion," in Romania scattered bands in the Transylvanian Alps.

A western diplomat visiting here from Albania asserted recently: "Quite often at nights, you can hear the rifles of guerrillas on the outskirts of the capital at Tirana. The hillmen attempt to raid the city and everybody closes up their shutters. Recently the Russians have been sending more guns to try to break up the partisans."

Actually, there is little the East European partisans can do, outnumbered as they are by Communist police. Occasionally, it is reported that they carry out attacks on trains headed for Russia. In Hungary last year, 200 Russian soldiers supposedly died in one such incident.

Underground Groups Active

Far more important in the anti-Communist fight is the activity of scattered underground groups and the deliberate sabotage by individuals. Underground groups mostly are cells of two, three or four men.

Mostly, the cells have no connection with each other.

Communist courts, even in Russia, constantly bring to trial persons accused of espionage, terrorism, sabotage and plotting to overthrow the regimes. Most of the trials are staged to find scapegoats for Communist industrial failures. Western diplomats say, however, that some may represent genuine resistance.

Shipping Season On Great Lakes Opened Sunday

DETROIT (AP) — The freighter James Watt gave the Great Lakes shipping season its earliest opening in history Sunday when it sailed for Buffalo.

The Watt, of the Nicholson Transit Co., pulled away from its dock here at 9:45 a. m. empty on its eastward trip. The boat will bring back a load of pig iron for the Ford Motor Co.

The weather bureau and the U. S. Army corps of engineers said the Buffalo harbor, normally ice-locked at this time of year, is clear except for patches of "scum ice."

The earliest previous start of navigation was March 9.

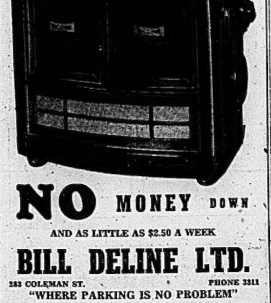
Three Sisters Die in Fire At Ripples, N.B.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three young sisters died Sunday when fire gutted their home at Ripples, N. B. They were among the 11 persons reported to have died violently in Eastern Canada during the week-end.

A survey today showed that Ontario had the highest toll with six, three of them in traffic accidents. New Brunswick had five deaths, one of them traffic.

The fire victims were Louella Nash, 5, Nora, 2, and Debra, seven months. Their parents were away at the time. An oil stove left burning in the kitchen is believed to have exploded.



Norman Cooper, 42, died from a wound in the neck aboard a Canadian National Railways train 80 miles west of Port Arthur. Police, who have taken an unidentified man into custody, said Cooper had been drinking with two companions when a quarrel started.

Other Ontario deaths: Dennis McMullen, 43, of Thorold township, committed suicide with a .22-calibre rifle; Mrs. Margaret Thatcher, about 75, of Windsor, of asphyxiation after fire broke out in her room; Lloyd Kissock, 25, of Oshawa, of injuries suffered when his car failed to make a turn; John W. Smith, 30, of Windsor, when his truck crashed into a ditch; James McMillan, 86, of Point Edward, of injuries suffered when struck by a car.

SIX ARE KILLED

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Six persons riding in a car were killed Sunday when struck by a train near Dolores, 120 miles from here.

Women's Institute

PLAINFIELD W.I.

Plainfield — The February meeting of the Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Garnet Denyes with 27 members and four children present.

Mrs. Gerald Swan led in community singing. Several thank you cards and letters were read from members and friends.

Mrs. Marshall, the president, presided over the business and it was moved that the Institute buy a book for the Hardy quilting and potluck dinner to be at Mrs. Grant Kerr's on the following Thursday. The secretary to send for three more Maple Leaf Hostess pins for members.

Mrs. Kerr gave a report of the meeting for district directors held in Belleville on February 7th. The leader of the Girls' Club, Mrs. Hall, spoke on the "Achievement Day for the Girls" and inviting the mothers to attend.

The members decided to cater for the Junior Farmers' banquet in April and the proceeds to be used to buy more silverware. Each members to make a quilt block 18" square and a quilt to be made for relief.

Mrs. Marshall read a paper on the W.I.C., which had been prepared by Mrs. Harold Beatty and Mrs. G. Hill read an item in the "Onward" paper of a talk given by Mrs. Sayers, the A.C.W.W. president. This being a Valentine program the readings were as follows: "The Love Knot," Mrs. O. Bertrand; "School Friends," Mrs. Charles Beatty; "The Bachelor's Exile", Mrs. G. Kerr; "A Thankful Heart," Mrs. Harry McCreary" solo by Mrs. Ralph Wilder.

A heart contest was conducted by Mrs. Marshall and exchange of Valentines by the members.

Vote of thanks was given the hostess by Mrs. Clarence Hall.

Members brought fancy cushion tops for a demonstration. Collection $2.05. After the meeting closed a social hall hour was enjoyed by all.

UNIONDALE W.I.

The February meeting of the Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Paul with 19 members and one visitor present. The meeting was opened by president, Mrs. M. Grills.

All agreed to give $50 for the "Blind" and also $50 toward the "Flood Victims" Fund. Mrs. G. Herrington and Mrs. Frank Loney were chosen to collect on the 4th Line for Blind; Mrs. Keith Fox and Mrs. Harold Frost to collect on 5th Line; Mrs. A. Sine and Mrs. C. Jose to collect on 6th Line.

The banquet committee for Junior Farmers' banquet in April will serve as a dressing, will report the shafts.

Purely Decorative

A permanent ought to be looked upon for exactly what it is —an essential decorative touch. Naturally it has no beneficial effect upon the growth or the scalp, though it does make oily hair fine distressing.

Before having a permanent, Hollis hair should have several conditioning treatments. These can be given at home, be self-administered.

Watch the Clock

The night before the shampoo have a five-minute brushing. Five minutes by the clock, otherwise you will be cheating. Use a narrow brush of firm bristles, set in groups. Don't brush too vigorously away from the temples. You may tear out little young shafts that are just sprouting. Brush from the crown down the sides.

Part your tresses at various places. Apply hot mineral oil along the partings. You can use a small brush or a pledget of cotton for this job, but a medicine dropper is best. Friction well, wrap up your head and go to bed. The longer the oil stays in, the better.

Permanent Waves No Luxury

Like mother, like daughter. This new home permanent while her

Th is junior miss brushes Mom's own hair is being waved.

BY HELEN FOLLETT

It's no use trying to avoid the good-looking uptown, the time and money that has to be spent at the beauty salon.

A permanent, of course, is a big item, especially if hair is short and must be waved frequently. If straight hair is unbecoming, a wave isn't a luxury. It's a necessity. You just can't live with yourself unless you have one. Those curls and ringlets make a great difference in your appearance. They form a soft frame for your countenance.

Wonderful Home Waves

The home permanent is a blessing. There are women, of course, who are not clever at handling their locks and so the results are not up to the professional treatment. Most girls, if they follow directions, can get really wonderful results. The home wave is a big saving on the beauty overhead, too.

After getting a wave, its endurance depends somewhat upon the care it receives. If you fancy that brushing weakens it, you're mistaken. Usually a nightly grooming makes the undulations more fluid and manageable. If the wave is too tight, a little brilliantine on the brush

Canadian Authors to Hold Convention of U. of T. Campus

TORONTO (CP)—For the second year in succession the Canadian Authors Association will hold its annual convention in university surroundings.

When the country's working authors meet here June 22-25 they will live and work on the University of Toronto campus, living at Whitney Hall, one of the residences, and eating at Hart House, recreational and athletic centre for male students, which has been described as "the largest private men's club in the British Commonwealth." Special rates have been arranged for members of the CAA and its affiliate, La Societe des Ecrivains. The CAA met last year at University of Western Ontario.

"The Writers' convention is largely a working session, consisting of panel discussi—s on various aspects of the author craft, panels already arranged, with chairmen and other participants, include:

Biography

Biography writing—Dr. Lionel Stevenson, Vancouver and Lon Appleton; Josephine Phelan, Toronto, winner last year of a governor-general's award with "The Ardent Exile;" Evelyn Richardson, Shag Harbor, N.S., author of "We Keep a Light;" Virginia Hamilton, Montreal, co-author of a biography of her father, Lloyd Stevenson. Fred Burton, department store head who broke into bestseller lists with "A Sense of Urgency."

Writing for young people—John Spicer, Montreal; Olive Knox Allpeg; Mary Grannan, Marie McPhedran, Joseph Halliday and George E. Tait, Toronto.

Radio and TV writing—Neil Boyd and Andrew Allan; Ted Allan and Lister Sinclair (plays and documentary); A. B. McKeeachy (talks).

Adrien Plouffe of Montreal will lead a discussion on writing in French Canada, and Scott Young of Ottawa, on marketing.

Dr. Charles Strong of Standard Magazines, New York, will attend the convention to talk on marketing, and other Canadian and United States editors and literary agents are expected.

Welcome Address

Mazo de la Roche, one of Canada's outstanding novelists, will give the address of welcome at the opening reception June 22. Other speakers lined up by Isabel McLennan, Montreal, literary president and chairman of the convention committee, include: Isabella Hughes, author of "Lorena 'Felforth," a story of Toronto a century ago; Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, Dominion archivist and librarian; Dr. W. Stewart Wallace, encyclopaedist; Will R. Bird, Halifax; John Fisher, radio personality; Agnes Wilkins Campbell, Toronto and Marjorie Freeman Campbell, Hamilton.

Woman Prefers Cold Winter To Summertime

EDMONTON (CP)—A woman who has lived 15 years in the far north prefers the cold Arctic winter to summertime.

Mrs. Douglas McNeice, who now lives in Edmonton, says the reason for her preference is mosquitoes. Big, hungry mosquitoes fill the air in the summer.

When Mrs. McNeice, then Pauline Audienco, went north in 1937 after hearing stories about life at Aklavik.

At first employed at a hotel, she later worked in the Hudson's Bay Company store. In 1942 she met Douglas McNeice, HBC trader. Two years later they were married.

Mrs. McNeice said her Arctic residence was comparatively modern with electrical appliances and oil heating. The natives usually live in log cabins furnished with a stove, beds, assorted chairs and, almost invariably, a sewing machine and a phonograph.

"The people are very musical, and will sit for hours listening happily to their favorite records," Mrs. McNeice said.

She became well acquainted with several Eskimo and Indian women and often entertained them in her home.

Food of Luxury

Mrs. McNeice said the natives in the Aklavik area are food of the luxuries enjoyed by their white neighbors. Most of them prefer white man's food to their old diet. Most of them are able to read and write in English.

The McNeice family returned to Edmonton after Douglas McNeice was transferred by the HBC. But they have one big memento of their stay in the north in addition to Eskimo parkas. It is a huge polar-bear rug in the living room of their modern Edmonton home.

"Home i—where the heart is and I shall s—ays think of the north as my home," Mrs. McNeice said.

British Co-eds Call Off Their 'Glamour War,

LONDON (Reuters)—Seven scantily-draped British co-eds called off their "glamour war" Friday night by inviting a French Foire Bergeres dancer to lead Reading University celebrations today.

Blonde dancer Mimi Gerard, 25, who is appearing at a London night club, accepted. Reading's men students were not likely to object.

The men started the Anglo-French war Wednesday by inviting three Paris University beauties to lead today's procession because "our girls aren't g l a m o r o u s enough."

Furious Reading University girls threatened a red-hot reception for the Paris trio. The trip of the French lovelies, a blonde and two brunettes studying English at the University was cancelled at the last minute.

Invaded London

Meantime, seven Reading co-eds invaded London. Clad in bathing suits or skimpy chorus girl outfits, they started a Fleet Street demonstration from Reading with a banner reading "What's Wrong with British University Women?"

Despite a chilly fog, they marched to Prime Minister Churchill's residence at 10 Downing Street.

Sheila Hynd, wearing a skintight bathing suit, hooked on the door with a petition of protest. A liveried butler accepted it with a bow.

The girls then marched to a fashionable London hotel for a "victory" lunch. After lunch, the girls marched to the Prince of Wales Theatre where the revue Revue was playing and presented the French dancer with a bouquet and invitation to lead today's festivities.

St. Andrew's W.A. Enjoys 'St. John River' Film

The W.A. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met on Tuesday night with a record attendance.

Mrs. A. D. McLean conducted the short business session.

Mrs. Bell's group had obtained a film which was shown of the "St. John River", New Brunswick. It is always thrilling to go over places one has enjoyed, and it gave many a revisit down to St. John. The film was much enjoyed.

After thanking Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Ponton's group served refreshments.

L.O.B.A. Holds Successful Euchre

A most successful euchre party was held at the home of W.M. Edith Woodhouse, 81 Highland Avenue. Eight tables of euchre were in progress. Those winning prizes were as follows: ladies' Sister Mellest Thompson; Sister Hazel Maracle; Sister Betty Maracle; consolation P.W.M. Sister Mabel Kent; men's prizes, Brother Ed. Adams, Brother J. Allen, Brother Clarence Maracle; consolation, Betty Rowe.

Brother W. Juby won lone hand; white ladies' lone hand went to Mrs. Mildred Morden. The door prize was won by P.W.M. Sister Lena Abey, and the draw for the ham went to Sister Richmond.

After the game W.M. Sister Woodhouse served refreshments and a delightful hour was spent by all.

At the close of the meeting, Sister Kent thanked all for their wonderful corporation and all sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow". W.M. Edith Woodhouse was ably assisted by P.W.M. Mary Ostiff and Sister Dorothea Barr.

AT THE CAPITOL

SILVANA MANGANO, who is co-starred with Vittorio Gassman in the new Italian production film "Anna" now playing at the Capitol Belleville, has studied lessons should be an essential part of every girl's education. Even the youngster who never expects to perform in public will find added poise, body control and good health from terpsichorean studies, the beautiful Italian actor declares, and it doesn't make any difference whether she learns ballet, modern or ballroom steps.

Miss Mangano, herself, studied ballet before starting her acting career and her younger sisters, Patricia and Natascia, who are both making their screen debuts in "Anna," are now enrolled a Silvana's alma mater.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A New Twist on the In-Law Problem

In my years of "listening by letter" to stories of personal problems, I thought I had heard all possible variations of the problem of interfering relatives. But now along comes one that is new to me.

It has to do with a sister who moved right in with a pair of newlyweds and took over the direction of their lives.

Here is the story, as told by an older married sister:

"One of my sisters is her thirtieth year and unmarried, is living with our youngest sister, who has just been married, and really runs her home for her, telling her what to do and what not to do. I have tried to tell her she should live with someone older, or get a place of her own, as she works and can do it, but she will not listen to me. I am afraid something unpleasant is going to come of all this if she doesn't watch out.

"Maybe you can tell me what to do. I know it's not for me to say, but does any newlywed couple stand a chance of living around all the time?"

Of course it does without saying that there is only one point of view on a problem like this, and it is the point of view of the wife whose sister is down; no such situation should be allowed to exist.

Equally obvious is the soundness of her fear that such a condition is going to cause serious trouble sooner or later.

The wonder of it has never occurred to the writer of this letter to try and put a finger on the reason for her sister's extraordinary behavior. Was this unmarried sister, perhaps, in the habit of bossing the youngest one before she was married, and so just carried her role as a dominating mother into the relationship? Did she and the youngest sister, perhaps, live alone together previously, and so she finds herself intolerably lonely now that the youngest one has left her for a home of her own? If this was the case, she might feel it was only natural that she should move in with the new bride.

Unduly Dependent

But even though strong some previous living arrangement, the youngest sister might have become unduly dependent on this particular older sister, so that she scarcely wanted her in her new house, it would still be a most unwise situation. For when a girl marries, her life should take on a different quality, and her relationship with her husband, just as a young husband's relationship with his wife, should take precedence over any family ties. Where either a young wife or a young husband allows any of the family on either side to play an active part in their lives, they are sitting on a volcano that may erupt at any minute.

Unfortunately, however, I doubt very much if the sister who writes this letter will be able to influence the other as that she will leave the young couple alone. And, after all, it is up to the young people themselves to send her about her business.

If this third sister does take the matter up with either of the others, it should be with the bride herself, who should have it pointed out to her that she is being grossly unfair to her husband in having his sister live with them, and that he is almost certain to get very tired of the arrangement, and irritated by it, before long. Then she will really have trouble on her hands.

If the young wife had the sense and the courage to put her foot down right now and tell her sister, tactfully but firmly, that she and her husband want to be alone, she may, of course, have a little trouble with her at first. But if she delays until the situation comes to the boiling point she will have not only "sister trouble" but "husband trouble" as well.

Let the sister who sees the danger do what she can to make the bride aware of it, and then wash her hands of the whole business. She will have done all she can, and, if she continues to hound either bride or unmarried sister about it, she will eventually find the whole family plunged into wholesale warfare.

MONDAY — WASHDAY

They May Not be Rich But They Are Clean

By Mary Moore

Mary D. and Mrs. G. B. want a homemade soap recipe and I will give it to them but I want to warn all soap makers to handle lye (which is one of the ingredients) with extreme caution.

It horrifies me to think that someone in this reading audience might not be familiar with lye and might be burned by it or that a child in the family out of curiosity, might touch it and be burned.

Please, when making soap, do not let children in the room and do not burn yourselves with it. Follow the directions.

HOMEMADE SOAP

Slightly melt, then strain, 5 lbs. (3 Imperial quarts) grease or fat. Strain the fat into an earthenware crock or stone crock or large enamel pan. Slowly add 2 quarts cold water to the contents of 1 can lye (1 lb.) in an earthenware or stone or enamel vessel, gently stirring in at arm's length with a wooden spoon or stick. Let this drink coagulate, lye high and far back on a table (not covered) and watch and boil, ing subside and lye mixture cools and is dissolved. Slowly pour lye solution, when cooled but still liquid grease, stirring constantly in large enamel pot. Add 1½ cup ammonia and 2 tablespoons borax dissolved in ¼ cup water. Stir until quite thick (about the consistency of rather thick honey). Pour into granites or earthenware mould. Let stand for about 3 hours, but before it is very hard deeply cut it into the shape of bars. Store in cool place to harden.

If you would like to use homemade soap as toilet soap add oil of bergamot or pennyroyal to it when it is being stirred. These may be purchased at your drug store.

The following letter is from E. I. who wants the recipe for English "Faggots": Dear Mary Moore: Your recipe will keep on nice suet puddin' really made me homesick. My Mum used to make them and were they delicious. For quite a long time I have lived alone and naturally did not bother with much cooking — right now I am visiting my daughter. About two weeks ago you had a bread recipe in your column — my daughter gave it to me — a good hint to make some bread. I did make two loaves and they turned out grand — later you gave another recipe containing about twice as much flour.

I was thrilled with the result. Your recipe said to let bread stand about 2 hours — my dough was double its size (or more) in 1½ hours. I'd like to know why I had to punch my dough down quicker than your recipe said — but it certainly did not hurt the bread. Your recipes are within the purse of we people who have to watch every cent. I believe you said you were of British stock — would you have a recipe for "faggots"? They are made like a meat ball, but much more savory. I believe mother rolled them in a piece of suet skin. Seems to me they were baked. I think livers and pork were used — hope on giving us the "within-the-pocket" recipes. — E. I.

Answer — There are so many reasons why dough rises fast warmer than average kitchen, brand new yeast, etc., but if you want the dough to rise more slowly stand it in a slightly cooler place than you did. But I would advise proceeding as you did if your bread was such a success.

FAGGOTS

One and one-half lbs. pork liver, ½ lb. fat pork, 2 eggs, 1 large onion, breadcrumbs, pork caul fat, nutmeg, sage, thyme, basil, salt and pepper.

Chop pork and onion very fine and cut pork in small dice. Put together in a stewpan, add salt, pepper, herbs. Cover closely and cook very slowly ¼ hour, but do not brown it. Drain off excess fat and let cool slightly. Add beaten eggs, the suggested spices to taste, and enough breadcrumbs to make a fairly stiff paste. Mix well and form into squares. Wrap each in a square of caul fat, and place open side down, in baking tin. Pour over them a little rich gravy. Bake in moderate oven until golden brown. Serve with gravy. If preferred this may be pressed into loaf pan and covered with caul fat and baked for about 1½ hours. These amounts will serve 7 or 8.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Sad Case of Kind Friends Who Wait in Vain for Thank-You Notes from Brides.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

About seven months ago we attended a wedding, and before the wedding we had sent the bride-to-be a very lovely gift. To this day we have never received any acknowledgment of the gift. This young bride has been the topic of discussion, because it seems that no one else has been thanked for their gifts either. What does one do in a situation like this? Many of us have checked with the stores where we made our purchases, and they have assured us that the gifts were delivered.

One girl, braver than the rest of us, called the girl's mother (the bride was out-of-town since her marriage), and asked if her daughter ever received the gift. The mother answered "Yes, yes," and then our friend said, "Well, I'm just checking, because I hadn't received a thank-you note and wanted to be sure she had received my gift." Whereupon the mother answered, "Well, you'll get a note — but you know it's proper for the bride to acknowledge her gifts any time within the first year of marriage."

This hasn't possibly be some new edict of modern etiquette, can it? According to the way I was brought up, the bride always acknowledged a gift within a few days after it was received; and if the gift arrived too close to the wedding, then she wrote while she was on her honeymoon (if immediately after).

This bride's family do not have any culture or social finesse — but do they have any excuse for such a breach of manners? I have lived in some of the finest schools and colleges. I think that even if she never taught that simple everyday manners in her own home, surely she must have learned something of the social graces in the many schools she has attended.

We maintain that this girl is ignorant, very rude, uncouth, unappreciative, inconsiderate. — Disappointed.

Answer 3000. — The Baffled Seven."

I wish I had the power to do something about this problem that has become so seriously frequent in our life today. How can a bride — who should represent radiance and charm and graciousness — sloop so low as to be callously willing to have her kin an generous friends worry as to whether or not their wedding gift to her have been received, let alone as to whether or not she will ever have the decency to write them a thank-you note. So many, many letters arrived in my mail appealing for advice as to how to treat a least an acknowledgment, if not a thank-you, from an impossibly indifferent-to-generosity bride. How sad it is to have such a shadow where there should be only sunlight! Just a little high-hearted note of thanks written as soon as possible after a gift has been received, is so easy to write when the joy of the gift and its receiving is new and fresh.

I imagine that this bride of whom you write is not ignorant — I am quite sure she knows that she should write, and I am absolutely sure that she is ungrateful and unappreciative. She may have so educated and refined as to definitely she hasn't an "educated heart." And all the progress in the world can't give her a sense of courtesy, a sense of appreciation, if she is so abysmally neglectful of friendliness and kindness as the social amenities.

You and your friends might try writing her direct, to see if you can stir up some information about your gifts, or just possibly words of gratitude. Good pursuit!

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMESON

Noise is Tough on Nerves and Appearance

"Be tranquil" should be every woman's beauty slogan. Find a woman who is always serene, who keeps the family atmosphere calm and sunny, and you find one who has most of the ordinary good-looks girls beaten to a finish. She hates noise, disorder and confusion, tries to keep her life running on an even keel. She plans her work carefully, permits no family arguments. She is the balance wheel and the salt of the earth.

Doctors have a good deal to say these days about the ill-effects of noise and emotional disturbances. Noise reacts upon the central nervous system, even the noise of loud talking in the home. The sensitive nerve terminals of the ears communicate their excitement to the other nerves, and they all set up a protest that causes facial muscles to be tense, and the muscles are no beauty bargain.

A roll of thunder or a tire blowout are experiences that illustrate nerve reaction with almost breathless. And although we are particularly susceptible to loud noises and should be protected from them as much as possible. When they are asleep, the house should be closed, the door of their bedroom closed. Hands should be rubbed up and over the country, aren't going to be so good for the kids. Much better to live in an old style house where they can be tucked in bed on the second floor, especially when Mama and Papa and their guests are making merry.

Noise has an ill effect upon the sleep of adults, as well as children. Some individuals say that noise don't bother them, that they sleep like the dead, never hear anything. Just the same, experiments have proved that there is a bad effect of which they are not aware; it comes in the form of fatigue the next morning.

It is too bad that many people, living in apartments, have no consideration for their neighbors. They throw noisy parties, make themselves obnoxious. They turn radios on full blast, let 'em rip, no matter how late the hour.

When furnishing a house, consider the floor coverings. Thick rugs are a good investment and make for a quiet home. Cracking high heels on bare floors can be irritating to the person who is sensitive to noises. If you seek good looks — and what woman doesn't? — be tranquil.

OLDEST TWINS CHALLENGE

WOODSTOCK (CP)—William and Robert Smith, both 82, of Toronto, who claimed they were Canada's oldest living twins, have been challenged once again. In a letter received Friday by the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, Egbert H. Webber of Walkerville said he and a twin brother will be 83 in about three weeks. The brother, Edgar L. Webber, lives in Vancouver.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

Chapter 13

THE VOICE IN THE WILDERNESS

John's fame.

The story was brought down by traders from the capital how John was creating a furore, not only in Jerusalem but in all the countryside. The old-age child of Zachary and Elizabeth had grown in thirty years to be a prophet. In early manhood, after his father and mother died, the youth had vanished. For years his relatives heard little about him, although there were reports that he lived in a rocky cave in the blistered wilderness between Salem near the Dead Sea, and that he ate only locusts and wild honey.

Now, suddenly, he had emerged as a public character, and already he was suspect in the eyes of the Temple police. Perhaps that was because he was different from ordinary men. Bronzed arms upraised, John would stand day after day on the outskirts of towns and shout to the crowds that the time had come for the people to repent of their bad lives.

To people who had neglected and then virtually forgotten the stern ideas of the prophet Isaiah these words of John had a startling sound.

"Do penance," he shouted. The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand — Spared No One

His sentences were not quite sure what he meant by the Kingdom of Heaven. But they knew well enough, that they had plenty to repent of. To their amazement this wild-haired John was not accusing merely the poor, like themselves, alone, as the priests and the scribes had generally done. No, John, fearless, fiery apparition from the desert, laid about him on all sides, sparing no one; not mighty Caesar who reigned in Rome, nor Pontius Pilate who was the Emperor's official agent in Jerusalem — not even Herod Antipas, the cruel son of the great Herod, and builder of Tiberius, whose title was Tetrarch; and who still ruled the province of Galilee, after thirty years of discord.

Such effrontery as John's made sensational news even in the cynical streets of Jerusalem. From out of the capital great crowds streamed, tolling down steep and rocky defiles, out into the parched and desert plains, to listen to this new man's voice crying in the wilderness.

"You offspring of vipers!" John shouted imprudently, at the arriving hordes. "Who has warned you to flee from the wrath to come!"

A Cleansing Rite

Instead of getting angry at the abuse, many of them lifted their eyes and waded into the water, doing just as he asked—which was, as a sign of penance, to submit to baptism, a cleansing rite in which remorseful men were splashed and blessed.

More than one of his puzzled followers asked John if he were the expected Christ, the promised Deliverer and Savior of Israel. His answer, repeated around camp fires of resting caravans and over bake stoves and cook pots in a hundred towns, was:

"I, indeed, baptize you with water. But there shall come one mightier than I the latchet of whose shoe I am not worthy to loose. He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost — and with fire!"

It was when his heard these tales of John that Jesus sighed, laid down His carpenter tools, and after a tender farewell to Mary started off alone, on foot, going from Galilee into the wilderness—to see for Himself.

He reached the lower part of the Jordan Valley. Near the bank of the narrow muddy river He saw a crowd of people in a trap of silence as they hearkened to John.

Without difficulty Jesus made His way to the front; presently His stood quietly before John. For the first time since boyhood the cousins were face to face: John hulking, vociferous, sweating with earnestness; Jesus, tall, gaunt, and pale, in perfect tranquility. A long moment and neither spoke, while the crowd watched curiously amid a low hum of speculation. In that historic meeting — though doubts were later to assail the mind of one—both Jesus and John were sure. They knew their mission; knew, too, that they were doomed men.

In a voice so low that only John could hear, Jesus said that He had come to be baptized by His cousin. John was shocked.

"But it is I who ought to be baptized by you," he objected.

"And you come to me?"

Jesus lifted His head and replied with a disarming smile;

"Permit it to be so now—for so it becomes us."

Then John bowed his wild head, that head so soon to be severed, and the two cousins walked together into the tumbling Jordan. There Jesus submitted His body to the baptism of water, but His soul, body that was soon to be nailed to a cross.

A White Pigeon

When the simple ceremony was over, Jesus, looking up through dripping eyes, saw a white pigeon flying over His head, hovering, pausing, with fluttering wings. The bird lighted on His shoulder and in it He knew that the Spirit of God had appeared to Him. Many in the watching crowd asserted that they heard a voice from Heaven say:

"This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased."

It was forty days before Jesus again saw John — forty days spent in the wilderness, almost six weeks of privation and temptation, once the Son frightful horror as He deliberately invited the trial on Himself. Then and only then did Jesus return.

Even Greater Crowds

His cousin John He found preaching to crowds even greater than before. As Jesus stood on the fringe of the multitude and listened to the crowd's chatter, it became clear that in Jerusalem the authorities were already deeply disturbed about John the Baptist. He could pick up what the Temple politicians had been saying:

"This John is a violent man who at any moment may incite the people themselves to violence."

"He mocks our authority; he reviles Pharisees and Sadducees as hypocrites."

So, it seemed, the priestly leaders had just appointed an investigating committee. A deputation had been ordered to go down to Bethania, beyond the Jordan, where John was currently preaching, to ask certain questions. Their hope was that the Baptist's answers would form the basis, later, of an indictment against himself.

So here were the members of the committee now, near the very elbows of Jesus; their leader calling John and demanding to know whom he claimed to be. And John, who saw instantly what was "bothering them, answered:

"I am not the Christ."

"What! Then are you the reincarnation of the old prophet Elias?"

The Herald of Christ

This, because the people had a prophecy that Elias the prophet was to return from death, reincarnated just before the coming of the Messiah.

"I am not."

"Well, who are you, then?"

"I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness" — thus, by quoting the old prophecy, he identified himself as the herald of the Christ to come.

The glum deputies from Ierusalem shook their heads and departed, shortly after Jesus was without a glance in His direction and unknowing whom they had failed. The crowd stalk enguifed John, and Jesus went on His own way.

Then came the morning when Jesus and John were to part, never to meet again in this life.

That was when John was standing with two friends. A young man with the Greek name of Andrew and the other a good-looking northerner, also called John. These two Galileans rented a boat in a fisherman's guild at Capernaum, on the inland sea. Good friends they had been since boyhood, yet no chums were ever more unlike. Andrew was a sturdy, hardheaded man, proud of his sound business judgment.

Wellington on the Lake

WEARY OF WINTER

Weary of winter and wailing wind,
Weary of cloudy sky,
Longing for summer sights and sounds
As the leaden hours pass by;
Dreaming of bob-o-links in the meadows
And of their turbulent song,
Like a meteor bright the oriole's flash
When the summer days are long.

Oh! for the robin's musical note
When the morning air is still,
Song from the red-wing's happy throat
On the pond below the hill;
But some glad day they will return,
Though the winter hours are long.
Like joys for which the spirit yearns
Of the days of long ago.

—Helen B. Anderson.

It was the high boisterous wind that swept through this locality on Saturday that is responsible for the above lines. Although the winter of '52 has not been severely cold the high wind of Saturday filled our hearts and minds with a longing for the birds and spring.

No serious damage is reported in town but a disastrous fire occurred in Gilead where the farm home of Mr. Vader was destroyed. This was the home of the late Mr. Stinson Christie.

Mrs. Craig Platt spent a few days in Welland, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Arthur and family. She returned home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Janet Noxon is very ill in Trenton Memorial hospital. Her many friends are anxious for her recovery.

On the other hand, John was excitable, imaginative, and full of curiosity.

Two Puzzled Men

This Andrew and this John were frowning and puzzled as they stood talking with the Baptist. For some days they had lingered in the neighborhood listening and looking at John had to say, but this was the first time they had ever spoken to him privately.

"You are fishermen from the North Lake?" John asked in surprise. "Why did you travel all this long way—just to listen to me?"

Andrew put it very succinctly: "We earn very little money and most of that goes for taxes We can't even afford to eat the fish we catch in our own nets A day's life is better. What can we do? Jump into the sea and end it? Then someone tells us a man is preaching down south, near Jerusalem, and that he has the secret of a happy life. A desperate man will try anything . . ."

And here the Galilean gave a saintly smile, as his companion added:

"So we tried you."

"And have I helped much, John?"

At the directness of the question the two fishermen were embarrassed. Before they could find words the regard they pointed over their shoulders, where Jesus was walking toward them; he whispered to the two bewildered fishermen:

"Look. There is the real Lamb of God!"

Britain Will Soon Lengthen Lead Over Rest of the World With High-Speed Airliners

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain, pioneer of the jet era of passenger flying, soon will be able to lengthen her lead over the rest of the world with ultra-high-speed airliners.

Development plans will be helped by a recent government decision to give jetliner manufacturers top-priority for materials and other output requirements.

In two years, the prototype of a huge new Atlantic jetcraft with a speed approaching 600 miles an hour will be in the air.

This aircraft will be about 100 miles an hour faster than the record-breaking Comet jetliners now in regular service with British overseas Airways Corporation on its world routes.

120 Seat Plane Planned

One of the most significant newcomers, of which only the sketchiest official details are available, is the 100-150 seat Vickers' VC-7 liner, a four-engined jet type for which a prototype has been authorized.

The aircraft manufacturers say merely that the VC-7 will have a high sub-sonic cruising speed—from which experts assume a minimum of 350 miles an hour and more likely, nearly 600 miles an hour.

They predict that the Vickers transport may be available two years before the United States is ready with an 80-seater jetliner now being developed.

It is only nine months since a Comet jetliner, on May 2, 1952, made the world's first civil jet flight with fare-paying passengers from London to Johannesburg, 6,950 miles, in just over 18 hours' flying time.

Comets Making Profit

BOAC Comets now have flown over 10,000 hours, cruising at 490 miles an hour. What is more, they are making a profit.

Now the jetliner service is being extended to other countries' air fleets. France has received, her first jetliner and two Comets are being sent to Australia this month to operate on the Sydney-Hongkong leg of the Canadian Pacific Airlines network. The RCAF also is due to receive two shortly.

Israel Plans to Irrigate Million Acres of Its Soil

By ARYE WALLENSTEIN

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — A key point in Israel's newly-launched five-year development plan is to the start of a vast irrigation network which is aimed at eventually increasing the country's irrigated acreage to 1,000,000 acres, eight times more than now irrigated.

While pure-jet aircraft like the Comet and the VC-7 are being developed as rapidly as possible, Britain is also going ahead with several propeller-jet airliners.

BOAC and operators in France and Canada have ordered the new 40-seater Vickers Viscount prop-jet aircraft designed for shorter journeys than the Comet.

It also embraces water supply systems which will enable the country to provide water for 4,000,000, more than double its present population, and supply industry and homeowners with much hydro-electric power.

The plans outlined by Pinhas Sapir, Israel's development director, include a completed blueprint for the irrigation network on the basis of investigations by experts over the last 10 years and show that greater emphasis is to be placed on developing the country's agricultural potentialities.

Work is already in progress, despite economic difficulties.

The bulk of the irrigated area will derive its supplies from the central irrigation system which will utilize the country's rivers and will be served by long distance pipelines and canals.

When complete, the system will draw on the sources of the Jordan river and carry its waters to a main reservoir, being formed by damming the Beth Natufa valley in Galilee. This reservoir will have a storage capacity of about 1,000,000,000 cubic yards of water.

Smaller Projects

From there, a canal will run across the Valley of Jezreel, traverse by tunnel the hills of Zebulun and continue south to a central point in the northern Negev desert, where water will be distributed by secondary pipelines.

The central system will also comprise subsidiary projects.

Typical of these, the Hulch project, will reclaim some 25,000 acres. After the diversion of the Jordan, this area will be irrigated mainly by a canal fed by the waters of the Dan river.

A chain of artificial lakes to collect rain and flood waters also is planned.

According to present plans, the construction of the central irrigation system will be completed in about 15 years, but many sections of it should be in operation within five years.

In addition to irrigation projects, the plan provides for the eventual generation of hydro-electric power from a canal linking the Mediterranean near Haifa with the Dead Sea and utilizing the drop of about 1,178 feet between the two seas to drive the power turbines. This would ultimately generate 1,500,000 kilowatt hours of electricity a year.

JUNIORS WIN!

Any illusions that Don "The Turk" Barclay is pocksky as a result of the painful facial injuries he received some time ago were readily dispelled in Lindsay Saturday night when the Black Hawks snatched a 6-5 victory from the plucky young Warriors of the Seagoe town. The victory gives the Hawks a stranglehold in the semi-final series as a win or a tie tonight will give them the nod.

But don't sell the Warriors short. They're a plucky, hard-battling bevy of puck-chasers who won't admit defeat until the final whistle blows, and perhaps not then. They'll be a tough crew to beat this evening, for elimination stares them in the face.

"The Turk" came up with a sensational performance on Lindsay ice as he hatted out puck after puck and hurried back threat after threat as the desperate Warriors raced in for the tie-breaker. He kicked 'em out from all angles and was one of the outstanding stars of the piece.

Ronny Halstead received a badly cut eye but despite the injury the clever little right winger came through with two sparkling tallies, one of them the tying marker in the third period. Doug Hall also was injured and came home wearing stitches.

GLENS IN KINGSTON!

The third set in this red-hot senior "B" sectional playoffs drama hits the stage in the Kingston Community Centre tonight when the fast-travelling Glen Boys clash with the Goodyears in the third of their best-of-seven series. The Glens and Goodies fought to a five-all tie in the first six and last Friday the Glens won a decisive victory over the Goodies in Memorial Arena. The fourth game is scheduled for here Wednesday night.

The Glens came up with an outstanding performance against their ancient foemen from Roddenville on Friday and after dropping the initiative in the first 27 seconds of play had much the better of the deal.

Tonight they will be oozing confidence when they face Johnny Carr-Harris' crew and it should be another bitter battle. Nearly 2400, a seasonal record crowd, saw the Glens win Friday and tonight's Community Centre should see another near-re-cord crowd. Glen coach "Red" Doran says his charges are in topflight condition and ready to make it two victories in a row.

There is some misunderstanding about this "best-of-seven" or "three-of-five" series nonsense. You don't necessarily have to win four or three victories in order to cop the series. Two ties and three wins will take the four-of-seven and two ties and two wins the best-of-five title. It is based on the point system. Hope that clears it up.

BATTLE OF THE BLUES!

"You can tell the gentlemen of the Ontario Provincial Police hockey club that the Fire Department puck-chasers are and will be strictly 'home brew'," said Fire Chief Gerald Vance over the week-end.

"We are definitely not bringing in any imports, police statements to the contrary". There's some skullduggery afoot, men, and we have not been able to find out which team is the biggest and 'bestest' skullduggers.

"There it is", smiled the Fire Chief. "There's our line-up. Look at 'em. Every man a Belleville native born and bred. Some of these guys have three birth certificates. That should prove simplo', shouldn't it?"

The police charge the fire-laddies will have strange faces come about the middle of the second period. They claim "dark horses" will arrive about that time and are placing an identification bureau at the players' entrance. The smoke-eaters say the police are "bringin' 'em in" from Aklavik, Puerto Rico and Venezuela. Should be a tight jolly old battle.

Then, too, there's the "Behemoth of the Bulge," Turk Broda, who will join Bill Chapper and Gus Marker, famous names in professional hockey, with the whistle-blowing festivities. Add to this the star acts of Jack Dickens' Guitar Skating Club and it looks like an evening of real entertainment. The entire proceeds of the evening will go to the Belleville Shrine Club's Crippled Children Fund, and we can't think of a better cause. The Shriners and their ladies are terrific in fall force with the ticket selling activities and it is hoped the fund's exchequer will receive a much needed boost. You couldn't spend a quarter to better advantage.

WENT DOWN FIGHTING!

Bill Spafford's fighting Moiras were eliminated by the powerful Peterborough Marines in the second round of the intermediate "B" basketball playdowns by a 68-47 score. The Marines came in with a polished court performance and the Moiras couldn't quite overcome the margin. However, while defeated, they were far from disgraced, and Spafford, Prosser and the boys are to be congratulated on a splendid overseason show. They won their league title, eliminated Brockville, but bowed to the more potent Marines. Better hunting next year, fellas!

Men's Commercial Bowling League

In the Friday night session of the Men's Commercial Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome, Pat's Barber Shop increased their lead by defeating Balzyx Bros. by 3-0, while the Beslaks entry in second place were being set back by an inspired Stephens-Adamson team by a 5 to 2 count. The scores were Stephens-Adamson 2902, Beslaks 2410.

The remaining games were taken by Gourleys, 7 to 0 over O'Neill Sales; Quinte Distributors 5 to 2 over Welding Gases, and Alemite, 5 to 2 over Star Welding.

The high triple of the night was rolled by the veteran Hank Ryan, while A. Murdeiska had the high single of 331. Other good scores were rolled by J. Valchar, 807 (331); H. Sagrit 806 (323); A. Muskeluke 772 (331); J. Yerex 745; J. Gagnon 745; J. Thomas 745; Saunders 743; K. Peoples 725; R. MacDonald 711; E. Dawson 701.

The league standing to date, with three weeks remaining in the regular schedule:

Pat's Barber Shop	123
Beslaks	114
Quinte Distributors	113
Welding Gases	104
Gourleys	102
Stephens-Adamson	73
Balzyx Bros.	45
Alemite	23
O'Neill Sales	20

'Old Gaffer' Has Only 9 Goals But Produces When Necessary; Point Separates Hawks, Leafs

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In their last four games Boston Bruins have scored four goals. And Milt Schmidt owns three of them.

For an old gaffer who has only nine goals to show for the entire National Hockey League season, the elder statesman from Kitchener, Ont., produces when the Bruins need him.

For in those long, lonely eight days on the road, Boston picked up just two points out of a possible eight, both on ties that resulted from Schmidt tallies.

At 35, Schmidt has spent two-fifths of his life as a big-leaguer. Actually he broke in 17 years ago, but the Second World War cut three seasons from his playing career. The nine goals that gave the Bruins a 3-2 against Chicago Black Hawks Sunday night raised his NHL total to 209.

Thanks to Sunday night's effort, the Bruins are just one point short of pay-off territory. They trail the fourth-place Leafs by seven points to tie Toronto Maple Leafs, who split a week-end two-all with New York Rangers, are another point ahead of Chicago.

Next Detroit

The Bruins are back in action in Detroit tonight against the first-place Red Wings, in the second-of-ted Montreal Canadiens' hopes of catching them by edging the Rangers at Montreal Saturday.

Schmidt's old Kitchener sidekick, 26-year-old Woody Dumart, set him up for the first goal against Al Rollins at Chicago. Jim Peters, a former Bruin, wiped it out, before Schmidt's 20th.

Early in the third period Cal Gardner and Doug McFadden let pass for the second Chicago goal. Then defenceman Clare Martin put rookie Paul Cherrelli carried the puck in on a desperate sally at 14:42. Schmidt clinched the issue with a backhander from Dumart.

Marcel Bonin, a Detroit second-stringer, scored the first goal of his NHL career in the third period to give the Red Wings their victory after Montreal had rallied to overcome a two-goal deficit.

Two beautiful goals by Ted Lindsay within less than half a minute had put the Wings in front. Bert Olmstead got one back, but Johnny Wilson counted for Detroit early in the second frame.

Bonin, Moore connected for the Habitants four minutes later and Doug Harvey tied it up in the last minute of the period. Bonin poked home the winning goal in a scramble.

The 14,751 Montreal fans, gathered to honor veteran defenceman Butch Bouchard, also got a tribute of sorts to referee Frank Udvari, pelting him with rubber heels and other assorted missiles when his calls proved unpopular.

The Leafs, who have virtually owned the cellar-dwelling Rangers all season, scored only once in their first 10 meetings, racked up their seventh victory by a 3-0 score Saturday night.

The New Yorkers finally struck back Sunday with one of their best games of the year. Bill Cook's charges slapped the Leafs down 4-2 on their home grounds.

'Straight Face' Wins Rich Stake

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Greentree Stable's Straight Face, 4-to-5 favorite-born Ted Atkinson riding, Saturday won the $50,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park—the richest race ever run for three-year-olds.

The 16 entries raced according to the script. Straight Face, Key-to-Success Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem, second choice at 2-to-1, in front.

Third, a neck back, was Mrs. Vera Bragg's Tribe. Fourth was Admiral Rice's Cerine Reine, only filly in the race.

Over the 1¼ miles was 1:49 3-5.

Straight Face, bay gelded son of Count Fleet out of Expression, earned $116,400 to push his total winnings in two years of racing to $191,798.

'Mark-Ye-Well' Takes Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (CP)—Calumet Farm's Mark-Ye-Well, a lopsided favorite, scored a convincing victory to scare Saturday before rallying to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap by a head.

The four-year-old Kentucky colt cost almost a dime more than was expected, and it took a last surge to hold off a belated rush by Native by Mrs. Lea Warner's Trustking.

Alfred Vanderbilt's First Glance, pace-setter until the turn into the stretch, was third, four lengths back of Trusting.

Time for the 1¼-mile race was 2:01 3-5. Mark-Ye-Well went to the post at 3-to-5 odds—shortest price ever paid on a horse in the history of the race.

The race was whittled down to a slender six horses when Correspondent and Blue Reading were scratched during the afternoon.

Porky Combines Win 8th Title

TIMMINS (CP)—Porcupine Combines won their seventh straight Northern Ontario Junior Association Junior A championship Saturday night when they defeated Falconbridge Wolves 4-2 to sweep their best-of-five finals in straight games.

The Combines, who won 5-3 and 3-2 victories in the opening games at Sudbury, were never in trouble as they took a 2-0 lead in the first period, outscored the Wolves 2-1 in the middle period and held them to one marker in the final.

Barrie, Marlies Finish 'One-Two' As Junior Loop Finishes Schedule

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Junior A hockey in Ontario and Quebec was in a decisive stage at week-end.

The Ontario Hockey Association's nine-team group wound up its schedule and settled the six-team playoff pattern. The Quebec Hockey Association's junior playoffs began although the eventual winner won't get into the Memorial Cup finals until the CAHA lifts the suspension it imposed Saturday on the QAHA. The Northern Ontario Hockey Association declared its champion.

Timmins - Porcupine Combines won their seventh successive NOHA Junior A title Saturday by defeating Falconbridge Wolves 4-2 to sweep their best-of-five final 3-0.

Sunday Montreal Canadiens, Quebec junior champions, grabbed a 1-0 lead in a best-of-seven semi-final series, defeating Montreal Royals 4-1. Quebec Citadelles took the first game of a best-of-nine semi-final with Three Rivers Reds, coming from behind 4-2.

In the OHA Junior A series, three days of Saturday and the same number Sunday rang down the curtain on the regular schedule. In Saturday's activity Galt Black Hawks whipped Windsor Spitfires 11-1, Oshawa Generals defeated Toronto Marlboros 3-1 and St. Catharines trounced Guelph Biltmores 8-2.

In Toronto Sunday, the Marlboros copped second place in the standings by beating Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-2. St. Catharines came from behind to tie St. Michael's 2-2. In Windsor Sunday, Galt edged out the Spitfires 6-5 and helped teammate Jim McBurney win the individual scoring championship.

Galt's slaughter of the Spitfires Saturday was led by Ken Wharram and Minnie Menard who fired three goals each. Jim McBurney, with two, John Muckler, Frank Boucher and Moe Mantha completed the rout. Ted Reid spoiled Les Binkley's shutout.

Captain Brian Cullen paced the Greenshirts with three goals against Guelph, Memorial Cup champions last year. Bill Hass, Alex Leslie, Mark Barlow, Ken Schinkel and Ron Murphy added the rest. George White and Donald W. Graham tallied for Guelph.

Black Hawks Edge Lindsay 6-5 To Take Stranglehold On Junior Series

Stage 3rd Period 2-Goal Surge To Snatch Last Minute Win; Halstead, Barclay Stand Out

Scoring three goals within the space of four minutes, Belleville Black Hawks came from behind in the third period to edge Lindsay Warriors 6-5 in the fourth game of their Junior B semi-final play off series played at Lindsay Saturday night. A win for the Hawks on their home ice here tonight will wrap up the round and send them against Kingston Vics in the league finals.

Ron Halstead and Dickey Jones led the winners with a pair of goals; Bruce Hall and Hank Thurlow selling the others. Tom Rutherville also drew assists for Bill Williams, Connie O'Neill and Jack Graham.

Halstead Turns Tide

This was a key game in the series and both teams knew it. With seven minutes to go in the last frame, it appeared as though the Warriors had the key as they led 4-3. It was then that Halstead, his left eye completely closed as a result of a high-sticking incident in the second period, took over. Twice in three minutes he raced in on his blind side to sink two backhanders to put the Hawks back in front. Those were the turning points.

If Halstead was the big hero, goalie Don Barclay was close on his heels for tub-thumping honors. He turned in a sensational play that kept his club in a striking position. As an example, let us say goutabot the Hawks 16-3 in a scoreless first period.

Minders as mentioned, completely dominated first third of the game. Then Lindsay suddenly up foot of the canto and were taking a pounding relentlessly but artistically. The Warriors skated themselves into a state of frustration before the cool Barclay citadel.

The Belleville Hawk attack lost no time in exploding as the second period opened. At 1:40, Cochrane drove in a Lindsay scrobe and slipped a pass to Therrien at the Warriors blue line. The right winger went in on goal unmolested and beat Truax with a sliding shot.

The same pair collaborated, this time in reverse order, for the second tally. Therrien rushed from his own blue line and, artistically at the Lindsay defence, but the alert Jones pounced on the puck and stuck it in with a short screened shot to make it 2-0.

Hall Made It 3-0

Jones upped the score to 3-0 on a nice play with George Jackson and Halstead hanging on the past Truax from the edge of the crease.

Bill Williams sweet that back for Lindsay on a bit of a fluke. Trapped in a Belleville corner, he flipped one in the direction of the net. Barclay tried to look it away, but it got off his glove and in behind him. This set the stage for Lindsay's second tally. Hutton banking in Art Truax's passout behind the cage.

Graham made it 3-3 early in the third, sinking a backhander on Harold Hall's assist from the corner. O'Neill put the Warriors on top for the first time two minutes later. From a faceoff in the Belleville zone, he fed Truax's passback and flipped a long shot last tooled Barclay.

Enter Mr. Halstead. Some 20 feet out, he took passes from Hall and Jackson and drilled a low backhander into the off corner as new breaks knee as skidded on a similar backhander, this time with the aid of Armand Delbosco and assistant.

Jones added the insurance tally at 16:04, his close-in high shot beating Truax. Gumour and Therrien drew assists. Hutton, with the aid of Barker and Arthurs, drew the last Lindsay tally with 45 seconds left but the Hawks held on until the whistle to nail away the victory.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal Barclay; defence, Slocco and Delbosco; centre, Halstead; wings, Jackson and Hall. Alternates, Jones, Therrien, Gilmour, Green, Casey, Bovay and Baker.

Lindsay: Goal, R. Truax; defence, O'Neill and W. Williams, centre, Hutton; wings, A. Truax and Parker. Alternates, Arthurs, Ford, McGill, Graham, Gibson, H. Williams, Cochrane, Teel and Childers.

Referee: Herb Payne, Peterborough. Linesman, Ike Eberts, Lindsay.

Hershey Edges St. Louis 4-3; Hornets Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Gadsby, Detroit defence star, and Louis Hyers was back at the head of the American Hockey League scoring marathon tonight but his lead was an opportunity to pick up some valuable points.

Pleider had a hand in all three Flyer goals last night—scoring one and assisting in two others—but St. Louis still came out on the short end of a 4-3 count in a game with the Hershey Flyers.

He has 19 points to 63 for Eddie Olson of Cleveland Barons, idle last night.

Hershey had to come from behind three times to tie the score and didn't pull into the lead until Arnie Kullman hit the cards 33 seconds after the start of the third period.

Al Dewsbury turned in the hat trick as Providence Reds defeated the Pittsburgh Hornets 5-1, that costing the Hornets a chance to break their first-place tie with Cleveland.

Syracuse warriors were forced to go to the third period before breaking a tie with the last place Buffalo Bisons, and hanging up a 6-2 decision.

PETERBOROUGH WINS

TORONTO (CP)—Peterborough Collegiate Juniors defeated Orillia Collegiate 45-34 Saturday in the first game of the junior A series at the annual Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association basketball tournament. Richmond Hill downed Whitby 45-32 in the opening junior B game.

Ralph Kiner Admits He Is 1953 Holdout

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirates' home run king, acknowledges he's a 1953 holdout.

And a little simple arithmetic indicates he and general manager Branch Rickey are about $6,000 apart in their dickering.

As his teammates reported Sunday for early training at Havana, Kiner said he had airmailed an offer to Rickey a week ago to join them.

But there was little doubt that Mazie was on his way to Deloise, privately to set the figures are to be worked out.

Kiner's salary was involved was $76,500 — a cut from Kiner's reported $80,000 salary last year when his batting average slipped to .344.

In Havana Sunday, Rickey said he hadn't received Kiner's letter. But Dan Kiner said he thinks would have to start on the basis of a 25-per-cent cut—a slash. That figures out to $57,500.

Kiner reasoned: "Under those circumstances I'd have to be a holdout."

He said he accepted the Feb. 13 "substantial" cut because Rickey allowed him to report two weeks late this year.

"He made an offer to me which I accepted," Kiner said. "Now if he's going to back down and ask me to take a 25-per-cent cut we'll have to have a little trouble getting together."

Leafs' Max Bentley, 'Sick and Fed Up'; Said to be Headed for Western Home

DELISLE, Sask. (CP) — Max Bentley, the unassuming farmer's son who made a pile of money and ended with a lot of aches and pains in big-time hockey, is headed back to his farm. He's sick and fed up.

The 33-year-old centre, one of the most dazzling figures in the National Hockey League since he broke into professional football 14 years ago, hasn't been heard from since he played briefly with Toronto Maple Leafs in a Toronto game last Wednesday.

But there was little doubt that Mazie was on his way to Delisle, privately to set the figures are to be worked out.

Kiner's salary was involved was $76,500 — a cut from Kiner's reported $80,000 salary last year when his batting average slipped to .344.

In Havana Sunday, Rickey said he hadn't received Kiner's letter. But Dan Kiner said he thinks would have to start on the basis of a 25-per-cent cut—a slash. That figures out to $57,500.

Kiner reasoned: "Under those circumstances I'd have to be a holdout."

He said he accepted the Feb. 13 "substantial" cut because Rickey allowed him to report two weeks late this year.

"He made an offer to me which I accepted," Kiner said. "Now if he's going to back down and ask me to take a 25-per-cent cut we'll have to have a little trouble getting together."

However, the first concrete indication of Max's declaration came Saturday when it was learned that an automobile registered in his name entered the United States at Port Huron, Mich., Thursday. It apparently was heading through the U.S. to Delisle.

Max's father, William Bentley, said later that he had advised Max to come home, "I told him he was just one more hockey player when he was trying to play in bad physical condition."

Bentley returned briefly to action Wednesday night against Montreal Canadiens after being laid up two weeks with a recurring back injury—the ailment that has bugged him for nearly two years. He was only a shadow of the Bentley who dipsy-doodled his way to football fame years ago. He retired to the farming region before the game was finished.

Earlier in the season, Max was out for seven weeks with the same back injury and a virus infection.

In 34 games he played this season, Bentley scored 12 goals and got 11 assists.

CAHA Suspends Que. Senior League; Will Seek Playoffs With Other Loops

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's suspension of its Quebec senior-calibre league has closed the door wide open for a wild scramble by Quebec leagues to make their own arrangements for playoffs to protect their financial investments.

The powerful Quebec Senior Hockey League announced after a meeting Sunday night that it will start immediate negotiations with the Belleville Ont. Senior League and the American Hockey League, both considered strong bets for spring playoff series after completion of their regular schedules.

What happens from here on is anyone's guess. If the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association —Quebec's junior league—decides to arrange playoffs of its own out of Quebec, it could be followed by every other league of ranking in the province.

The CAHA Saturday suspended the QAHA, ending its latest battle with the Quebec branch over the playing eligibility of 18-year-old Ron Atwell.

Series Eliminated

The immediate result of the suspension was the elimination of the Alexander Cup series and a severe displacing of the Memorial and Allan Cup schedules.

The Canadian Press learned from two sources that a move is afoot that some form of arbitration in the dispute between the parties under the CAHA itself cannot be ruled out as possibilities.

Where it does, it must be something that both sides can accept without losing too much face. The CAHA annual meeting in May may see the two factions affecting a reconciliation.

Four members of the CAHA, meeting in Montreal, told the CAHA Saturday that the telegram spoke with authority. The CAHA executive upheld the officers' recommendation for suspension. The Quebec branch was told it was the only one which voted against the recommendation. There are nine branches in the CAHA who have not announced.

Frank J. Dudley, Midland, Ont. secretary-manager of the CAHA, said the association would use "every effort" to inform all the leagues, clubs and players of the decision by May 15.

There wishing to remain in good standing have until March 10 to notify the CAHA.

In carrying out its intention of "recognizing amateur hockey only" in the QAHA, Dudley said the CAHA will appoint a temporary chairman and registrar to carry on.

Dudley said the suspension resulted from decliance by the QAHA of the CAHA, which had refused to transfer Atwell from the Quebec Hockey Association to the QAHA. Atwell plans to perform professionally until March 10 to qualify for the CAHA.

Doc Misses Three-Foot Putt

HOUSTON. (AP)—Dr. Cary Middlecoff missed a three-foot victory-tagged putt on the 18th green Sunday to throw the $25,000 Houston open golf tournament into a five-way tie for the $4,000 first prize.

The dramatic miss by the Memphis dentist left his score at 72-hole, five-under-par 283 that was matched by Ted Kroll, Los Angeles, Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, Dutch Harrison, Mayfield, Pondvicinity, N.Y., and Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, Tex.

The five enter an 18-hole playoff today over the par 72, 7,150-yard Memorial Park course.

'Livvies' Win 1st from Windsor

TILLSONBURG (CP) — Tillsonburg Livingstons won their first game from Windsor Alumni Saturday night 84-81 in the second round series of their senior A basketball championship. The second game will be played in Windsor Saturday night.

Providing Tillsonburg gets by Windsor the city will clash with Toronto Tri-Bells here March 14 with the second game in Toronto March 21 for the Southern Ontario crown.

In the preliminary game Leamington Flyers, defending intermediate C Ontario Amateur Basketball Association champions, eliminated Tillsonburg Trojans winning the second straight play-off series here. They won the first game in London 91-63.

Lady Bowlers Win, Lose Wit Kingston

Two ladies' bowling teams representing the Bowl-O-Drome won and lost in a duo of exhibition matches played with Kingston teams over the week-end.

The Belleville girls defeated the Kingston Clean-Ups (2967) while the Kingston Bopettes (3042) beat the Belleville Hi-Lites (2726) here (3128). The Belleville No. 1 team also played with Kingston by one lone pin.

The outstanding individual effort was that of Thelma Doughty of the Hopefuls, who had a triple of 823 and a single of 331. Other good scores were by Helen Lewis, 768; Edna Purchase 682; Babe Hardwick 662; Olive Jarvah 616; Alice Gibson 714; Betty Jackson 677; Ruth Hawkins 532; Grace Clapp 627; Mary Thompson 731 and Doreen Cole 624.

Royals Down Bombers 1-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sparked by spectacular set-minding by Lucien Dechene, New Westminster Royals downed Seattle Bombers 1-0 Sunday night and stepped into seventh place into a fourth-place tie with Tacoma Rockets in the PCHA's Western League. They dropped a 4-2 decision to Victoria Cougars Saturday.

In other games Saturday Calgary Stampeders defeated Edmonton Quakers 7-3 and Tacoma and Seattle battled to a 2-2 tie.

Ollie Doorbey scored the Royals' goal against the Bombers, a blistering, shoulder-high shot late in the second period.

Ivan Irwin, Eddie Mazur, Eddie Dorohey and Reg Abbott tallied for Victoria against the Royals.

Gus Kyle and Frank Ashworth sparked the Stamps to victory over Saskatoon with two goals apiece.

To Decide Hockey Plans

LONDON, (CP) — Canadian plans for the 1954 world hockey championships to be held in Zurich, Switzerland, in conjunction with the winter Olympics, probably will be said he is not going to commit Canada to any definite action.

Canada and the United States dropped from world competition this year for being refused financial guarantees.

LADIES' CAGE FINALS

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Jewels won the first game of a two-game total-point series for the Ontario ladies' basketball championship Saturday, edging Elora Lady Ramblers, 41-40. The series ends in Toronto this week.

Toronto 'Teeners' Win Figure Skating Crowns

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Toronto teen-agers skated off with the Canadian singles figure skating crowns Saturday night at the close of a three-day championship meet.

Barbara Wilson, 16-year-old from the Toronto Skating Club, gave a sparkling display in four minute of free skating to take the senior women's title. It was an upset victory, since she had placed second in the compulsory figures section of the contest, which counted for two-thirds of the marks.

Peter Firstbrook, 18 - year - old chilmate of Miss Gratton, won both the compulsory figures and free skating sections to retain the senior men's title he won last year.

Frances Dafoe, 15, and Norris Bowden, 16, of the Toronto Skating Club won three championships — the junior pairs, and the waltz step. Last year they won three three and also the senior dance title. Saturday they withdrew it from that event.

Frances Abbott and David Ross of Toronto won the junior dance title vacated by Miss Dafoe and Bowden. They recently placed second in the world championships at Davos, Switzerland.

The Midland defence and Rink Ont., Dawn Steckley, had taken an early lead in the Saturday night ice competition by winning the difficult compulsory "school" figures. But Miss Gratton outdone the field of 12 with her effortless free-skating performance to win overall honors.

Miss Steckley placed second and Yarmila Pachl, 15-year-old native of Prague, Czechoslovakia, was third.

Firstbrook was well ahead of the junior men competition after the senior men's event. Charles Snelling, 15, of Toronto, placed second and Peter Dunfield, 20, of Toronto, was third.

Sara Steckley and David Lowery, also of Oshawa, who won the junior pairs Saturday afternoon, also entered the senior pairs competition against Miss Dafoe and Bowden. The two 15-year-olds fell during their five-minute performance but finished out their routine to place second.

Albert College Sr. 'B' Basketballers Defe:- Midland for COSSA Title; Juniors, BCI Defeated in Semi-Finals

Albert College seniors walked off with the COSSA senior 'B' basketball title in Toronto on Saturday night, defeating Midland H. S. in the final game of the tournaments by a score of 74 to 56. Albert qualified for the final by beating Ridgeway-Crystal H.S. 66 to 41 in the semi-final in the afternoon, 64 to 49. In both games the college five came from behind to win in a driving second half. In the Ridgeway game they were down 24 to 23 at half time and in the final with Midland started off slowly and were down 17-14 in the first quarter. John Hayman handled the Albert team from the bench as he brought his boys through in flying style.

Ridgeway had a fast-breaking, smaller crew than the Albert team but battled hard all the way through from only three points at three-quarter time. Bert Faulkner and Ross King were the outstanding scorers for the locals in this game, each netting 20 points. Sommerville of Ridgeway threw in 23 points.

Midland started the final game whit a rush and held a lead of 17-14 at the end of the first quarter. Faulkner again got his eye on the basket and batted in two rebounds to put Albert ahead. The two foul throws late in this quarter to bring them even at seven terms. As the second quarter got under way, Albert soived the Midland defence and Ross added four quick baskets, while Bert Faulkner clicked on three baskets to make the half time score 34 to 29 for Albert.

The second half saw Albert gradually pull ahead in a decisive manner. Mike Gleitz starring defensively as he gained control of the rebounds under both baskets. Blake Harris sparked many drives and with Faulkner, took care of the scoring, most of the time to give Albert an 18-point lead at three-quarters. In the last quarter Midland outscored Albert 16 to 14, when Faulkner, Harris, Ross King, went out on five personal fouls. Midland lost Hindle, Smith and Mackenzie via the same route shortly afterwards. Albert had the outstanding scorer, accounting for 20 points. King racked up 28 for Albert while Faulkner had a great both coming and going, managed to get in 14 of them in the first half.

With the COSSA senior "B" title under their belts, the Albert squad headed back to Toronto for the OBAA play-offs on March 7th, where they meet the winner of the N.O.S.S.A. title in the final round of the tournament, if they can get by the Albert College Old Boys Club at the annual meeting.

The officers elected were Dr. George Faulkner, vice-president and T. A. Carruthers, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen named were Fred Tucker, Ross Jones, James Walker; greens, Clem Jackson; games, Ted Parker, and membership, Dr. Faulkner.

Plans were laid for the presentation of trophies and club activities. A limited number of applications for membership will be accepted at the present time.

The club enjoyed a highly successful season and hope to be able to enjoy the same successes as met its efforts during 1952.

Albert College (74)

Hayes 0; Vaughan, Black (5); Burk; Caetz; Balmer (4); Faulkner (21); Slack; Sommerville (23); Hindle; Smith; Mackenzie (8); Rehill (2).

Albert College (74): King (26); Tougher (5); Chase; Harris (7); Vaughn (2); Hayes; Black (3); Burk; Caetz (2); Balmer (9); Faulkner (21); Slack.

Midland H.S. (56): Smith (9); Pinder; Mcintivee (12); Shaw (5); Ambeau; Aldridge; Smith (2); Blake; Caetzu (7); Gaviller (4); Mackenzie (8); Rehill (2).

Juniors Lose

Albert Juniors, Bay of Quinte champions, lost out to Notre Dame H.S. of the Niagara District in the Semi-finals 45 to 41. Notre Dame went on to take the Junior "B" title from Richmon Hill 58 to 50.

Faulkner and Vaughan were the big guns for Albert in the losing game with 14 and 13 points respectively, and Coach Hayman of the Albert seniors coached the both senior championship games following the Juniors' semi-final.

Niagara Falls C.I. won the COSSA Junior "C" title in the final round this year in a row, and look well on their way to their third provincial title.

BCI Loses

The Bellamy C.I., with a big rangy team of kids took the junior "A" COSSA title from Belleville C.I. 56 to 47 in the semi-final game and taking Peterborough C.I. 54 to 45 in the final. "Red" Townsend's kids held them to a 2 point advantage at half time but willed in the second half.

Notre Dame H. S. of Welland Ontario, took the junior "B" C.O.-S.S.A. title, beating Albert in the semi-final and Richmond Hill in the final. This final game went to overtime, Notre Dame getting the tying basket in the last minute, and after tieing it up through the game — once in the second half by 13 points. In the overtime they took command immediately and won out 56 to 50.

King and Faulkner were Albert's leading scorers during the tournament, totalling 28 of Albert's 138 points. Faulkner played an outstanding game both defensively and defensively. A former Albert great, Farley Faulkner, was on hand to see his son star.

Coach John Hayman of Albert achieved his dream by taking his team through to the COSSA title after last year being runner-up. With practically the same outfit he won the senior tournament last year, and is looking forward this year to achieving a triple crown, hoping to add the provincial title and the Queen's Cup against "B" class this year to the list.

Maxie Forgot To Tell Con.

NEW YORK. (CP)— Conn Smythe said here Sunday night that Max Bentley left Toronto without his knowledge but that the Maple Leafs centre had permission to take a breather from the tough National Hockey League schedule.

Bentley disappeared from Toronto Thursday and now is believed to be on his way to his Delisle, Sask., home. Smythe, managing director of the Leafs, was in New York, after a Florida vacation.

"There is no use in Bentley playing until he is all right," Smythe said.

Remember When

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

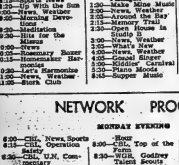
Max Schmeling, leading heavyweight contender by virtue of a knockout over Joe Louis, arrived at New York today to challenge Jim Braddock for the world title. The title chance however went to Louis, who knocked out Braddock. When Schmeling got his chance in June, 1936, he lasted only one round against Louis.

RIZZUTO SIGNS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Phil Rizzuto, veteran New York Yankees shortstop, signed his 1953 contract today for a reported $40,000, the same amount he received last year when he helped the bombers to their fourth straight pennant.

Intercounty To Open May 15

BRANTFORD (CP)—The eight teams in the Intercounty Baseball League decided Sunday to open their 1953 schedule Friday, May 15.



Opening day sends all eight clubs into action, Kitchener at Brantford; Guelph at Waterloo; Oshawa at Galt; London at St. Thomas. The schedule ends Aug. 29.

A vote decided on a four-team playoff although there was some demand that six clubs get into post-schedule play. In the playoffs, the first-place team will meet the fourth and the second-place club plays the third. Semi-final and final series will be best-of-nine affairs. Five per cent of receipts of playoff games will be distributed among the bottom four teams.

The Kibitzer

A tough bridge customer is sometimes willing to go out on a limb for a day's slam. As when an expert pair sat south and north in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♥A 10 6
♦A K 9 6
♣A 4 2

WEST
♠K Q J 8
♥5 3 2
♦Q 8 7 2
♣J 10 3

EAST
♠6 5 3
♦J 10 4
♣Q 8 7 6 5

SOUTH
♥K J 10 9 7 6
♣K 9 3

Their bidding went like this:

South	North
Pass	1 D
1 H	2 NT
3 H	4 NT
4 H	6 H

"With six tricks and support it would have been in order for the north hand to simple assist at once to the six heart slam. He would not force south to bid again. With nothing more, south might pass.

The high cards in north tell him there is a game at no-trump. If so, he prefers a signal that will not permit south to pass. Hence the jump to two no-trump, a forcing to game signal.

The wild in hearts by south was fully enough to decide north on having that suit as the final trump. To stop at a game bid second inadequate. So, north started probing for a slam.

North did not discover 12 tricks in the suit, but the quality of his hand was now meat for slambidding. In order to be sure of four no-trump, five hearts is the signal for the ace and one king.

Learning thus that opponents had two kings, there was danger of losing two tricks at a small slam. But, he went to the slam anyway in the hopes that south would find a way of making it.

The opening lead from west was spade king. When south saw the dummy hand he could see a possible loser in each black suit. It did not seem to offer an obvious way of saving one.

But he found it. See if you can.

QUEEN'S TRIM McGILL

MONTREAL (CP) — Queen's University defeated McGill Redmen 63-52 Saturday night in a basketball game of McGill athletics night.

The Golden Gaels pulled ahead at the start of the game and were never headed. They led 33-20 at half-time.

Bob Purcell paced the Kingston attack with 12, followed by Don Griffin with 12.

Dutchies, Mercs Trim Indians, Reds; Grab 3-1 Leads in Senior Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-final series believe in doing things the hard way.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Owen Sound Mercurys won by identical 4-1 scores Saturday night against Brantford Indians and Brantford Redmen to take identical 3-1 leads in the two best-of-seven rounds.

But the Dutchmen had a tougher time than the Mercurys, who finished on top of the seven-team league in the 48-game schedule. Playing at home, the Kitchener-Waterloo club whacked in three overtime goals for their triumph over the Indians. The Mercurys, also at home, divided their four counters between the second and third periods.

After a scoreless first period at Kitchener Don Rope of the Dutchmen deflected a shot off a Brantford player to put his team ahead. Stratford tied it seven minutes after the start of the third on Bruce Surdette's coal.

In overtime Charlie Brooker, Dutch defenceman, and Don Bauer wrapped it up for the Dutchmen.

The first period was scoreless in Owen Sound. Then Bill McComb and Buck Forslund gave the Mercurys a 2-0 second period lead. Jack Wade scored Brantford's only goal at the 15-minute mark of the third but Ray McCallum and Bill Allum wrapped it up with two more Owen Sound goals.

Kitchener will try to finish the series in Stratford Tuesday and Brantford remain in Owen Sound for a date the same night.

Blues Lassies Win Court Crown

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto was the intercollegiate women's senior basketball tournament Saturday, downing McGill 44-32. The winners defeated Ontario Agricultural College 32-24 in early play and McGill defeated Queen's 43-40.

McGill clung to a narrow lead over the defending champions from Kingston despite a late rally. Captain Ruth Coleman spearhead the winners with 16 points while Anne Turcotte added 14 and Mona McGurk nine.

For the tricolour, Pat Radcliffe garnered 14 points, Molly McConnell added 11 and Darla Shoemaker 10.

Quebec League Is 'Tabu'

MIDLAND (CP)—George S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday night the CAHA will not permit Canadian senior teams to play in an exhibition series with teams from the suspended Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

He was commenting on speculation from Montreal, where the CAHA is meeting, that Sunday, that after it settles its own championship the QAHA might ask Ontario championship teams to participate in an "exhibition" series.

"We wouldn't permit Ontario to play with them," said Dudley. "If they did, they'd be suspended too."

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Paced by Joe Black's 22 points, London Kiltie Juniors cut off Riverside United Church 61-52 Saturday night in the London-south intermediate A Ontario Basketball Association playoff game. Riverside won the first game of the series 66-51 but a London protest was upheld by the OBA and the game was called "no contest." London now advances to the next round against an opponent as yet unnamed.

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP)—Jean Beliveau, starry centre-for Quebec Aces, captured his second straight Quebec Senior Hockey League scoring championship Sunday. The big Quebecker, who scored five goals while on a three-game bender-issue with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, ended the QSHL season with 89 points—including 50 goals and 39 assists.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Springfield Indians, who have won more regular-season games to play clinched the East-west Hockey League championship Saturday night by overwhelming Johnstown Jets 10-5.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the academy awards are televised for the first time March 19, six minutes of the hour programs will be devoted to plugging a television set.

Thus the climax of what can be called one of the biggest boosheed plays in recent Hollywood history.

The film industry's brass are admitting that they have been locked in a life-or-death struggle with TV for the last three years. Yet when the industry puts on its biggest event of the year, its ... peraitor is allowed to use the event as a showcase for selling more TV sets.

It's incredible but true. The movie industry has allowed itself to be maneuvered into this comic position. It happened because certain studio withdrew their financial support of the academy. The studios argued that they were not allowed any say-so in the running of the academy.

Lacking enough money to put on its annual show, the academy had to seek a TV sponsor. If the talking studios had maintained their support—which amounted to around $20,000 or a tiny fraction of their annual expenditures—this embarrassing event would have been prevented.

KINGSTON CLUB WINS

CORNWALL (CP)—Kingston Badminton Club, sweeping five of six main events, Saturday won the team championship at the annual St. Lawrence District Badminton Association tournament. Cornwall won the senior men's couples to deprive the Kingston players of a clean sweep.

Kingston's John Johnson retained his men's singles crown with a straight set win over Harold Markle of Brockville, 15-5, 15-5.

Evelyn Constantine of Kingston captured the ladies' singles title, defeating Mrs. Jean Woodman of Gananoque, 15-5, 15-6.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Somewhat rough on you who expect the easy road to success is there to be taken, whenever you wish. Emotional and over-forceful attitude gets nothing but trouble.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Today's especial cue: Take more interest in things you understand, routine matters but don't overcrowd your day. The conservative, watchful-waiting policy favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Not all encouraging for quick returns. Look out for get-rich schemes, questionable propositions. The straight, above-board road may take longer but is best.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Business, financial matters could stand some restraint. A more appropriate planetary period for your plans soon. Take things quietly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—No hurrying nor making snap judgments if you expect worthwhile returns. Keep harmony in evidence and attract co-operation.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Indifferent vibrations on whole. If day is not too demanding, review a bit: maybe change of pace or mood can improve things.

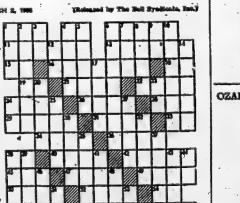
September 24 to October 22 (Libra)—Neither unfriendly or too favorable for things other than duties. Be guided by what you have to do. No worry, straining, just common sense.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Some drabness today. However, things can go along smoothly, depending on how you handle affairs. Heart interests rate special attention.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Can be progressive day though not exciting nor highly productive. Sensibly planning effort, good balance in activity will help.

December 22 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Whether a big or little day make it right, and get all you can for effort expended. And routine obligations first.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Be ready to co-operate for pleasanter results at business, in the home, with all just cause. This is essential.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—May be retarding circumstances, some personal opposition. Keep calm, display your naturally amiable, sympathetic gifts. After the storm the rainbow, you know.

You born today: may well be fond of art, music, science. Could do well in literary work, poetry, teaching. At times inclined to be over-sensitive for your own and family's sake. Don't permit lack of confidence to be your handicap. And don't anticipate trouble. Birthdate of: Alexander Graham Bell, telephone inventor; Gen. M. Pullman, maker of sleeping cars.

SET ELECTION HEARING

CORNWALL (CP) — A motion brought by Robert Revie, defeated candidate in last December's mayoralty election, charging irregularities in the election, will be heard at a special Supreme Court sitting scheduled for March 16, it was announced Friday. Mayor Aaron Horovitz defeated Mr. Revie by more than 1,500 votes.

MARMORA Representative Group Considers Forming Girl Guide Campaign

Marmora — A representative group of interested Marmora ladies attended a meeting in the town hall to gaudy numbers on Thursday evening to become acquainted with the principles of the Girl Guide movement, and to consider the possibility of a company being formed in the village.

Canon J. M. Brownlie was asked to preside and in turn he introduced Mrs. S. A. York, of Marmora, (who had taken initial steps to bring about the meeting); Mrs. R. D. Arnott, of Belleville, and Mrs. Cumming-Bruce; Mrs. C. F. Portlock, Brown Owl, Belleville, and Guide Capt. Mrs. Marcuria, Brown Owl of that city.

Following introductory remarks by Canon Brownlie, Mrs. Arnott addressed the meeting. She aptly described the formation of the movement, mentioning that the first company was formed in St. Columbkille's in 1910. Touching upon the exemplification of the uniform, she declared that it creates friendliness and a feeling of equality and that it helps to develop loyalty, service and obedience.

Mrs. Arnott outlined, which, succeeded her address, was held to good advantage.

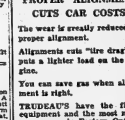
Mrs. R. H. Rennie, Regent of Marmora Chapter, I.O.D.E., then turned over equipment, also some money, all of which had been left in trust with the I.O.D.E., a committee of which lords disbanded a few years ago.

Mrs. S. A. York was appointed captain and Mrs. Clayton Bedore lieutenant of a company shortly to be organized. They will also attend a "Training Day" to be held in Belleville on March 14th.

Mrs. Samuels and Mrs. York displayed uniforms to the girls present, numbering about 30, most of whom are prospective Guides.

Meetings will be held weekly on Thursday evening. It is hoped to hold the next one on March 5th.

Following the meeting the Belleville ladies, with Mrs. York were entertained to tea at the rectory by Mrs. J. M. Brownlie.



TO REMOVE POPULATION

BERLIN (AP)—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported Sunday that the Russians plan to remove the civilian population from Stettin a German port on the Baltic, and convert it to a closed naval base.

STRONGER THAN EVER

NEW BRIGHTON, Eng. (CP) —The British Labor party is stronger than ever, party secretary-general Morgan Phillips said Sunday. He estimated individual party membership at more than 1,000,000. Dues-paying trade union membership at the end of last year passed the 5,000,000 mark for the first time in the party's history, he said.

MARMORA

Agricultural Society Appoints Committees

Marmora — Appointment of committees was the main business conducted by members of the Marmora Agricultural Society at its meeting held on Thursday evening at the home of its president, Carl E. Heath.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, there was a fair attendance which included ladies.

The committees for the year were appointed as follows:

Grounds—T. J. Bateman, chairman; Harry Neal, Joseph Hulsman.

Entertainment—H. W. Sabine, chairman; G. Fox, L. Begley, G. McAvoy, Mrs. T. J. Bateman, Mrs. W. D. Lavender.

Cattle—Gordon Jones, chairman; W. McComb, Leo Brennan.

Horses—Carl Heath, chairman; William Doyle, John Wilkes.

Drawing Contest—John Doyle, chairman; Miss Davidson, Joseph Hulsman.

Poultry—William Coe, chairman; Everett Barrons.

Grains and Vegetables — E. D. O'Connor.

Dairy—Charles Lajoie, chairman; Mrs. Donald Cook.

Finance and Advertising — H. W. Sabine, chairman; V. M. Lynch, W. J. Cottrell.

Ladies' Work — Mrs. T. J. Bateman, superintendent.

Basketball—R. Cook, Mrs. G. Jones, Mrs. Albert Campion.

Nursery Work — Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Michael Shannon, Mrs. C. Lajoie.

Fowers—Mrs. W. D. Lavender, Mrs. G. Fox, Mrs. Maurice McFaul.

Racing—Ross Turley, Frankford, superintendent; Everett Barrons, Mrs. Anderson, Hogarth Sabine.

Ticket Selling—G. Fox, chairman; Louis Hulsman.

Concessions — D. Lavender, chairman; F. R. Wells, Irwin McCoy.

A special committee was chosen to go into the matter of holding a dance in the near future.

The committees were requested to go over last year's prize list and to make any additions and revisions as are deemed necessary and to report at the next meeting which also convenes at the home of the president on Thursday, March 26.

Field Crop Competition

A discussion took place on the field crop competition resulting in the motion that it be left to Irwin McCoy to ascertain its possibilities.

The president is also to endeavor to bring about the formation of a calf club for another year.

The presentation of an Agricultural Service diploma was made to Joseph Hulsman, a vivid memento of the society for many years' standing.

Before engaging in the main business of the meeting the members heard an interesting description of the recent convention of the Ontario Fairs Association held in Toronto, by secretary-treasurer T. J. Bateman, who made mention of agricultural societies in Canada dating back to 1765 and that Marmora fair date back to 1850.

Mrs. T. J. Bateman also spoke briefly on the convention as it related to ladies' work.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

Then Ma phoned Ted one Saturday evening. Rick and Nina were there playing bridge when the man from the trailer camp office knocked on the door. Ma had refused to call back and was holding the line.

When Ted returned to the trailer, he was grimly uncommunicative. Joe was in some sort of trouble, and he had to go at once.

It was 10 before he returned. Rick and Nina had gone and he told Jenny the news. Joe had embezzled $800.

"It's a lucky thing he got caught before he was in any deeper," Ted said.

"But $800!" Jenny cried. "I can't understand how he could have embezzled that much in such a short time."

"He bet on the races. He got in over his head and kept borrowing like they always do, thinking next time he'd get a big winner and pay it back. Only it didn't work out that way, and today his boss wised up."

Jenny's mouth trembled. "Why should you and I shoulder the responsibility for keeping Joe out of jail?"

"He's my brother. That's why. Ma's had a hard enough time all these years trying to raise the kids, and anyway Joe never had much chance to amount to anything. Ma put everything on me, helping me at college and all. I hate it as much as you do, but Ma said——"

"I don't care what Ma said!" Jenny burst out wildly.

"You don't like her, do you?" Now it was Ted who was angry. "All along I been tryin' to tell her how wrong she was about you, how she'd like you if she'd give you half a chance, but maybe I've been wrong. Maybe I can see now you feel about her and that is the reason she permits you to——"

They faced each other furiously. "If I don't like her it's her own fault! I wanted to get along, but you know the reception I got."

"That's not got anything to do with this!" Ted shouted.

"But where are you going to get $800?"

He spoke in a defeated tone now, no longer strident with anger. "I'm hopin' the guy'll cash. I'll have to sell the car. It's the only thing we've got that can be turned into cash."

Ted must hate giving up the car. She remembered his almost childish pride in it when he had bought it last spring.

But the car was the only thing they could turn into immediate cash. It seemed like pouring money down into a rat hole to get Joe out of this jam, for it was probably only the beginning.

Yet, remembering that Joe had been the only one of the Duncans that had shown her the least kindness when she and Ted had been living with them, she hated to demand that Ted refuse to help.

Ted got a good price for the car because it was practically new, but when $800 was deducted, there wasn't much left. Worse than spending the money to get Joe out of the jam, was Ted's sense of divided allegiance which tore him between Ma and Jenny.

Joe left town and Ma was upset about that. If he missed going to see her she phoned the trailer camp, petulantly demanding why. Tod's visits to her dingy foul-smelling little walk-up apartment were anything but pleasant. Ma seemed to keep him disconcerted and riled up.

They quarreled one night, when Ma found out Jenny was going to have a baby, and Ma said a lot of hateful things. And when Tod tried to defend Jenny, she screamed at him, "All right, go ahead, stick up for Jenny. But you don't love her. Sooner or later you'll come to your senses."

He slammed out of the apartment. He walked to the corner in the brisk November air, and the anger gradually died out of him.

How did Ma know? Could Jenny tell too?

He turned his back to the wind and started walking.

The girls at the shop gave a shower for Jenny. Everyone seemed anxious to do anything they could to please her. She had a happy faculty of making friends easily. Already she knew every single family in the trailer camp. And Tod knew scarcely any of them except the Hansens.

It might be all right to chum around with people like that, Tod thought, if you had never known the other kind. But once you'd cultivated a taste for champagne it was a bit hard to stick to nothing but beer. Of course there was always Rick, one of the champagne crowd, you might say. He did things in a broad, handsome way. Once for instance, he brought Jenny a dozen long-stemmed roses in a white box tied with ribbon, because she had invited him to dinner.

Rick invited the two of them to drive home with him to Centreville, 50 miles south, to spend Christmas with him and his mother. Tod thought it a grand idea but Jenny demurred on the sentimental grounds that they should spend their first Christmas alone together. Jenny had a queer sentimental streak in her, Tod thought. For instance, the small blue powder box that Rick had left for her beneath the tree seemed more to her than the expensive robe he himself had bought her. Maybe it was because the powder box played "Rock-a-bye Baby." And all Jenny could seem to think about was the baby.

Jenny found herself depending on Rick in a lot of ways. Sensing her moods, he catered to them, which Tod never tried to do. In January there was an especially heavy snowfall and Jenny mentioned something about what fun it must have been in the old days to go sleigh-riding. The next day there was a wild ringing of bells and the sound of horses' hoofs, and there was Rick with an old sleigh he'd rented from some farmer. He took Jenny and Tod and the Hansens for a hilarious ride.

Tod, watching the way Rick's eyes clung to Jenny's face, knew he ought to be jealous, but he wasn't somehow. All he felt was a vague restlessness.

Jenny was happy these days, and had turned thoroughly domestic. She met with the weekly home economics club of the camp to discuss husbands, babies, new recipes and trailer camp gossip.

February was the worst month, bitterly cold and wet. Tod and Jenny kept pretty well to the trailer. Tod, wading snow across the campus to go to his classes, or to the grocery for Jenny, tried hard not to grumble about this lack of a car, but he fell sullen about it. He was still worried about their financial situation.

Ma kept troubling him with her affairs too. Joe never wrote to her; she didn't even know where he was; and she was having trouble with Harriet. She was always phoning Tod and wanting him to come over. One particularly miserable night in March she insisted that he come across town to her apartment. She was ill alone. Harriet had left for good.

"But ma," Tod explained patiently, "I can't very well come. Jenny's alone and what if she should get sick while I was gone?"

"Yes of course, she comes first." Ma began to weep. Her sobs made little hiccupy noises in the receiver of the phone. "I don't have anyone that cares anything about me now." The desperate note in her words frightened him. He felt in his pocket for a handful of change.

Jenny wanted to point out that she was her only refuge also. But like Ma he was touchy about the tiniest hint of criticism. She let him go. After all, if she needed help she could rouse the Hansens. And anyway, the baby was not due for another week.

Bush Wolves Have Strong Canine Strain

TORONTO (CP)—Many of the animals Southern Ontario residents call bush wolves have a strong canine strain, says Dr. C. H. D. Clarke, supervisor of wildlife management for the Ontario department of lands and forests.

He says that ever since brush wolves entered the province from southern Michigan about 30 years ago they've been breeding with farm dogs. It was most common during the 1920s when the wolves were spreading through husbands near farm settlements.

Male dogs mated with female wolves almost all shades of grey and brown. They grow up in the forests and learn to hunt rabbits, mice, deer and the occasional sheep. They are shy of men, usually hunting in groups of two or three and running away when approached.

Seen Near City

They come close to densely-populated centres with forest cover nearby. Last year brush wolves were seen in Scarborough about three miles from Toronto's city limits and Dr. Clarke says they probably live there all year round.

The brush wolf is usually smaller than the timber wolf, his northern cousin. A full brush wolf weighs 70 pounds while timber wolves—especially in the Sault Ste. Marie and Rainy River sections of the province—may run as high as 110 pounds.

Deer are increasing in Southern Ontario but brush wolves don't seem to be increasing too.

"The wolves don't feed on deer into much," Dr. Clarke said. "Probably they're too hard to catch."

Timber wolves are sometimes seen in Southern Ontario in the Bruce peninsula and northern parts of Simcoe and Peterborough counties.

Saskatoon Mayor Figures Publicity The Best Way

SASKATOON (CP)—Mayor J. S. Mills of Saskatoon has few kind words for what he says is a growing tendency among civic governments to keep public matters secret.

"The more publicity you have the better, as a general rule," Mayor Mills said. "Then you have a better informed electorate and better conduct of public affairs.

"Who should get the news first, the people or their representatives?

"I figure that in most cases the people should get it first. That's my angle on publicity."

Mayor Mills said it seems to be a human weakness that once a person gets into public office, he wants to keep everything quiet.

But I'm absolutely convinced that the people should know about things just as soon as possible in the great majority of cases."

Mayor Mills lists three main reasons why public officials are averse to publicity:

1. They are uncertain or ashamed of their own actions because they are done in opposition to their consciences or for expediency's sake.

2. Some men in public life don't realize the importance of publicity in a democracy. "Unless the voter is fully informed, voting can be a very dangerous thing."

3. Some have a "false dignity" and want to keep information secret for a while before they let the people know about it.

New Tensions Building Up In Riot-Plagued Capital

Austerity Program Most Necessary Says Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Education Minister Dunlop met a delegation of school trustees and representatives of school boards Monday that an austerity program in school building is necessary because of the number of schools which must be built in Ontario within the next few years.

Accommodation will be needed for 54,000 students this year, he said, 51,000 next year and another 50,000 in 1955.

The delegation consisted of Charles Rubie of Ottawa, president of the Ontario Trustees' Council, Harold Wood of Waterloo, vice-president, and P. M. Muir of suburban York, secretary, as well as representatives of school boards in Hamilton, London, Ottawa and Toronto.

The delegation, in a statement after the meeting, said it is impressed with the seriousness of the situation "and would urge trustee boards throughout the province to co-operate with the department."

Two Provinces In West Facing Health Problems

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hospital and medical problems occupied the attention of two provincial legislatures Monday.

In Manitoba, Health and Welfare Minister Paulley announced that the government plans to meet part of the cost of the poliomyelitis epidemic which struck the province recently. Cost is estimated at $125,000 to the end of the present fiscal year, next March 31, and benefits will go to both hospitals and patients.

Two hospitals which carried the heaviest financial load during the outbreak will receive $25,000. Both said the government will continue its policy of paying for the first 21 days of hospital treatment for individuals.

In Alberta, Health Minister W.N. Cross announced an increase ranging from 60 cents to $1.45 a day for 99 hospitals. The increases recommended by the committee which studied hospital costs, are effective April 1. The new rates range from $6.70 a day to $28.95 compared to the old range of $5.10 to $7.50.

The annual budget is being brought down in the Saskatchewan house Wednesday, and it is expected to be more than $70,000,000. Hon. C. M. Fines, provincial treasurer, said in a recent interview there was no chance of tax reductions.

$50,000 Fire Loss

ORONO (CP)—Orono Wood Products, the only large industry in this community 15 miles east of Oshawa, was destroyed by fire Monday night. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Two workmen fled in safety from the plant, which manufactures chair parts and flooring, when fire broke out. The Orono volunteer fire department fought the flames with water from a nearby creek.

The fire spread rapidly through the three-storey structure and shot 60 feet in the air.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: An area of low pressure has moved late Windsor over night as warm air from the southwest began moving back into Ontario. No significant amount of precipitation is expected, however, until late tonight when rain will be much of the lower lakes district. Through Northern and Eastern Ontario intermittent snow and freezing drizzle will complete the weather picture for Wednesday.

By WILTON WYNN

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—New tensions built up in riot - plagued Tehran today as fanatic Moslem leader Ayatollah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani ordered his followers to boycott a Parliament meeting at which Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was expected to demand a vote of confidence.

The capital appeared relatively calm after the weekend of street fighting, with only scattered Communist demonstrations, but the Red-front "National Organization to Combat Imperialism" called a mass rally in the Majlis (parliament) Square this afternoon.

New Police Chief

Kashani, Parliament Speaker and in recent months on the outs with the premier, issued his boycott order after the new Mossadegh-appointed army chief of staff installed a new chief of the guard at the Majlis building. Kashani considers the guard his own deputies with out proper protection.

Though heavily-armed guards today lined the Majlis buildings, only a bloc of 28 Mossadegh supporters gathered for the session. Saturday night—Kashani's order prevented a quorum and by noon no meeting had been held.

The premier had been expected to demand the strongest vote in his re-establish his position after the week - end demonstrations. These broke out after it appeared that Mossadegh might force 33-year-old Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi to leave the country. The Shah cancelled his trip after the rioting started.

Support For Premier

The pro-Shah demonstrators were largely replaced Monday by crowds cheering for the premier. In a broadcast Monday night, Mossadegh urged the Iranians to call off "this period of holiday" and get back to work. "If the need comes, I shall report to you and ask your assistance," he added.

The Communist Tudeh party, however, still was free to whip up trouble. Slogan - shouting Tudeh demonstrators today forced demonstrations" through the city but each time scattered before police arrived on the scene.

Communists marched through the main Pahlevi thoroughfare "Yankee go home" and "Down with the American spies."

(Reuters reported that Premier Mossadegh was pressing a roundup of Red leaders. Arrests of the Red leaders were among those gathered by Mossadegh's police secret. Authorities also rounded up opposition politicians and army officers, including three generals revealed anti-Mossadegh sentiments during three days of rioting and demonstrations.)

Hope Won't Appear

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition won't have comedian Red Skelton as star of the grandstand show this summer. It was announced Monday that his price was too high.

Officials who also tried to get George Jessel for the grandstand show, said the English comedian won't be available.

The 1953 exhibition will have a skating show, Holiday on Ice, as a new attraction.

BLAST USE OF EDIBLE OILS AS SUBSTITUTES

Liberals Say Bill Does Not Go Far Enough

TORONTO (CP)—Use of edible oils as substitutes for paint products came under fire in the Ontario Legislature Monday.

G. E. MacClinchy, a lawyer who is Progressive Conservative member for the farming constituency of Leeds, urged support for a government measure which would give the cabinet power to ban by order-in-council manufacture and sale of "all edible oil products except margarine.

The measure was introduced last week by Agriculture Minister Thomas as an amendment to the Edible Oils Act enacted at the 1952 session of the legislature and never proclaimed in law. The 1952 measure required edible oil manufacturers to indicate clearly on labels and in advertising that their products were dairy substitutes.

Will Oppose Amendment

There are indications that the Liberal opposition will oppose the Progressive Conservative government's amendment, but only on the grounds that it doesn't go far enough. The opposition has by parliament Farquhar Oliver, is expected to demand that the ban on edible oils be set out specifically in the legislation itself and not left to the discretion of the cabinet.

Army Will Get Five Horses From Mounties

OTTAWA (CP)—The army has become so enchanted that it could apply to the RCMP to get five horses.

An army official disclosed Monday that the RCMP has agreed to pick over the force's black beauties to Canadian officers who will ride them in the Queen's Coronation procession in London June 2.

"We just haven't any suitable horses of our own," the official said, "in fact I don't know if we have any at all."

One of them will be mounted by Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, wartime army commander overseas and special aide-de-camp to Queen, and the others by four Canadian Army officers forming the Canadian Commonwealth Coronation escort.

Shipped to London

The five will be among the 46 the RCMP is shipping to London for the Coronation. Thirty-five will be shipped by sea for Canada's Mounties during the procession and the remainder will "perform" functions which may be given during the Coronation ceremonies. The rest of the horses will be used as spares.

The highly-trained steeds are veteran travellers. They've been to many points in the United States on "musical ride" jaunts.

This is the first time RCMP horses are to be shipped to London since the 1937 coronation ceremonies when Commissioner Sir Bingham of the Mounties' adjutant branch.

Uncompromising Stands Taken By Soviet, American Delegates Rule Out UN Action on Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— World diplomacy Wednesday viewed chances for any new action on Korea in the current UN session after hearing the uncompromising stands pronounced by both the Soviet Union and the United States.

Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia lined up behind at the new Republican administration Monday. He told the general assembly's political committee once again that the only way to stop the fighting in Korea was to accept his own formula for peace —a formula already rejected by an overwhelming majority in the UN.

Delegates Weary

Aside from Vishinsky's blasts at the Eisenhower administration, which he accused of merely "borrowing from the Truman-Acheson book" weary delegates found nothing new in the Russian's speech for which they had waited tensely after suspending three committee meetings.

The adamant stand—and the announcement earlier by chief U.S. delegate John Cabot Lodge, that the UN Allies would not budge from their demands for an "honorable armistice"—left the UN isolated a continuing deadlock on the question during the rest of this year's assembly session.

No delegate has shown any inclination of offering any new proposal for ending the deadlock other than one of the stalled Panmunjom truce talks.

Vishinsky hinted he may reintroduce at a later session his Korean aid proposal—rejected during the first half of this session—which last fall—calling for an immediate cease-fire and an international conference on the question of prisoners of war, simplification of Korea and other Far Eastern problems.

Few Speakers

Other delegations still showed reluctance to take the floor after they heard Vishinsky's uncompromising stand. None asked to speak this morning, and committee president Jose Carlos Muniz put off resumption of the debate until this afternoon.

In his sweeping attack on the new U.S. administration's foreign policies, Vishinsky charged that the Americans—and not the Russians as Lodge and Wadsworth charged—are forging and waged the war in the Far East and were planning to use Asians as "cannon fodder."

The Russian's speech was his personal answer to the U.S. indictment in which Lodge,-in his first major address last week in the UN, accused Russia of supplying armaments to the Chinese Reds and North Koreans. Lodge said the Russians could end the war in Korea if they wanted to.

States Oil Charges

Vishinsky repeated old charges that the South Koreans started the war and that the United States and their Allies had rejected every effort by the Soviet Union to bring about an immediate cease-fire because that would end the profits of U.S. arms manufacturers.

He acknowledged that the Russian bloc had sold arms and military arms to Communist China, as Lodge charged, but said this was the extent of the Soviet-Chinese mutual friendship treaty. He declared that the American charge that Russia now is supplying arms to the North Koreans.

Giant Snake Snatches Baby From Its Mother's Arms; Beaten Off by Fire Brand

DARWIN, Australia (Reuters)— A farmer battled a 16-foot python, reptile king of the North Australian jungles, with a piece of fire wood as it slithered away with the baby's limp daughter gripped in its fangs.

A government farm inspector reached here with word of the 18-month-old baby's death.

He said the farmer, Alex Scott, beat the giant snake into retreat and it dropped the child. The 18-month-old Kathleen, the child was named, died soon.

The snake moved noiselessly from the fringe of the jungle shirted the farm and raised its head above the tallboard of the back of the truck.

With a lightning' dart, it flicked the infant from its mother's arms and with equally forward the underbrush. Mrs. Scott's screams aroused her husband.

Child Dropped

He found a flaming branch from the campfire and attacked the python. It dropped the child and it escaped into the bush. It apparently dazed by the flames. It turned and darted into the bush.

Pythons are common through most of the Australian north and used size though they have been reported as large as 40 feet. It kills its prey by coiling like a boa constrictor, crushing the victims in its powerful body then swallowing it whole.

Thousands Daily Is Mounting Cost Of Grain Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pickets still patrol five grain elevators in Vancouver and the mounting cost of the strike of 250 grain handlers mounts by thousands of dollars daily.

Twelve ships are idle and so far there have been no reports of a possible settlement of the strike.

The grain handlers, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway (CIO), went on strike Feb. 16 to back up demands for 12½-cent increase over their present wage of $1.35 an hour.

Owners of the idle ships estimate costs at between $1,000 and $1,200 a day. The elevators are losing $500 that the railway, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific, and the elevator companies are losing $500,000 a week.

Seven ships are at anchor in midstream and their owners are paying upwards of $1,000 a day in wages. Cost of general upkeep, feeding the complement, heating and other costs. Some ships tied up at docks are paying another $150 a day berthing charges.

Six Persons Perish In N.Y. Factory Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—At least six persons—five of them women—perished in a lightning-quick fire that destroyed a Revere Knit-Jacket factory today. Firemen said "there may be more lost of life."

Labor Congress Criticizes Tax Policies in Brief

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal tax policies were criticized briefly by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in a 12,000-word brief submission to the cabinet.

The $25,000 - member congress also presented a series of requests for such moves as an immediate national health insurance program, easier financing for home construction, renewal of rent controls and tighter restrictions dealing specifically with labor.

The 12,000-word brief was delivered by Congress president Claude Jodoin and other members of the TLC executive to a cabinet group headed by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

On taxation, the congress expressed disappointment with some aspects of Finance Minister Abbott's budget speech, which it said is "considerable reorientation" in tax policy.

It said personal income tax exemptions should be lifted to $3,000 for married persons, $1,500 persons and to $1,500 from $1,000 for single persons; that family allowance payments be increased $5 a month and an exemption of $400 be allowed for each child.

ESCAPEE, TRUCK WRECKED

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Although his panel truck was wrecked, Isaac Wrigglesworth, 56, RR 1, Otterville, escaped with only a bruised knee when the truck was struck by a Canadian National Railways train a mile east of Norwich Monday night. Provincial police said the driver started across the tracks, saw the train and swerved.

GOVT. CHALLENGED TO GO TO POLLS ON NEW BUDGET

C.C.F. Member Critical Of New Taxation

OTTAWA (CP) — An outspoken CCF member whose speeches sometimes get him into hot water with his own party has challenged the Liberal government to put the 1953 budget before the people.

The challenge was issued in the Commons Monday by Ross Thatcher, 36-year-old Moose Jaw, Sask., hardware merchant. He said that the Liberal government is "encumbered by deadwood and hangers-on", that it lacks initiative to meet "overtaxation" and has embarked on waste and extravagance which reaches "scandalous proportions."

He added:

"I think the only honorable course for the government to take is to resign without delay; by that I mean by noon next next August or September, but to resign this week.

Would Welcome Chance Claim

"I challenge the Liberal party to go to the people with this budget as an issue. I say that the people of Canada will welcome the opportunity to show their dissatisfaction with it."

George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) interjected that he doubted Thatcher if he was speaking for his party.

"I would not be surprised if I were," replied Mr. Thatcher.

The Conservative member have got him into difficulty with M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, for what Mr. Coldwell called spanked Mr. Thatcher for saying social security privileges should be cut so taxes could be cut.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair stepped into the fray. He retelled that last year Mr. Thatcher had charged the government was blocking corporations while. He wanted to know what the House and member thought of reductions in the budget.

Mr. Thatcher made no direct reply.

Mr. Sinclair said it now is apparent Mr. Thatcher has reverted to the CCF party line. But it would be interesting to see how Mr. Thatcher voted on the CCF motion of non-confidence in the government which was "critical" of the corporation tax reductions.

Mr. Sinclair said he hoped "on this occasion he will not go fishing and miss the vote."

Mr. Thatcher interjected that there has been no corporation policy on his part. He had merely mentioned that corporation and income tax cuts across the board if it would meet the problem of waste and extravagance. Dalton and Sons.

$93,000 Damage In Kingston Fire

KINGSTON (CP)—Fire caused a total estimated damage of $93,000 today to the downtown hardware establishment of R. Dalton and Sons.

Damage to the building was estimated at $18,000 and to the contents at $75,000.

Firemen fought the blaze, which threatened the downtown business section, for three hours before bringing it under control. The warehouse contained thousands of dollars worth of ammunition and a room full of ammunition. Firemen were able to remove the latter before it reached the paint or ammunition.

The fire it believed to have started on the second storey.

Tim Buck Is Mere Figurehead, Trio 'Real' Leaders, Says Walsh

QUEBEC (CP) — Pat Walsh, born Quebec union organizer who resigned last week from a number of Communist-front organizations, Monday named Tim Buck, leader of the Labor - Progressive (Communist) party, "as only a figurehead" and said the real leaders are the LPP-ers.

Walsh said, are Joseph B. Salsberg LPP member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto St. Andrew, Stanley B. Ryerson, Toronto, and Harvey Murphy, Vancouver.

Walsh, 37, was replying to a statement by Buck, who described as a "fabrication" the Quebecer's charge that Buck had ordered Canadian Communists to blow up hydro-electric plants and

CPA Jet Liner Crashes In East, Eleven Killed

Meets Disaster at Karachi Making Inaugural Flight

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Canada's first Comet jet airliner crashed and burned on a takeoff from Karachi airport early today, killing its crew of five Canadians and six aircraft technicians. There were no survivors.

All the bodies were burned beyond recognition. The fire made their recovery from the scattered wreckage difficult.

The sleek, new Comet—powered by four Rolls-Royce Avon jet engines—had left London Monday on its way to Honolulu for delivery to Canadian Pacific Airlines.

It had aboard five top technicians of the de Havilland Aircraft Company—British builders of the Comet —an instrument expert from Australia and a veteran CPA crew.

Stopped to Refuel

The silvery airliner stopped at Karachi at 2.35 p.m. to refuel and for a flight from Beirut, Syria, and was heading on to Singapore and Hong Kong when it crashed up.

From the fire marks jin the runway it appeared that the plane had not left the ground on its ill-fated flight. It hit the end of the runway, slid sliced through a barbed wire fence around the airfield, hit a culvert and crashed into a ditch, bursting into flames. The wreckage was still burning hours after the crash. Only one body had been extricated from the smoldering wreckage by 8 a.m.

The dead Canadians were: Capt. Charles N. Pedlesden, pilot of Cloverdale, B.C.; Capt. C. North Steele, co-pilot, Vancouver; R. J. Cook, radio navigator, Vancouver; James A. Smith, chief mechanic, Vancouver, and D. D. Boy, Vancouver.

Pedlesden, a veteran flier, headed CPA's division of overseas flights and Capt. Sawle was chief CPA overseas pilot.

Sawle, one of Alberta's first bush pilots, was born in Athabasca and educated in Edmonton. He joined CPA in 1942.

Technical Staff

The Britons working for de Havilland were: D. H. Edwards, chief liaison engineer; A. E. Russell, chief service engineer; B. Reese, flight engineer; D. Marsh-Jupp, field service, and John Wilson, engine company field service.

Managing director of H. H. Gardner, representing Smiths instruments.

Pakistan's civil aviation authority ordered an inquiry into the crash and Canadian high commissioner Kenneth P. Kirkwood to send a representative.

Special Robes To be Worn At Ceremonials

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa city council announced Monday night it has decided to garb itself in ceremonial finery for special occasions.

It confirmed a decision taken at a secret caucus Feb. 16 to order special robes from a London firm, robe makers to the Royal Family.

The mayor will be in red, councillors in maroon and aldermen in dark blue.

Mayor Charlotte Whitton will wear her costume as the city's representative at the Coronation in June. It will be red silk with minivver fur facings and cuffs, black satin and gold lace trim and a lace necktpiece. The ensemble will be completed with a new tricorne hat and her present civic chain of office.

Controllers are to be decked out in maroon robes trimmed with gold lace and a cockade hat with a gold button. Aldermen will have the same hats, but with blue velvet-faced robes.

Queen Mary Ill For Past Week

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mary has been ill for a week, it was announced Monday night.

This news came as Britons were busily engaged in preparations for the Coronation June 2. Because of the illness, Queen Mary does not plan to attend the ceremony at Westminster Abbey. She is 85.

Marlborough House, Queen Mary's residence, said she had been confined to bed for the last week by recurrence of a gastric trouble.

She had not taken her usual motor car drives about London for two weeks. No other details of her illness were given.

To Build Plant

SARNIA (CP) — Details of a multi-million dollar plan for construction of a sewage disposal plant and expansion and extension of trunk and lateral sewer systems were placed before city council Monday night.

The 150-page report, compiled by James F. McClaren Associates, consulting engineers, was referred by council to city manager E. Stanley Colter for exhaustive study.

ALD. H. J. CLARKE MISSES FIRST MEETING IN 13 YRS.

After 13 years as member of Belleville city council, Alderman H. J. Clarke has missed a meeting.

Yesterday during the regular meeting of council the chair which Alderman Clarke had occupied for the past 13 years was vacant.

But it wasn't a visit out of town or personal business which kept the dean of city aldermen away from the council meeting. He was confined to his home through illness.

Council directed that a letter of sympathy expressing hope for a rapid recovery be forwarded to the ailing alderman.

THREE ARRAIGNED FOR THEFT REMANDED

Three members of the RCAF at Trenton charged with auto theft appeared in magistrate's court before Magistrate C. C. Jackson and were remanded for one week.

The three men, Harold Kerry, 20; Christ'er Christoferson, 21, and Robert Stevenson, with Edward Gay were arrested by Brighton provincial police early Saturday morning after the time they were driving overturned on a concession road. The car was said to have been stolen in Belleville. All four were charged with car theft but Gay is still in Trenton hospital, where he was taken after being pinned beneath the car.

Council Back Where It Started With Respect to Zoning Of Section of North Front St.

Unless the present commercial area in downtown Belleville is given room to expand along with the normal growth of the city, it may some day find itself playing a secondary role to the outside shopping area that might be developed some time in the future.

This was the warning given to members of the city council at their regular meeting Monday after-noon by William Wills, local hardware merchant, who pointed out that under the proposed rezoning by-law the commercial area was far too small.

Speaking as a retailer he said it was imperative that the area for commercial development should be increased on the proposed zoning plan as no provision had been provided for expansion.

Only Direction North Clear.

This would grant against an outside shopping area being set up which could some day dominate the present commercial area and force it to play a secondary role. In his opinion there was only direction which the present commercial area could expand and that was to the north and that would also be a main arterial road leading to the new four-lane highway.

Alderman Victor Keegan as chairman of the planning committee explained that the zoning line when he later introduced a recommendation would be that the North Front Street area to be changed from "B" classification to "C".

He stressed that residential property in the area is not attracting top great a load in taxation as compared to commercial and industrial properties. Unless the commercial and industrial areas are allowed to grow this unbalance would be increased.

Lengthy Discussion

First, however, council went into a lengthy discussion on a petition for rezoning recommendation that there be no change in the "B" classification for the North Front street area from the Moira to Harriet streets. This petition was then considered in discussion in council following a request from the owners for a permit to build a service station.

Alderman Keegan asked that the recommendation calling for the change in the "B" classification be withdrawn as since the petition had been signed by residents of the area had apparently changed their minds about whether it was a strictly residential area.

Alderman Wills pointed out that if North Front street was to be a main artery leading to the new four-lane highway, the area should be commercial on both sides. It was the logical district for extension of the commercial area.

Urged Not to be Hasty

Mayor A. M. Haig urged that council should not be hasty in deciding the matter. He said it would make a tremendous difference in planning whether North Front street was a main artery going to the new highway or was to be a side artery leading to the new highway with no residential property, he pointed out.

Asks for Layover

He suggested the matter be laid over until the next council time council could contact highway department officials and determine whether a clover leaf could be constructed on the Foxboro Road when the new highway was built.

Alderman Avery took the attitude that the Front Street business area was congested and had to expand somewhere.

"I don't like to see a commercial area being shoved down people's throats but just where can the commercial area expand" he asked. "Already on Front street, stores are being divided and subdivided with power, there are three stores, where there should be only one."

Alderman Keegan then approved of the area in question being commercial as did Alderman Reginald Hyde.

"We are just discussing around the point," declared Alderman Wilbur Coumbyman. He referred to an existing by-law which prohibited gasoline storage in any section of the city unless approved by council.

"If that by-law stands permission could not still have to be secured before a service station could be erected in the North Front Street area."

Legal Opinion Given

City Solicitor R. A. Pringle said in his opinion the by-law referred to covered only bulk storage of gasoline. He did not think that gasoline service stations came under this heading.

The recommendation by Ald. Tice calling for laying the matter over until council could learn regarding the clover leaf could be secured, and the by-law passed before the amendment was voted on, however, people in the audience were then asked to express their views.

The original recommendation calling for no change from "B" classification was again passed over council's head and another amendment calling for the area to be changed from "B" classification. This would permit various types of business but would not allow service stations.

The amendment was defeated, by 8 to 4 on a show of hands.

Again the original recommendation was put before council. Seven members voted it was defeated.

Result: Council was right back where it started.

Created New District

Council did agree to creating a new land-use district to extend to the east of the old county home on Dundas street. This area was changed from "A-1" classification to "A-1" classification, thus permitting erection of apartment houses. The area was not defined.

Council also approved of a recommendation that there be no change in the present "B" classification from the Moira to Harriet districts. Council had received an application for a permit to erect a gasoline service station in this area.

Approving the recommendation were Mayor A. M. Haig and Aldermen Argue, Bell, Coumbyman, Duffy, G. Hyde, Keegan, Reid, Temple and Tice. Opposing were Aldermen Chas. Hyde, McDevin, Smith and Thomas.

Bible Sunday Set at Meeting Ministerial Assoc.

The monthly meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association was held Monday morning in Bridge Street United Church Parlors. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. L. Ellis.

A book review, entitled "A Covenant Manifesto" was masterfully presented by Rev. A. Page. The paper introduced a lengthy discussion on the subject.

Canon J. B. Creegan, chairman of the local branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, announced that Bible Society Sunday would be observed this year on May 24, with special programs in attendance at as many of the church services as possible. The local society is also urging increased support of the Bible Society.

Excerpts of a letter from Houghton College, Houghton, N.Y., were read by the secretary, Rev. James S. Allen, man, in which it was stated that Mr. Wm. Hall, an accomplished soloist, having won the Voice of Tomorrow contest, sponsored by the Theatre of the Evening Air, would be present to sing and direct at the sacred concert to be held on March 29 at Holloway Street United Church.

It was unanimously agreed by the Association that Rev. Wm. Barrie, who is holding a preaching mission in Belleville, March 16th to 29th, be the opportunity of speaking on morning devotions that week over CJBC.

Rev. Keith Daniel reported that to date there was every evidence, from registrations received, of an excellent representation from the churches at the Leadership Training School, to be held March 8-13, at Bridge St. United Church.

The president, Rev. Sidney E. Larman, closed the meeting with prayer.

Sir Andrew Jones at Rotary Explains UK Africa Policies

Speaking at the Rotary meeting held in the Hotel Quinte, Monday, Sir Andrew Jones expressed views of the British Colonial Secretary in Canada, vehemently denied the terrible "American" allegations of British exploitation in the African colonies.

"Not one penny," Sir Andrew stated, "has the British government taken from Africa in trade. All revenue realized there has been put back into the country's development in an effort to hasten the day when Africa shall be self-governing. Not only has the revenue been put back, but through the Colonial Welfare Development Fund, instituted in 1943 by Britain, the colonies have received financial assistance. In other words," the speaker said, "literally millions of dollars have been poured into Africa's development as a free gift from the people of Great Britain.

Attributes Trouble to Veterans

Sir Andrew returned from Africa in 1949 and after spending 30 years in the colonies of West Africa with the British administration. He attributed the trouble that set much of the trouble in Africa to the returning soldiers after the war. "Perhaps events moved somewhat more quickly than the British government desired," he said, "resulting in the conditions. But we are winning the esteem of the people by our determination to help them in a great deal to be proud of when you realize what has been accomplished in the last three or four short years."

In honor of the speaker, J. W. Deacon sang, "Rule Britannia" earlier in the meeting. Britain's cause was presented to the Reverend Ralph Middleton and Rotarian Jackson Gourlay by Mr. Guire.

The speaker was introduced by Judge J. C. Anderson and the vote of thanks was extended by Lee Grills.

IN MEMORIAM

ANNIS. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away March 1, 1951.
Sweet memories linger round her grave,
Like every day, I dream of you.
And dwell in His memory fondly,
Great love sweet memories of you.
Deeply missed and sadly mourned by James, and daughters. M3

COLLINS. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away March 3rd, 1952.
We long for you more each day,
We miss you more as the years go by,
Since you were taken away
From those who love you so dearly.
Our eyes shed many a tear,
Our hearts are sore with pain.
As the clock the seventh and year,
Resting in peace, we remember
Those we love, but see no more.
Remembered by Herb, son Ralph and daughter-in-law Helen. M3

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were raised in busy forenoon stock market trading today.

Low-priced mining issues and a fairly wide list of western oils continued to move actively and volume for the first hour totalled 1,293,000 shares. Changes in the exchange index were smaller than half a point.

Among uraniums, Gunnar added a fraction and Nesbitt-Labbie and Chimo gained but Goldfields receded. New Larder U, a Bathurst area lead-zinc, added pennies in active trading. Inspiration gained 50 cents in a turnover of 75,000 shares.

Western oils weakened on a series of sales after Monday's gains. Anglo-Canadian, Ballcy - Selburn and Trans - Empire traded lower.

Utilities were strong in industrials and papers, foods and construction gained. Miscellaneous issues were mixed. Senior golds and junior producers slipped but higher-priced base metals gained.

Oswald H. Scott Declared Holder Of Fuller Award

Oswald H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities, has been awarded the Fuller Award by the American Waterworks Association for meritorious service in the waterworks field, it was learned in the city yesterday.

Notification of the award was received by Mr. Scott from Dr. A. E. Berry, director of the division of sanitary engineers, for the Ontario Department of Health. The award will be officially presented to Mr. Scott at the annual convention of the American Waterworks Association to be held at Grand Rapids, Michigan, in May.

The Fuller Award is one of the senior awards given by the Association and is a distinct honor to Mr. Scott and to Belleville.

Obituary

THOMAS A. HINCHLIFFE

Stricken as he entered the door of the Neighborhood Workers' Association, where he was to join a group of elderly people at lunch, Thomas Allen Hinchliffe, 87, collapsed and died from a heart attack. A resident of Toronto for the past 14 years, he was a member of Bloor United Church and the church's Senior Men's Club, the Hard of Hearing Club, the Second Mile Club and the Exercise Club for the Blind. Mr. Hinchliffe was born in Hastings County, where he was one time owner of a general store. Later he farmed near Belleville. He leaves two daughters, Frances Hinchliffe and Mrs. E. K. Hubble, and two sons, Raymond and Charles. Two sons, predeceased him, Roy, who was killed at Vimy Ridge in the First World War and Herbert Hinchliffe, who died in 1920.

The late Mr. Hinchliffe was well-known throughout the Belleville district, having been a resident with his family of the third concession of Sidney township for over twenty years, and a faithful member of Aikens' United Church before going to Toronto to reside with his daughter, Miss Frances Hinchliffe.

The funeral services at the Bellerville Macaleon on Monday, February 23, were attended by many sorrowing relatives, friends and neighbors from the local area, and also from districts where he had previously lived.

The beautiful floral tributes bore mute testimony of the love and respect for the deceased, held by all who knew him.

The bearers were Carmen Grills, Selburn Westover, Fred Westover, farmer neighbors, and his three grandsons, Donald Hubble, B.A. Sc., of Kingston; Burton Hubble, 3rd of Sidney and Harley Hubble, Toronto.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter point prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm and prices were steady. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 50; A medium 46; A small 47; grade B 41; grade C 34. Wholesale to retail: A large 54-55; A medium 52-53; A small 51; grade B 46; grade C 43.

Butter prices: First grade 62; no prices established on other grades.

Complaints Heard By Residents At Council Meeting

Complaints were in order at city council Monday when several residents voiced their disapproval of certain existing conditions.

George DeVuyst, West Bridge street restaurant owner, complained of the dirty condition of his street which saw columns of dust raised every time a highway transport passed.

He pointed out that sand spread on West Bridge street hill during icy periods was washed down by following rains and with the absence of snow ultimately turned into dust. He wanted to know why the street sweeper was not being used to keep the streets in a cleaner condition.

He also urged that the former garbage dump property east of the Bay Bridge Road be secured by the city and retained as park property. He was informed by Alderman Keegan that patent rights for the property had been applied for and council was awaiting an answer from the Federal department.

Another complaint was received, and this by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kellaway and Mr. DeVuyst, pointing out the unfairness in service stations being granted no parking rights for an entire corner, while other merchants were unable to park in front of their own properties.

Mayor Haig assured there had been no intention of discrimination and if there had been it was done unconsciously. He assured the complaints would be outdistributed by the appropriate committees.

Police Baffled By Bloody Shirt Of Mystery Man

Trenton (Special) — A blood-stained shirt, a cigaret box containing $276 and a man who admits to being in "awful trouble" baffled Trenton police today.

The man, whose unemployment card lists as John Eyre, of Toronto, is being held in custody pending a check with the R.C.M.P. at Ottawa. He is described as 35 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He is "fairly well dressed."

According to police, Eyre approached Constable Eugene Healy on the street Monday night and informed the officer of his "awful trouble." The officer escorted him to the police station where he was questioned at length by Chief Constable Jack Taylor.

Eyre stated that he had been working in Winnipeg, but had travelled through to Toronto via North Bay. He was on his way to Kingston by bus but when he stopped at Trenton. As yet, he has not defined the "awful trouble."

A search of the man produced the cigaret box containing the money, while his suitcase yielded the bloody shirt. The shirt, police said, may have acquired the bloodstains as Eyre had cut his hand recently.

C of C Manager Resigns Office

TRENTON (Special) — The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce announced that the resignation of manager-secretary Ezra William Smith, had been received and accepted, effective as of Saturday, February 28.

The former manager came to Trenton from Brockville three years ago, becoming the first full time employee for the Trenton businessmen. Directors called an emergent meeting last night to discuss filling the vacancy.

A fire hydrant is a very solid fixture as Roydon James, of 3 Division Street, Concesso, learned much to his sorrow.

Driver James was steering his car around a corner from Division Street, off Dundas St. West, when apparently his judgment failed momentarily and the left front fender of the machine struck the hydrant causing damage to the car of $45, while the hydrant remained in place undamaged.

TURN DOWN FLUORINE

TORONTO (CP)—A proposal that Toronto's drinking water be fluoridated as a means of checking tooth decay was turned down Monday by city council, the board of health recommendation can be discussed again later in budget debate.

No Envoy Considered

OTTAWA (CP)—Dana Wilgress said Monday Canada's decision to elevate her representation in Spain has nothing to do with western defence and certainly doesn't imply approval of the Franco government.

The undersecretary of state for external affairs testified before the Commons committee on external affairs that the decision to send an ambassador to Madrid was mainly based on a desire "to round out our representation in Western Europe."

He said no consideration is being given to sending an envoy to the Vatican.

IT IS STILL "DOMINION"

Despite the determination in Ottawa to see that it will be otherwise, this country is not likely to be known as the Dominion of Canada for a long time to come. It is a fact of course that certain steps have been taken formally in Parliament to drop the "Dominion" completely but its use persists and, to be sure, with the approval of a great many Canadians.

Public speakers use it almost as commonly as they always did, and of course it appears almost as frequently in newspaper writing. In short, "this dominion" is still synonymous with "Canada" or "this country", "this nation". Indeed it is only in certain specific instances that its use had been dropped officially. As a result, the Ottawa Citizen has noted a complaint from a Canadian, Howard Thomas, to the effect that while recently visiting in London he was given a document upon which was printed the title Dominion of Canada. Mr. Thomas protested to the Citizen in these words, "We are a constituent country called Canada—isn't this the purpose of the Royal Titles Act recently approved?"

The fact that the title Dominion is still in popular use is in no way attributable to the persistence of Mr. Eugene Forsey, Q.C., of Ottawa, who is one of Canada's foremost authorities on the constitution. He has persistently taken issue with the present law in every step of its campaign to drop the word from official language. It was to be expected that he would rise to meet the complaint in the Citizen.

We think that Mr. Forsey's answer should be noted by all Canadians and it would be well if it found a place in any school textbooks which might be used recently to conform with any of the formal changes in the last few years. Mr. Forsey states:

"Mr. Thomas had better keep away from the Parliament Buildings and then he'll find 'Dominion of Canada' not on a paper but in stone; cut deep into the central column of the Hall of Fame. He'd better not read the British North America Act 1867 (now the Canada Act 1867) as a statutes, Orders-in-Council, Letters Patent and Instructions; for there he'll find 'Dominion of Canada' 173 times; and 'Dominion' by itself or some other form 'Dominion 319 times; and all through the years from 1868 to 1948.

"He'd better avert his eyes from the first 80 years of our history after Confederation, for they are full of examples of any consequence said 'Dominion' and 'Dominion of Canada' all the time. It's only in the last five or six years that the Government has been trying to rage for the Yankee-derived official vocabulary by putting the American 'federal' in place of our own, native, Canadian 'Dominion'.

"Of course we're a 'constitutional monarchy called Canada'. We always have been. The B.N.A. Act of 1867 says so: 'One Dominion under the Crown of the United Kingdom, with a Constitution similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom', one Dominion under the name of Canada'. What does Mr. Thomas think 'Dominion' means? The Fathers of Confederation thought it meant 'Kingdom'. They expressly asked Queen Victoria to call us 'the Dominion of Canada' (italics in the original), 'a new title; but intended on their part as a trifling concession to the principle which they constantly desire to uphold' (Carnarvon to the Queen, February 7, 1867).

"'Dominion of Canada' is what we asked to be called; 'Dominion of Canada' is what Queen Victoria agreed to call us; 'Dominion of Canada' is what a whole series of constitutional enactments for 80 years did call us; 'Dominion of Canada' is what the Statute of Westminster still calls us. Until those enactments are repealed or amended, 'Dominion of Canada' is what we are. Neither the Canadian Broadcaster Group, nor the clever young men in the black Homburg hats, nor even the Dominion cabinet, can repeal or amend Acts of Parliament.

"The Royal Style and Titles Act hasn't changed the situation one iota. It has altered the Queen's title; it doesn't even mention the title of this country."

OLDSTERS STILL GOING STRONG

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent was 71 in February. An Ottawa correspondent remarks that he is in good health and mentally alert, and "no one here thinks of him as an old man, perhaps, some of the younger members of Parliament, and even they must be wondering if their chances aren't another five to ten years off."

The prime minister's birthday drew attention to the fact that while the head of the government is over 70, the government says that a man or woman of 65 or 70 is too old for the Civil Service. There are 127,000 federal government employees (not including the armed services) but only 1,085 are 70 or over, according to new Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures.

Canadians undoubtedly have a better record of keeping their aging employees on the job, probably because many of them do not have pension plans. There are a total of 67,754 persons employed in municipal governments and 1,231 are 70 and over. The provinces have 26,105 employees and 707 of them are over 70.

Health Minister Martin recently noted some figures in respect to increased life expectancy. At the height of the Roman Empire, life expectancy was 23 years. By 1850 it had increased in the United States to 40 years. In the last half century life expectancy in Canada had increased another 20 years.

In other words, the chances of living to a useful, ripe old age have improved nearly as much since 1900 as in all the preceding 19 centuries.

JUST FOLKS

TIMES I LIKE THE BEST

Times I like the best are those
When a few old tried and true
Friends will know you through and through
Gather round in working clothes
Without fussing, sham or show
Just to rest and play awhile.

Hearts at ease and minds content
No one here proud and great,
No one dressed beyond his state,
Nor too set in argument
That his temper he will lose
If you differ from his views.

Just a few who come to play,
Some to joke and some to sing
And all will fairly ring.
How the minutes slip away
When you're loving people so
Oh, how soon they have to go.

Give me six or eight old friends
With whom I can when day is done,
Full of mirth and honest fun,
And when that occasion's met
I'll declare with joy sublime
That I've had a real time.

OFF THE RECORD

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 2, 1933.

Mr. A. E. Peck is visiting friends in Montreal.

The Rev. C. A. Sales has resumed his duties at West Huntingdon after spending some time in England.

Mrs. Ed. Nickell has presented the Army and Navy Veterans with a new Union Jack to fly from the staff on Memorial Hall. His gift is much appreciated.

Bleecker Avenue has been made a through street from Pine street to Bridge street.

The Campbell mill on Dundas way street is apparently not known by many motorists and signs are being placed to warn motorists that such is the case.

Eighty-six years ago today, March 3rd, 1847, Alexander Graham Bell was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. Twenty-seven years later at Tutela Heights, Brantford, he invented the telephone.

Mr. Claude Spalding has been appointed district manager for the Superfest Petroleum Corporation with offices in this city.

32 YEARS AGO

March 2, 1921.

City workmen are today cutting the ice around the piers at the upper bridge as a precaution against an ice blockade.

A Kiwanis Club has been formed in Belleville. At a meeting at which Harry Lorimer, the Field Rep. presided was present the details of organization were arranged. Jack O'Brien was appointed secretary pro tem and Harold Wooten will act as nominating secretary. Many applications for membership were received. The chair was occupied by Will M. Latimer.

Mr. James V. Lapum spent the week-end with friends in Kingston.

Mr. Frank Cushing was home from Tweed to spend the week-end.

46 YEARS AGO

March 2, 1912.

For the information of "Inquirer" as to when the footbridges was built and when the bay bridge was opened we give the following facts: The contract for the foot bridge was let in November and was completed sometime during 1875. With regards to the bay bridge, a by-law was passed by council in 1883 authorizing the city to take stock in the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company and on April 15, 1884, there was a city council resolution appointing a committee to arrange for the formal opening of the bay bridge and it was opened soon after that time.

Mr. Warren Hodges of Belleville, formerly of Belleville, is visiting friends here.

50 YEARS AGO

March 2, 1903.

Mr. J. Earl Hallowell of Stirling was in town today.

Mr. Miller, principal of Actonvale was in town today.

It is now about time some citizens should see the first robin.

Mr. R. P. Clarke, St. Ola, a member of the county council, was in town today.

Mr. W. J. Sproull has accepted a lucrative position in Woodstock and will move with his family to that city shortly. Many friends regret their departure from the city.

Mr. Joseph Fahey of Winnipeg, an old Belleville boy, is home on a visit.

Mrs. Stephen Eustace has returned home from Toronto where she spent several ways on business.

Forum For Latinists

(New York Times)

One of the world's editorial curiosities, a quarterly magazine called Latinitas written entirely in Latin, was put on sale in Rome, Italy, for the first time just the other day.

The new magazine is printed in the print shop of the Vatican library and edited by Magr. Angelo Mercati, who is also the leading scholar. Everything in the new magazine, including the copyright notice on the back of the front cover, is in Latin. The only concession to modernity is a dollar sign used to tell potential readers abroad that one year's subscription outside Italy costs $1.50.

The first issue of 80 pages, with no advertising, contains a statement of policy by its editor titled "De Hortus Commentarius Ratione Propositis" (the reason and purpose of this periodical). Magr. Mercati explains that he agrees with Ciceronian Latin that "there are in our age even among cultured persons few who are able to write in Latin in a dignified way" and not many who care to read it.

The purpose of Latinitas, Bacci stated, is to give a forum for Latinists all over the world to express their Latin language in "concise, flexible, rich and modern" and clear if full of dignity, not bloodless, soulless, dead, but vital and capable of bringing people close together."

Another article gives helpful practical suggestions for expressing modern notions in ancient language. There also are articles on the poetry of Catullus "the various colors of purple in Virgil" a discussion of the difficulty of teaching Latin and several short pieces on religious subjects.

Ghosts On Radar

(Montreal Gazette)

Ted Henty, head of the Sussex, England, Ghost Hunters Club, claims he has picked up the ghost on a radar screen for the first time in history. Henty sees great possibilities in equipping cars with "secret technique," particularly during the Coronation year.

"There's no thrill like seeing a real live ghost on a radar set. "Beats sightseeing any day or night."

This is all very well, but the story of tourism emphasizes that exploitation must be controlled. The justifiable enthusiasm of the inventor is soon drowned out by the cries of his imitators, hawking their wares.

The decision which Henty and his group must make immediately is this: will they set up their own board of ethics, or wait for the Government to do it for them?

Without some sort of watchdog committee, the thing will be out of bounds in no time.

Guilible tourists will be told that a radar blip caused by a dog crossing the street is actually the nightly ghost of some buccaneer of Admiral Drake. The ghostly silhouette on the radar screen-carrying smuggler will be fobbed off as Henry V crossing the Channel to Agincourt.

And what will happen when the whole thing gets connected up with the BBC's television service? The deceitfulness of a dress worn by a Regency belle could hardly be expressed.

Even adults would be given sleepless nights by a ghostly procession from the Tower of London to Hampton Court. Anne Boleyn walks "with 'er 'ead tucked underneath 'er arm" at the midnight hour." It would never do for children.

Makes Shmoos Come True

(Time Magazine)

When Cartoonist Al Capp invented the Shmoo, an animal which enabled man to live without working, all thought it was another Capp Capitol joke. But in New Mexico's rich Mesilla Valley last week, Farmer Deane Stahmann was running a Shmoo-like business which promised to revolutionize the agriculture of the valley. Farmer Stahmann was not raising Shmoos in it. He had inherited some land and by levelling and irrigating more, transformed desert-like land into a 4,000-acre cotton farm. It helped make the Mesilla Valley one of the important U. S. cotton-producing areas. By pioneering with the planting of pecan trees between the cotton rows, Farmer Stahmann had boosted the commercial crop to be valley and made himself (at 31, 2) something. Farmer Stahmann's latest agricultural experiment was with geese.

Troubled by the fact that his cotton plants had to be constantly hoed to keep them from being choked by wild grass, Stahmann heard geese will eat such weeds but won't eat the cotton. Last year Stahmann built up a flock of 500 geese and found that they cleaned out the weeds just as well as Mexican hoe hands, even when hard to hire. Not only did the geese find their own food and enrich the soil with fertilizer, but when the cotton crop was harvest-ed they could be sold. But they were not popular. Reason: High price.

An engineer-trained farmer, Stahmann runs his farm like a factory. For his geese Stahmann began a scientific test of the mating habits of geese (i.e., only 60 cents profit per bird), found that housewives snapped them up as bargains. He set up thousands of incubators and brooders, invested $80,000 in new refrigerator and quick-freeze plants. His geese are now laying at the rate of 80,000 eggs a month. Stahmann is hatching goslings at the rate of 1,000 per week. When Stahmann's city production he expects to be quick-freezing 2,000 every day, geese daily, for a profit of some $125,000 a year — provided the housewives take to geese as they have to chicken.

Stahmann is setting eggs and goslings to farmers all over the valley, encouraging them to start geese farms of their own. Below he has not enough cotton acreage to keep them busy, so he rents out his fertilizer, Stahmann free farming.

Stahmann is looking beyond the mere marketing of frozen geese, is already developing a new commercial uses for feathers and down (i.e., a goose-feather powder puff) expects to sell a lot of down for stuffing pillows. Eventually he thinks he may make more out of the feathers than the geese.

Sum Dout About It

(Regina Leader-Post)

Maybe British linguist Mont Follick has something in his simplified spelling bill which he introduced in the British Parliament this week.

If the bill is approved, British children will be taught to spell words as they sound. "Horse" will be written "hors" "doubt" will be "dout" and so on.

Indeed, English as she is writ is a mixed-up language. There's no reason, for instance, why "fish" should not be written "ghoti." (Take the "gh" in the word "enough", "o" sounds like "i" in "women"; and "ti" sounds like "sh" in "nation." Ghoti.)

Mr. Follick, however, doesn't intend that his bill shall provide for any drastic change in the spelling rules. He feels children can learn easily to back to normal reading and spelling, once they have learned to read phonetically.

However, there seems to be no reason why the "ough" words shouldn't go the whole hog, as he did in the days of Chaucer years ago, which was defeated by a mere three votes.

Then the children would be welcomed heartily by at least one large section of the population. This is composed of those escapees from the public schools and business colleges, who in some miraculous manner seem to have survived to begin their entire educational career without ever learning to spell. Anyone who think a dictionary's chief use is as something to stand on when they want to change a light bulb.

If words were written as they sound this would assist these people tremendously, for this is what they have been doing for years. It would also save them the many hours a headful of grey hairs.

Matter Of Public Taste

(Calgary Herald)

Obscenity is not a matter of laws or rules, but of public taste and it is impossible to legislate yet made on the subject, in our opinion, than the recommendation of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, "We would be hesitant, he said, in advocating either the legislate in matters of morals—if we were dealing with the Lord's savors or government through legislation." We heartily concur.

Does not this really say all that needs to be said? This is entirely a matter for the individual conscience. If we want to stop the sale of dirty books, the way to do it is to educate the public especially the young—to want to read good literature. Isn't that part of what our schools and churches are for?

Plays Hockey at 65

(London Free Press)

All sorts of advice is given these days about how to retain one's youthful strength and energy. Such advice would be wasted on Fred Hamilton of Strathroy. He knows the answers. Just to prove it he led the home team to victory in the O.H.A. senior playoffs two fell periods at centre himself. And he's 65. Maybe the experts should ask him how he does it.

He Could Be Wrong

(Farmer's Advocate)

The newspapers across Canada have made much of the fact that Federal Minister of Health and Welfare, The Honorable Paul Martin, has smoked cigarettes in months and thus recaptured his schoolboy figure. He was consequently quoted as saying that he was on the noteworthy achievement and altogether he has become a model to thousands of Canadians who, until now, have thought that the man who would like to be less ponderous and more nymph-like than they currently are, is the man for a breakfast food. Then, too, the Honorable Paul Martin carries tremendous responsibility. The Department of Health he is expected to do his reducing scientifically and that means, we suppose, that they have can accomplish their hearty desires without resorting to evil practices and the ministrations of charlatans.

One newspaper reported Mr. Martin as saying that he shunned pastries, candies and confections and if he actually said it, he probably meant it. Pastries have damned a native industry in South Essex where his constituents grow sugar beets and of excellent early potatoes. The starch factories in Prince Edward, in the Maritime Provinces where potatoes and the Maritime rights are famous, are also employers who have been plagued by Upper Canada and even by Ontario farmers. Ontario growers are beginning to feel fear as they see their markets horde to get busy, and many a blitzer to get get in his deadly work while the getting is easy. Not only this, but think of the hopes of a housewife and the heartbreaks, brought about by putting off what should have been a delicious dessert, by the sudden impulse or necessity demanded. Do not the "dry" fear for the world. There are too many of them who delight in taking a shot at the ideals that are held by so many who want this world to become a better place in which to dwell. And we have insisted on leaving these snipers alone until we see their shots hitting all about us.

That old motto, "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" is a good one to live by at the best. Clean up as you go, or don't go.

In my youth I worked for an interesting farmer in Michigan. I admired him greatly, for he was a kindly man and good friend. Over the years I corresponded much with him, but I always planned to visit him when near where he lived. I kept putting off the visit, for he was a good and useful life—into the eighties. Now, too late, I see the error that he had gone from human companionship. How I regret that I could well have made!

I have known people who have had disagreements — in the family, in business, or just among friends. Many times the reconciliation until too late to do it. Mother knew, I think, the very reason why hatred should be kept out of life is a gnawing thing in the heart.

I often used to drop in at a restaurant in Toronto in Chicago, and the noted leader, before his evening talk, would ask: "How long since you wrote to Mother?" I am certain that thousands of Mother's Days were warned by that simple statement.

Now, today, many can put in writing, however, is the bitter letter, the unkind word or criticism, or the decision to "get even with that guy"

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

MORE FUN TO VISIT A FRIEND THAN GO TO THE DENTIST

I have been scolded by eight dental societies who call themselves component organizations of the Canadian Dental Association: Somehow I gave the impression that many dentists speak harshly to children. I repeat the allegation. I regret its effect on the dental bureau, I intended it to forewarn parents.

The Bureau's director goes on to tell me that no modern pedodontist—he coined the word—operates this for me: children's dentistry—"no modern pedodontist will permit the child's presence while he is the operating room while he handles the patient." Here referring to children two to three.

Now I don't know about pedodontists. But a fine dentist friend of mine, in whose chair I have enjoyed many comfortable naps, tells me how he makes happy patients out of frightened children.

Before the child becomes a patient, the parents bring the child to the office for an introductory, "I want-you-to-know-me-and-my-gadgets" visit. The parent sits in the chair and the child watches while the dentist describes the instruments and shows how they work on the parent's mouth. The child squirts air and water about the place in great style.

Next visit, the child sits in the chair and the dentist does the squirting. Even now the treatment is limited to cleaning and examining. No cavity yet. Until the third visit. By this time child and dentist are friends. The child may not have a life free from dental dread.

This compares most favorably with the mental picture I drew from the pedodontist's letter: "I imagine that two-year-old being nearly pried from his mother's grasp, effectively strapped into the inner chamber where behind closed doors in a soundproof room the pedodontist cold fingers handle the patient in the modern manner."

I apologize to the Dental Federation Branch. Only one thing I ask in return, that dentists cease and desist from using the word sensitive when painful would do as well.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The United States is one of the great tobacco growing areas of the world. Some people will not leave tobacco alone, once they have grown it. They have to doctor it, and flavor it, sweeten it, toast it, pooch it, fricasse or marinate it so that it is guaranteed not to give you sinus trouble, blisters on the lungs or shrivel the nose. In Kentucky, during the States goes through only the light drinking season, smoking is rampant, many Canadians prefer Kentucky tobacco in American fashion. In Kentucky and Tennessee, where the schoolboy figure. He was consequently quoted as saying that he was on the noteworthy achievement and altogether he has become a model to thousands of Canadians who, until now, have thought that the man who would like to be less ponderous and more nymph-like than they currently are, is the man for a breakfast food. Then, too, the Honorable Paul Martin carries tremendous responsibility. The Department of Health he is expected to do his reducing scientifically and that means, we suppose, that they have can accomplish their hearty desires without resorting to evil practices and the ministrations of charlatans.

One newspaper reported Mr. Martin as saying that he shunned pastries, candies and confections and if he actually said it, he probably meant it. Pastries have damned a native industry in South Essex where his constituents grow sugar beets and of excellent early potatoes. The starch factories in Prince Edward, in the Maritime Provinces where potatoes and the Maritime rights are famous, are also employers who have been plagued by Upper Canada and even by Ontario farmers. Ontario growers are beginning to feel fear as they see their markets horde to get busy, and many a blitzer to get get in his deadly work while the getting is easy. Not only this, but think of the hopes of a housewife and the heartbreaks, brought about by putting off what should have been a delicious dessert, by the sudden impulse or necessity demanded. Do not the "dry" fear for the world. There are too many of them who delight in taking a shot at the ideals that are held by so many who want this world to become a better place in which to dwell. And we have insisted on leaving these snipers alone until we see their shots hitting all about us.

That old motto, "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" is a good one to live by at the best. Clean up as you go, or don't go.

In my youth I worked for an interesting farmer in Michigan.

straight blends of unimpressed tobaccos. This year leaves have been quite a bit of moooo and throw away a lot of unused pipe tobacco mixtures. I like to blend my own. I asked a tobacco man how he mixed his perfumery, and found out which tastes of licorice some of maple sugar or rum, and some of the Virginia blends I've spent you get off a large-extra-blonde cigarette, and some of the crowded street car.

"To blend good tobacco," said the tobacco man, "calls for the services of skilled blenders of tobacco who have been living for years—I suppose you might call them professionals—grade by tobacco year in, year out, to a standard of taste and quality. Tobacco of a quality and taste varies from year to year as it comes off the land. Now, any old amateur can't put up with such nonsense as that, and that's the time. The skill in mass production. It all at the top of the business. So they buy tobacco by the ton, make a rough blend, and then perfume it up with some standard scent or flavoring. And the result is a pipe smoker learns to rely on the scent or flavoring, rather than on the inherent taste of tobacco. Now, you people will in order to recognize his favorite brand."

It seems a reasonable explanation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PROCRASTINATION

The entire history of this world is filled with procrastination. If so many things weren't put off—Procrastination, both by peoples and nations, has accounted for a lack of courage to act quickly when required, and fear to make hordes to get busy, and many a blitzer to get get in his deadly work while the getting is easy. Not only this, but think of the hopes of a housewife and the heartbreaks, brought about by putting off what should have been a delicious dessert, by the sudden impulse or necessity demanded. Do not the "dry" fear for the world. There are too many of them who delight in taking a shot at the ideals that are held by so many who want this world to become a better place in which to dwell. And we have insisted on leaving these snipers alone until we see their shots hitting all about us.

That old motto, "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" is a good one to live by at the best. Clean up as you go, or don't go.

In my youth I worked for an interesting farmer in Michigan. I admired him greatly, for he was a kindly man and good friend. Over the years I corresponded much with him, but I always planned to visit him when near where he lived. I kept putting off the visit, for he was a good and useful life—into the eighties. Now, too late, I see the error that he had gone from human companionship. How I regret that I could well have made!

I have known people who have had disagreements — in the family, in business, or just among friends. Many times the reconciliation until too late to do it. Mother knew, I think, the very reason why hatred should be kept out of life is a gnawing thing in the heart.

I often used to drop in at a restaurant in Toronto in Chicago, and the noted leader, before his evening talk, would ask: "How long since you wrote to Mother?" I am certain that thousands of Mother's Days were warned by that simple statement.

Now, today, many can put in writing, however, is the bitter letter, the unkind word or criticism, or the decision to "get even with that guy"

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DRILL A LITTLE DEEPER

In Arabia a few years ago the drillers in a new oil field drilled a number of wells all of which struck water. The owners of the wells that there was no oil in those parts.

Orders came from the New York office to stop drilling, but one crew was just sublime in recalcitrant enough that they decided to drill a little farther and see what would happen. They struck the richest oil-bearing sand in the history of the field. The most stupendous reservoir of oil known up to that time.

All of us are somewhat of our failures to the fact that we have failed to some hard-won position or gone deeply enough in our search. People afflicted with religious doubt should ponder this fact. Many have lost intellectual figures of history have been men of profound religious convictions. But the people who are continually trying to get down deeper and find out what they are happy? They do not have these slightest concern about the nature of true happiness. Alcohol solves no problems. Those who are disheartened and discouraged, try drilling a little deeper into life itself.

Hero's Accolade For Van Fleet In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet returned to the capital from Korea's frozen battlefront today to receive a hero's accolade and perhaps to become the centre of another stormy debate over the conduct of the Korean war.

The 59-year-old general, who retires March 31, brings with him an expressed conviction that a United Nations offensive in Korea could "certainly" be successful. He contends the stalemate is one of the UN's choosing, and not the enemy's.

To Address Congress

But he has remained silent on what his recommendations will be to Congress and to his Second World War comrade-in-arms, President Eisenhower.

In advance of his scheduled arrival two Democratic senators today quoted Gen. Omar N. Bradley as having said that under present conditions neither side can launch a successful offensive in Korea. They were Senators Guy Gillette of Iowa and Robert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Gillette said in an interview that Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, testified before the Senate foreign relations committee in a recent closed-door session that there is "no chance in the foreseeable UN offensive in Korea at this point."

In a separate interview, Humphrey agreed Bradley had said this and added: "I think he built up necessary for such an offensive would be costly in manpower and materials.

Big Task of Build-

"The general said that launching an offensive would necessitate the diversion of materials and manpower from other areas of the world," Humphrey said. "He said an offensive would cost more in manpower, with greater casualties and greater consumption of goods and materials than are now programmed."

Plans called for Van Fleet to be debated to the White House for a 20-minute talk with Eisenhower. Then were to follow lunches, dinners, and meetings with members of Congress who are eager to hear what Van Fleet has to say about winning the war in Korea.

He is known to be bitterly disappointed that the Korean truce talks resulted in a virtual cease-fire at a time when he felt he had the Communists on the run, and that he had to leave Korea before a victory was achieved.

Kenneth Wiles Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

KITCHENER (CP) — Kenneth Wiles, 21-year-old mechanic, was convicted Monday night of manslaughter in the slaying of Marie Huras, his 17-year-old fiancee, fatally shot in his auto Jan. 27. He will be sentenced Friday.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury deliberated only 40 minutes before returning the verdict. It convicted the manslaughter, for which the maximum sentence is life imprisonment, the charge of murder on which he was tried.

Wiles listened intently but showed no emotion when William Melville, foreman, announced the jury's findings. Some of the key witnesses in the trial were missing when the jury returned. They and others who had followed the course of the hearing which began a week ago had gone out to eat after Mr. Justice Wishart Spence delivered his two-hour charge to the jury, expecting so quick a verdict.

However, the courtroom was filled at the time, with many teenaged girls among the spectators.

Death Rests With Accused

In his charge, Mr. Justice Spence emphasized that the "benefit of any reasonable doubt strongly rests with the accused." He defined manslaughter as "blameworthy slaying without the element of intent to kill."

The Crown contended that Wiles, who can neither read nor write, shot the girl with a sawed-off .22-calibre rifle because she broke off their engagement. Crown Attorney Harold Daufman in his address to the jury said: "Please don't have any sympathy for Wiles. But remember this active fun-loving 17-year-old girl who had her life snuffed out."

The defence contended the shooting was accidental. Defence counsel A. W. Roos told the jury: "In this brief, horrible moment, an accident caused Ken to be separated from his loved one and prostrated with grief. If there is any doubt in your mind as to how that gun discharged then you must give the accused the benefit of the doubt."

FIRE GUTS BOAT PLANT

ARNPRIOR (CP) — Fire destroyed the main plant of the Ayling and Ramage boat-building firm here Monday. William Ramage, a co-owner estimated the loss at $50,000. About 20 privately-owned boats were saved but three dinghies being built for the Royal Canadian Navy were destroyed.

Congratulate Rocky

Little Karen Marshall of Peterborough, Ont., was one of the first to congratulate Brig. John Rockingham, the fighting man who commanded Canada's first forces in Korea, after he was decorated by the Queen. Karen, a student at the Ranney Public School, Brig. Rockingham received the insignia of a Companion of the Order of the Bath for his "coolness in action, great loyalty and skilful leadership" in the Korean campaign. Outside Buckingham Palace he met Karen and Pte. Jack White of Edmonton. Pte. White served under Rockingham in Korea and now is with a Canadian army postal unit in London. — (CP from National Defence.)

Estimate Chats Falls Hydro Damage Is Under $2,000,000, See No Indication of Sabotage

FITZROY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—Engineers and repair crews worked through the night on the task of restoring power output at the 220,000-horsepower Chats Falls hydro-electric plant, crippled by an explosion and fire Monday.

Three of the 220,000,000 plant's eight turbo-generators lay smashed beneath twisted girders and fallen walls and roof. Another generator was believed damaged and the others were shut down before fire burned through the main cable carrying power to the hydro lines.

In Toronto Monday night, the Ontario hydro-electric commission chairman, Robert Saunders, estimated the loss at $1,500,000—or $2,000,000 at the most.

To Visit Scene

Mr. Saunders said he will visit the fire scene today with top officials to map out reconstruction. He expected partial repairs would be made within two or three weeks.

No one was injured in the blaze, which officials termed on an explosion caused by a technical fault in the oil circuit-breaker. They said sabotage is not suspected.

Loss of the plant's 220,000 horsepower, which is fed from this Ottawa river point 30 miles west of Ottawa into the southern Ontario "power pool," won't mean a power shortage.

Steam generators at Toronto and Windsor were pressed into full production Monday to meet the slack. They normally operate at 25-per-cent capacity, since steam generation of power costs about three times as much as hydro power.

Months Out of Service

O. S. Luney, Ottawa area manager for the Ontario hydro commission, said it would be many months before the whole plant could be put back into service.....

The five-hour fire caused havoc in a large section of the 500-foot-long three-storey power plant. The plant was built in 1931 on a quarter-mile Ottawa river dam—the first major power development on the river. It is jointly owned by the Ontario hydro commission and the Ottawa Valley Power Company.

Two plant employees, Jean Pringle, and Jack Ross, moved to save the valuable equipment as soon as they saw burning oil splatter from the circuit-breaker. They threw switches in cut off all eight turbo-generators.

Because of the danger of short circuits from a water pump, employees waited for outside chemical firefighting equipment to be brought in. A chemical pumper from the national research council station at Arnprior, 12 miles away, was brought in along a one-mile railway siding at nearby Galetta—on a relay of planks laid along the track. A pumper from Ottawa was brought in on a flatcar.

Education Costs Up

TORONTO (CP)—Education in Toronto this year is likely to cost a record $34,763,000 — $1,437,000 more than the previous high.

The board of education set the cost figure tentatively Monday and planned final consideration Thursday.

The increase is due mainly to the salary bill of $27,241,172, up $1,109,000 from last year.

VOTE FESTIVAL GRANT

STRATFORD (CP) — A $5,000 grant to the Stratford Shakespearean festival was approved Monday night by city council over the protest of Ald. Bert Davies that the amount of the grant should be left until estimates are struck. At the previous council meeting council had handed down a grant but several councillors were absent.

BAN DAIRY SUBSTITUTES?

REGINA (CP) — The Regina Leader-Post said Monday that the provincial government is considering banning the sale in Saskatchewan of dairy substitutes such as vegetable oil compounds for milk, cream and ice cream. It said legislation likely will be introduced at the current session of the legislature. Margarine will not be affected.

URGES MORE POLICE

GALT (CP)—Police chief Robert Carson, in his annual report released Monday, said Galt has the most understaffed force of any city of its size in Ontario. He requested two additional men to bring the strength up to 18 men, the usual number for a city of 21,000 population.

BLAST USE OF

Mr. MacGibbon, speaking in the throne speech debate, said any threat to the dairy industry is a threat to the welfare of the entire province.

He foresaw "great dust bowls" in the farming areas if the dairy industry is forced out of existence. He said healthy soil cannot exist without the fertilizing effect of herds of cattle.

Mr. MacGibbon said about 260,000 people in the province are actively engaged in or indirectly dependent on the dairy industry for their livelihood.

Industry Concerned

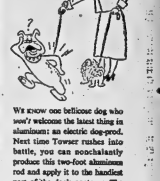
"In the face of competition from milk substitutes and the U.S. discrimination against Canadian dairy imports, the dairy industry is very much concerned for its continued welfare," he said.

Mr. MacGibbon also suggested a new pension deal for the province's teachers. He said the maximum pension of $3,000 should be raised and the minimum of $600 be increased to at least $1,200.

He said widows of teachers who died before 1949, when pension regulations were enacted, have no income and should receive some compensation from the government.

During discussion on the proposed unification of services in the Toronto area, Education Minister Dunlop said Ontario municipalities can expect little relief from mounting education costs in the next few years.

Double in 10 Years



He said that within 10 years the number of pupils in grade nine will be more than double the entire enrolment in all secondary school grades.

The minister said that between 1941 and 1951 the number of children in pre-school ages increased 217,000 and the number between the ages of five and 19 rose 98,000.

"The implications of these increases in the present and prospective school-age populations are apparent," he said. "Part of the effect has already been felt. With the steadily increasing cost of school construction and operation, some school boards have been experiencing difficulty in carrying out their programs."

COURT HALTS HYDRO LINE

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan of the Ontario Supreme Court granted an injunction Monday to the Moore Park Ratepayers Association restraining the Ontario hydro commission from erecting tower lines through the Moore Park section in northern Toronto. The injunction was issued to Dr. E. B. James, president of the association. The hydro had planned to erect the wires through the residential section.

We know one bellicose dog who won't welcome the latest thing in aluminum: an electric dog-prod. Next time Towser rushes into battle, you can nonchalantly produce this two-foot aluminum rod and apply it to the hindiest part of the dog's anatomy. The resulting shock is quite harmless, but they say a few "treatments" arrest the ferocity of even the toughest tyke.

Speaking of electricity, Canadians can take pride that the largest stranded electrical cable ever made for an overhead transmission line has been delivered by Alcan's Shawinigan Falls plant to the West Coast, to carry power to our new smelter now a-building at Kitimat, Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. Weddings

DEMILLE—STREET

Picton United Church was the scene of a lovely wedding at two o'clock on Wednesday, February 25, when Beryl Louise Street, Reg't., became the bride of Reginald Donald Demille. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Street, Picton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Demille, of Picton.

Snapdragons, tulips and daffodils decorated the altar. Rev. F. J. Whiteley officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. A. G. Stackhouse played traditional wedding music, and Miss Anne Nickle of Picton, the soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer", prior to the ceremony, and "Because", during the signing of the register.

As the bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. Herman Greenburg, of North Tonawanda, N.Y., she made a lovely picture in an all white wedding ensemble. The strapless gown of white nylon net featured a satin bodice and a hooped skirt with loops of satin. Her fingertip veil, with embroidered scalloped edging and appliqued silver leaves, fell from a close fitting satin cap. She wore a double strand of pearls and carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies and red roses with a white Bible.

A gown of blue nylon net with Chantilly lace inserts and a hooped skirt was worn by Miss June Strobe, Frankford, maid of the bride, who was bridesmaid. Her headdress and accessories matched hers and she carried a bouquet of roses and tulips.

Kenneth Stafford was groomsman, and the ushers were Douglas Mowbray and Charles Cole, Trenton.

The reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Marie Robinson, 80 Bridge Street, with Mr. George Channell catering. The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, which was beautifully decorated with pink and white doves and rosebuds. Bouquets on table surrounded the cake, and triple ivory tapers in silver candelabra were on either side. Baskets of spring flowers brightened the rooms. The bride's sister, Mrs. Douglas Caley, Picton, wore a strapless nylon dress with black trim and matching bolero, and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was in blue crepe with taffeta inserts, black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Clifford Allen, Mrs. Allen Theobald and Miss Lois Manlow. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Mowbray. Mr. Kenneth Stafford read a telegram of congratulations from the bride's brother, Mr. Vernon Strobe, in British Columbia.

The bride gave her attendant a hand-set rhinestone necklace, and the soloist, a gold dress pin. The groom gave his bride a pearl brooch, and his groomsman and ushers cuff links.

For travelling in Niagara Falls and Sandusky, Ohio, the bride donned a rust gabardine suit with beige accessories and a mouton shorte coat, with a bronze orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Demille will reside in Trenton for a time.

Guests were present from Trenton, North Tonawanda, N.Y., Madoc, Belleville and Kingston.

WAGG—JONES

PICTON.—The lovely farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Jones at Bloomfield, Prince Edward, was the scene of an interesting wedding when their daughter, Verna Isabel, became the bride of Frederick George Wagg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wagg, Sr., of Brantford. Pink and white streamers and spring flowers in white baskets made an effective setting for the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Carman Beckel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture in a floor-length gown of white, featuring a skirt of nylon net over taffeta with lace inserts. The bodice was of sheer nylon and lace with minute buttons from the Peter Pan collar to the waist. The sleeves were long and came to points over the wrists. Her veil of long illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a dainty bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Gladys Porter was her sister's attendant. Her dress of heavy cotton crepe with matching bandeau in her hair and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. R. A. Napier, B.C.S., of the R.A.F., Picton, was groomsman.

Mrs. R. Taylor, sister of the groom, presided at the wedding organ, the selections being "I Love You Truly" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The reception followed at the home. The bride chose a gown of violet crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother was in brown curled silk crepe suit, with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's table was centred with a large white streamer suspended from a wedding bell, with a bouquet of white flowers on each side.

Mrs. Percy Anderson poured tea and Miss Lois Jones, cousin of the bride, and Miss Joanne Rommilly, cut the wedding cake.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and points in the United States, the bride chose a brown suit dress or dusky pink, dark coat and black accessories, and Mrs. Wagg will make their home in Picton.

Out-of-town guests were from Brantford, and Toronto.

Mrs. R.W.T. Middleton Addresses W.A. On 'Stewardship'

The regular February meeting of Bridge Street Church W.A. was held on Friday in the auditorium.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Everett Fairman, 1st vice-president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Parker read the 24th Psalm and led the devotional period with the topic of "Stewardship".

The guest speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Middleton, whose husband, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, is in charge of Bayside circuit, spoke on "Christian Stewardship", which should be the aim of every W.A. and each Individual member. It was an inspiration to listen to such a talented speaker as she pointed out that it took personality, time, use of talents and influence for good to do this job properly. The least requirement was money. "Christian Stewardship" is taking part in worship, in living and in giving, or, one could say it is "Love in Action".

Mrs. McTavish graciously thanked Mrs. Middleton and presented her with a pot of daffodils from the W.A.

Mrs. Derland Houston favored with a banjo solo accompanied by Mrs. J. Houston at the piano.

Mrs. Little's and Mrs. Massey's group was responsible for the meeting and the refreshments served afterward at the tea hour.

Young Canadian Soprano Has Promising Future

By JOHN PATERSON

TORONTO (CP)—At this particular moment in her young career, Marsha Hunt, young Canadian soprano, is in the enviable position of standing at the professional crossroads with a promising future in both directions.

Her radio performances in many centres across Canada during the last three years made the 26-year-old lyric singer one of this country's best-known artists. Here, her career is assured.

From the United States has come a beckoning from the great Arturo Toscanini. After listening to her magnificent voice the Italian maestro chose her for the solo soprano role in the Mitsa Solenenda for Carnegie Hall March 28. She will appear with the NBC Symphony and the Robert Shaw choir-ale. Later, the work will be recorded.

Fortune Role

At about the same time, March 25, she will sing—as she has for the last five years—the solo role in St. Matthew's Passion in Toronto with the Toronto Symphony and the Mendelssohn Choir. This too will be recorded.

Miss Hunt's Hall debut last December in New York she was acclaimed by the New York critics. She signed a three-year contract with one of New York's important management firms, and Gerald Cook. This starts June 1. Meanwhile, she has a series of concerts to give in Ontario and Quebec.

Still a bit dazed by the swift moving events of the last few months Miss Marshall, five feet tall, with brown hair and very expressive features, admits it has been "hard, hard work."

She has had to battle long odds most of the way. She suffered from polio between the ages of two and eight, and still has a slight limp. Studying with Lois Marshall and singing at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, 14 years ago, was the first step. Then for four years she had three octaves from D below middle C above high C.

A teacher, Elsie Hutchinson at the Wellesley Orthopedic Hospital, encouraged her to take lessons.

Except for a two-year period in Montreal, starting when she was 17, she has been studying, singing or broadcasting since.

Musical Family

There was always music around the Marshall house when she was young, she said. A brother, Frederick, had a large collection of classical recordings. She and her five sisters were always singing. Her father died when Miss Marshall was young, and her studies at the conservatory all were on scholarship. When she was graduated in 1950 she won the $1,000 award given the outstanding pupil of the school, regardless of the branch of music. The same year the Toronto-born singer won the "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" and broadcasts for 1950.

Then in April, 1952, she won the Toronto Symphony prize, entitled her to the Town Hall debut and the international aspect of her career opened.

Letters from Mexico

By Arnold Meyers

Hotel Oasis, Tehuantepec,
February 19/53.

Dear Mother and Dad:

Just received your letter today with the cheque for $25 for which many thanks, although the other many yet sent took care of most of the medication. It won't hurt to have some to the good, I suppose, and make out my writing. I am shocked to hear that Ed Brunsdon is dead. Was it a bad heart?

I am glad that you received all four presents and that the neighbors are receiving their cards. I spent a long time looking for them. She should have it about now; also sent one to Mrs. Jr. and one to uncle Harold. It would be quite remarkable if they were to end up down here. Thanks for the news from abroad, it is enjoyed by the other fellows, too, you know.

As I said before, I am better now. Bill and I still go nearly every day to Salina Cruz to sunbathe on the beach. I think I have precisely the ability to sunbathe naked up the beach a way more than anything else. When it is too windy, we can always go up on the roof of this hotel and do it. Busy at Falsifiers

I am now busy at two paintings, depicting mothers nursing their babies at the breast. Georgy is now walking in and said, "very goo-oo-oo-od" with that Spanish accent of his and then asked for a pencil and paper upon which he dashed off the most remarkable portrayal of a woman breast-feeding in native costume, that I have ever seen. He said, "you vant too-oo paint thee true Tehuanoo coo-stoo-oom."

"In olden days, the voo-man, she seets on thee ground, her laigs crossed under her." He has often made many valuable suggestions in regards to my paintings, my paints, brassit, you know. His work is simply wonderful on the easel. Georgy buys colors, varnish and turpentine. He makes banners for all sorts of occasions, and has let me practice on his violin. He insists that I use it also, but have yet to make up my canvases, although I didn't want to. I have done two paintings now and quite a pile of worthwhile sketches.

Did I tell you about little Alberto who comes to my room every other day? He has the most wonderful ear-to-ear grin and such fiery black eyes! I have done two paintings of him and want to do another. Alberto speak very distinct Spanish and for Bill and me it is a rare treat to open up my book and get him to read out loud the conjugation of the verb. Bill says, "he is precious." Bill plays with him a lot, swinging him up onto his shoulders and lifting him clear off the ground by his forearms. Earthquakes

There were a couple of earthquake shocks here a week ago—very slight though. It sounded just like rolling thunder and accompanied by a slight rattling of the dishes. One came in the middle of the night and made the bed tremble slightly for a very few seconds.

Earthquake shocks travel in waves just like ocean waves along the beach. You can hear it coming, for several seconds before it reaches one's position—well, just a minute ago, we had another one. Quiet, but the building shivered. Jack came walking and saying, "I felt that that was only thing that would get me out of bed, was an earthquake."

There was a heavy downpour of rain here two nights ago, although I didn't get wet. Such things are very, very rare here at this time of year. It is greatly getting hotter here, by April it will be time to get out. Jack says that by October and November he is just about unbearable. The city present is officially begins June 1st, although of course there are rains before then.

School Teacher Arrives

One of the Tehuantepec school teachers, Senor Romero, often comes to the hotel to play poker and drink—and is a fine artist. The other day he said he wished he paint me portrait, I am not too fond of the idea as it takes time.

I received a short letter from Martin Ham in which he tells how he got on board a steamer at Trinidad, after leaving me, only to find that he was being sent eastward to Tuxtla Gutierrez in Chiapas province instead of Mexico City. So he left the ship to go where the plane went but later boarded another, which took him to his destination at no extra cost.

He returned the $20 which he had borrowed. Martin is the nicest person that I have met yet in Mexico.

Interaction of Cinema-nals

There is a time prior to the building of the Pan-American highway when everyone, including myself, was smoking marijuana here.

But with the highway came Americanization, in the cinema, phonographs, radios, service stations and so on. With the cinema came one of the business period so the woman began to cover themselves.

There are two cinemas here in Tehuantepec. I have been to the one several times, it costs a bit over an experience. The seats are of wood and are three rows deep. The lights invariably go out at 8:30 the most thrilling part of the movie to everyone's disgust.

Jack has not returned yet, although expected back today. I am sorry to hear about M—'s operation. I must write her a letter. She is quite mistaken about my followed with an interesting pa-

Mrs. W. J. Cooke Entertains Evening Branch W.A.

Last evening a most enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mrs. W. J. Cooke, South Park Street, when about 30 members of Christ Church Evening Branch of the W.A., met for their regular meeting.

The evening was spent in the sewing of quilt-blocks.

A letter was read by Mrs. H. Ingram from Mrs. R. Smith, president who is holidaying in Miami, Florida.

Following the sewing period, a sing-song of old familiar songs was enjoyed with Mrs. J. Hibbard presiding at the piano.

Refreshments served by the hostess brought a happy evening to a close.

per "Story of Hosiery", after which Mrs. Demille, gave a poem "Mona Agnes".

Community singing was enjoyed and Mrs. J. McFarlane read "The Intricacies of Skating", followed by an enjoyable solo by Mrs. Ingram.

The convenor gave the topic, "Something New in Home-Nursing", and conducted a "song contest".

Current Events were given by Mrs. W. Embury.

Mrs. Cooke thanked the hostess for her hospitality, after which delicious refreshments were served.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A young man who's on the verge . . . of being a quitter

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My wife and I have been married about a year, and she is expecting a baby in a few months. I am 20 and my wife is 18.

The problem is that I have fallen in love with another girl. My wife knows about this, and I'm sure she knows, too, that although I have been trying to make her as happy as I can, I am not happy myself. In fact, I am miserable.—T. R.

Dear T. R.:

Are you the kind of young man whose emotions are so shallow that you can fall in and out of love as easily? And, if you are, do you want to stay that way? Because you surely must realize yourself that if you do, and if you jeft your wife for the woman with whom you now think you are in love, it wouldn't be long before you would think yourself in love with still another girl. That kind of thing could go on indefinitely, unless you get wise to yourself and do something about it.

Moreover, you must also surely realize that to break up a marriage of no more than a year's duration is not to have given it a fair chance. The first year of a marriage is a difficult period, because it is a period when two young people are just getting to really know each other, and sometimes one or both of them begins to find that the other is not as perfect as it seemed before they were married. So inevitable adjustments must be made, and it takes longer than a year—sometimes much longer—for the two concerned to grow accustomed to each other and to learn how to get along.

If you leave your wife now, especially with a baby on the way, you would be a plain quitter. That's not what you want to be? Or would you rather be the kind of young man who is mature enough to realize that marriage has responsibilities as well as pleasures, and who prepares to shoulder those responsibilities in manly fashion? I shouldn't think it would take you long to decide.

Have nothing to do with a boy who habitually drinks

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a boy for seven months, but I'm sure I'm in love with him and would like to marry him except for the fact that he drinks very heavily.

I told him that he would have to choose between me and the drink, and he said he wants me. Yet about every two weeks he comes to see me, drunk. He was like that last night and I would not go out with him.

Do you think I am being silly or selfish that I get so burned up at him, or what do you think? I am only 18 and figure that I may be able to find another boy to be with who wouldn't drink.—N.E.

Dear N.E.:

You couldn't be more right than to think it might be advisable to find and another boy friend, and I advise you to do so at once.

Any young man with a drinking habit is someone with whom you should have nothing to do. Unless such a young man comes to realize what a tragic mistake will be his if he does not take himself in hand and conquer this habit while he is young, the outlook isn't for himself and any girl he seeks to make happy.

The only wise thing for you to do is to break off with him at once before you get any further involved.

See It With a Festive Flair

By Mary Moore

Her feet hurt. Her back ached, but it was Bobby's birthday.

When she had asked him if he would like to go to a famous Chinese restaurant for his birthday dinner he said "Oh no Mom. I like our kind of birthday parties."

So, since she was downtown and only one block from the candle and birthday-napkin store, she summoned her flagging energy, girded up her aching bones, and bore down on the store. She picked up a few extra table favor novelties to improve on "our kind of a birthday" and then she hoarded the bus for home.

On the trip home her feet ached and she wriggled her heels out of her pumps under the seat, but her heart sang as she planned the table, and just how to stack the presents—to make Bobby's brown eyes even shinier.

The festive air I am so fond of, could be described as "Mother always goes the second mile."

It is the spirit of an occasion that lingers in the memory longer than the food or the fun you have served.

Here is a clear delightful part of this theory is that there are no hard restrictions on festive spirit.

Some of you have heard me tell the Bobby story, but it bears repetition: One of Marjie's mazzers had a "Pin the tail on the ass." She has a family of four children, so of course, as many of you know, Bobby with four pins broods her life is one long series of mild and not-so-mild emergencies.

My two sisters were invited to dinner at the home of Marjorie and her doctor husband, both of them were friends from college days. My sister Doris inadvertently mentioned that the previous day they had been there, and about the same time and had celebrated their daddy's and her birthdays together. Ann, who is fourteen, asked what day her birthday was. Doris said tomorrow." In a few minutes dinner was announced and when it came to dessert time Ann promptly bore in a birthday cake complete with six huge candles on it. Everyone but the two conspirators was amazed and shouted "Mother how did you know?" and "Mother how did you do it?" for it seems that a pudding and a sauce for it were to have been the dessert. But when Ann slipped out to the kitchen to relay the news of Doris' birthday to her mother, Marjorie chuckled and Marjie decided to turn the pudding upside down and pour the sauce over it. It was a great success for it was such a complete surprise.

Marjie reminds me of the U.S. Marine in an extremely difficult assignment they do at once. The impossible takes a few moments longer.

There is not one of you that will not welcome some short cuts in your birthday cake making. Some of the melted chocolate used in the cake which follows is reserved for swirling in the frosting—so give the cake its festive air.

STREAMLINED FUDGE BIRTHDAY CAKE (3 eggs)

Grease and flour or grease and line with buttered paper 2 layer cake tins or one tin about 12 inches into your cake mixing bowl sift together 2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt. Make a well in the centre and add 1-4 cup soft shortening. Measure 1 1-2 cups milk and add 1 teaspoon vanilla to it and add a little more than half of this milk mixture to the bowl, and now beat the batter for 2 minutes to incorporate the shortening and make the batter smooth. Now add 2 eggs, remaining milk and 3 or 4 squares melted chocolate (cool this over hot, not boiling water and add an extra square of chocolate—making 4 or 5 in all,—which you will use later when frosting cake.) If desired you may stir in 1-2 or 1 cup chopped nuts at this stage. Pour this thin batter into the prepared pans or pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. Layers require 25 to 30 minutes; square or oblong pans 35 to 45 minutes. When cool, frost with

FLUFFY WHITE FROSTING

Mix together in saucepan 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water and 1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar. Boil covered for 3 minutes, then uncover and boil to 242 deg. Fahr. or to a soft ball in cold water. Beat until stiff 2 egg whites. When syrup is done pour it very slowly, beating constantly into the whites. Beat until it holds its shape. Add 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Cover cooled cake with it. Spell out the name "Bobby" (or your treasure's name) with the left-over melted chocolate, applying it from three toothpicks held in your hand like a 1-2-inch wide fan.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

Man friend of young widow with three children must not ask if he can be wearing wedding ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a young widow with three children. Ever since my husband died a year ago I have continued to wear my engagement ring and my wedding ring. However, I now date occasionally, and the question has come up as to what is proper regarding my wearing these rings. One man, who is a very close friend and for my good of me, would like me to remove my rings because he feels as many people will think he is out with a married woman. But I feel that it is proper for me to continue wearing these rings. We want to do what is right, so please tell us the general rule about this.—W.

It is customary, the "general rule", for a widow to continue to wear her engagement and wedding rings. She continues to wear them on the third finger of the left hand, where they had been placed them. This is, of course, particularly appropriate when she has children. A woman who loved her husband and cherishes his memory naturally does not remove her rings unless or until she decides to marry for the second time. . . and then she removes the rings of her first marriage when she first wears the engagement ring of her second marriage. Some widows continue to wear only the wedding band, but the general rule, as I said, is that it is proper for the to continue wearing both rings. . . and that man friend should admire and respect your feelings in the matter when you should become engaged to him, you would follow his suggestion.

Anniversary "bride and groom" are usually the hosts at the anniversary party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are to have our 25th Wedding Anniversary soon, and we'd like to have a little party on that day in our home. Is it all right for the couple themselves to give a wedding anniversary party? (2) If so, what kind of invitations should I send?—S. L.

(1) Yes, indeed it is proper for the couple themselves to give the wedding anniversary party. . . as this is the customary way. (2) If, as you say, you are to give "a little party", you may either invite your guests verbally or by telephone. Or you may write cordial little notes:

Dear Mary:

Jerry and I want to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary by having our dearest friends here with us on Saturday, March 21, a little party, and we please won't you and Don tell us you'll come, at six o'clock? We can't guess; square occasion without you two dear friends!

Love to you both, from both of us.

Affectionately,

Sallie.

Gift not a 'must' to acknowledge birth announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

So many babies arriving. So many birth announcements arriving. Does one have to send a gift to "acknowledge" these announcements, Marjorie T.

Definitely not necessary to send a gift, although of course people if you're so inclined. And you probably will be so inclined if the baby is a member of your family or the child of a very intimate friend. But you must send a gift, or write at least a few joyous words about this joyous event.

Danger lurks under the finger-nails

Ordering her small son to wash his hands, a mother was astonished to have him ask if he should wash both of them! Smart kids we have these days!

Hand washing is something on which a mother should insist; not only before meal times, but during the intervals between. Nails must have attention. Boys are notoriously careless about nails, and some of our cute, little daughters could give them more attention than they get. They're fussy enough about their clothes and their curly locks, goodness knows. But there is more than that to good grooming, which cannot start too early.

Mother should insist that the children keep their hands clean.

Studies made a few years ago in the research laboratory of the University of Illinois School of Medicine showed that while a clean skin will readily disinfect itself, the area under and around the nails does not have that power. It is especially susceptible to infection. Inside the nail caves is a perfect lodging place for bacteria picked up from door knobs, hand rails, and all manner of objects with which the hands come in contact.

If you are the mother of small children, give them the proper tools for keeping hands and nails clean. In time, they will take pride in using them and in keeping their nails pink, clean and shining. Tell them they must not be like the little girl whose eyes were blue, hair yellow, and whose nails were black, like her father's.

Give them a high grade toilet soap to use, as the skin of little hands is often tender and sensitive, subject to roughness. Provide them with a nail brush, so that they will really scrub their hands. Give each child an orangewood stick and a nail white pencil, items to be purchased at the drug store for a very small amounts. They should be used once a day.

While the hands are in the lavatory, the hair should be passed under the eaves. Then the nail white pencil should be used. The pencil forms clear-cut lines and removes every bit of scil. Start this habit early and it will make it a life-long practice, like brushing the teeth.

Never should a steel instrument be used under the nail tips. It will cause tiny abrasions in the delicate nail fabric and dust and grime will collect under them. Abrasions. Also, if pressed down too far, it may cut into the flesh and invite infection.

MOIRA W.I.

The February meeting of the Moira W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Collins on Thursday afternoon with an attendance of 15 adults and four children.

The president, Mrs. Gil Thompson, opened the meeting. Minutes, secretary, Mrs. Nelson Welsh, read a letter from the district president.

Much business was discussed. A motion was made to appoint Mrs. W. Collins, Mrs. N. Welsh and Mrs. Angus Mumby to look after the program for the coming concert.

It was also decided to make a tag. The meeting was then taken over by the convener Mrs. Ross Kelderman. A demonstration on "how to make a hot-bed" was given by Mrs. Angus Welsh. Readings by Mrs. Wesley Farrel, and Mrs. Don McInroy; a solo, by Mrs. Ross Kelderman, "Bluebird Houses"; readings by Mrs. W. Collins, "How to Can Rain Capons"; by Mrs. W. McInroy, "Not My Job", and by Bessie Holbert "The Reason Why".

The topic was given by Mrs. Ross Kelderman, "Recipes for Chickens", which gave a lot of valuable hints to chicken raisers. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Don Holbert.

NEW FRIENDS

This was a profound utterance, which his two gropingly inquirers fully guessed, was not for someone to write to Jesus. As the Lamb of God, He became the literal reality of which the Passover Lamb was a symbol in the religion of Israel; the Saviour Messiah, fulfilling the prophecy of Isaiah and Jeremiah. It was a statement to stun the two men.

"I saw the Spirit of God descend on Him when I baptized Him with water," testified John. "He it is who baptizes with the Holy Ghost. This is the Son of God!"

There was no mistaking the urgency in the Baptist's words. He might even mean that this was the Messiah! More, he prodded the young men to follow that stranger if they wanted to learn the true meaning of life.

Without a word, grateful glances the Galileans hastened after the little figure. At the sound of overtaking footsteps Jesus slowed down and looked over His shoulder. He turned and confronted them. He laid a hand on Andrew's shoulder and smiled at John.

"Looking for someone?" He asked. His winning manner told them that somehow He understood their plight — their heartsend men, almost completely divorced from the world living through space and time, could foresee the fate of this earnest young Galilean who was to be called like a letter "X" to a blazing cross in the sky of Palestine. The future of John, too, who, in old age, was to write the visions and write the Book of Revelation.

He Needed Helpers

To this pair of confused men Jesus spoke with bold directness, explaining that He was planning a tour of all the Jewish communities—a long series of roadside discourses to the people, trying to answer just such questions! He would need helpers immediately, for He did not want hasty enthusiasts who might abandon Him just as hastily. He bore inviting them to be the first to join His mission. He would require long discussions and debate with them; days of sharp questions—as many as they could think. He insisted that they must use 'their brains; He would not accept obedience based on His ideas but logical, innermost conversion, because He was not merely asking them to give Him a part of their time. He needed their lives. Their souls! So they must make sure. In the end, if they believed in His message, they could join together and look for other disciples.

To all of which the fishermen repeated their words:

"Master, show us where you live and we will go there with you right now!"

"Come and see!"

Jesus led the way to lodgings in one of the temporary booths outside the town, and from the twilight of the cave to the twilight of the dove, as dusk and dawn were called, the three sat together and never before had John and Andrew heard talk like this.

A Free, New Vision

Again and again Jesus insisted that they must question His thoroughly. They were perturbed men, out of balance, full of a frustrated sense of insecurity and injustice. When He spoke of a free, new vision of kindness and sacrifice, the overwhelming sweetness of His personality struck their hearts like lightning. Under the spell of His power they were quickly convinced, but Jesus refused to accept their hasty conversation. First they must try Him out, face Him with every doubt, confound Him if they could— for they must feel not only His love in their hearts, they must, He reiterated, also be logically persuaded.

If they could, think of no more doubts, He would point out the objections they had overlooked. Night and day they sat and listened and asked again— but there came a time when they could think of no more to ask. They accepted all that He had offered them, knowing, too, that even sterner phrases of the truth would come later.

Even so, they were enthusiastically ready to join Him. They felt immensely thrilled and impressed. There was no arrogance in this teacher's manner and no formality; already in those brisk hours they had come to feel as if they had known and loved Him of old.

"Worth Dying For"

"Master," said John, "we shall go with you in this undertaking. You have warned us that these ideas are dangerous. We may be so! They are worth dying for!"

Later Andrew confided that he had a brother that he would like the Master to meet, and ran off to find him.

It was about when the two brothers came to the booth where John still sat listening to Jesus. As the great bulk of Simon filled the entrance and his shadow — a shadow that was one day to be a disaster—fell at the feet of Jesus, the Nazarene's face seemed to light up in richer welcome for the bald and bearded fisherman. Again the Master of timeless with inner vision could perceive the future: lighted gardens in Rome and a cross turned topsy-turvy, with this same impetuous, baldheaded, square-bearded braggart, crucified head downward and burned alive.

Jesus embraced him enthusiastically, exclaiming:

"You are Simon, son of Jonas! But you shall be called Peter."

They Gain Recruits

But after that greeting Jesus changed the subject. He proposed that they set out together and He would explain His messages to them during the journeys; since they were all natives of Galilee province, they would all walk home. To this the three were glad to agree. But the long trek up the stony northern roads had hardly begun when their number began to grow. The first recruit was a friend of Andrew, a wayfarer like himself with a Greek name, Philip, whom they overtook on the highway. Philip not only agreed to join the party and hear about the new teachings and the plans for spreading them, but he offered to try to enlist another friend. Begging a tree ride on a passing wagon, Philip hurried on ahead, forward until he spied the friend whom he named Nathaniel Bartholomew lying under a fig tree and staring at the sky. The skeptical young fellow was wondering what a philosophic man could possibly do with his life in a land of oppression like this one. Philip told Nathaniel down the road, until they caught sight of the approaching Master.

"Look!" called Jesus, waving to Nathaniel from a distance. "An Israelite indeed, in whom there is no guile."

All the others smiled, as Jesus added:

"Before Philip called you, when, you were under the fig tree, I saw you."

Nathaniel blinked. He had been under a fig tree. But that was miles beyond, where Jesus could not possibly have seen him. He stammered:

"Master . . ."

But Jesus put a friendly arm around him.

"Because I said to you that I saw you under the fig tree, you believe."

His beardlike chin toward the sky, he clearly promised:

"Greater things than these you shall see."

A Wedding Feast

When, with his five new followers, Jesus came back home to Nazareth, He found His own household in a happy dither. It happened that a daughter of friends of Mary was getting married. The family lived in the village of Cana, Nathaniel Bartholomew's home town, and Mary was planning to go over to help in the festivities.

She suggested that all come with her to the wedding feast. Although the movements were a little weary, they all walked five miles more in the bright sunshine from Nazareth until toward sunset they came into Cana of Galilee.

Jesus did not often attend parties of this kind; He was too thoughtful, too studious, too solitary for such festivities. But tonight He had a happy time. He and the five disciples put aside all their intricate discussions and enjoyed themselves like everyone else at the happy affair. The fun was at its height when Mary beckoned to her son.

Quietly the mother whispered a story of their hosts' sudden embarrassment. More guests had come than had been expected— Jesus took pity among them!—and now the wine was about to give out just when the festivities were at their peak; the caterer was in despair.

"I want more wine!" squealed one curly-haired guest, holding up a large, wide-mouthed pottery jar, from which he turned upsidedown.

Jesus took His mother's hand, His face full of meaning tender and thoughtful. Mary was a note of challenge in His voice as He addressed her in the respectful phrase of that day:

"Woman! What is that to me? And to you? My hour is not yet come."

A Moment of Significance

All around was song and laughter. In the corner where Jesus and the six talked there had come suddenly, startlingly, out of nowhere, a significance for all the rest of history—a moment in which Jesus and she, the mother, were partners. Do you realize, He was really saying to Mary, what it will mean if I do as you ask? You are asking Me to perform before the eyes of men and women, merely for the success of this convivial affair, the unlimited power of Almighty God.

If I do what you ask, if I show this power, you must know what will happen! The story will fly over the land. All privacy, all quiet, all further time of preparation will be gone. My ministry must begin immediately. And when that happens, I take my first step—and you go with me—to the cross. All this that wedding guests may have more to drink?

Both knew what it meant. Their handclasp tightened; then she turned away, and went to the waiters, and told them:

"Whatever He tells you to do —do it!"

Jesus turned and walked to the back of the room. There He found the six stone water pots which were a part of the furnishings of every well-appointed home where frequent religious purifying ceremonies had to be held. Beckoning the disciples, Jesus asked them to fill the jars with water. Puzzled but polite, they did as He requested, filling the pots to the brim. Next, at His direction, they dipped up some of the fluid in a ladle, then they screwed and shouted. The color had changed. The water was red! Indeed, it was no longer water at all—it was wine!

The chief caterer rushed up, tasted the wine, glared around him furiously, and swaggered up to the bridal party. He always wanted to know, was happening here? Any moment he would serve the best wine at the beginning of the feast and then, when everybody had had plenty to drink, he would serve the inferior stuff. But this late wine was the best the steward had ever tasted in all his forty years as a caterer in Galilee.

Soon everybody in the room was talking about the wonderful wine, but Jesus and His disciples, in deep, reflective silence, were already walking back to Nazareth.

Junior Jumble

(News of Interest to 4-H and Junior Farmer Clubs in Hastings County.)

On Saturday, February 21, the Stirling Community Hall was decked with various colors, shapes and sizes of feminine garments. It was the Homemaking Club Achievement Day for the winter project, "sleeping garments" and the sightseers, pyjamas, housecoats and scuffs, which she girls made, were on display.

The morning activity consisted of two judging clinics — one clars of pyjamas and one class of materials suitable for pyjamas. The girls also made a sample of the article worn. In the afternoon, club exhibits were on display from the following clubs: Wallbridge, Eldorado, Bethel-Zion, West Huntingdon, Stirling, Queensboro, Cooper-Bevington, Plainfield, Chapman, 77 too. The Chapman Club presented a demonstration "The club girl chooses materials for Sleeping Garments" while West Huntingdon Club and Plainfield Club presented skits on the same topic. The Eldorado Club and the Madoc Club presented skits on "requirements of good sleeping garments." During the afternoon, Marilyn Hodgens, who was the delegate from Hastings county to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, gave an account of her trip.

Eighty-eight girls completed the sleeping garments project. Thirty girls were presented with certificates of achievement for having completed two homemaking club units. The following girls were presented with county honor certificates for having successfully completed six homemaking units: Doreen Lynn, Eva Martin, Marcella Wheeler and Barbara Blakely, all of the Chapman Club and Marlene Johnson, of Eldorado Club.

Club Re-Organizes

Twenty-two Junior Farmers gathered in the Department of Agriculture office, Belleville, Monday evening, February 16, for their annual meeting. President Gerald Clark opened the meeting with community singing.

The guest speaker was Arthur Duncan. He was introduced by Glenn Clarke. Mr. Duncan gave an interesting talk on "Junior Farmers' Attitudes." Gladys Clarke tendered a vote of thanks.

During a business discussion, it was decided that the club would give $75 to the Flood Relief Fund. The Chatter-box was given by Douglas Cotton. J. Allen Francis acted as chairman for the election of officers which resulted as follows, for 1953: president, Grant Richardson; vice-president Marlene Mccorcort; secretary, Gladys Clarke; treasurer, Douglas Cotton; directors, Jim Pollock, Allan Wallace, Patsy Sine; county director, Ruth Clegg; publicity convener, Ruth Linn; auditors, Verna Brown and Gerald Clancy.

Sidney Banquet

A large crowd of Junior Farmers and families attended the second annual banquet catered to by Uniondale W.I., held at Frankford Community Hall, on Friday, February 20. Allen Francis gave the invocation after which, the toast to the Queen.

Harry Morrow, Reeve of Sidney, extended greetings to the parents and congratulated the Juniors. This was followed by brief addresses by O. A. Calrymple, agricultural representative for Hastings county, and R. Hardecrock, M.L.A.

Gerald Taylor entertained with musical selections and Lorna Fay and John McComb led in a rousing sing-song.

Robert Burditt introduced the guest speaker, Dr. R. S. Robertson, of Cobourg. Dr. Robertson showed slides and gave an address on "Trees for the Farmland. He told of his three journeys to the Arctic and the ways of the people to the north where he practises dentistry in the summer months.

Grenville Switzer, president of the Sidney Junior Farmers acted as chairman, and presented prizes won by Bill Morris, Mr. Bush, Lawrence Dafoe and Thelma Stickle.

Bachelor Tax Causes Sponsor Plenty of Worry

By HOWARD GRAVES

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—It started out as a gag and harried state representative Jim Bruton wants everyone to know he was just kidding.

Bruton introduced a bill in the Arkansas house of representatives to slap a $720 annual tax on bachelors in the state. The bill defined a bachelor as any male, 21 or over, who was single or not living with his spouse.

The 39-year-old freshman legislator, a happily married man with two sons, suddenly found himself besieged with a deluge of mail, telegrams, phone calls and harsh knocks on his door.

A group of unmarried Little Rock girls quickly formed the Apathbanw—short for the Association for the Prevention of Alarming and Stampeding Bachelors Beyond the Hopes of Arkansas.

Unmarried women in radio interviews and newspaper columns vigorously protested passage of the bill.

Constituents and fellow house members pestered Bruton with pleas of "kill the bill, kill the bill." Newspapers joined the stinging editorials.

Some bachelors threatened to leave the state for positions elsewhere. This further worried the Apathbanw.

Hastily, Bruton declared the bill was "all a joke." He withdrew the measure and pleaded "let's drop the whole thing."

A bachelor member of the house who declined use of his name, confessed the whole thing was designed as a joke on him.

"They were all kidding me, back in the rear rows of the house, about some marriage bill we were considering and telling me how much harder it was going to be for me to persuade some girl to take me on for life.

"Then somebody thought up the bachelors' tax bill and the first thing I knew they were telling me how much it was going to cost me to stay single another year."

Pope Observes 77th Birthday, Health Improved

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope today quietly observed his 77th birthday and the 14th anniversary of his election to St. Peter's throne. The Vatican announced he has almost completely recovered from his recent illness.

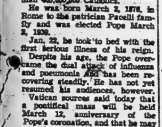
Informants said the pontiff's improved health will allow him to resume audiences March 19. On that date, the feast day of St. Joseph, he will give an audience to a group of students.

There was no official observance of today's double anniversary.

Although the Vatican took no official note of the twin anniversary, many of the world's leaders and thousands of the church's faithful did. Thousands of congratulatory telegrams were pouring in from around the world.

The Pope, known as the "Pope of peace" although his 14-year reign has been marked almost continously by war, is the 21st head of the Roman Catholic Church and the spiritual leader of more than 400,000,000 Catholics.

He was born March 2, 1876, in Rome to the patrician Pacelli family and was elected Pope March 2, 1939.



Jan. 22, he took to bed with the first serious illness of his reign.

Despite his age, the Pope overcame the fatal attack of influenza and pneumonia and has been recovering steadily. He has not yet resumed his audiences, however.

Vatican sources said today that a pontifical mass will be held March 12, anniversary of the Pope's coronation, and that he may attend this function.

Desert Mounted Corps Will Ride At Coronation

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Australia's famous Light Horse, leading regiment of the Desert Mounted Corps in the Middle East during the First World War, will ride again as part of Queen Elizabeth's bodyguard at the Coronation.

The Light Horse is now part of history, but the uniforms, with emu plumes waving on felt hats, will be revived for the bodyguard. The Australians will wear the leather bandoliers slung on their left shoulders and carry their rifles slung. No Light Horseman ever used a leather rifle bucket like other cavalry.

The last Light Horse unit was mechanized in 1940 and now, unlike 40 years ago, it would be hard to form a mounted unit. Station hands don't use horses for mustering now.

The most famous battle of the Light Horse was in General Allenby's first campaign in 1917 when a brigade, made, what has been described as one of the finest charges in the history of British arms. The leading squadrons deployed on the open plains before Beersheba on the southern border of Palestine and, with rifles slung and their bayonets in hand, they overran the Turkish trenches and took the town and thousands of prisoners.

WORKERS WARNED

London (Reuters) — Arthur Deakin, secretary of the 1,300,000 member Transport Workers Union and leader of labor's fight against Communist infiltration, warned British workers today the Communist party had "declared war" on them. Writing in his union journal, The Record, Deakin said the Communists were out to cause industrial disruption and chaos.

Farmers Urged To Further Control Rabbit Population

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — According to scientists there are about 750,000,000 rabbits in Australia in an average year, said Richard G. Casey, minister in charge of the commonwealth scientific and industrial research organization, in a recent warning to farmers. He urged them to continue their efforts to control the rabbit population.

Mr. Casey said seven or eight rabbits ate as much pasture as one sheep. If there were no rabbits, therefore, Australia could carry another 100,000,000 sheep, or perhaps double its sheep population.

Each rabbit probably destroyed about 10 shillings worth of pasture each year. To offset this, Australia exported about 100,000,000 rabbits a year in the shape of skins and carcasses, but these brought a return of only about £6,000,000.

About a million square miles of Australia was infested by rabbits in varying degrees.

The virus disease of myxamatosis, introduced in recent years from South America, has probably killed about 750,000,000 rabbits in each of the last three years. Now, however, it was starting to lose its killing power and more and more rabbits were recovering from it.

FITTED WITH RADAR

Duisburg (Reuters) — All Rhine river steamers are being fitted with cheap, German-made radar equipment to prevent future hold-ups in fog. The radar sets, which cost about 4,000 marks (about $225) are also being supplied to local shipping in West Germany's North Sea ports, officials report here.

Residents Built Own Airport In B.C. District

MCBRIDE, B.C. (CP)—Residents of this central British Columbia town and district have built their own airport to keep in step with B.C.'s growth.

Full use of the airport is expected soon. Only single-engine craft have used it so far, but it is said to be capable of accommodating twin-engine planes and future expansion is anticipated.

The present runway is 1,200 feet long and 200 feet wide.

The story of the airport is one of co-operation and contribution—$15,000 donated by district residents and industry; heavy equipment loaned by logging companies; fuel donated by oil companies and labor volunteered by almost everyone.

The strip was laid out on land donated by a resident, Adolph Jack, and the construction campaign was laid by D. A. Aker.

McBride has a population of approximately 500.

BIGGEST CATCH

The association has no connection with the "Union des Electeurs," an educational organization of the Social Credit movement in Quebec which has branches in many parts of the province.

Four Army Units En Route to West Coast for Sailing

OTTAWA (CP) — Four army units are en route to a Pacific coast port for an early March sailing in the third round of rotation leave for units of the 25th infantry brigade in Korea, army headquarters announced.

Brig. John Victor Allard, 39, Quebec, takes over command of the brigade this spring, relieving Brig. Pat Bogert, 44, London, Ont.

They are the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, Camp Petawawa, which will relieve the 1st battalion, RCR; the No. 28 transport, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Camp Borden, to relieve the No. 23 transport, RCASC; 38th field ambulance, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Camp Borden, to relieve the 37th field ambulance, RCAMC; and the 30th Engineers, Camp Petawawa, to replace the 23rd field squadron RCE.

ALL EVEN!

It's the fortunes of war, men. You can't win 'em all and it is as it should be when two red-hot hockey squads clash in a series such as this sizzling semi-finals between the Glens and the Goodies. The Goodguys wrapped up a 5-3 victory up in Kingston last night and deserved it as much as did the Glens here last Friday evening.

It was history repeating itself, apparently, for the Goodies with blood in their eyes rushed savagely to the attack at the opening whistle and before the spectators (3715 of 'em) had straightened their girdles and parted their gum, the red light flashed behind Parisi for the first score. Time: ten seconds.

It was the same in the second and third semesters.. The Goodies ripped in goals within less or a little over a minute from the opening piccolo, and the surge and fire of their attack appeared to take the steam out of the Glens' offensive.

Tony Parisi stopped a blasting puck with his groin near the close of the second period and was rushed off for repairs and the extra time was added to the third chapter. But there was no denying the Goodies. It was their turn to howl and the more 4000 faithful went home satisfied.

So it's all even-stephen with the teams boasting a win each and a tie in this hectic best-of-seven affair. The Goodies are here tomorrow night in what should be another blazing battle of the "G's", and the Glens have something to say about it, it should be their night to howl. Sort of breaking through the other guy's service, to use a tennis expression, could be the ultimate factor in the winning of the jousts. In that case the Goodies have the edge.

In any event you can bet your income tax rebate that tomorrow night's tilt will be a rafter-searing clash. Both teams realize the importance of victory in this fourth joust, and both will be gunning aplenty for it.

HAWKS ARE IN!

And adding to the fire and the fury of the senior "B" flaming shindig should be that of the Junior Black Hawks and the Kingston Vics. In a boisterous, knock-em-down-drag-em-out battle here last night the Hawks eliminated Lindsay Warriors in a clash that saw many players on the ice and six-bits on the ice. Referee Leo Heffernan, of Whitby, jerked more thumbs than six klieh-khkers on a highway holiday and twenty-four sinners paraded to the hoosegow.

Separating the penalty chaff from the hockey wheat, the Hawks thoroughly deserved the victory, although the penalties seriously impaired whatever chances the Warriors had to pull the game out of the fire.

Murray Packer, Warrior star, got a misconduct in the second period, barely stopped the referee on the arm when the official was penalizing a second player. Packer was given a match misconduct and the Warriors lost a lot of their offensive power.

And the Hawks were not identified by any flaming halos atop their hockey noggins. They gave tit for tat, bolt for bolst and stick for stick in the torso-tossing jamboree, with Ron Halstead, one of the Hawk stars, climaxing the "It-Takes-Two-to-Tango" choreography with a misconduct, that being within the time limit, sent him to the showers.

But that's water under the bridge. The Hawks had a tough time eliminating these Lindsay youngsters, and the prospect ahead does not gleam with any "sunshower." The Kingston Vics, whom they meet here Saturday night at 8.30 are fresh, frolicky and rarin' to go, after a prolonged rest plentifully spiked with tough practice grubs. The Vics who eliminated the Pete Links in three straight, will be tough nuts to crack and the Hawks will have to go all out to cop this series.

WANNA BET?

Max Bentley, 'tis said, had his injury griefs,
His stays on the ice could be headlined as "briefs".
Now he's "worn on the horns",
Far from hockey and harms,
But we gris you ten he'll be back with the Leafs.

BANTAMS TONIGHT!

Those young cockerels of the inclosure, the Belleville Bantams step on the ice tonight in quest of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association second-round playdowns. The youngsters took the Kingston representatives out in the first bout and tonight they cross hockey sticks with the Peterborough team, conquerors of the Oshawa youngsters. The game gris under way at eight o'clock and a few faces in the pews would be greatly appreciated by the young fellows as well as their mommers.

Rounding out a doubleheader will be a tussle between the Big "A" team and the Moose Lodge semi-finals in the midget hockey league. This game starts at seven o'clock and should be a good exhibition.

The bantams engage in a two-game pounds-to-count series with Peterborough with the second game scheduled for the Littlock City on Thursday night.

Will Woo Teams From Que. Branch Via Newspapers

MIDLAND (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will seek to woo teams from its suspended Quebec branch with newspaper advertisements, secretary-manager George S. Dudley said Monday night.

Dudley said that the CAHA is publishing advertisements in six Quebec newspapers today inviting Quebec teams to leave the QAHA and come into the CAHA. The Quebec association was suspended Saturday for defying the parent body in the case of player Ron Attwell of the junior Montreal Canadiens.

"If any Quebec teams wish to break with Quebec and join us we feel they should have the opportunity," said Dudley. "All the leagues have stated they're sticking."

Ted Lindsay Scores 4 Goals, Howe Gets One, Three Assists; Wings Nail Down Playoff Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Where would the Red Wings be without Gordie Howe?

Probably just where they are today—on top of the National Hockey League. Or not far off.

Detroit's NHL champions weren't without Howe Wednesday night when they crushed Boston's travel-weary Bruins. But by the time the game was over, the Bruins couldn't have cared less.

True, Howe fired a goal, and acted as a decoy while teammate Ted Lindsay sank four more. But when a team takes a 10-3 beating, you can't blame it all on one man.

Gordie wasn't even on the ice when shadowy Real Kelly, who scored his fourth goal in 120 NHL games, and his first of the season, or when Marcel Bonin fired the second of his big-league career. Nor did he figure in the Wings' first two goals, when it was still a hockey game.

Played Like Champ

The Wings simply were playing like champions. Red Kelly, Alex Delvecchio and Marcel Pronovost also added their bit to the hat-trest as the league-leaders built up a 7-0 margin before the Bruins could reply.

Eddie Sandford and George (Red) Gordon, who replaced them for the losers, who remained in fifth place, one tantalizing point from playoff berth.

While Howe was picking up his third goal of the season, Lindsay's help, he picked up three assists as his scrappy little winger made Gerry Kirkfall take, who ran his goal-scoring total to 29. Between them, the two sharpshooters have scored more than half as many goals as the Bruins' total of almost any other NHL club.

While the Wings officially nailed down their playoff berth, there was news of another of hockey's big surprises. Montreal have taken a different turn.

Max Bentley finally gave up under a deluge of calls and answered the telephone at his Delisle, Sask., home. He announced he had come home for a rest, in hope that a week or two on the farm will improve his general health to the point where he can go back to Toronto Maple Leafs for the play-offs—if Leafs make them.

The Leafs' ailing centre, in low spirits from repeated illness and injuries, slipped out of Toronto Thursday with unofficial club officials.

No NHL activity is scheduled tonight. The fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks travel to New York to meet the cellar-dwelling Rangers Wednesday.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Having attained the grey age of 34, Bobby Feller has decided it's time he takes things a little easier as he prepared for his 13th season of pitching for Cleveland Indians.

The ace right hander, he says has quit running across the outfield for hours on end and he is limbering up his famous right arm by easy stages. The former terror of the stubborn circuit is pointing himself for the start of the real race, and there is strong feeling in the Indians coam that Bob is going to make a fine comeback after his disappointing 8-10 season of last year.

"Along about here a man who has thrown as many baseballs as I have doesn't feel as fresh and rested the next day as he used to," the games winningest pitcher said. "He has to begin to conserve himself a little. But I feel I've got several more good years to go. The arm feels great."

Actually, Feller's performance last season was not as poor as it looks on paper. He chalked up his 11th one-hitter during the campaign, an all-time high. Some of the zip has gone from Bob's fast ball, but his curve is older still are terrors.

"It's funny, but a lot of people think I had only a fast ball when I came up," Feller said. "They're wrong. I had a real good curve from the start, though it got better later on."

"It might surprise you to know that my best pitch in 1946, the year I struck out 348, was the slider. I got more strikes with it than with the curve or fast ball. It broke only a very little, but I threw it very hard and wasn't afraid to go for the corners with it on any pitch."

Gordie Howe Within Sight Of Two Records

MONTREAL (CP)—The awful thing that happened to Boston Bruins Monday night when Ted Lindsay's four-goal outburst led Detroit Red Wings to a 10-2 runaway victory may be just the fillip needed for a couple of Red Wing record-seekers.

Lindsay's achievement was associated with Lisle Wally Hergesheimer of New York Rangers is the only other player to score four goals in one National Hockey League game this season.

But in the scoring deluge, Gordie Howe also helped himself to one goal and three assists. That lifted his point-total to 85—one short of the NHL record for a season. Howe holds that himself, 86 points in each of the last two campaigns.

Seven Short

With his goal-count now at 43, he is seven short of the record held by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens in the 50-game schedule of 1944-45. Howe still has 10 games in the present 70-game schedule in which to equal or break Richard's record.

Defenceman Red Kelly of the Wings scored his 17th goal Monday night and now is only two away from a record for goals by a defenceman that has stood for 21 seasons. Harry Cameron of the old Toronto St. Pats scored 19 goals in the 1921-22 season when the schedule was only 24 games.

The Red Wings, far in front in the team standings with 77 points, are within sight of another record—the fifth straight NHL title for any team.

In the individual scoring race, Howe is far out in front of Ted Lindsay's four goals and one assist Monday night lifted his point-total to 85—still 20 behind Howe.

Richard picked up two assists in the game and displaced Hergesheimer for third place with 54 points to Hergie's 53.

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk, with an even 2.00 goals-against average, was still the contender.

Another accomplishment of Lindsay Monday night was his acquisition of one minor penalty, breaking the tie of 102 minutes for the season and displaced Wildfern Flaman of Toronto.

Twenty Major Leaguers Are Holdouts 3 Cleveland Stars Say 'Gimme More'

NEW YORK (AP)—Pittsburgh's outRalph Kiner, balking at a 25-percent slash in his reported $90,000 salary, is one of 20 major league baseball players who today may be classified as holdouts.

Philadelphia Phillies haven't signed first baseman Eddie Waitkus, pitcher Ken Heinleman and infielder Connie Ryan. But owner Bob Carpenter says he expects no trouble.

Gus Zernial, who hit 29 homers and batted in 100 runs for Philadelphia Athletics last season, hasn't signed. Neither has his teammate, outfielder Dave Philley. But Philley is in camp, Zernial is en route and general manager Art Ehlers says he's confident they'll be in harness soon.

Detroit has one contract problem, utility infielder Billy Hitchcock. Pitchers Don Little and Bickford, infielders Vern Stuti and Bill Klaus and outfielder Luis Marrero. The reserve catcher for St. Louis Cardinals, Bill Sarni, is holding out for $7,500.

A survey of the training camps by The Associated Press showed there are 11 in the National League and nine in the American who haven't come to terms with their team. March 1 is the accepted deadline for contract signings.

Cleveland Indians have three of their highest-priced stars in the "gimme more" category. They are pitcher Early Wynn, a 23-game winner in 1952 who wants $35,000; centerfielder Larry Doby seeking $30,000, and second baseman Jeo Avila, $25,000.

Three Cleveland second-line pitchers—Mickey Harris, Lloyd Hunter and Jose Santiago—haven't come to terms yet.

Alvin Dark, New York Giants' veteran shortstop and field captain, is asking $40,000, some $7,000 more than the Giants want to pay.

New York Yankees' two holdouts were cleaned up Monday night with the announcement that Gene Woodling had accepted $24,000 and Johnny Mize, World Series hero, had agreed to $15,000—a slight cut from last season.

Kiner, who batted only .344 last season, said he had airmailed acceptance of an offer of $76,500 made at the California conference Feb. 13.

But in Havana, Branch Rickey said he had changed his mind and any further negotiations would have to start with a 25-per-cent cut.

Boston Braves have five holdouts, including Sam Jethroe, Bob Hazle and Jim Wilson, outfielders; Bob Buhl, pitcher, and Jack Dittmer, infielder.

Bruce County Wins Bonspiel

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—George McFayden's Bruce county rink won the third annual Ontario Junior Farmers' bonspiel Monday from an entry of 28 rinks. For the last two years the championship has been held by Victoria county.

Second place went to Er McFarlane of Peterborough county, third to Cliff Lillies of Victoria county and fourth to Farid Sheikar of Simcoe county.

Dan Carruthers, representative for central Ontario to the junior farmers' bonspiel, presented the Ontario Junior Farmers' Trophy to McFayden as winning skip. McFayden and other members of the winning rink, Willis Dickson, Allan Crikscenell, and Norman Todd were presented with white sweaters.

Goodyears Whip Glen Roys 8-2; Black Hawks Oust Lindsay With 3rd Win

Take 3-1 Lead in 1st Period, Hold Glens Even in Second; Four in 3rd Clinches Victory

KINGSTON, Ont., March 3 — Kingston's Goodyears leaped back into contention to qualify for the Ontario Intermediate senior hockey "B" group finals when they dropped Belleville Glen Roys by a 8-5 2 while 8775 fans looked on in the Community Memorial Centre last night. With one lightning-like stab Ken Parris opened the fall-out ten seconds after the game began and Goodyears never looked back over the reins of the route. The result evened the best-of-seven series with each team winning three points.

The Belleville made a determined stand in the middle session to split the points in that round ing, until they were pulled.

The Carr-Harrizenon rolled to three quick counters early in last period and added another at 16:43 at the expense of a mistake that had goaltender Parris fatigued when subjected to such heavy pressure.

"Tony" Parisi, the eagle-eyed goalkeeper who established in the opening game of the series, would not be faulted in adversity. Having been alerted the Goodyear snipers were taking deadly aim when they opened the second period Parisi didn't have much of a chance to stop that accurately timed shot.

Given Good Support

In contrast Ken Johnson, who turned in a fine effort when wanted, was given support, while he was accorded letter-perfect support by centre Bill Mc-Connell, Lundry and Joe Watts, the starting pair, and Ted Nicholson and Bruce Carr, whose relief duty helpin in effectiveness in repulsing the Belleville rushes. Moreover Nicholson and Lundry rushed with such telling effect that each accounted for one goal to a victorious cause.

Ken Johnson received the W. J. Henderson trophy from its donor before the last period began; Jack McKeown, who scored three goals, and George MacGregor, who had a pair of counter, formed the stand-out forward line of the Glens that racked up no less than five goals. That early rush and goal by Parisi before the first minute recorded set their sash, flashed the signal that Goodyears were on route to a victory that would alter previous outlooks and conquest enlisted the "Red" Dorans and his talented "Reds" Doran and his colorful Glen Roys.

Fourteen minor penalties, seven to each team, had no direct bearing on the outcome, although Goodyears did score twice against their short-handed foes. Conversely Glens had an penalty through two torrid periods before becoming disorganized during the third, session when Goodyears turned on the speed, scored three goals and wrapped up the verdict beyond recall.

Opening with initial face off last night Bob Lundry rushed from his defence position and repayed the rubber to Parris who beat Parisi with a low shot in the corner. Some time was ten seconds, Walter Gerow drew the first penalty, tripping at 1:31, and after his return Al Dolan drew identical fee for high-sticking. Both teams were at full strength when Jack McKeown made it 2 to 0 when Lundry spearheaded that drive and when Bob Carrigan was sent to the penalty box for the ice near the goal crease Bob MacGregor quickly pulled it into the twine. MacDonald missed a glorious scoring chance when he was alone with Goyer was chased at 10:37 but Wes Leach found the range as was done, "Red" Jones made a clean break through at 13:35 but Johnson was brilliantly. Two second later Doran scored, with Goyer and Jones assisting, but in a space of seven seconds Gerow, aided by Wally Hicks, had registered Goodyears two goal advantage.

MacDonald bodychecked Lundry, who didn't have possession of the puck and as Lundry retaliated he was penalized. With the second Glen Roy Parisi was injured after making a great save at Don Murray's expense and he was declined to add the remaining time to the middle period.

Play had just resumed when Jones drew a penalty and in his time McKeown scored from eight feet away with a fast backhand shot after Parisi and Nicholson had tarticulating in the fast scrambly Jack Wadhesch limped off after being handed a heavy body check by Lundry. Johnson made a great save at 9:46. McGregor, fastest man on the ice, was off for a time but was put down by Reeves who was penalized at 10:44.

Goyer Scores

McKeown tripped Doran at 11.56 and Goyer rushed but shot wide of the target. Reeves returned and during a ganging attack Goyer followed in after lifting a floater and scored at 13.36. Doran was awarded an assist in the effort Parisi robbed White who had tried to close Goyer's scoring effort. MacGregor thrilled the fans by his speed but Parisi made a miraculous stop. Goodyears had another chance with Parisi out of the picture but they couldn't reach the loose puck before the little netman fell on it.

Red Parisi was loudly applauded before the third period started when he received the valuable W. J. Henderson Trophy as repayment for his work in leading the goodyear point getters during the regular group race.

Play had first session when Parisi was penalized for throwing the puck forward.

"Nobber" Day served the sentence and was away when McKeown took Murray's pass and beat Parisi at 1:45. Less than two minutes later White added by Ken Johnson, Goodyears' sixth counter and at 4.34 Murray, with Delcus assisting, beat Parisi again. Doran engineered an attack and was injured when Murray checked Lundry near the boards. Doran remained in action but only briefly as he was penalized for cross checking Joe Watts. Goyer held Parisi helpless on escaping pushdown Lundry drew a minor for tripping Doran. Day was chased later for high sticking Tinkess. No danger resulted but with the teams reduced to 4-4 a play that Goyer and DeGray got misers at 18.49. Play had Parisi, Ray Nicholson and Gerow, brought the tallying to a close.

Previous to that attack, Parisi, accompanied by McKeown, broke up a Belleville drive deep in ice but the former missed the target with a backhander. Wadhesch and was penalized just as the game neared its close.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Parisi; defence, Goyer and Deacon; centre, Doran; wings, DeGray and Murray; alternates, Bartello, Ward, Waugh, Desjardins, Mulholland, Smithyll, Reeves and McDonald.

Old Hockey Greats To Shine In Western Game

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nearly a half-century of hockey era jammed into an hour's action in Vancouver Forum tonight.

It's the annual old-timers' benefit game staged by the K. C. Hockey Players Benevolent Society.

Proceeds from the evening go to aid old-timers down on hard pocket-books have slimmed with the years.

Hockey's greats from across Canada turn out to do their bit and make the line-up read like a quick flip through the record book.

It's Walter (Turk) Broda in one net and Cecil (Cap) Thompson in the other.

Back on skates are old-timers Babe Dye, Harold (Taylor, Gizzy Silver Foxe) Patrick, Walter(Babe) Hall, Marc and Mel Colville, Paul Runge, Leroy Goldsworthy, Sweep Miller. While aided by Mervyn (Red) Patrick, Tip O'Neill, Gordon(Duke) Keats and many others.

Tonight's game is a reunion of the old-time classic along with Clint Benedict, Percy Hicks, and other directors of the society.

Bids now are in from Ottawa for coming of the Canadiens attend a similar benefit in the capital city in celebration their recent qualification. sure that the passing years get proper attention on the nine-clock.

Broda will be 123s his old form in one-minute stretches and periods of 15-20-25 a play for five minutes. Youngsters from 1925 to 1935 will be in the limelight during the period.

Probably the highlight for many of the fans will be a chance to meet the old-time players personally mulling over their rank in the hockey world.

Goldsworthy, distinguished grandkate of Montreal and Boston, picks Thompson as the greatest.

There's always a touch of sadness associated with the annual affair.

This year, on behalf of the hockey Hall of Fame in Kingston, Ont., Mrs. Si Griffis will be presented with a scroll in memory of the hockey immortal who died shortly before his election to the hall this year.

Sport in Brief

EDMONTON (CP)—Max Bentley, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey star who left training without notifying club officials, was reported Monday night to have arrived at his home at Delisle, Sask.

Stephen Hlookowich, mayor of Delisle told Edmonton Callers that Max wouldn't come to the phone. He won't accept calls from anyone except Conny Smythe," the mayor said in the message.

Bentley disappeared from Toronto last Thursday. Saturday his father at Delisle confirmed that Max was at his way home travelling by car by way of the U.S.

Bentley was reported fed up and in poor health following a plague of "virus" and "flu" illness during the season. His last appearances on the Leafs were in brief spells last Wednesday.

Rumor departure from Toronto led to speculation he might right to give up the game in which he was a big figure for more than a dozen years.

QUEBEC (CP)—Frankie Belanger, 154½, of Quebec, won a unanimous 10-round decision over Shamus McCray, 149, Cleveland, in a main event boxing bout here Monday night. Belanger weighed 154 pounds for Bryan Kelly, Niagara Falls, N.Y., who was forced to withdraw because of illness.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., three-under-par 69 Monday to win a five-way playoff for the Houston open golf tournament's $7,000 jackpot on the slushy, 7,150-yard Memorial Park course. The Memphis dentist held a two-strokes edge over Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Shelby Mayfield, Texarkana, Ark. Ex-Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas had finished the regular 72 and Bill Nary of Los Angeles first with a 73.

BOSTON (AP)—Red Sox outfielder Dom DiMaggio was disappointed to learn his brother Joe doesn't expect to be able to report for spring training at Sarasota, Fla., "for at least a couple of weeks—maybe longer." The little professor has been in hospital a week because of chronic retinitis inflammation of the back of the eyeball."

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Frank Sedgman defeated Jack Kramer 7-5, 6-1 Monday in another of their series of tennis exhibition matches. Kramer leads the series, 7 matches to 6. Pancho Segura defeated Ken McGregor, 8-6, 6-3, and leads in their series, 33 matches to eight.

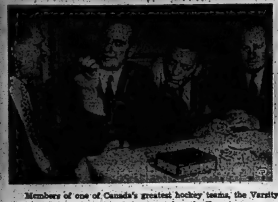
Western Rinks Off to Flying Start In Quest for Canuck Curling Title

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUDBURY (CP)—Western rinks are off to a flying start in their quest for the Canadian curling championship as the event got to the West 18 times.

The four rinks which won both their games in Monday's first two rounds are all from the west—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba.

But either Alberta or Saskatchewan will fall finishing in this morning's third round when they meet the only pair undefeated after two leaders.



In other morning games, Manitoba meets Prince Edward Island, British Columbia places Northern Ontario, Northern Ontario; Newfoundland against Ontario and New Brunswick takes on Quebec; and Manitoba, Saskatchewan.

No evening play is scheduled today night when the draw for tonight will be held.

British Columbia just about lost the evening game. The Trail rink edged Newfoundland, which showed every sign of coming after an 18-7 drubbing by Saskatchewan in the afternoon, by a single point as they scored four in the 11th. Final score 9-8.

Most of the crowd of 1,000 followed the Saskatchewan-Newfoundland game. Skip Bob Ursel's rink reached its climax when Grant Watson, skip of the Fort Arthur quartet, was down at the end of the 10th end when the Saskatchewan rink drew

Varsity Grads Reunion

Hockey Greats Gather

Plenty of hair has fled and considerable weight changed position since this group last felt ice under their skates. Members of the Toronto Varsity Grads of the mid-twenties, tied with the Ottawa Silver Seven as the greatest hockey team of the first half of the century, gathered at Toronto for a reunion. Left to right: Ross Taylor, Roger Plaxton, Dr. Joe Sullivan, Norbert (Stuffy) Mueller, and Bill Lee Hudson. Three of the Grads were missing, Jack Forter, Dave Trottier and Grant Gordon. — (CP Photo.)

Belleville Service Darts League

Joe Senasin and Bill Ford, those two "old rivals" for war and darts battles, gave the younger fry a lesson in tossing the miniature harpoons at the regular session of the Belleville Service Darts League last night.

"Old Bill," not he of "The Better 'Ole," and "Uncle Joe," not he of the "Kremlin Kulups" turned in three-dark performances of 180. Bill Ford ten for the Big "A" and Joe is chief harpooner for the 5th Anti Tank Regiment, or one of them.

The Big "A" defeated the ANAFs 7-4 while the Hasty Pess and CNR took the measure of Corbins and Mail Carriers by 8-3 counts. 9th Anti Tankers defrocked the Brewers 8-3.

The standing: Hasty Pess 174; Big "A" 160; 9th Anti Tank 127; 5th Anti Tank 112; Brewers 102; Mail Carriers 96; CNR 94; Corbins 91.

BREAKS LEG

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Peter Sinks, 26-year-old Fleetwood "hockey player", suffered a broken left leg in an Ontario Rural Hockey association game here Monday night.

Sinks, playing with Delco in a fixture against Westmount when he was hurt, was admitted to Victoria Hospital.

Quakers Trounce Canucks 8-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The front-running Saskatoon Quakers trounced Vancouver Canucks 8-2 in a Western Hockey League game Monday night to extend their lead over the Canucks to six points.

Cy House, back in action after a layoff due to a groin injury, fired two goals for the Quakers. Herb Jeffrey, Ray Masson, Alex Kaleta, Murray Parker, George Senick and Johnny Chad notched singles.

Carl Kaiser and Harry Dick connected for the Vancouver goals.

GIOVANELLI WINS

BROOKLYN (AP)—Danny Giovanelli of Brooklyn, pummelled previously unbeaten Danny Joe Perez of New York into submission Monday night to score a TKO at the end of the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round fight. Referee Ray Miller stopped the bout on the advice of Dr. Samuel Sweinick of the state athletic commission who examined the bleeding Perez after both the fifth and sixth rounds. Giovanelli weighed 141, Perez 139½.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribitzer

You have suffered much in bridge until you have felt the hot breath of a squeeze. Particularly when a skilful player applies the pincers in a triple squeeze.

The triple squeeze is where an opponent is not alone in being put through the wringer. His partner is caught in the jaws of the same vise, and when the squeezer turns the screws it makes both squirm.

There was the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠A 9 2
♥K Q 2
♣A 4 3

WEST
♠K Q J 8
♥J 10 9
♦Q 8 7 2
♣J 10

EAST
♠7 6 5 3
♦J 10 4
♣Q 8 7 6 5

SOUTH
♥A J 10 9 7 6
♣K 9 3

South was the declarer in a contract of six hearts. Opening lead from west was the spade king. When dummy hand is spread, one sees that the declarer is up against. It does not take long.

There is a possible loser in each suit. There seems nothing the declarer can do about it, although he can discover some way of forcing the opponents to let him manufacture a trick.

Confronted with such a situation, an expert looks for a squeeze. To know if a squeeze is possible, he first looks for the five outstanding requirements that contribute to its success.

As necessity is a long suit (hearts). Another is a threatening card; almost but not quite high enough to take a trick (the nines). Sometimes one such threat card is enough; sometimes more.

Another is an entry to the hand that holds the threat card or cards. Another is a card of which opponents will have none (a heart when opponents are out of them). This becomes the squeezer.

Generally it is necessary to squeeze only one opponent. If it is necessary to squeeze both opponents, entries must be saved for each hand of declarer; and threats in each hand.

With this as the basic requirements for a successful squeeze, study the hands and determine how the operations are performed. If you have trouble with it, you are not alone.

WOMAN DIES AT WHEEL

STRATFORD (CP) — Kathleen Robb, 67, suffered a heart attack while driving here Monday night and died before medical aid reached her. The car slid into a parked car but there was no damage to the vehicle. Miss Robb was a retired school teacher.

STUDENT GETS DAMAGES

TORONTO (CP)—A 16-year-old student who lost part of two fingers while operating a lathe at the Jarvis School for boys has been awarded $1,000 damages by the Toronto board of education.

Edward Charles Birch was operating the lathe during a woodwork class in January 1952 when his left hand was caught in the moving parts. The board of education did not admit liability but awarded the damages to Birch.

WIN OPENERS

HAMILTON (CP)—Twenty rinks from Hamilton and 12 from outside centres won opening games Monday in the first round of the Spectator Trophy event at the 32nd Hamilton bonspiel.

Brantford led the out-of-town contingent with three rinks advancing into the second round of the main event and Welland had two. Other survivors of first-round play were from Kitchener, London, Oshawa, North Bay, Port Colborne, Orillia and Winnipeg.

FOR

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Intriguing, favorable day for financial interests, laborious trades, manufacturing. But caution is urged in legal affairs. Care in promises.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Mind these Ps and Qs: Give and take in equally reserved attitude; and remember, graciousness is needed in giving to prevent hurting the receiver.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Today's recipe: Faithfulness to "little" duties, accuracy rather than speed, and mild courteous tact.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—The man or woman in all key positions must have co-operation else his or her talents will be wasted. No matter your status, consider well the necessity of co-operation.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—There are such things as school, business, and road manners as well as those civilities that exist for home and socials. Be "on the beam" in the o'er-polite niceties and enjoy day.

August 24 to September 23 (Vivo)—Not so much comfort as rightness is wanted, and not so much achieved as what is done in earnest fashion. Curb over-zeal, being no zealot.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Look to your talents to assist others and help them show at their best. Originality (not in over-doses) will aid. So will good humor.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Fine day for dealing with superiors to seek advancement, make improvements and corrections. Sound investments, gains in business deals sponsored.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Aspects promising, particularly for personal gain, profiting in business transactions. More caution stressed in written matters, contracts, etc.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Rays more friendly for labor, dealing in machinery, tools, other commodities, but extra care is urged to avoid accidents. A day to get ahead in many ways.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Encouraging. Be enthusiastic to tackle day's tasks, big and little. Don't be discouraged at rebuffs. Push ahead!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—May be fresh advantages in other than your own special work, so keep eyes open. Co-operation with superiors will bring benefits. Day to advance worthy causes.

YOU BORN TODAY: Possess high ideals, are fair-minded, generous, but inclined at times to be too easy-going. Unless you keep after yourself about the latter tendency it could become a serious fault. Associate with honorable, energetic, rightly ambitious folks. Birthdate of: Sir Henry Raeburn, Scotch portrait painter; Count Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero in U.S. Revolutionary War.

Why We Say—

PETTICOAT

Oddly enough the original petticoat were worn by men. They were short warm woolen under jackets. Then women adopted the coat and gradually lengthened it into the apron-vied today.

SUFFERED BROKEN NECK, BELFAST (Reuters) — Mrs. Moyra Haughton, 23, one of eight passengers dragged from the wreckage of a crashed airliner outside Belfast last month, will give birth to a baby in June. Mrs. Haughton suffered a broken neck in the crash and wasn't expected to live. However, she is recovering in hospital now and doctors say she be be walking by May and will have her baby a month later.

Well-Bred Dogs, Cats Left Fire Bathing Wounds

DETROIT (CP)—Well-bred dogs and cats, appearing in competition here Sunday, showed their true colors and left five persons bathing their wounds.

My-Sean Diller, a silver Persian cat owned by Mrs. Alfred Smith of Buffalo commanded the attention of all spectators twice during a cat show in the auditorium of a downtown hotel.

First she was named "all breed best of show." Then she took a curtain call by escaping while being fed a picture and scratched and bit four persons before being captured.

Returned to her cage, she quickly resumed the role of the dignified champion.

Meanwhile, So Merry Boy, a Sealyham terrier exhibited at the Detroit Kennel Club show by Princess Emina Toussoun of Washington, was a virtual prisoner after being accused of biting a boy on the nose.

$800 in Cash Taken from Safe At Kingsville

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A new case in Essex county's safe-breaking epidemic was reported over the week-end as thieves broke into a safe in the Kingsville Co-Operative, making a clean get-away with $800 in cash and $4,700 in cheques.

The Kingsville break-in, estimated to have occurred between late Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, is the county's third major safe-cracking job during the past four days. Total loot has exceeded $5,200 — cash and $4,700 in cheques.

More than $1,000 was stolen from the Leamington Metropolitan store and $400 from the C. and H. Zakoor warehouse in Windsor both safe-smashing jobs concerning the Leamington store early on Thursday morning.

The Kingsville break-in was discovered by one of the company drivers while he was preparing a truck for a Toronto trip Sunday afternoon.

$10,000 Ring Lost

TORONTO (CP)—A $10,000 diamond the size of a man's thumb nail, set in a ring of platinum, was lost Monday at Toronto's Union station.

Jack Kirshner, a commission agent who received the ring for resale, reported the loss to police. He said he had the ring wrapped in tissue paper in his glove. "The glove was in my pocket, the tissue paper stayed in so I had a sense of possession even though the ring had gone."

He said it was insured.

TIME FOR CHANGE

LONDON (CP)—Threadbare curtains have been replaced in the Camberwell marriage register office out of respect to Coronation Year brides. The curtains were hung in 1877, the year of the coronation of George VI.

FRANKFORD

FRANKFORD — Messrs Milford MacAuley and Holt Madill spent Thursday and Friday in Toronto.

The Boy Scout and Cub Scout Troop held its regular meeting Friday evening.

It looks as if the Frankford Bowling League is going to want for a waiting list next year. Friday night, the league executive were making a few of the younger lads in action in Trenton, and there seem to be some real prospects. Mrs. Helen Whitney tried her first game Friday night in Trenton and did quite well at that. Young Bill Dafoe is sure to trim the dickens out of his parents in another year, if he keeps going like at present.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Milo Palmer is still confined to her daughter, Mrs. Percy Rogers. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

FRANKFORD — Division "B" of the Frankford Bowling League has grown into a real three-way race now, with the Screwballs the latest team to enjoy contention. Elmer Rodgers' team climbed into second place, by virtue of their clean sweep over Milford MacAuley's Aristocrats. Set-bourne Sharpe's "never-say-die" Marxlers' Kids took five from Earl Rogers' Merry Macs in the other game.

Standing: Aristocrats 93; Screwballs 91; Merry Macs 90; Marxlers' Kids 80.

$5,000,000 Fire at Plant

Fire has swept the huge Chats Falls powerhouse (circled) near Ottawa with unofficial estimates of the damage ranging as high as $5,000,000. This airview shows the $20,000,000 plant, owned jointly by the Ontario Hydro and the Ottawa Valley Power Company, and located on the Ottawa River, 30 miles west of Ottawa. Four generating units of the plant were in ruins, cutting off the 220,000 horsepower output of the plant which supplies Toronto and other southern Ontario centres. — (CP Photo.)

Hydro Plant Fire

Smoke pours from the huge $20,000,000 Chats Falls plant near Ottawa as fire rages out of control. Sections of the concrete walls and roof collapsed. The plant housing millions of dollars worth of turbines and dynomes, located 30 miles west of Ottawa on the Ottawa River, is owned jointly by the Ontario Hydro and the Ottawa Valley Power Company. It supplies power for Toronto and other southern Ontario centres. The blaze broke out following an explosion in an oil circuit-breaker or transformer. A spark is believed to have ignited oil in the breaker, spattering burning oil over the equipment. — (CP Photo.)

France and Spain Working Together to Turn 75,000 Acres In Morocco to Green Pastures

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MELILLA (Reuters) — France and Spain, impelled by common interests, are working together to develop plans for turning 75,000 acres of the sun-seared Spanish part of Morocco into green gardens.

High-level colonial administrators of the two countries thrashed out details of the scheme at a meeting at Mechra - Homadi, inside the French section of the region.

In the irrigation project, they plan to jointly harness the water of the river Moulouya, which rises in the frontier areas between French and Spanish Morocco near here.

Spain, which has clung to her desolate strip of the Moroccan coast tenaciously for 400 years for strategic reasons, hopes the project will enable the country to settle 20,000 Moorish families on irrigated land and provide 25,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity for industrialization to ease the drain on the Spanish treasury.

The Spanish territory has only 12,125 square miles of mainly barren mountain land in comparison with the 153,870 square miles of territory in French Morocco.

Countries Disturbed

The two countries have a joint interest in that Spain was disturbed by the December nationalist riots in French-controlled/ Casablanca while the French are anxious that the Spanish territory shall not serve as a base for nationalist activities.

At present Spanish Morocco is probably the most peaceful corner of North Africa over which violence last year flared from Suez to Casablanca.

France burst into Morocco with all the explosive energy of which she is capable and by tenacious, hard work modernized it out of all recognition. But a Moorish townproletariat has been created bringing difficult new problems for France.

In Spanish Morocco, industrialization is scant, and the Moor lives his traditional peasant life away from the towns.

Obama Visit

A Moorish handicraft worker questioned about Moorish independence, said:

"In great countries like America and France and Britain where everyone gets schooling, it is still difficult to find good statesmen. How then shall we, poor Moors, of whom few can read or write hope to govern ourselves? Until we have many people with knowledge, independence here would mean the rule of the wealthy and the greedy in an atmosphere of endless strife."

But the younger, middle-class town-dwelling Moors do not see the problem the same way.

The leader of these groups is Abdel Kader Torres, who returned to Spanish Morocco in January, 1952, after having lived four years in exile in Tangier. Several months later, after long talks between Generalissimo and the caliph of Spanish Morocco, Prince Muley Hassen Ben El Mehdi, political parties were permitted for Moroccan nationals — a luxury which France did not allow Spaniards.

This proved a limited concession. It only applied to the towns, and Ceuta and Melilla were excluded on the grounds that, administratively, they are part of Spain. That left only Tetuan, with its 70,000 inhabitants, as the scene of this experiment in liberty.

Little progress seems to have been made since.

DIES AS SON PLAYS

CLEVELAND (AP)—The father of the Penn College centre died in the stands of a heart attack Monday night and a basketball game against Detroit Tech was called off with one minute left in the third period. The dead man was Frank Kunc, 58, a Cleveland policeman and a basketball fan. His son, Fred Kunc, told Penn coach Homer Woodling he wanted to call the game "no contest," and both clubs agreed.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

But the wildness of the night and the sense of being alone gave Jenny an uneasy feeling. Almost as soon as Tod left it began to sleet. The sound dinned softly on the roof of the trailer and pattered against the windows. She looked through the window facing the Hansen trailer after a while and noticed that it was dark. Tod had forgotten to make sure they were going to be home all evening.

Panic came to her quite suddenly with the first sharp twige of pain. The hour that ensued was like a nightmare. She tried to keep calm by getting her overnight case ready to take to the hospital. Tod said he would not stay long. She did not dare venture out of the trailer because the ground was covered with ice and the wind was blowing the sleet in a steady drumming against the trailer walls.

She grew no longer aware of time, only the dark waves of pain that caught her in their relentless grip over and over again. She was crying.

Then came a knock at the door. She called out as the blackness caught her relentlessly again. All at once she was aware of Rick's calm presence, his hands putting her arms into her coat, his arms about her as he carried her to his car.

His overcoat was rough against her face. "Oh, Rick, I'm so glad you came! So glad!"

"Jenny, darling, don't worry. Everything'll be all right."

Jenny heard Rick's unhurried voice, with a hint of laughter in it. "I'm not the proud father, really. He's—well I didn't have time to find out just where he had gone, but—"

She couldn't seem to control her thoughts. They swam around crazily, just as she herself was swimming now through a pale green mist. Tod hadn't really wanted this baby. He hadn't even wanted to talk about it. And he couldn't be bothered with sitting around with her every evening until it came. Ma was lonely.

Ma's face was there all at once, very real, dancing before her wearing an expression of mockery. "You schemed and finangled to get him to marry you, when you knew all the time he was still in love with Liz."

"No!" she cried out. "I didn't scheme and finagle. I only loved him."

Rick's voice interrupted gently. "Jenny?" Jenny opened her eyes, and through the mist his face emerged. The room came into focus, pale green walls, Venetian blinds, and on the metal bureau, a huge bouquet.

"Harp I: been talking crazy, Rick?" she asked weakly. She twisted her fingers around his warm hand.

Rick finished and looked embarrassed. You're supposed to rest Jenny," he said gravely.

A nurse bustled in. "So she's finally come out of it. Well dearie, has your husband told you about those two bouncing boys!"

"I'm not the father," Rick's face reddened again.

"Oh, yes," the nurse bustled around. "They told me that, but I forgot.

"Tod will be here any minute," Rick explained. "I phoned the office at the trailer camp, and they will catch him when he comes in."

Jenny found her voice. "Two boys!"

"Twins, darling."

"Oh, no." She couldn't quite comprehend it.

Tod came at last. He leaned over her, and she looked up at him, her eyes blurred and sleepy. Then she smiled faintly and said, "It was a dirty trick of me—twins —can you imagine?"

"It's wonderful, Jenny. Wonderful to think it's all over." He hated himself for having gone away and left her. He tried in every way possible to make up for it. Magazines, books, candy, flowers—he fairly outdid himself. He spoke with hearty enthusiasm of his two future football players out in the nursery, and assured Jenny over and over again that they were the two cutest infants among the lot.

Jenny pondered a long time over the names. She made out a long list and Tod approved of two of them: Dale and Philip.

They went in Rick's car one fine sunny March day, back to Honeycroft camp. Jenny's neighbors had gone together to buy the needed extra bassinet and layette for the unexpected twins. It was a joyful homecoming. And for a time things ran very smoothly. Rick Hansen helped for a while with the morning baths. After all, two babies for a brand-new mother and no help in the crowded quarters, was quite an order.

In May the twins decided to be colicky at precisely the time Tod began working on his term papers. The trailer became a madhouse, a crowded, hectic 32 by 20 space full of squalls and the smell of wet diapers and spilled milk, and the sound of sharp adult voices. Those nights Jenny walked back and forth the length of the trailer with one of the babies to keep him from waking his brother and Tod.

Tod was worried about a job after his graduation. Business administration had seemed a good thing to take when he started college. He really hadn't been too interested in anything but football in the beginning. Now he learned that jobs available to graduates were seldom too well paid nor plentiful, especially from a small college like Marwood.

"All I'm interested in," Jenny said wearily as they discussed it, "is getting out of this trailer and into an apartment or a house."

Then Rick came to their rescue with what seemed to Jenny a dazzling solution. He had stopped by the trailer for a few moments one Friday afternoon. He was on his way home for the week-end. She had been telling Rick about her hopeless hunt for a place to live.

"Gosh, you'll have to come down ot Centerville! You can stay two weeks or even a month. We've got a big house, four bedrooms, and mother'd be tickled pink to get her hands on the twins. And she'd be nuts about you, Jenny!"

Tod looked up from his studies. "We'll find a place. Jenny's just discouraged."

"Yes, but there's no reason why you shouldn't all come down for a vacation. Of course it's a little town, awfully quiet hole—nice."

"Are you sure your mother wouldn't be appalled at having such a boucherel descend on her?" "Nonsense!" Rick cried. "She'd love it."

His enthusiasm was contagious, and he left with the understanding that they would come to Centerville for two weeks right after graduation.

After Rick left, Tod's voice was strangely harsh.

"Rick's in love with you isn't he?"

—XVIII—

Jenny stared at Tod for a long moment. "Rick in love with me? She said incredulously. "You ought to be ashamed to say that. Just because he had the kindness to want to get the babies out of this heat—"

"It's not the babies he's thinking about!" Tod's voice shook. "Don't think I haven't noticed all winter the way he looks at you with those big cow eyes of his. You've had him here for so many meals we ought to charge him board."

"You asked him here. And he's been a real friend to both of us."

"Yeah, he's quite a boy."

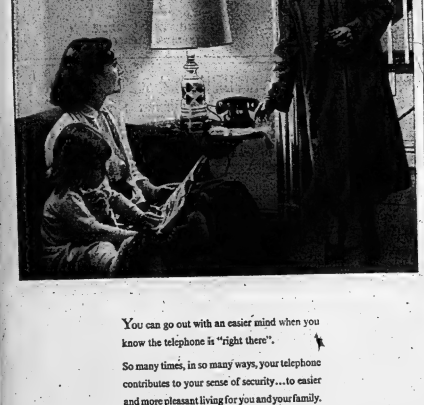
Anger flashed through Jenny. "He was here when I needed him. you weren't. No telling what might have happened if he hadn't come around last night I went to the hospital."

"I've explained about that night a dozen times, and apologized," Tod went on. "Ma needed me, and I didn't have you'd be up to the hospital. I've said I was sorry. What do you want me to do—crawl on my hands and knees the rest of my life?"

"You don't have to about so everyone can hear you."

He lowered his voice, but it remained savage in tone. He stood up his hands on the desk, his face still white with anger, his broad shoulders hunched. "Don't think for one minute the whole trailer camp doesn't know about Rick and you."

He turned and went out of the trailer, slamming the screen behind him. He could see Ruth Hansen staring out of her trailer window.



Sickening shame washed through him. When he left quarrel, what he had said, and what Jenny had said would be repeated through the camp. Jenny was right about it being a horrible place to live.

His anger was gone when he got back to the trailer. He and Jenny, both ashamed by now, made it up with kisses.

Ruth Hansen kept the twins while Jenny went to the graduation ceremony a week later. Tod looking down at her sitting in the second row, was struck by the pasty whiteness of Jenny's skin and the dark circles under her eyes. Remorse washed through him. Now that he was through school he'd find a good job and settle down an be like other husbands. He must try harder to make her happy, because she was still in love with him.

STALIN SUFFERS STROKE; SAID NEAR DEATH

London Reports Belief Premier Is Already Dead

Say Leaders of Satellites Are Called to Moscow

Say Pope Prays For Conversion Of Red Leader

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope retired to his private chapel and prayed for conversion of Prime Minister Stalin as soon as he learned of the Soviet dictator's illness, a Vatican source said today.

This source said the Pontiff prayed too for a better future "for the oppressed Russian people."

"It is only possible to wish in these last moments," the Vatican source said, "that he (Stalin) will repent of the enormous evil he has done."

"History has not known before him a prosecutor of so little faith and mentality and so full of all the vices that we connect with civilization.

"Stalin has impersonated the anti-Christ and under his direction Communism has carried on its Church from all sides and organized ferocious persecution against Christian people and, even worse, has indirectly sent millions on the road to error and perdition. From these acts, only God, in his infinite piety, is able to absolve him."

Six Canadians Held at Detroit; Thefts Admitted

DETROIT (CP)—Six Canadians were seized and questioned here here held by Detroit police today, for questioning about a series of thefts in Canada.

Police said one of the men admitted that he and two of his companions had stolen $2,895 from eight Canadian stores and post offices in the last month.

They were arrested at a hotel here Tuesday night. Police said they went there to question them on a report they were displaying and spending large sums of Canadian currency.

Held for questioning by Canadian authorities and U. S. immigration officers were Ralph Burnstine, 26, Harry Yarmo, 26; Edward Burnstine, 23, and Robert McDonald, 26, all of Toronto; Misses Sheila Lee, 18, and Violet Gray, 23, both of Windsor.

Miss Gray told Canadian authorities and Detroit police that Hardy Burnstine and McDonald left at a Windsor hotel Tuesday night and returned Sunday morning "with a lot of money."

Detective Lt. Joseph Brown of the Detroit holdup bureau quoted Burnstine as saying that he, Burnstine and McDonald broke into an office of the Farmers' Co-operative Kingsville, Saturday night and took $2,000 from a safe.

Lt. Brown also quoted Harding as saying the same trio, during the past month, took $45 from a post office in Edson, Alta.; $700 in one night from two stores and a tractor sales company in Edmonton, Alta.; $500 from a department store in Leamington, Ont., $350 from a post office in Harrow, Ont.; $300 from a post office and $400 in tools from a hardware store in Windsor.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Polar weather which returned to Ontario this morning with strong westerly winds will last through Wednesday, but the winds on Thursday will be much lighter than today. Snowstorms are expected in most places but the fall will be accompanied by drifting except in the snowbelt areas.

The storm centre with which these winds are associated moved through Ontario during the night at a speed of 40 miles per hour, dumped from an inch to an inch and a half of rain on Southern Ontario, lifted the temperature for a few hours to close to the freezing mark and was followed by several hours of winds averaging almost 40 m.p.h. with gusts over 60.

By NATE POLOWETZKY

LONDON (AP) — Moscow announced today that Joseph Stalin is gravely ill after suffering a brain stroke. Leaders of the Communist satellites in Europe were reported to have been called to Moscow — adding to speculation that the Russian prime minister may already be dead.

First word of the illness of the 73-year-old dictator came soon after sunup, in a Moscow broadcast saying he had suffered the stroke Sunday night-more than 48 hours earlier, Stalin was described as in a coma, with his body partly paralyzed and his condition grave.

Much Speculation

There was immediate speculation among diplomats here that Stalin already was dead, and that the Communist party was leading up to the disclosure of that in easy stages. From the Soviet satellites of Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of East Germany, reported he had flown to Moscow Tuesday night—as did many others. German sources said they understood top men in all the satellites had been called to Moscow.

A lot of guesswork was involved, pending a final clarification from Moscow but some Western diplomats said indications of the illness announcement supported their theory that the dictator was dead.

Conversely, others expressed belief an announcement would have been made at this time unless there were signs Stalin was on the mend. The announcement spoke of Stalin's "temporary withdrawal" from leadership of the Soviet Union and Communist party.

Strict Censorship

Western correspondents in Moscow were unable, because of censorship, to indulge in any sort of speculation. Even the official announcement of Stalin's illness was held up for hours until it could be passed formally through censorship.

There is the possibility that the matter of Stalin's successor may have been settled along say, George M. Malenkov, a ruthless follower of Stalin's methods, has been mentioned most prominently in the West in the last year as a probable successor, but there also is always a chance that other figures such as V. M. Molotov and L. P. Beria' will be included in the new setup.

There is considerable doubt, too, whether a Soviet under new leadership would be any easier for the West to get along with.

Strongly Feared

Only 12 days ago a high British source said the biggest possibility of a world war stemmed from the possibility of a struggle for power inside the Kremlin in the event of Stalin's death. Similar views have come from other Western leaders, who have voiced fearing of such a new leader, to consolidate his position, would seek to assert his strength by facing up sternly to all international challenges.

Six Daughters of British Peers To be Bearers of Queen's Train

By EDWIN S. ROSENTHAL

LONDON (Reuters) — Six spartican young beauties, all daughters of British peers, will bear the Queen's train at the Coronation in Westminster Abbey June 2, it was announced today.

This and other features of the Coronation pageantry were announced at a press conference by the Duke of Norfolk, the Queen's Earl Marshal, the official master of the event.

The youth of honor are all close friends of Princess Margaret. The Queen herself selected them, following a precedent established by Queen Victoria.

One of the key Coronation questions—will the Duke of Edinburgh stand beside his wife when she is crowned—was answered by the Earl Marshal. He won't. Philip has been assigned a seat among other royal dukes—Gloucester and Kent—on the right of the throne in the abbey.

He will, however, sit on the queen's left when she rides in her golden coach in the procession to the abbey from 1,000 guardsmen in helmets and glekning breastplates and 200 pipers and drummers.

Asked if the Queen's two children would be in the abbey, the Earl Marshal said: "I am afraid I have no knowledge at all of that."

CHALLIES DEFENDS HYDRO ELECTRIC IN LEGISLATURE

Talk Interrupted By Many Questions

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario hydro electric power commission, favored punching bag of opposition critics in the last two weeks, was defended Tuesday in a 90-minute speech in the Legislature by Hon. George H. Challies, vice-chairman of the commission.

Mr. Challies, who sits in the cabinet as minister without portfolio, rose for the first time since three opposition members alleged irregularities in contracts, exhorbitant rates, and discrimination against Northern Ontario consumers.

The Grenville-Dundas member's talk was interrupted several times by questions from the opposition, which frequently resulted in caustic exchanges.

Doctors Estimate Stalin Will Not Live 48 Hours

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Medical science estimated Stalin is unlikely to survive another 48 hours.

Should the miracle occur he is doomed to a life of paralysis.

Doctors said it seemed clear that he had suffered a stroke of apoplexy caused by the rupture of blood vessels in the brain.

The world record has been affected, death often follows within a short period. Even where some recovery seems to take place, the nutrition of the brain is so far impaired that a recurrence of a haemorrhage is likely. The danger of the increased with each attack.

One specialist estimated Stalin's life expectancy at "a few hours," another at a maximum of two days. They said that if he did recover, it was unlikely he would be able to speak again or use his right property.

He added that Stalin would not die until the blood burst in the middle of the brain.

Brain Affected

"The fact that he is breathing fast with long pauses shows that vital centres of the brain are being involved," he said.

"Stalin obviously has had a big cerebral hemorrhage," he added. "I should imagine that his doctors are just trying to keep him alive for the short succession, but there is always a chance that other figures such as V. M. Molotov and L. P. Beria' will be included in the new setup.

There is considerable doubt, too, whether a Soviet under new leadership would be any easier for the West to get along with.

Strongly Feared

Only 12 days ago a high British source said the biggest possibility of a world war stemmed from the possibility of a struggle for power inside the Kremlin in the event of Stalin's death. Premier Joseph Stalin

Emerged from Revolution To Become Ruler of USSR And World Communism

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Joseph Stalin, the son of a cobbler, emerged out of the chaos of the Russian revolution to master the forces unleashed by the upheaval — and become the undisputed ruler of the Soviet Union and the world communist movement.

He fought his way to the top by sweeping aside his revolutionary comrades, among them Leon Trotsky, after the death of Nikolai Lenin. Ever since 1927 Stalin has had the reins, but it took the purges of the 1930s to make his grip secure.

Such was the fury of the struggle to consolidate his rule that Stalin determined to perpetuate his empire by eliminating those conditions which might foster a new succession fight at his own death.

The summoning of an all-union Soviet Communist party congress last October, for the first time since pre-Second World War days, indicated that perhaps the machinery of succession had been set in motion; for the dictator was approaching his 73rd birthday.

Stalin himself had made the keynote address at the previous congress 13 years earlier, but this time the honor was given to Georgi M. Malenkov, a young a vigorous protege of Stalin.

As if he were preparing to take a back seat and watch younger men carry on the dictatorship he had forged, Stalin appeared at the congress to delegates' wild cheers but did not immediately address the group. Instead he set the mood of the sessions with a 25,000-word lecture on political economy published on the eve of the first meeting Oct. 5. It sounded like a valedictory.

Enslavement Resolution Does Not Effect Big Power Pacts Of Second World War--Taft

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert Taft of Ohio said today that President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles agree that a resolution to condemn Russian "enslavement" of other peoples in no way affects the big power agreements of the Second World War.

Taft's statement was in reply to Democratic taunts that by revising the wording of the resolution originally submitted by Dulles the Republicans had "emasculated" a cold war propaganda device sought by the President.

The revision may have jeopardized chances for the overwhelming vote Dulles has said it needs to give any propaganda effect.

Gives Interview

Taft declared in an interview: "Both Mr. Dulles and President Eisenhower agree that nothing in the present resolution is intended to affect the validity of the status —whatever it is—of the Yalta agreements as to any country as other."

Taft, the Republican Senate leader, would not go so far as to say, however, that Eisenhower and Dulles specifically approve the addition made to the resolution Tuesday by the Senate foreign relations committee.

The New York Times said that Taft "broke with and defeated the Eisenhower administration" on the first important foreign policy issue to be presented to the Republican Congress. The newspaper said that under Taft's influence, the committee voted to harden Eisenhower-

Offensive Taken By Mossadegh In Power Moves

TEHRAN, Iran. (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossedegh kept up the offensive today in his struggle for power with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, demanding that parliament intervene in royal court intrigues against his government.

The move was disclosed Tuesday night by the semi-official Iranian Radio Bureau as the Tehran returned closed to normal after riotous demonstrations which three persons were killed and an estimated 60 injured since Saturday.

Bakhtar Emroon said Mossadegh is insisting that parliament approach the royal court and demand elimination of intrigues. The newspaper asserted that the premier has threatened to call a referendum of the people if the palace does not take action against the alleged plotters.

If the referendum is favorable to him, the newspaper said, the premier will be in a position to act for himself. If the vote goes against him, he will resign, it added.

PEARKES CHARGES WASTE IN BUILDING RADAR NETWORK

Says Efforts to Learn Facts Rebuffed by Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — New opposition charges of waste and extravagance in the defence department have been made in the Commons.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, military spokesman for the Progressive Conservatives, said Tuesday he has evidence of waste and extravagance in the building of Canada's highly - secret radar screen across the continent.

Gen. Pearkes, member for the British Columbia constituency of Nanaimo and wartime commander of Canada's Pacific Coast area, made his charges during continued debate on the 1953-54 budget.

Efforts to learn the facts about the radar stations, he said, were rebuffed by the government on the grounds of security.

Talked With Persons

However, he had talked with some persons connected with the radar stations and had letters from others. One man had said there was a "flagrant disregard" of cost at one site. Others mentioned duplication of shipments and another said an order for equipment had resulted in the arrival of a shipment "containing two wrecks and a large amount of useless scrap."

Finance Minister Abbott questioned the procedure of quoting from communications without disclosing the names of the persons who gave the information. Speaker Ross Macdonald said Gen. Pearkes must disclose the names of those making the charges if he wanted to quote them.

John Miller, Once Head of C.I.D. Of O.P.P., Dies

TORONTO (CP) — John Miller, 65, for 6 years a police officer and once head of the criminal investigating branch of the Ontario Provincial Police, died in hospital Tuesday.

Mr. Miller spent 31 years with the provincial police after being a member of the force in Belleville and on many of the province's leading murder cases with success.

Probably his most outstanding case was the kidnapping of the late John Labatt. Mr. Miller directed investigations that led to the arrest of the gang who snatched the millionaire brewer and held him for ransom in 1934.

3 Feared Dead In Ocean Crash

HALIFAX (CP) — A naval aircraft crashed into calm Atlantic seas while on training exercises in British submarine Tuesday night and its crew of three is feared dead.

Searchlights from six surface craft swept the crash scene some 200 miles off Halifax harbor all night and found only the Avenger's tail wheel and splintered wreckage.

Lashing Rain Dumps 1¼ Inches Of Water Over Western Ontario

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Torrential rains lashed over western Ontario in a night, dumped close to 1½ inches of water, but stopped short of creating a flood threat to district streams.

The storm hit London and travelled east through Thamesford, Ingersoll, Woodstock, and worked its way northeast through Delhi, Tillsonburg and Brantford areas.

In London streets ran curb-deep in water.

At Thamesford rain sent the Thames river surging two feet higher than its normal level within 24 hours overnight. But residents said there was no threat of flooding.

Delhi and Tillsonburg both reported rain lashed farms and water filled streets, but said that streams had risen but little.

No loss of life is believed to have occped away through the highly frozen ground resulting from an open winter.

No storm damage was reported.

Moscow Reveals Soviet Leader Stricken Sunday

Hemorrhage of Brain Causes Complete Paralysis

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin was in a grave condition today, stricken with a paralyzing haemorrhage of the brain.

There is no indication how leadership of the government will be affected.

The dictator was stricken in his Kremlin apartment last Sunday night, but the attack was announced by the government only today, a little more than 48 hours later.

A physicians' bulletin which called his condition grave now is less than 10 hours old.

At mid-day there was no indication when the next bulletin will be issued on Stalin's condition, but it may come tonight.

"Comrade J. V. Stalin had a sudden haemorrhage of the brain which affected vitally important parts of the brain, as a result of which paralysis of the right leg and right arm occurred, together with the loss of consciousness and speech," the eight attending physicians announced. They added that treatment had brought no material change in the condition of their 73-year-old patient, and "the grave of the disturbed functions of the brain had somewhat increased."

District Federal Engineer Retires

TORONTO (CP) — Jack Wilson, 70, district federal engineer for a large section of Ontario, will retire on April 1, it was announced position Friday.

In charge of the area between the Bay of Quinte, North Bay and Lake Nipissing and down through Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario, he was responsible for construction of federal facilities in Toronto and Hamilton in recent years and built the toll bridges over the Burlington canal.

Although official retirement age in his department is 65, the Toronto-born Mr. Wilson stayed on the extra five years. He has no plans to go into business for himself as a consulting marine engineer.

Queen Mary Spends Fairly Good Night

LONDON, (AP)—Queen Mary, sick in bed for ten days with a recurrence of gastric trouble, spent a "fairly good night", informants said today.

They described her (general) condition, however, as unchanged.

The 85-year-old Queen grabbed mother dealt with her correspondence and generally was attended by members of her household.

CRUSHED BY CAR, DIES

OTTAWA (CP) — Two-year-old John L. Noonan was crushed to death between a car and the bumper of a runaway car Tuesday night. The car, owned by John Powell, a neighbor, had been parked on a hill nearby 30 minutes earlier. The empty car rolled nearly 200 feet before it jumped the curb and carried the child about three feet, until it hit a tree.

House Rejects Scots' Amendment On Queen's Title

LONDON - (Reuters)—The House of Commons Tuesday night overruled Scottish Nationalist objections and approved the Queen's Coronation title as "Elizabeth II."

The Scottish minority walked out of the House after its amendment was defeated.

The Scots had urged rejection of the title on grounds that "it does not provide for a historically accurate royal title for Scotland." They complained Scotland is being treated as a "minor satellite" of England.

Many Scots object to the Queen being called Elizabeth II. They say they never had a Queen called Elizabeth before. The 16th century Elizabeth—"Good Queen Bess" of Shakespeare's day—was Queen of England only, since Scotland was then a separate nation under Mary Queen of Scots (subsequently beheaded by Elizabeth I).

The Scots stood alone as a stubborn minority of 39 as their amendment was turned down by a majority of 296. Told then received second reading (approval in principle) and final third reading.

Can Win Korea Says Van Fleet

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today the United Nations forces can win a military victory in Korea without enlarging that war into a greater conflict.

The former 8th army commander in Korea said also he knows of no other way to break the deadlock over the prisoners - of - war issue—the great snag of armistice talks.

With the general in the witness chair, members of the Expressed sives armed services committee, Representative James Fulton (Rep. Conn.) asked: "Is there any solution to the problem of interchange of prisoners?"

Van Fleet replied in one word: "Victory."

Patterson: "Other than that, Mr. President, do you think—"

Van Fleet: "That's all."

Cellars Flooded By Heavy Rain In Quinte Area

Flooded cellars and basements were a common complaint today after last night's heavy rainfall which saw no less than 1.38 inches of water descend over the Bay of Quinte area.

The rain started during the early evening and continued through most of the night. The rain came down like a spring freshet shortly before midnight taxing storm sewers to the maximum to carry away the flood.

In some instances the sewers were not sufficient to carry away the water and the surface water seeped into basements threatening to put fires out.

City firemen were called with a pumper to Albert College where water poured into the basement. They pumped out the basement and saved the furnace. The same occurred in a home in the same basements under residential property in the city.

Today the level in the river was raised as tributary water from the rural areas entered the main stream. Considerable surface soil was washed down by the rains and as was indicated by the murky appearance of the water.

Moose Lodge, Big 'A' Battle to 2-All Draw

Moose Lodge and Big "A" battled to a 2-2 tie in the first of the two-game total goals in council semi-final midget series played at the Memorial Arena last night.

Fred Hagerman scored both goals for Moose Lodge with Frederick helping on one of them. Keegan got the first Big "A" tally and Ferguson with the aid of Durno got the second.

The final game of the playoff will be played next week.

Hospital Board Will Institute Campaign to Recruit Nurses

The nursing administration of the Belleville General Hospital will shortly begin a campaign to recruit girls for the nursing training class which begin this autumn, it was revealed at the monthly meeting of the hospital board.

The director of nursing, Miss Margaret Peart, Reg. N., will contact high schools in the near future in an effort to acquaint senior students with what the nursing profession can offer young women.

Two staff nurses have left the hospital for post graduate training in operating technique. Miss Elizabeth Cook left for Toronto at the end of February for St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto, and Miss Gloria Hawkins has been attending lectures since March 2 at the Poly Clinic in New York. Both nurses are expected to be six months in duration and the nurses will return here on completion of training.

Three to Take Course

Further, three nurses will begin courses at the University of Toronto in May. The three nurses names have not been released. Kenneth R. Box, hospital administrator, commenting on this extra training for nurses said: "It is hoped this will free supervisory staff will attend post graduate classes. We would like to have as many go as possible. When the new Belleville hospital opens we will have an extremely superior nursing staff in this hospital. A result, nursing services to the patient will be far above average."

Educational Opportunities in Armed Forces Topic at BCIVS H-S Assoc.

The regular monthly meeting of the BCIVS Home and School Association was held in the Collegiate auditorium on Monday, with past president, Mrs. R. H. Varcoe, presiding. Group Captain Millward, Officer Commanding Trenton C.O.T.C. spoke on "Educational Opportunities in the Armed Forces."

Group Captain Millward dealt chiefly with the opportunities open to young Canadians in the RCAF because that is the branch of the services with which he is most familiar. Especially good chances for congenial employment and, moreover, common as well in the army and the navy.

Corrects Misconceptions

By way of introductiEds Group Captain Millward tried to correct in the minds of his hearers some grave misconceptions of the functions of service people. The whole concept has changed since pre-World War II. The services now require more completely technically trained officers and other ranks.

To illustrate, he related the case histories of four of his associates in combat service during the late war. All had left the RCAF on termination of hostilities. One trained as a doctor, one as a mechanical engineer, the third as an electrical engineer, and the fourth as a Ph.D. in nuclear physics. All four found ample scope for their training in specialized applications in the RCAF.

Training Facilities

The training facilities for officers centred around the two year's course at Royal Roads to which Canada alone of the United Nations, maintains. There are R.M.C. at Kingston, and Royal Roads at Victoria, B.C. These schools give, during the first two years, a pre-engineering course with the additions of English, French,' History and Economics.

After the second year, the cadet elects the branch of service he wishes, and finishes his engineering course at R.M.C.

The requirements for entrance are senior matriculation at R.M.C. and Royal Roads. At the third school, College Militarie Royal de Saint-Jean, St. Jean, Quebec, candidates are admitted with junior matriculation, receive bilingual training and finish their course at R.M.C. The latter group serve in either French or English-speaking units.

Pays Fees

In addition to the above, use is made of the more conventional type of university training with suitable officer material for the services. In these, under the government pays the fees of the candidates for all four years of the course. In addition it pays the student $30 per month during the first academic year.

Following the normal school term from September to May, the cadets are trained for the balance of the year in the navy, army or air forces, according as they have elected to serve.

Other non-commissioned ranks are trained at technical schools at Camp Borden and at Aylmer for the air force. Army and navy have similar schools established to train their personnel, and located at suitable centres.

Engineering Technicians Needed

While the chief need of the forces at present is for engineering technicians, other professional skills are also needed.

A question period followed the discourse, in which several collegiate students took part.

Group Captain Millward was introduced by Mr. James Mus-

Obituary

JAMES ROBERT McCAFFREY (Bowmanville)

Funeral services were held on Saturday at 37 King Street East for James Robert McCaffrey, who died suddenly on Thursday at his home, 74 King Street West, at the age of two years and one month. Rev. Warren Turner officiated at the service, with burial following at Bowmanville cemetery.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McCaffrey, he was their second-born child, and his January 5, 1951 birth date made him the first infant born at Memorial Hospital at Bowmanville in that year. He was then a seven-pound infant, with an early good-health that augured a bright future. The boy was fond of playing in the garden in company with his sister, and was frequently seen to enjoy outings with his mother, while his robust nature made an attack of sickness about a week ago seem an ordinary childhood malady.

He is survived by seven sister, Valerie, and his mother and father.

GEORGE MANNING

Funeral services for George Manning, R.R. 2, Frankford, were held from the Rowe Funeral Home, Frankford, on Saturday, March 2rd, at 2 p.m., the Rev. Canon Hiltz officiating with the Frankford United Church, officiating with the aid of the Canadian Legion.

The deceased, who died in the home of his brother, Frank Manning, Kingston, Ont., on Friday, March 1st., was in his 67th. year. Ill for the past year, he had lived in the Frankford district for the past 20 years, having previously resided in Toronto.

Born at Colborne, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manning, he is survived by his widow, the former Maude McElroy; one daughter, Mrs. H. E. Shewing, Peterborough; four brothers, Percy Bowne, Forest Sadler, William Foster and Everett Hall.

Interment was in Frankford cemetery.

Brief Referred To Public Works For Consideration

The American Ship by Rail Association has asked the support of the local city council in a campaign aimed at having heavy trucks and buses pay a fairer share of highway upkeep costs.

In a brief received by the council from the association, it points out that owners of automobiles and small trucks are being made to pay in gasoline tax and licence fees sums which result in subsidization for operators of heavy highway transports.

It showed comparative costs of highway maintenance, where only passenger cars were using the road and where the highways were in constant use by the big transports.

The brief was referred to the department of public works for consideration.

Activities of Arthritic Society Outlined to Kiwanis

The executive-secretary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society for the Ontario Division, Jack Pearson, described a number of the organization's activities to a gathering of the Kiwanis Club at the centre on Tuesday.

"Because little is known about the disease's origin and because it is not a killer, doctors have up until recently, not shown too much interest in the treatment of arthritis" the speaker told members. "And yet," he said, "600,000 Canadians suffer from the rheumatic diseases."

Mr. Pearson outlined the organization's formulation in 1948. Through donations from various medical groups and the co-operation of the minister of health and welfare, the Honourable Paul Martin, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society came into being.

"Through the society's efforts," the speaker said two phases of the disease, the oldest known to man, are being investigated. The first being research into causes and treatment of arthritis and the other, training of doctors."

Not A Cure

Mr. Pearson hinted that one of the researchers may soon come up with an important discovery in treatment. He said it was not a cure, but it was likely the key which many some day provide the treatment leading to a cure.

He spoke of the doctors trained by the society. Mr. Pearson said that of those who received fellowships are in teaching positions and the other two hold down important government positions.

Listing a few of the society's accomplishments the speaker described "public education" as one of the most important phases. He noted 30 clinics have been established to combat the disease through the society's efforts. Mobile clinics, numbering 35, travel to the patients home to administer treatment. The various research projects into arthritis and rheumatism are other accomplishments.

Concluding his address, the speaker said, "All this has been accomplished in a very short while and we have hopes for more hoped for in the future."

Mr. Pearson was introduced by Louis Maraskas and thanks was tendered by Sidney Larman.

WILLIAM A. EASTON, recently-appointed assistant superintendent of Belleville division of the C.N.R., assumed his new duties on March 1.

Mr. Easton, who held a similar capacity in the Brockville division before arriving here, replaces C. E. Shaver, who has been transferred to Hamilton. Along with the assistant superintendency duties in Brockville during the past six years he was trainmaster there and in Montreal.

Married to the former Ella Giles, of Montreal, Mr. Easton has two sons, one at St. George Williams College in Montreal and the other at Brockville Collegiate Institute.

Kampus Kapers To be Presented By BCI Students

"Kampus Kapers", a delightful stage revue, will be presented by students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School in the school auditorium on March 5th and 6th.

The revue, an extravaganza of melody, music, the dance and comdey, interspersed by athletic presentations by school gymnasts, is said to rank favorably with former school offerings of the same nature.

The "beauty" of the school has melded its talents into a fine presentation of classical, singing and melody. The ballet, Scottish and Irish dancing, an eye-pleasing Skits by the "Glow Worms," "Before, After and Heaven Forbid" plus a host of other acts and brilliant instrumentalists round out a fine evening's entertainment.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Stock market trading slowed after a brisk opening today and forenoon prices weakened slightly.

Volume for the first hour totalled 1,204,000 shares—lowest since Feb. 17. A number of low-priced issues continued active but interest in western oils waned. The oils led the minutes losses, losing almost half a point on the exchange index.

Inspiration, a Northern Ontario rare metals prospect, made a gain of 25 cents in a turnover of 68,000 shares. Gunnar led uraniums lower dropping more than half a point.

Among the New Brunswick issues, New Larder U and Brunswick slipped.

Industrials mixed as steels and banks gained and textiles and miscellaneous issues weakened.

Base metals traded widely with moderate gains in East Sullivan, Falconbridge and Mindemoya. Senior golds were mixed and a few losses in juniors weakened the list.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN G. REID

The funeral of Mrs. John G. Reid, formerly Rosella Mae Tynton, was largely attended on Monday afternoon, March 2nd, in Mount Pleasant United church.

Her pastor, Rev. R. R. Bonisteel, brought a message of comfort to the three sons and seven grandchildren. He told of Mrs. Reid's interest in church work as long as health permitted.

Mrs. Reid was the third president of Mount Pleasant Women's Missionary Auxiliary, serving five years from 1916 to 1921. It was during her presidency that a Mission Circle was organized. Deceased was organist of the church in the old Methodist days and taught the adult Bible Class for several years.

During the service Mr. and Mrs. George Watson, Wellman's, sang "Beautiful City," with Mrs. Malcolm Sharp as accompanist. The congregation joined in the singing of "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me."

The bearers were: Messrs. Everett White, Frank Smith, Roy Thrasher, Ross Hoard, John Holmes and Fred Weaver.

The committal service was held in the church and entombment was in Mount Pleasant vault. Her husband, the late John Gilbert Reid, predeceased here in 1928. Deceased had lived in Rawdon for the past fifty-five years. Several relatives and friends from Wellman's attended the service. Last November Mount Pleasant W.M.S. honored Mrs. Reid on her 80th. birthday anniversary.

MRS. SOPHIA SPENCER

The funeral of Mrs. Sophia Spencer was held from the Bellville Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. T. F. Tweedie conducting the service in the chapel and graveside prayers at Albury Cemetery.

The bearers were: Douglas Redner, Ralph Redner, Winston Palmer, Roy Gass, Wellington Howell and Harold Young.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter unit prices were unchanged here today.

Prices were steady at the egg market but movement was improved. Quotations for graded eggs in the basket: A extra large 51; A medium 49-50; A small 47-48; grade B 41; grade C 38. Wholesale to retail: A large 55-56; A medium 54-55; A small 51-53; grade B 47-48; grade C 43.

Butter solids: first grade 63; no prices established on other grades.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1-8 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 98 11-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.77 1-8 against $2.77 3-16.

USEFUL PROJECT

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Due to the mild winter and light snowfall, Brant county workmen have been busy trimming trees along roadsides and clearing out overhanging branches. More work of this kind has been done this winter than ever before.

Special Committee Named To Investigate Question

Whether or not the city health department should continue its present policy of giving free service to persons living outside the corporation will be considered by a special committee from council.

Alderman Gerald Hyde as council representative on the Board of Health, said he had been receiving letters from the feeling of council on the matter. He said the department did not know whether council was aware that the free service was being given and wanted their feeling.

A committee of Alderman Gerald Hyde, Smith and Argue was appointed by Mayor Haig to investigate the matter. It could then report at the first free service being given to outsiders by the health department, it is suggested a representative meet with officials of the municipalities concerned to arrange a schedule of payment.

Alderman Hyde said he did not know to what extent the service was being given to out of town residents but understanding the work was taking up a "fair" portion of the city health budget.

The matter of salary increases for Dr. E. L. Brush, medical officer of health, and the department secretary, was also broached by Alderman Hyde. He asked the medical officer of health had not received a letter in regard to the matter, on council, while it was felt the department secretary should be eligible for the same increase as other staff employees at the city hall.

Only an Omission

Council agreed the failure of the medical health officer to receive the agreed-on increase was only an omission, but pointed out council had nothing to do with the matter, it was the department secretary.

"Council has nothing to do with that," said Alderman Countryman. "We gave the health department the budget they asked for and it is up to them to do with it what they like."

Plumbing inspections will be the responsibility of the board of health after the end of May and the board wanted direction from council as to whether it is. Mr. Holley, the present plumbing inspector should be hired, or whether the idea of sanitary inspector and plumbing inspector should be combined. Council has taken on the matter, which was referred back for report.

Plans will be prepared for utilizing the former assessment office at the city hall as an office for the welfare officer, Mayor Haig writing the assessor of the idea in principle, but it was pointed out that plans only were to be prepared.

Old Pickhall Rented

William Mayer, owner of the Belleville Bargain Centre gutted by fire two weeks ago, was granted the Front street fireball at $25 per week for a period of eight weeks.

The tender of the S. R. McCrory Construction Company was accepted for construction of a sanitary sewer on Stanley street. The amount of the tender was $2,711.50. Council voted to pay the Belleville Hydro $100 for the property along Highland Ave., which was taken when the street was widened last summer.

Mr. A. E. Wedgett was appointed as member of the Suburban Planning Board for a period of three years. F. G. Ray, public school board; A. C. Seldon, Bay of Quinte High School area board and O. H. Scott, public utilities, were also appointed as members on the planning board.

Last Month One Of Mildest In Many Years

Something which householders had already surmised because of lowered fuel oil and coal bills was confirmed today by city pump house officials who said last month was one of the mildest February's on record.

High temperature recorded during the month was a balmy 62 degrees and compared with a high of 43 in February last year. Low temperature for both February 1953 and 1952 was just above but the mean temperature last month was 26.5 as compared with 24.7 degrees last year.

The 40 year average mean temperature for February is 19 degrees. All of which proves something or other, mainly that lost winter was a mild one.

But just by way of contrast the coldest period recorded in the city's history started in 1866 when 'years was in February. That was back in 1934 when the mercury dropped to a chilly 30 degrees below zero.

Aside from being mild last month saw very little snow or rain again something, which was already apparent. Rainfall during month was but .27 inch, while the snowfall was 2.6 inches, making a total precipitation of but 1.6 inches.

Last year there was 1.24 inches of rain in February and 11.2 inches in March making a total precipitation of 2.85 inches. Average February rainfall during the past four decades is .90 inch with 13.6 inches of snow, making a total precipitation of 2.6 inches.

Frankford Ousts Sixadee In Valley Playoffs

Frankford — A gallant Sixadee team was eliminated from further competition in the Trent Valley League Southern Division playoffs Monday in Frankford, as Frankford edged them 6-5 in a game that could have gone either way. Rankin Shannon was the big hero of the night, scoring the winning tally with 4 minutes left in the third period.

Once again it was the line of Watson, Rankin and Graham that did the damage as far as Frankford was concerned. Graham set two goals and an assist, Graham with a goal and two assists, and Watson with a goal and two assists.

It looked like a walkaway for Frankford in the first period, as Rankin banged one home 45 seconds after the faceoff, Graham and Watson helping on the play. Three minutes later, Stephens scored unassisted. Watson added another, Graham, before Meloche got the airmen's first counter, Hipson picking up the assist. Attrill scored from Daigle, and Lomax tied the score from Attrill and Chevis. Graham put Frankford ahead again, from Watson and Rankin, but Hipson came right back and knotted the score again from Meloche.

The next goal was scored in a hard fought second period Fukancile scoring from Cooke.

In the third period, Meloche scored from Attrill and Hipson, to again tie the score. At the 13.30 mark, Rankin let drive a low, hard shot that wrapped up the game. Graham got an assist.

The Airmen were short-handed for the game and with an extra line, could have made the going pretty rough. They really played hockey during the series, and all who saw Monday night's game agree that it was the best of the season between the two teams.

Frankford—First period, Bone, Foster, Courtney, Cowick, Brill, Daigle. Second period, Stephens, Attrill, Schmidt. Third period, Brill, Meloche.

Frankford — Goal, Foshay; defence, Fukancik, Bone; centre, Rankin; wings, Watson, Graham; alternates, Courtney, Cooke, Foster, Stephens, Carey, Moran, Farmer, Wright, Belford.

Sixadee — Goal, McGinness; defence, Schmidt, Chevis; centre, Attrill; wings, Meloche, Hipson, alternates, Cowick, Daigle, Brill, Lomax, Graysmore.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Frankford's entry in the Trent Valley Bowling League just couldn't do anything wrong Saturday night, as they swept the three game series from Stirling. This seven-point win gives Frankford eleven points out of a possible twenty-one thus far. Stirling to date has two points.

Stirling—Nate Sine 691; John Eaton 947; Fred Mallory 649; Ray Wood 310; Doug Radnon 318; Wally Dingman 572. Games: 954, 1142, 958. Total 3054.

Frankford — Don Couture 785, Gene Lohnes 856; Will Rankin 702; Jack Farley 604; Frank Murphy 659; Percy Rankin 704. Games: 1009, 1265, 1211. Triple 3685.

ATTEND BANQUET

Sudbury (CP) — More than 400 curling enthusiasts Tuesday night attended the annual banquet in connection with the Canadian curling championships.

Chief Justice Thane Campbell, of Prince Edward Island, announced that the 1954 championships will be held in Edmonton and the 1955 at Regina during Saskatchewan's golden jubilee year.

The 44 contestants in this year's championships were introduced by R. G. L. Harstone, of Hamilton. Gregory Connors, Toronto curler and angler, was the speaker.

Chairman of Fire Says Residents Careless About Conditions Which Result in Fires in Giving Report

Belleville residents are careless about conditions which result in fire, numerous instances were told Monday by Alderman Angus Duffy, chairman of the council fire committee.

This statement was made by Ald. Duffy as he presented the annual report of Fire Chief General Vance. The report showed that 666 alarms were answered last year by firemen, an increase of 164 over the year previous.

The fire committee chairman said that the number of calls in Belleville compared very unfavorably with many other centres of the same size.

"I say that Belleville people are careless because over 100 of the alarms were caused by actual carelessness, while many other runs were caused by neglect."

Similar Instances

Ald. Duffy also noted that property in the city was generally under-insured. "I'm not working for any insurance company, but the insurance carried on property in this city would not near cover the loss if it were destroyed."

Careless smoking, such as Dad smoking on the bed when he fell asleep, resulted in no less than 42 alarms during the year. Defective flues brought firemen out 49 times, dirty stovepipes resulted in 19 alarms and defective furnaces 29 alarms.

Short circuits and electric wiring caused 68 alarms. Mothers' dinners left cooking a bit too long in the oven brought firemen running on 19 different occasions, while children playing with matches caused 11 alarms.

101 Runs to Country

That rural municipalities having fire fighting agreements with the city, ladder trucks and long hours of training are also carried out during the year consisting of the fire chief and his assistant, instruction with the resuscitator and inhalator and actual fire fighting techniques.

Health of the department personnel was good during the year there being only 29 sick days being registered for the 36-man department. In addition to the 36 firemen there are two switchboard operators who take fire calls.

One fireman, Alonzo Wilson, retired from the department in December after 23 years service as a city fireman.

Primo Carnera Visitor in City

The former heavyweight champion of the world Primo Carnera, 6 foot, 6½ inches tall, after the bout he and his manager headed towards Peterborough, where he tangles with Sky Hi Lee tonight. However, due to the rain, they stopped over with A. Quinte.

A great big, affectionate individual, attired in sports coat and a smile stretching across his face, Carnero, by the size of him, looks as though he would be unbeatable. The average man's hand is indistinguishable when shaking hands with Mr. Carnero.

His manager, Hardy Krushamp says they are working towards the title bout. "We were supposed to get it last week in New York, but something happened." Primo himself estimates time for the bout around July. Asked if he thought he would win should the bout take place his answer was a shrug of the shoulders.

"You look good this morning Champ," Krushamp told him. "Ah," said Carnero, giving his manager a backhand to the stomach which even caused him, "you always say that."

The three men people and, better than that, when he throws his arm across your shoulder this is a signal for the fire chief in his car. His pumper would be stationed at the new firehall on Dundas street. Plans for a panel truck for department use was also recommended.

The hiring of six additional firemen for adequate manning of two fire stations, was also recommended.

In conclusion the fire chief expressed his appreciation to Mayor Haig, members of the fire committee, and to council as a whole for the fine spirit of co-operation. Appreciation was also extended to the city and provincial police for assistance, and to the press and radio station.

AN ENLIGHTENING COINCIDENCE

A curious coincidence this week tied up two news stories which had originated in widely-separated parts of the world. In Quebec, Pat Walsh, a well-known labor organizer, announced that he had broken away from a long-time connection with a number of prominent Communist-front organizations and in doing so revealed Red plans for sabotage and important installations, manpower and resources in Canada in the event of war. In London, it was disclosed that an unprecedented proposal involving an exchange of prisoners had been proposed to Britain by Communist Hungary.

Actually the Communist plot for sabotage announced by Walsh was something less than a sensational revelation. The statements of Walsh merely brought to public attention once again the role of Canada's Reds as the servants of Moscow at all times. Indeed what he had to tell was of much less importance than what Sullivan and McManus had to tell when they broke away from the Communist party, and the party-bossed Canadian Seamen's Union. And some of the things Walsh mentioned were very much what was not already known to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The news coincidence to which we refer was emphasized by the indignant denials from Communist leaders. They instantly branded everything that Walsh said as sheer fabrication and hoped to strengthen the denial by pointing out that Walsh was not, and had never been, a member of the Communist (or Labor-Progressive) party in Canada. Rather, protested Tim Buck in shocked form, Walsh was an active Republican and refused to join the Reds because the party did not condone "terrorism." (Tim, apparently, has a sense of humor even in the face of a crisis.)

The Buck protests, of course, were in line with the rigidly held party-line that, for public purposes, it must be understood there are no formal ties with Moscow. Even to the line of incontrovertible evidence of the kind disclosed by Sullivan and McManus when they detailed how the Canadian Seamen's Union had fulfilled Moscow orders in being equipped on those continents, this disclaimer is still stoutly maintained. But it is no secret to the authorities that the Communist party, wherever it exists, is part of the working apparatus of international Red intrigue.

And even while Tim Buck's pretensions otherwise were being made public, we were receiving the ghastly demonstration of that international conspiracy. It was seen in that proposed deal to British from Hungary. The British have in Malaya, a Chinese Communist girl-guerrilla leader under sentence of death. The Hungarians have a British business man in prison as a spy. There had never been any conceivable link between these two cases beyond the single fact that the machinery of the Communists in Hungary is the business of the Communists in Malaya. By the same token the business of the Communists in Canada is the business of Communism everywhere.

WHAT DOES NEHRU MEAN?

There is an anxious feeling in some quarters in Washington that the next disconcerting move in the Far East may be one in which India's Nehru will align himself with Moscow on the Korean issue.

It is conceded that the Western mind is often perplexed and at a loss to reconcile the political thinking of India's leaders and Premier Nehru made it doubly easier in some of his recent statements. As Pandit (the learned one) Nehru, who has come to respect the Indian leader as the wise but more politically practical statesman of destiny who is to lead his people in their new role, as a great independent nation of the Far East. No one has doubled his sincere desire for peace and his anxiety that the American war as an issue which might expand and finally engulf his own country.

But Nehru is not understood when he tells the Parliament in New Delhi that the new American administration is a threat to peace. "A soldier is a very fine person in his own domain," he said, "but this intrusion of the military materially affects the character of what presents a very great danger." This obvious reference to the new President became much pointed when he added: "As some Frenchman once said, 'War is far too serious a matter to be entrusted to soldiers'—let alone peace." This was something else than the wise observation of a statesman. It savored very much of the wisecrack of the politician.

By itself, Nehru's recent comment might have received little attention but observers in Washington have linked it to some other developments. It is noted that in Moscow, where Stalin has permitted few foreigners to see him for quite a time, interviews have been granted to India's quite ambassador and, as well, to a well known Indian fellow traveller.

Adding these things up, U.S. News and World Report sees signs that Stalin and Nehru have been "putting their heads together." It is thought probable that the result could be a new overture from India on the Korean issue urging no blockade of Communist China, no embargo on strategic materials headed for use in Asia, admission of Communist China to the United Nations and the expulsion of Nationalist China, and "presumably, next, withdrawal from Korea of U.N. forces."

Admitting that the Washington administration is particularly sensitive to criticism at this stage and even allowing for some exaggeration on the important attached to the events noted, it would seem that Premier Nehru has done nothing to make the solution of the Korean question any easier.

BOOKS

Books are happy company when the skies are gray.
Books are friends that never plead: "Let's go out today."
Books are quiet company, glad to settle down
By a lamp and blazing fire, far away from town.
Books will never fret or sigh at the window pane,
Wondering how to pass the time when the Lord sends rain.
They will never pace the floor like men whose nerves are strained,
Dull, morose and helpless things when they're entertained.
Friends we need and friends are good for every whim and mood
But who has books for company has friends for solitude.

"You're warm - - - the garage is five feet over to the right."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 4, 1933.

Flocks of blackbirds have appeared in the city, starlings are now gathering in thousands at the city dumps, crows have returned to the suburbs, robins are reported out of hibernation and the roadways are spotted with meadowlarks continue to rise in the springlike weather that has been experienced throughout the week.

This afternoon the Toronto Oxford Group of sixteen or possibly eighteen will arrive in the city and will be entertained at Albert College. This evening a general meeting will be held in the assembly room at Bridge Street Church at which the members of the Toronto team will share their Christian experiences as a result of their contact with the English group visitors. Tomorrow morning the Group will speak in a number of the city churches.

Miss Nora Benson of Ivanhoe is visiting friends in the city.

Polite Refusal

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Tax collectors are often regarded as necessary evils, as gruff fellows, whose chief delight in life is telling the taxpayer what he can't do as always wrong. The result is that most people experience the same degree of pleasure in going into debt to the Government as is found in the gay business of going into debt, on a shopping spree.

Down in Washington, D.C., however, the tax collectors seem to be smartening up a bit in their relations with the public. For example, the case of the group of charming professional models who sought recently, as a corporation, to secure depreciation allowance for loss of beauty through "age exhaustion, obsolescence or otherwise."

Full consideration was given by the tax authorities to their representations. Finally, the Internal Revenue Commissioner himself handed down the ruling. It is the opinion of his office," he declared, "that the commissioner beauty never becomes obsolete." Which, after all, is about as nice a way of saying "No" as was ever devised.

Sausage Fanfare

(Sudbury Star)

The return of roast beef to the austerity curriculum of Canada's Merrie England is unlikely to be given the same fanfare that is marking the return of a meatless sausage.

After 13 years of rationing, the people of the United Kingdom are being given a sausage that contains about 25 per cent meat instead of soybean meal and bread. It will cook on the griddle instead of swelling and bursting all over the kitchen.

So grateful are the people in the U.K. for this return of the meaty sausage that one butcher staged a special preview, complete with a girl appropriately dubbed Miss Sausage and a theme song called the Sausage Samba.

Canadians who have not lived under the austerity that prevails in the United Kingdom find it difficult to understand the enthusiasm with which the people greeted the lifting of the restrictions on sausages which, the butchers maintain, should in the past 13 years have been made by bakers.

Round Figures

Is There No Limit?

(Ottawa Journal)

Somewhere along the winding trail of progress we shall have to draw the line. We cannot go on indefinitely surrendering abjectly to effete culture without a deleterious loss of the horny-handed, democratic individualism upon which our nation has risen to its contemporary high cultural level of women wrestlers and television lumocists.

The epochal announcement by the horticultural scientists at the Georgia Experiment Station that they have developed a seedless watermelon is something that should be scrutinized carefully before general adoption.

The watermelon has a long and ancient history. Citrullis vulgaris is not a vegetable and probably not a fruit, although some citizens of the Deep South revel with Egyptian, Arabic, Berber and Sanskrit tell us that the melon was cultivated long ago. David Livingstone discovered large tracts of watermelons growing wild in Central Africa; we know the Pilgrims were growing watermelons in the New Country to general folklore opinion watermelons and cross with pumpkins, squash or cucumbers. Down through the centuries, good men and true have known that part of the pleasure of eating the fruit lies in the spitting rid of the seeds as Nature intended.

Perhaps the highest stratum of cultural society that uses watermelons is the theatrical, and makes no noise as it takes soup calmly from the spoon, for nothing will acclaim a seedless specimen with well-bred and modulated enthusiasm.

The countryman feels, however, that seedless fruit is therefore all ethnological and sociological considerations, and nothing this thing farther. The midget watermelon, developed at the University of New Hampshire, may be the answer to modern small families. But the midget has seeds and gives a man a chance to aim at a target before he throws it when he is eating his melon alone.

The scientists hopes that all avenues will be carefully probed before seedless watermelons become a national habit.

Race Of Whisperers

(Montreal Gazette)

In the last 20 years, one of the traditional requirements for public life has been oratory. For centuries, the person who desired to create a following, in politics or the theatre, needed first of all, a voice. Everyone has some kind of voice, but the theatrical sense, a voice is a speaking voice that can make a "stage whisper" be heard in the top balcony.

With singers, for instance, the strength of lung was quite as necessary as quality of voice. Only in opera does this need remain. The most popular, and therefore the most accomplished singers today have voices today that ordinarily could hardly be heard across a room.

The microphone with its amplifier has done the trick. Crooning, the soft sounds a mother uses to lull her child, can now be heard around the world.

The entertainment world is not the only one which has been so deeply affected. Until 20 years ago, a premium was put on the absolute must for politicians. It was necessary, for the Province of Quebec years ago, for politicians to address crowds of thousands in the open air, even in the dead of winter. That took a voice, that took lungs. Those days, however, are gone.

The long, hard traditions of the sea have been similarly softened. Before long the famous voice calls of the sea, even in the days of memory, Loudspeakers do the job of the old speaking trumpet, only with-per into the microphone and his message will be heard in all parts of the ship.

The results are not particularly to the good. One thing must be remembered. In nature's continuing process of evolution, it is only which is not used decays and dies.

Will men, one day, be a race of whisperers?

Pipe Smokers Forgotten

(London Free Press)

It's a tough world for old-fashioned folk. In his new budget Mr. Abbott showed touching solicitude for the cigarette smoker. But what about the more serious and solid citizen who prefers a pipe? Must he continue to fill his pipe with the cheapest tobacco?

Then there is the cigar smoker, and the unconstructed devotee of "eating tobacco" or, of snuff.

Telephone Manners

(This Week Magazine)

The telephone has been with us since 1876, but surprisingly few people have ever really mastered its deceptive pedigree. Used with warmth and enthusiasm, it can have a beneficial effect on commercial as well as business activities. Used carelessly, on the other hand, it can ruin a deal or ruin a budding romance.

Take the telephone's handicap—the fact that the persons talking are invisible to each other. If possible, turn on a sort of telephone television simply by voice tone. Remember that the other party to the conversation is visualizing you as you talk. A clear-cut, well-modulated voice builds up an attractive picture. Imagine the impression given by grunts, "yeahs," "uh-huhs." And the sound images created by panicell and gum chewers.

If you have a tendency to speak with your mouth better try to speed up a bit on the telephone. Slow speech takes the vitality out of the conversation and your listener may think you are slouched in the picture on the wall or the work on his desk. On the other hand, if you speak too fast, the listener may hear just a jumble.

Don't keep telephoning business calls, you will show considerable for the other person's time. Identify yourself at once to avoid unpleasant surprises. Apologize for another person, offer your own services. If that will not do, take down a message correctly. Nothing is more annoying than to have to call back because the "Mr. Something-or-other" called while you were out.

Unfamiliarly interrupting your conversation is a common and rude habit. Even if strangers are talking with cancel see what they are doing. Don't break in conversation and therefore each minute seem interminable to the millionaire. Don't be a going to take several minutes before you can continue. Apologize for reason for the delay and ask if you may call back.

Another annoyance occurs almost daily. You put through a call and keep the person waiting until you are ready to talk. This sort of thoughtlessness can cause loss of business as well as loss of friendship.

Here are other don'ts on telephone usage you may well keep in mind: Don't interrupt without first saying goodby, and never hang up on anyone in anger. Don't use slang expressions or frowsy talk especially with people you don't know well. In other words be considerate.

Dirt, Neglect Not Related

(Windsor Star)

A current cartoon shows two primped-up tots, boy and girl, being viewed by their parents. "I know where we can get good and dirty."

That's plausible situation brought to mind by a social worker's plea for more playgrounds because a child has a dirty face it doesn't necessarily mean he's a bad child, or that his parents could mean all's right with the world.

Childish exuberance takes forms that include cleanliness only in that washing is accomplished may have a fine dusting of dirt on it. Even the dirt tracked through the fields may have the effect of keeping the floors from mud, which are all the more fascinating because forbidden.

But dirt through neglect are not always related. One can feel sorry for a child whose parents neglect although he feels less aggrieved by the jam on his cheeks than over the cleanliness that unwanted that his parents have given him. Even the child who is a specialist in hazarding clean clothing and shining faces each time they are turned loose, is not a source of fun out of every minute. The welfare people can stop fretting about them.

Thousands of Westerners may be willing to vote Socialist, but few are willing to buy Socialist papers. For lack of readers, official C.C.F. publications in Alberta and Manitoba (The People's Weekly and The Manitoba Commonwealth) have recently folded up. Their subscription lists have been taken over by Saskatchewan's C.C.F. weekly, The Commonwealth. Now Ontario becomes the only Socialist paper between Vancouver and Toronto.

LIVER MASSAGE

Torpid or sluggish liver, as it was called in the almanac era, meant whatever you imagined ailed you. Being a quack of sorts myself I understand the language. Stasis is our ten-dollar word for it. Stasis means not only stagnation, or blood in the liver but slowing of the bile current through the gall ducts and gall bladder. This is generally due to sedentary habit—laziness, if you want the truth about it—and/or insufficient muscular activity, moderate general activity or exercise, such as a brisk walk of two miles three times a day or, if more convenient, an hour's work in the garden, with shallow, that is to say, chesty breathing. The deeper the fat about the mid-section the shorter the excursions of the breathing muscle, the diaphragm and the more chesty the breathing habit.

Bear in mind, children, we are talking about natural breathing only. Breathing drill would be done by or three times a day. It not only boosts the circulation but pumps massages the liver and never has had, hasn't now or may gall-sac.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Motoring through Texas lately from riding in jeeps.

"Cowboys," I whispered excitedly to my friends as we took the local folks.

They wouldn't believe me. So I went over to the local folks.

"We're playing that game called 'What's my line?' I explained to the number of people I've convahsada. Is that right?"

They looked at me, amazed the gents, all of whom are regular farmers to air, and know all the programs.

Presently to came a terrific spectacle. A great big fat chap, legs sung in Levis, a great big big silver, a great big hat on his head, and surest sign of all, handsome stitched cowboy boots on, with bills silver heels.

He greeted everybody in the room, and everybody greeted him: so he was not a tourist, but a local.

"Ah," my friends whispered excitedly. "The boss! The head honcho! Here at the Co-Op!"

I mesked over to my friends, the cowhands.

"Who's he?" I hissed.

"The local schoolteacher," they hissed back.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CEMENT

I have been thinking about the great part that cement plays in life. Hardly a foundation without it. Streets, sidewalks, curbings, cellars, fences — and endless other things testify to its value.

Mixing a great building will be without it. You see, it holds things together.

But often this cement is not properly used or mixed — and then it crumbles and is of no use. Too little of the genuine cement. Too much of the wrong materials and buildings have without foundation. Sand will not do.

That is the way it is in friendship. If the things used to cement friendship are genuine, and there is plenty to cement that friendship, it lasts forever — or so long as life lasts. Consideration for the other's feelings, tolerance for his faults, unity of interests, and interest understanding — these are not as a cement to bind all friendship and make it a living and lasting affair.

Then one thing that is going to cement this world together, for the common good of all, is going to be a new understanding of the fundamental values that must be part of it if present peace is to be the ideal for which we all so fervently hope and pray.

The common good of all — a simple statement, but one that will be the cement that alone on which all efforts must be centered. Only then will world affairs be integrated with our modern inventions. Communication is almost instant now and we are all of the world. The hopes of the humblest must be taken into account. The world must be made safe for them.

Never before has such responsibility been forced upon the people of the earth. Not one gainful human being can afford to shirk his responsibility in the opportunity to serve. Good will must be cemented around this great globe if peace and happiness are to be achieved and made to endure.

Through the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HAVE A GREAT SPIRIT

On an ancient tombstone is to be found this epitaph: "Peter Miller — when he came into this world he cried and all the rest rejoiced. When he went out he rejoiced and all the rest cried."

How would you like that for an epitaph? Think of the deeper forces implied in Scripture: "Jeroboam, who made Israel to sin"; "Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed Him." Many a person today might, if he but knew it, write almost as damaging an epitaph inscribed among the records of heaven or either of these. Yet many — and some among the humblest people we know — might have as glorious an epitaph as that which Christ Himself brought into a community and dispelled darkness.

Education brings in light and knowledge. Religion brings love manifested in home, in neighborhood exchange, in the spheres of vocation and in national life, causes darkness to flee and light to shine with power. We are often told on the radio that we may have the right to vote in some principle. We can. Everyone must have an approach and a basis for agreement with his personality or here. But the helpful life is possible for all.

Communities sometimes mourn the passing of some humble people and secretly breathe a sigh of relief when their unenlightened domineering public benefactor goes to his reward.

We may not be able to be great to do great things; you just have to have a great spirit.

Manning Favors General Export Of Natural Gas

EDMONTON (CP) — The general export of natural gas at an early date was advocated Tuesday by Premier E. C. Manning.

Speaking in legislature debate on a Liberal motion urging the government to consider special legislation to ensure adequate gas reserves for Alberta's own requirements, Mr. Manning said it was "most important" that an adequate market for gas produced be established as soon as possible. The number of capped wells and money invested by the industry was having a detrimental effect on exploration for gas and oil, he said.

At the present time there are 300 natural gas wells in the province, representing an investment of more than $18,000,000, and companies cannot be expected to continue proving up gas reserves without a bond and accompanying financial returns, Mr. Manning said.

Last year the Social Credit government approved limited export from the Peace River district in northwestern Alberta.

Index May Show Downward Trend In Living Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians will likely know Thursday whether a slight downward trend in living costs has started or not. The December continued into the first month of the new year.

No great change either up or down is expected in the new year in the consumer price index for January to be issued by the bureau of statistics.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, showed a drop of 0.4 point during December to 115.7 from 115.8. That followed a larger drop, 0.9 point, in November from October's level of 116.1. The index in December was down 2.5 points from its peak of 118.2 in December 1951.

Despite the over-all decrease in December, fluctuations in prices of individual items made up the index meant that not all consumers benefited equally. It depended on what they bought.

Cabbage Price Increased

The bureau, in a brief analysis of food price trends, showed that cost of fresh vegetables rose 21 per cent in December, while eggs dropped 11 per cent.

Celery went up 11.3 per cent while lettuce dropped 10 per cent. Tomatoes climbed 8.9 per cent while oranges dropped 6.9.

So it went down the food counter. While prices on the whole were up, living costs to the individual may have been up or down—depending on the individual's buying habits.

During December, the food subindex declined to 113.6 from 114.4, the major factor in the general index's fractional decline. The yardstick's shelter component increased to a peak of 122.3 from 122.2. The clothing index remained unchanged at 109.7, while household operations rose to 116.2 from 116.1 and other commodities and services to 116.7 from 116.6.

The bureau's new living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose one-fifth of a point to 184.2 from 184.0.

Adenauer Warns West Against Any Relaxation

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that "if Stalin dies, the Free world should not relax but should continue to build up its strength against aggressive international communism."

Adenauer made the statement to a group of visiting American editors and publishers as this capital buzzed with excitement over the Soviet dictator's illness.

Asked what effect he thought Stalin's death would have on the world political situation, Adenauer said:

"Nobody can prophesy that. But we must remember that after the death of Lenin, there came Stalin.

"I have had the feeling for some time that they were preparing the way for Stalin's succession in Moscow. I believe the persecution of the Jews in Russia and the satellite countries, and particularly the Moscow doctors case, is connected with these preparations.

"Now a new element has been injected which will cause political unrest throughout the world. . . ."

Successor to Premier Stalin Centres on 3 Deputy Ministers, Malenkov, Beria and Molotov

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Western speculation on Stalin's successor centred today on three men, all deputy prime ministers. They are:

Malenkov

Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov at 50, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

A dark, stocky man who hates the West, he has been built up by Stalin over the years to become one of the super-architects of the new Soviet world. Born in Orenburg, a town in the Cossack country southwest of the Urals, he joined the Red Army in 1919 as a propaganda official and rose rapidly. By 1924 he was secretary of the Komsomol, the Soviet youth organization. He next worked with the communist party's central committee and then was sent to the Caucasus as commissar.

After Hitler invaded Russia, Stalin appointed Malenkov to Russian-occupied Poland as political chief. He emerged as a likely successor to Stalin when he was named the opening speech at last fall's big Russian Communist party congress.

Beria

Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria—Russia's super-policeman, with supervision over the dread state secret police, and the atomic bomb project as well.

Among a group of leaders obsessed with silence and security, he is the mystery of mysteries. Not until 1938—when Stalin was ready to purge from his post as Communist party secretary in the Caucasus—did he come to head the NKVD—the secret police which has since functioned prominently among Russia's leaders.

The Stalin, a Georgian, Beria was born at Merkheuli, a small village near Sukhumi. During the Second World War, his task as secret police chief increased enormously. Since then Stalin has given major hand in the expansion of communism into the new satellite-controlled countries through his police agents in and out of the armed forces. His stemming from the rise of the nine doctors accused of plotting to poison Soviet leaders, may mean he is on shaky ground.

Molotov

Vyacheslov Mikhailovich Molotov none of the three remaining "old Bolsheviks," the men who brought the Soviet Union into being in the 1917 October revolution.

A former foreign minister and one of the closest associates of Stalin. Born in the Vialatk province of central European Russia, he is a fairly well-to-do family named Scriabin, he joined the Bolshevik party while in his late teens and was first arrested at the age of 19 and has been arrested by the Tsarist secret police five times.

With the success of the revolution, Molotov rose by steady steps to be one of the governing figures of Russia. From 1930 to 1941, when Stalin was running things from the officially obscure post of chairman of the Communist party's central committee, Molotov fronted as premier. Stalin took over the job. In 1936, Molotov helped draft a new constitution for the Soviet Union Union and in 1939 he replaced the Western-minded Maxim Litvinov as foreign minister.

During the Second World War he took over reorganization of Russia's tank production, in addition to running the foreign office. He was released as foreign minister in 1949 to free him for the task of aiding Stalin in the enormous task of governing the USSR.

Crown Contends Child Beaten To Death by Parents

KITCHENER (CP)—The Crown completed its case Tuesday against Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paspcke of nearby Elmira, charged with murder in the death of their three-year-old daughter, Glenis, Jan. 27.

Crown Attorney Harold Daufman contended that one or both parents caused the death by beating the child. Defence evidence is to be heard today.

Inspector Alex MacLeod of the provincial police, one of seven Crown witnesses, read a statement made by Paspcke the day after Glenis died.

In the statement, Paspcke said his wife phoned him at work about 27 to tell him Glenis had thrown a spell and "would not come out of it." She told her to put the girl in the "pantry behind the house."

Paspcke's statement also said that he had strapped the girl and on one occasion spanked her with a hairbrush. The night before Glenis died, he told her he was going to spank her and "she just grinned."

Defence counsel Roy Youngston drew from Dr. E. L. Barton an admission that the injury causing the child's death—a subdural haemorrhage—could have been caused in other ways than by a beating.

World Capitals Report Reaction

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reaction around the world to the announcement of Joseph Stalin's serious illness:

WASHINGTON — Specialists in Russian affairs say anything can happen now that Stalin dies, but Georgi M. Malenkov is considered to have a leader track for his job. Officials not optimistic that Stalin's death would bring any great change in Russian policy.

LONDON — Prime Minister Churchill, who may survive as last of the wartime "Big Three," offers sympathy to Russians. British officials recall past fears of rash action, in the event of a struggle for Stalin's job.

BONN, Germany — Chancellor Adenauer says Stalin's death would not let the world relax, and "should only strengthen us to pursue the course on which we have embarked."

BELGRADE — Semi-official press agency sees implications in Moscow announcement that Vyacheslav Molotov, veteran Soviet diplomat, has been appointed foreign minister. Molotov succeeds Andrei Vishinsky.

VIENNA — Western diplomats believe no changes are likely in Russia's foreign relations in view of recent purges by men in the Kremlin. Other elements are bound to probe for weaknesses. "The purges are likely to go on," one diplomat official. "The Communist system needs a constant bogey man to keep it in power."

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Nehru learns news as he arrives for parliamentary session. There is no immediate comment. The death is already was dead when the announcement was made, newsmen say.

TOKYO — Foreign office sources see no change in Russian policy. Believe Malenkov if named would continue efforts to woo Japan away from the West.

Two-Fronted Bids Made by P.C's For Information

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives put in a two-fronted bid Tuesday for more facts on reports on servicers of defence department administration since 1948.

Their hunt for new fuel for their charges that the department is inefficiently and extravagantly run broke both in the Commons defence committee and on the order paper of the Commons itself. The indications were that they have information in their possession tipping them what to seek.

The bid came as the committee ended up a major detail arising from the sensational Currie report itself by reaching the end of study of a 43-page document summarizing findings of irregularities in the army works services' administration by the department's own auditors.

Asks For Reports

In the committee, E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) asked for any reports on accounting and administration in the department since March, 1950. The committee has decided its witnesses will not go farther back than that date. Mr. Fulton specifically mentioned the Gordon report made several years ago and never made public. Date of the report was not revealed.

The Gordon report by Walter A. Gordon, prominent Toronto accountant, contained recommendations for improving the administration at defence headquarters. It was made at the request of Defence Minister Claxton and has been treated so far as a private document.

Chairman David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) told Mr. Fulton he would see if such a document as the Gordon report exists and if it would then be decided whether it comes within the committee's terms of reference.

Second Report

Mr. Fulton's second move came in a request placed on the Commons order paper which represents a move to get around the 1950 deadline imposed by the committee. He asks for all reports or briefs made in investigations or surveys since 1948 by the army works services—subject of the Currie report—the ordnance corps and administration of the department generally.

The background of these bids for more information is understood to be a considerable amount of official material which has come into the hands of the Conservatives about various reports. They are not making their information public themselves but are using it as a guide for their questions.

EMERGED FROM

Stalin's rise to the throne of communism was accomplished in the face of what seemed overwhelming odds in favor of Trotsky, who had been commander-in-chief of the Red armies during the revolution and who had seemed much closer to Lenin than Stalin.

But Stalin in 1922 became secretary of the Communist party and promptly started using the post, controlling party machinery, as a lever for prying himself into the ailing Lenin's place. Two years later Lenin died, and Stalin and Trotsky were in open conflict over the party leadership.

Stalin won the support of Gregory Zinoviev and Lev Kamenev, two revolutionary stalwarts, and Trotsky was defeated. He was exiled in 1927.

The reward for Zinoviev and Kamenev came in 1935. With 14 others, they were brought to trial in Moscow. All confessed that the 1934 assassination of Sergei Kirov, a friend of Stalin, was a plot to wipe out Stalin and other Soviet Union leaders. The 16 defendants soon were executed. Other old Bolshevik leaders were executed—or more of the famous Moscow purge trials, Stalin had become supreme; he was ready to lead Russia without opposition through the pre-Second World War days and the global conflict itself.

He took his country into a friendship agreement with Nazi Germany and then freed foreign national communism's bitter opponent, Hitler, for his wars of conquest. Stalin, in the early days, requests then too—in Finland, the Baltic states, Poland and Rumania.

In December, 1940, Hitler turned on his former partner. Stalin found himself an ally of Britain and later the United States. Stalin became one of the "Big Three," holding conferences with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The Russian dictator had been feted to the near delight of Churchill once said of Stalin:

"He is a man of massive, outstanding personality, suitable to his generation of stormy times in which his life has been cast. He is a man of inexhaustible courage and will power, and a man direct and even blunt in speech . . . Stalin also left upon me the impression of a deep, cool wisdom and a complete absence of illusions of any kind."

The anti-Axis partners successfully prosecuted the war, but in a few years the Western Allies in the wartime coalition were arrayed against the master of the Kremlin.

Stalin's power, meanwhile, had extended from Eastern Europe to the Elbe. The countries of Eastern Europe were clapped into his hands. He saw the Chinese Communists drive to complete domination of mainland China.

Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili, the son of a Georgian shoemaker and a serf mother, was at the zenith of Joseph Stalin. His 70th birthday Dec. 21, 1949, was the occasion for extravagant celebrations around the Communist world. There was a flood of adulation — 70 freight carloads of gifts from conquered East Germany and Red China.

ENSLAVEMENT

ar's proposed declaration on the wartime Yalta and Potsdam agreements by the addition of language opposed by the Democrats.)

Confirmed at Potsdam

But Yalta President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had agreed to let the Russians have former Polish territory and island positions off Japan in exchange for Russia's promise to enter the Second World War against Japan. All this was confirmed at the Potsdam meeting in 1945.

Knowland's resolution did not seek to repudiate these territorial concessions or to blame Roosevelt or President Truman who signed for the U. S. at Potsdam.

The Presidential Congress to adopt a manifesto accusing the Russians of having "perverted" the terms of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements into instruments for the "subjugation of free peoples and declaring that the United States would never acquiesce in such enslavement."

By a vote of 8 to 8, largely on party lines, the committee voted into the resolution a declaration that the president would "by constitute any determination by the Congress as to the validity or liability of any of the said agreements or understandings."

Democrats Opposed

This was done over Democratic opposition to satisfy what Taft and Senator Alexander Smith (Rep. N. J.) said were demands—largely from Republicans that Congress should not affirm the agreements made by Roosevelt and Truman.

"A lot of people denounced the Yalta agreements in the campaign and now don't want to be put in the position of affirming them," Smith said.

Despite the obvious risk that the Democrats, who condemned the Yalta agreements not so long ago, the Senate Republican policy committee voted unanimously to stand behind the committee's action. Its chairman, Senator William Knowland of California, said he hopes that after the Democrats study the revised resolution they will decide to support it.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas urged immediate fire with a declaration that he would "oppose any effort that will jeopardize the President's prestige before the country and the world."

Flash Flood Caused by Heavy Rain Forces Families in North Trenton to be Evacuated

TRENTON. (Special.) — A flash flood caused by excessive rain early today sent a deluge of water surging over a section of north Trenton and the land on both sides of the Wooler Road west to Fox's mill.

One family caught by the rising flood waters spilling out of the town's spring water reservoir, had to be evacuated by police and firemen using a rowboat. Another family awakened by a neighbor's telephone call was carried through the swirling water to the safety of a neighbor's home.

At 9:45 a.m., this morning Provincial Police Constable Ken Curlette, was aroused by the persistent barking of a mongrel dog which belongs to the household of the house. She called to her husband who found the pet standing in water up to its stomach. Mr. Curlette found the water lapping around the front door frame. With his wife he gathered together some clothing and left for a dash to the family car sitting on the property 75 feet from the house. The water was lying in two feet of water inching higher and higher with every passing minute.

Shouted for Help

Abandoning the thought of driving the car, they waded shouting for help. They were heard by neighbor, George Broe, who lives across the road 150 feet away. He saw the family's plight and called for assistance from the police.

When police arrived with a boat, they were standing by with a boat and the rescue was successfully made in swirling water in the darkness of the chilly morning. The Curlette family clad only in street clothes were taken to a relatives' home in Trenton. There they were served warm drinks and given dry clothes.

Razes Trench Subway

The flood waters raged down through the subway on the Wooler road, where guards were placed to warn motorists traffic of the impending danger. Railway tracks running through the area affected were inundated and trains travelling Trenton-west were given a slow order until the flood water receded.

Constable Crosby's bungalow on the Wooler road was in the path of the flooding water. His wife and two children were in bed sleeping when the flood began to rise serious around their home.

George Broe warned them with a telephone call and told them reacuers were on the way. A policeman carried Mrs. Crosby up in his arms and carried her to a friend's house on higher ground. Her two children, Douglas, four, and Diane, nine, were brought to safety by town workmen. Her husband, a workman for Central Bridge, is in Hamilton working for the company.

Prepare to Return Home

Today the Eugene Curlette family, constable's wife and child, and their five children: Hazel, 11; Helen, 8; Jean, 7; Grace, 5, and baby Eddie 14-months, prepared to return to their home when the flood waters had subsided.

"I was really frightened when the water started coming into the front room through the front doors," Mrs. Curlette related. "The parents were standing in water up to their knees before the rescuers arrived with their boats.

Residents on Bridge, Water and Wall Streets were warned that the flood waters as they passed down Burke's Creek to the Trent River.

Parent Identifies Mysterious Man Held by Police

TRENTON (Special) — Two-onto police checking city bank today confirmed the identity of John Eyre, held here since Monday night after he told a police constable on the street that he was in "deep trouble." The case had the police baffled for some time because of Eyre's strange behaviour and lapse of memory.

The 35-year-old man, who suffered from spells of mental depression, was released from an institution some months ago. Since then he has been working in Winnipeg and was on his way to Toronto and Niall when he stepped off here for something to eat. He was carrying $75 in cash money in a cigaret box. An unemployment insurance card also found in his pocket led police to identifying his father who arrived from Toronto today to take his son back home.

A bloodstained shirt found in Eyre's suitcase caused police to start a countrywide search for a clue to the identity of the mysterious man.

Two Injured As Motor Car Hits Steel Post

Two men in a speeding car escaped with but minor injuries early today when their car ripped into a steel lamp post at the entrance to the four-lane road and highway on Dundas Street and rolled over four times.

Edwin Dyck, 26, of R.R. 1, Belleville, was taken to hospital, where three stitches were required to close a cut on his lower lip. Tom O'Neill, 20, of 100 North Front Street, a passenger in the car, received a cut forehead and small facial cuts.

Police said the eastbound car failed to keep to the right at the entrance to the four lane road and plowed directly into the steel lamp post. A highway sign and the lamp post were broken off and the car rolled four times down the boulevard, coming to rest a short distance from another lamp post.

An eye-witness, J. A. Campbell, helped the occupants out of the wrecked vehicle and took O'Neill to hospital in his car. Dyck, was taken to hospital in the police cruiser. Both men were attended by Dr. Andrew Paul.

The Dyck car was damaged to the extent of about $300, while it will cost $50 to replace the lamp post and highway sign.

Weddings

WESLEY—KAY

A wedding of wide interest took place on Saturday, February 14, at 2:30 p.m., in Christ Church, Bellesville, when Elizabeth Joan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kay, of Belleville, became the bride of William Arthur Wesley, B.Sc., Belleville, elder son of Mrs. Arthur Wesley, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Wesley.

Canon J. R. Maclagan, rector of the church, officiated before an altar banked with white chrysanthemums and gladioli. The guest pews were decorated by white satin bows, centred by pale blue, pink and white baby 'mums.

Mr. John Wilbert, church organist, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Harold McNish, who sang "Because", before the ceremony; "The Lord's Prayer", during the service, and "One Alone", while the register was being signed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Wing Commander William Hockney, of Trenton, owing to the illness of her father, was lovely in her bridal gown of white slipper satin and lace, fashioned with a French lace blouse the having sleeves of satin ending in "v" points over the hands. The skirt, which was gracefully slender, and cut away in scallop effect at the front revealing a panel of gored French lace, ended in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was head appliqued with roses and held in place by a headdress of white satin leaves interspersed with lily-of-the-valley. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of red sweetheart roses, centred by white pom 'muma, and hyacinth florettes, outlined with white malline. A gold cross set with six topaz stones, the gift of an aunt in England for the bride, completed her ensemble.

The bride's four attendants, Miss Patricia Kellett, of Belleville, as maid of honor, was gowned in rose and blue taffeta with blue the predominating color, with matching headdress and leaf trimmings. Miss William Hockney, of Trenton, as bridesmaid, was gowned similarly with rose the predominating color, and matching headdress. Both carried bouquets of pink and blue carnations, white hyacinth florettes, tied with blue and pink tarlatan ribbon. The two flower girls, the Misses Gayle McDougall and Elaine McNish, both of Belleville, were sweet in their floor-length frocks of pink and blue tiered net over taffeta, dotted with pink and blue forget-me-nots, with matching headdresses, also dotted with blue forget-me-nots. They carried nosegays of pink Delight roses, blue pom 'mums, and white hyacinth florettes, with ribbon ties matching their frocks.

Mr. Bob Wesley, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Jim Airth, of Minden, and Mr. Joel Mazer, of Belleville, Queens University friends of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Christ Church parish hall, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The bride's mother, Mrs. Kay, in navy blue lace with rose accessories and corsage of Rapture roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Arthur Wesley, who wore pale blue lace with corsage of red roses. Also in the reception line were the maid of honor, the bridesmaid and little flower girls.

For travelling, the bride wore a dark green velvet suit, with pale green blouse with permanent standup collar, and matching pleated frill on cuffs. Her accessories were of rust color and she wore a corsage of feathered red carnations with silver ribbon ties. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley will reside in Peterborough.

Guests were present from Toronto, Lombardy, Smiths Falls, Stoney Creek, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Wesley are pictured signing the register, following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Bellesville. The bride, the former Miss Elizabeth Joan Kay, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kay of Belleville, and the bridegroom, the elder son of Mrs. Arthur Wesley, of Belleville, and the late Arthur Wesley. — (Photo by Riley)

Recent Bride Feted By Teas, Shower

Mrs. William Wesley, nee Joan Kay, was the guest at several pre-nuptial teas given in her honor: one at the home of Mrs. A. McDougall, Chatham Street, when little Miss Gayle McDougall, in a floor-length pale blue frock of taffeta, opened the door to the guests, who were received by the hostess and the guest of honor, the bride-to-be.

The tea table, arranged with a cut work and filet lace cloth, held a dainty centrepiece of daffodils and lighted tall tapers, flanked by candles in silver candelabra. Mrs. R. S. Rutherford presided, while Mrs. W. J. Counsell and Mrs. J. Ireland served.

Joan was also entertained at a tea at home of Mrs. R. S. Rutherford, Chatham Street. At this event the Misses Joan and Barbara Ireland welcomed the guests.

The tea table was beautiful with a lace cloth and centrepiece of snapdragons. Mrs. A. C. Miller poured, and the Misses Joan and Barbara Ireland assisted the hostess in serving.

Miss Patricia Kellett feted the bride-to-be by a miscellaneous shower, the home being tastefully decorated with pink and white.

Games and the making of the bride's book filled the evening hours, after which Joan was showered with lovely gifts, numerous suspended in the archway while she opened the lovely gifts presented to her in a beautifully decorated basket.

Mrs. Kellett, assisted by her daughter, served refreshments.

St. Margaret's Guild Enjoys Demonstration Of Floral Arranging

The regular meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was opened by the president, Mrs. A. Watson. A short discussion was held concerning catering for several affairs this month.

The Guild welcomed a number of guests and enjoyed a most instructive talk by Mr. Bill Jardine on the care, cutting and arranging of floral displays.

Mrs. R. Clarke thanked Mr. Jardine for his many helpful hints and on his exquisite flower arrangements which were given away at the close of the evening.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Saunders, Mrs. L. Daniels and Mrs. R. Brettingham.

Women's Institute

BETHEL-ZION W.I.

Recent activities of the Bethel-Zion W.I. branch under the direction of the president, Mrs. Earle Ray, include two meetings held at the homes of Miss Addie Gifford and Mrs. Don Sills.

Interesting papers were contributed as follows:

"Light is the task when many share the toil," by Mrs. Gordon Foster; "A good disposition is a priceless gift," by Mrs. Clifford Ray; "The largest room in the world is the room for improvement," by Mrs. Ralph Sills; "Never too old to be young," by Mrs. Marden Brough.

Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson read a poem entitled 'Mother's Work Basket'.

The sewing bee for the Children's Aid was held in the Maple Leaf community centre and two dozen dress were distributed for completion.

Expressions of thanks for baskets of fruit or flowers were received from Mrs. E. Kennedy, Mrs. F. W. Davis and Mr. J. F. Ketcheson.

The season's euchre parties have been much enjoyed. Mrs. Don Sills and Mrs. Percy Ray will convene the party on March 6th at the Maple Leaf community hall.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — To meet an expected shortage of farm labor in Prince Edward Island next spring application has been made for 35 German workers expected to arrive in April. The workers receive passage money to be repaid later.

Contract Club Plans 'Coronation Kermis'

At the weekly meeting of the Contact Club of Christ Church held recently in the parish hall, there was a good turnout of regular members and the president, Florence Lennox, welcomed several new members.

The club was fortunate in having the rector, Canon Creeggs, present to explain the aims of the forthcoming parish visitation. He hoped that this event, sponsored by the Men's Club of the church, would have the support of every member of the parish.

During the business session the treasurer, Mary Fletcher, reported on the successful auction sale of last week.

"Coronation Kermis"

The main discussion of the evening centred on the newest project the Contact Club has decided to undertake. It is to be a "Coronation Kermis". This activity, to take place early in June, will have varied attractions for each member of the family. Committees for the "Coronation Kermis" are being formed and work is already progressing for it.

After the lively discussion, the hostesses for evening, Mary Fletcher, Gladys Batchelor and Evelyn Tebworth served refreshments.

RADIO'S POPULAR BACHELOR, The Great Gildersleeve, has a problem on his hands. A Great Dane dog has just joined the household. He's huge. He's handsome. But he's nameless. And the family can't agree on what to call him.

Just by helping to pick out a name for the dog you may win a wonderful prize. (See prize listing above).

Here's all you do: Go to your grocer's and buy a package of Kraft's delicious New Parkay Margarine. Tear off the yellow end flap and mail it to Parkay with your suggested name for the Great Dane. Each name entry blanks with complete rules can be obtained at your grocer's.

KRAFT'S PARKAY spreads smoothly even when ice cold!

The minute you take delicious Parkay from your refrigerator it's ready to spread smoothly on the freshest bread. Parkay comes in the handy Color-Kwik bag and in the regular pack. It is also available in quarters and is colored yellow where Provincial law permits.

Each '53 Ford Victoria winner can also win a $200 cash bonus!

Just include with your entry the yellow end flaps from two (2) packages of New Parkay Margarine instead of one. Then if your name for The Great Gildersleeve's dog is awarded a first prize, you will receive a bonus of $200 in cash in addition to your shining new '53 Ford Victoria.

Clip this entry blank now!

Mail to Parkay Margarine, Box 1845, Dept. "D", Toronto, Ontario. Enclose the yellow end flap from any package of New Parkay Margarine. ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

How can she "find love" when she's tied down at home?

"I'm getting worried because I'm afraid I won't find love," writes a young woman of 18. And this young woman seems to have more grounds for her worry than many others who write me in the same vein, for she goes on to say:

"You see, I work all day long at my parents' business, which is a store connected to our house, and when I'm not working there, I'm helping my mother with our big family or she children besides myself. Their ages are 13, 11, 8, 5, 3 and 2. I never go out, so I don't have a chance of meeting any fellows.

"I would like to join a club, or go with my girl friends to the movies sometimes, but my mother is not well, and taking care of the story and kids is too much for her, so she needs my help. My dad also helps around the store and the house.

"The next sister to me is the 13-year-old child and still going to high school, so it's been this way for nearly four years now. My girl friends tell me that some day, the right one will walk in the door, but I have little hope of that. There are three very nice boys who come to the store, but they don't come very often, so I don't know very much about them.

"Can you please help me?"

Now even though this girl's mother is not well and needs a lot of help from her, it is not right that she should be without any life of her own. And since her father is there to help the mother out, I see no reason in the world why she shouldn't have time for recreation. Nobody, and especially a young girl, should have to work all day and every evening, too.

Talk Matter Over

Wouldn't it be possible for her to talk this over with both her parents together, and explain to them that, while she is more than willing to do her full part in helping out, she does need to have some time when she is free to go out with her friends? It hardly seems that parents would be so unreasonable as not to realize this. Perhaps she has been too timid about taking the matter up with them.

She might have a plan ready to submit to them, or she might ask them to work out a schedule with her, settled down certain hours when she would be in the store, and certain evenings when she would take charge in the home, with the rest of the time being her own to do with as she pleased.

Once such a schedule is settled, she can then begin to plan what she'd like to do with her free time. Of course she'll want to go to the movies with her friends occasionally, as she says, and it would be a fine idea to join a club that had some interesting activity program to offer in which she could take part. She might pay a visit to the Y.W.C.A. and find out about the clubs they have there. That's a good way to start making new friends, and since one new friend usually leads to another, it wouldn't be long before she'd have lots of them. They'd be boy friends as well as girl friends, too, since most of the Y's today have "mixed" parties quite often.

But the first step should be to talk things over with her mother and father. It's not at all impossible that they just haven't thought about the matter from their daughter's point of view, and that if she puts it up to them, they would be more than willing to help arrange things so that she can have some of the good times she should be having.

If by any strange chance they aren't willing, though, I hope she will let me know so that I can try to think of some way the problem might be solved.

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

Sample conversation of the many people who are my friends:

"Mary Moore if you put this recipe in the paper, so help me I'll move you down."

Me: "If it's good it goes in the paper and you know it."

Her: "I meanwhile every last darn thing so that if it was good I'd be able to tell you exactly what I did."

Now I ask you—did you ever hear of such a quick switch.

You see she had invited me to have dinner at their home knowing she was going to make Charlotte Russe, and hoping all the time they'd rate as column copy. I went. They rated.

There's more to this than meets the eye so far though.

I want to repeat a recipe for spinach with eggs, because it should be useful for vegetable plates, or meals that are low on meat. It is very good with broiled bacon, or maybe a serving of one pork chop. You might thus cut meat costs without lowering the adequate protein content of the meal.

Here's the meal:

Broiled Bacon

Casserole of Spinach and Eggs

Baked Sweet or White Potatoes or Squash

Lettuce and Tomato Salad with Cottage Cheese Dressing

Charlotte Russe Coffee

DIRECTIONS

CASSEROLE OF SPINACH WITH EGGS

(Actually this, if baked in individual casseroles, would be called Spinach Timbales.) Mix together 2 slightly beaten eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups hot boiled, chopped, drained spinach, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, few drops of onion juice, 2 teaspoons lemon juice. When mixed well turn into greased baking dish or individual molds, stand in pan of water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until firm. It desired this may be served with tomato sauce. If you want a Tomato Sauce recipe you will find one in tomorrow's paper.

COTTAGE CHEESE DRESSING

To 1-2 cup French Dressing (for salad for 6) add 1-4 cup pimiento cottage cheese, and beat in well.

Here they come now—the Charlotte Russe—one of the reasons why I went to Cooking School.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE

One tablespoon gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1-3 cup hot milk, 1-3 cup fruit sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 2 cups heavy cream (whipped), lady fingers or strips of sponge cake. Soak the gelatin in the cold water five minutes, then stir in into the hot milk to dissolve it. Then add the sugar and flavoring and stir until sugar is dissolved. Chill, stirring occasionally. When it is partially set (about the consistency of honey—best it with a rotary beater until very foamy, then beat in about one-quarter of the whipped cream, then fold in the remainder gently. Line individual molds or 1 large mold with lady fingers or strips of sponge cake, and pour in the charlotte mixture, being sure it flows around pieces of cake. Chill until set firm. Unmold on serving dish and garnish attractively with cherries and apricot halves.

Variation — Chocolate Charlotte: 1 1-3 tablespoons gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1-3 cup hot milk, 1 1-2 oz. cooking chocolate, 2-3 cup fruit sugar, 3 tablespoons boiling water, 2-4 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups heavy cream (whipped), lady fingers. Soften gelatin in cold water, dissolve in hot milk. Melt chocolate over hot water; add 1-2 the sugar, then boiling water gradually, stirring constantly until smooth; stir into dissolved gelatin. Add remaining sugar. Finish as plain charlotte russe above.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Groom's father should wear same type of attire worn by men in wedding party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is to be married in April. The prospective groom's father would like to know if he should wear the same type of attire as the men in the wedding party.—C. P.

Yes. This is correct form. The groom's father is the man guest of honor at the wedding, and of course he should be correctly dressed as he appears in this important role. For example: he follows his wife and the usher as they go up the aisle just before the bride; mother is ushered to her seat . . . he and his wife taking their places in the first pew on the right of the aisle. Also, at the reception he may be in the receiving-line he may choose to mingle with the guests, but either way, as man guest of honor, he is in the limelight. Then, if there is sit-down service, he, as man guest of honor, is given the seat of honor, on the bride's mother's right.

An Invitation-in-the-second person to be answered informally

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have received an invitation, written on office stationery, and it reads as follows:

You and Dorothy are cordially invited for cocktails

at Phil Lane's
789 Forier Street
Friday, March 13th at 6 o'clock

R.s.v.p.
Phil Lane
Bob Hall
Louis Martin

Please tell me how our regret should be phrased, on what kind of letter-paper it should be written, and to whom it should be addressed.—Dorothy A.

This cordial and informal invitation would be answered informally . . . by a note written on your own note-paper or on the inside of your informal. If (as it seems) the invitation was addressed to your husband, he might write the reply, or you might write it for both. Like this:

David and I thank you three kind hosts for your cordial and friendly invitation to come to cocktails at Phil Lane's house on Friday, March 13th. We wish so much we could be with you, but we are to be out-of-town that week-end.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Allen

(Address the envelope in all three names, to the address given.)

The formal marriage announcements, after an elopement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several months ago our daughter eloped, and was secretly married in a city quite a distance from here. We have made no public announcement of the marriage, and only the families know of it. Is it too late to send marriage announcements now? And if we do, is it absolutely necessary to include the information as to where the marriage took place? We very much prefer not to do this.—Mother.

It would be quite all right to send the formal announcements now. But if you do send them, they must be in correct form . . . that is, they must state the name of the city and state in which the marriage ceremony was performed, as well as the day, the date, the year.

Fashion Flashes

A BREAK for air travelers, and others who must travel light, is a series of rain-or-shine coats in processed featherweight pongee silk. Done in pastels and neutral shades, this silk has been made up into charming coats, a typical model fashioned with a pretty cross-over collar and plastron front closing. The slim coat is self-belted and has a large patch pocket.

ALL SET for campus or country is a jumper of pale pink tissue-weight tweed, closing all the way down from the deep, rounded neckline with tiny gold and simulated pink topaz buttons. With it is a soft black or pink cashmere sweater for a nice ensemble.

A GOOD PILL-IN for suit and coat necklines is an ascot of white mink, quite sensibly priced, considering its luxurious appeal and beauty. The cardigan neckline obtains in many of the new-set Spring coats and suits, incidentally, so that fill-ins are in order.

HOLDING OVER from Winter is the pillbox, again featured in every millinery showing. Where baku makes a coronet pillbox, the front appliqued with white velvet fern motifs studded with rhinestones.

MARKING the waistline with a pretty belt is a nice way of adding a spot of trimming to a plain dress. A new belt, and one that is selling well, is a very wide design in elasticized pink satin, with a brilliantly jeweled buckle in antique silver.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

CHRIST AND THE WOMAN OF SAMARIA

An Interpretation of the Rembrandt etching (1652) from the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Chapter 16
THE WOMAN AT THE WELL

Then came more long days of talk and explanation to His first five disciples. In those beginning days they took time to get acquainted with the hard, logical Andrew; the thoughtful, almost cynical Nathaniel; the eager, goodhearted Philip, and the always hungry, intense, explosive, quick-tempered Peter. They and John must be taught slowly, molded to work together, before others could be added to the company. And all must begin to understand the deeps of the startling ideas they were soon to hear Him preach.

Those, the best I had most tranquil days Jesus and His friends were ever to know, came to an end all too soon. Presently they must start back all the way to Jericho, for there were rumors that John the Baptist was getting himself into serious trouble.

With the five Jesus left Nazareth, and they began again the long trek down to the edge of the desert. There they made a little camp and observed for a while the excitement that was going on around the courageous preacher. Day by day word of what John was telling the crowds was being brought to Herod, the tetrarch and puppet ruler of Galilee.

And day by day John's talk about the tetrarch's marriage made his adulterous queen more enraged. In plain one afternoon John thundered explicitly to Herod's astounded and frightened subjects:

"It is not lawful for him to have his brother's wife."

The Wicked Queen

When she heard about this Queen Herodias demanded of the king that John at once be tortured and put to death. But Herod dilly-dallied; he was politically wise enough to realize that it would be folly for him summarily to execute so popular a man as John had become. Also he had to do something or lose his stolen wife, so a few days after Jesus and His followers reached the desert the king's soldiers suddenly broke up and seized John and dropped him into a dungeon.

And then, most curiously, the little Herod Antipas—alcoholic, drunken, and flagellarly free from decency as he often was—began to take a curious interest in his prisoner. For some obscure reason the brave, uncompromising man from the desert fascinated the soft-skinned ruler on his tinsel throne.

Often at night Herod would slip away from the lazy boudoir of dreaming, exhausted Herodias to go and talk with the man he had chained in a pit. Undoubtedly the king feared John, and he certainly could not understand the moral indignation that made him preach such indiscreet and indelicate sermons, yet something in the mystic's words stirred him, brought him a little light—like a door that opens just a crack.

A Man to be Feared

The more Herod Antipas listened to John, the more thoughtful and melancholy he became. The more he realized that John was a just and good man, and thus the more he came to be feared.

It was then that the queen, who had a cunning brain, decided that she must get rid of John the Baptist.

Once John was arrested, Jesus and His five friends started back toward Galilee. Guided by an inner voice, the Holy Spirit, the Master started the others by His decision to go home by way of Samaria.

Here, indeed, was a shock. Decent citizens avoided that province as they would a colony of lepers. The feeling of the Galileans against Samaritans was so deep and malicious that a mere glance from one was an insult, cause for a fight. That old feud between people of identical ancestry went back hundreds of years to the time when the Samaritans fraternized with invaders, when collaborationists married and intermarried and forever since they had been held in revulsion by all patriots of Israel. The ancient hatred made trade and peaceful intercourse impossible in modern times. Good Jews would walk far out of their way to go around Samaria. Queby Romans befriended them.

Jesus and His five followers straight to this forbidden province, fifty miles north of Jerusalem. Once within its borders He did not rest until He had reached its most historic spot, the well of Jacob, at the eastern base of Mount Gerizim. By now the five disciples knew that Jesus desired to be alone and so they went on, a mile and a half, into the town of Cichar, to buy provisions for the evening meal.

In a Reverie

Meanwhile Jesus sat in a reverie on the stone rim around the old well. Presently a woman came toward Him with a jug slung over her shoulder, a green hood thrown back from her head. As if she did not see Him at all, she busied herself tying a rope to the handles of her vessel and then lowered it into the darkness of the well.

"Give me to drink," said Jesus suddenly.

With stunned deliberation the woman pulled up her dripping jug of water and set it on the stone. Then she turned to him blankly. Plainly he was not a Samaritan; this stranger was a Jew. She knew, too, that it was forbidden of a God-fearing Jew to ask help of Samaritans or to receive food or water from them. In bewilderment, she answered:

"How do you, being a Jew, ask to drink of me, who am a Samaritan woman?

Jesus turned His head thoughtfully. The same old racial prejudice and fear! From boyhood He had been familiar with this mad and senseless hostility between His native Galileans and the Samaritans who lived next door.

"The Gift of God"

"If you would know the gift of God," He said, "and who He is who says to you, 'give me to drink', perhaps you would have asked of Him."

The consternation in her deepened. She ask water of Him? Jesus nodded.

"And He would have given you living water."

The words "living water" thoroughly puzzled this buxom, vital peasant full of the swaying and shapely magnitude of sex. Putting the back of one hand to her cheek, she said:

"Sir, you have nothing to draw water with and the well is deep. From whence, then, do you get your living water? Are you greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well and drank out of it himself, and his children and his cattle?"

Leaning forward and speaking confidentially, He replied:

"Whoever drinks of this water shall thirst again. But he that shall drink of the water that I will give him shall not thirst forever. The water that I will give him shall become in him a fountain of water springing up, into life everlasting."

She smiled incredulously.

"Sir, give me this water that I may not thirst."

"Go, call your husband and come here," he suggested.

Those words flustered her. With a toss of her head, she replied:

"I have no husband."

"You Are a Prophet"

And now the voice of Jesus was so low she could scarcely hear Him:

"You have said well, 'I have no husband.' For you have had five husbands. And he whom you now have is not your husband! You have said truly."

The woman leaned against the parapet of the well, both hands grasping the stones.

"Sir," she gasped, "I see that you are a prophet." Her face was growing paler, body trembling. It was a relief when, after a long pause, He spoke to her:

"Woman, God is a spirit and they that adore Him must adore Him in spirit and truth."

She whispered:

"I know that the Messiah is coming who is called Christ. When He comes He will tell us all things."

Jesus stood up and looked at her and said:

"I am He who am speaking to you."

She stood and looked at Him dumbly, for she had heard the old secret that He had not yet told His followers. There was a sudden noise behind them—Peter, John, Nathaniel, Andrew and Philip—back from town, their arms filled with bundles of food. On seeing them, she concealed her face, forgetting her water jug, and ran off into the city, where she told everyone she met that the Christ, the Messiah was out at Jacob's well.

His First Teaching

Soon crowds of Samaritans were surrounding them; they had heard the story of the woman at the well and were trooping out to see the man she said was the Messiah; they would judge for themselves.

If He was the Messiah, how did He mean to improve the condition of the world? Wherever one looked, one saw intolerance, cruelty, misery.

Did Jesus offer Himself as the hope of the distressed?

And He, hearing these questions from the Samaritans, lingered with them two days while He told them of the Kingdom of Heaven. What He taught them was a new Testament, a perfection of the old law, brotherhood of man for man, for all were children of the Father; an end of old grudges and blood feuds and hatred; forgiveness the answer to racial and religious strife; love to heal all wounds. This lesson of tolerance was His first public teaching.

PEARKES

Can Give Names

Gen. Pearkes said he could give the government the names of his informants, but not locations because his informants had "requested security and have not even told me."

At the House opening, Finance Minister Abbott told questioners that budget changes in the 15-per-cent surtax he will not extend, the tax to tire and tube replacements for farm machinery used on farms, including farm tractors.

In the debate, R. R. Knight (CCF Saskatoon) said if there was any sunshine in the budget, it certainly was not for the working man. A man whose sole income was from corporation dividends could have an income up to $10,000 a year and never pay a cent in tax. The working man should be taxed if he come would pay $1,842 a year.

"That's what we mean when we say it's a rich man's budget," said Mr. Knight.

Criticizes Abbott

J. J. Smith (L-Moose Mountain) criticized the stand of the CCF on corporation taxes. CCF members argued in one breath that corporation taxes should not be reduced. In another they argued that the corporations pass on the taxes to the consumers.

"If the taxes are passed on to the consumers, why does the CCF argue that the taxes be maintained?" he asked.

Lucien Cardin (L-Richelieu-Verchers) said Canadian tax rates now are back to their "pre-Korean level." But Canadians were still fighting in Korea; Canada was still maintaining troops in Europe; the defence program was continuing and there still was prosperity in Canada.

Want Full Information

Charles Parent (L-Quebec West) urged that the federal Companies Act be amended to force companies to give shareholders full information on how their investments are being used. Sound investments could not be made without full information and some companies refused to provide shareholders with all the facts.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) urged that better rail transportation facilities be made available for commuters who work in Toronto and live in the satellite areas. The commuter trains now were made up of 12 wooden coaches "built about the time the Yukon gold rush was at its height."

C. E. Johnston (SC-Bow River) criticized the extent of tax reductions in the budget and said the government should reduce customs tariffs to lower the cost of television sets in Canada. One of the best ways to control prices 'and to bring them down was to lower tariffs.

MOSCOW REVEALS

"The central committee of the Communist party and the Soviet Union's council of ministers—both headed by Stalin—said his absence from duty had made "more or less prolonged." But they called his withdrawal "temporary," and urged the 200,000,000 people of the Soviet Union to "display the greatest unity and to concentrate their energies in building communism."

In Power Since 1924

Stalin has led the government since 1924, when V. I. Lenin died. He led the Soviet people to victory in the Second World War, and his illness comes only a few weeks after the 10th anniversary of the battle of Stalingrad, turning point of that war for the Soviet forces.

The paralytic stroke Stalin suffered evidently is similar to that which killed Franklin D. Roosevelt, his wartime ally, President Roosevelt, who met with Stalin at Tehran and Yalta in wartime conferences, died at 63 in 1945.

The announcement of Stalin's illness was made over the Moscow radio as many Muscovites were going to work. The announcers gave the words slowly, and the bulletin was read over and over again.

Crowds Gather

Crowds gathered in front of newspaper placards on billboards. There was a look of concern on many faces. Prawda, official organ of the Communist party, headlined the news with the black letters—"Government Communique." It was sub-headed: "Of the illness of the Chairman of the Council of Ministers of the USSR and secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, Comrade Yosef Vissarionovich Stalin."

The official announcement disclosed that the Soviet Union has a new health minister—A. F. Tretyakov. It said the bulletin was being conducted under direction of Tretyakov and Lev A. Timashuk, chief of the medical sanitary board of the Kremlin. The previous health minister was Y. I. Smirnov.

Gives Brief Bulletins

Tass, the official Russian news agency, telephoned foreign correspondents the brief bulletin about 7:20 a.m. The AP correspondent in Moscow called their London and Paris offices at once, with the calls going through quickly. These calls were placed from the central telegraph office. The lines had to be held while censors cleared each copy for transmission abroad. All copy was subject to censorship.

Soon the news of Stalin's illness blanketed the Soviet capital with a pall of grief. On the streets people huddled into little groups. As they moved on, only one sentence was heard—over and over again—"Stalin is ill. Stalin is ill. Stalin is ill."

At the office of Tass, the girl who handed out the agency's bulletins to foreign correspondents was red-eyed from weeping.

People surrounded the newspaper stands scattered throughout the city as the morning editions carrying the government announcement and the medical bulletin were sold.

Silent and Sombre

At points in the city where the earliest copies of Pravda were to be posted on walls, dozens of Russians gathered to read the details. They were silent and sombre as they absorbed the news.

Stalin had been active within the last few weeks.

Jan. 12 he appeare at the Bolshoi Theatre for a concert by a group of visiting Polish artists. Next day he received the vice-president of the Soviet - Chinese Friendship Society and the president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences.

Jan. 21 he attended the memorial ceremonies for Nikolai Lenin at the Bolshoi. Feb. 7 he received the new Argentine ambassador, Dr. Leopoldo Bravo, and 10 days later the new Indian ambassador, P.P.S. Menon, and Dr. Sarbadhi Ritshki, chairman of the all-India peace council.

Both Bravo and Menon reported that he looked "strong and vigorous" for a man of 73 years.

CHALLIES

Last week Albert Wren (Lib-Lab—Kenora) said many hydro officials "didn't know a volt from a pail." Mr. Challies said they certainly knew the difference and Mr. Wren was the one likely to get a jolt.

Centres on Contracts

Mr. Challies' evidence of hydro centred on contracts awarded for power development on the Niagara river, the agreement with the supplying companies, and the comparative rates in the Quebec companies.

He said he would speak later on hydro's contract with Canadian Comstock Company for conversion of Beauharnois power from 25 to 60 cycles, which has been attacked by the opposition several times. They criticized the cost-plus basis on which the contract was let, stating that the original estimate of $121,000,000 has risen to $275,000,000 and may go higher.

Mr. Challies said the contract for a tunnel at the Sir Adam Beck generating station on the Niagara river was awarded to the two lowest bidders. J. B. Salsbery (Lab-Prog—Toronto St. Andrew) said hydro bought expensive property for the use of the contractors, but this was denied by Mr. Challies.

He said the standard mining agreement "is most liberal to the customers." Opposition Leader Frazghar Oliver has said that high rates were forcing mines to restrict operations and in some cases were driving new industries across the border into Quebec.

Supplied at $27.50

Mr. Challies said some power companies in Quebec were selling power for $40 a horsepower, but Ontario hydro supplies large blocks of power for $27.50 a horsepower up to 3,000 horsepower and lower rates for additional quantities.

Premier Frost said he had been promised any necessary assistance from Quebec Hydro in the event of shortages resulting from Monday's fire at the Chats Falls power plant on the Ottawa river.

The premier said it "was a fine gesture of goodwill" and he had expressed his appreciation to Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis.

CCF House Leader W. J. Grummett said a central building at an undisclosed location should be used for executions of condemned persons as a means of curbing "morbid interest."

Quotes Example

He said the hangings of Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson in Toronto jail "did not prevent the murder of Constable Marshall."

The Cochrane South member quoted early completion of three roads in the Timmins district. They were the Warren Lake road, running southwest from Timmins to ward Chapleau, the Lightning River road, serving the district to the south and east of Timmins, and a 16-mile uncompleted stretch of the Matachewan-Swastika road.

Several pieces of government legislation were introduced in the three-hour sitting. Included were bills to:

New Legislation

Allow annual inspection of elevators, escalators and ski tows, instead of every three years. Inspection services were considered unsafe.

Forbid servicemen under 21 years of age from buying liquor or patronizing beverage parlors;

Increase pension payments for widows of men killed in industrial accidents to $75 a month from $50, and for each dependent child to $25 a month from $12;

Amend the workmen's compensation act to provide payments to dependents employed outside the province by an Ontario firm, and for accidents in vehicles and aircraft used in their work;

May Extend Time

Extend the time in which a police summons must be served from 49 to 15 days, to give police enough time to complete investigations;

Give the health department overriding authority over municipal boards of health in event of disputes on matters within the scope of the Public Health Act;

Make juvenile and family court judges eligible for provincial superannuation benefits and the cost-of-living bonus. At present, they are paid by municipalities. If it's bill is passed they will be paid by the government which will in turn be reimbursed by the municipalities.

ORDERS GOVT. AID

Rio De Janeiro (AP) — President Getulio Vargas Sunday ordered immediate government aid for drought-stricken areas in northeastern Brazil. The decision was taken after the president had conferred with five of his cabinet ministers.

Four Prospectors Forced to Spend 7 Days on Glacier

VICTORIA (CP) — Lowering clouds cut an aerial life-line to four copper prospectors in a remote British Columbia, forcing them to spend seven icy days on a windswept mountain glacier.

The men staked 72 claims on an ice-covered 7,000-foot peak known as Leduc glacier. To win a staking race with another company, they were forced to ration food and sleep seven days in the snow.

Thorn Forrest, oldest of the party at 60, returned Tuesday to tell of the mountain ordeal. He was accompanied in the wind and snow by Tom Williams, Wendi Dawson and Howard Fowler.

Dawson, in 1931, found the copper deposits in rugged Alaska-B. C. borderland territory about 125 miles north of Prince Rupert.

At that time copper was selling at six cents a pound compared to 32 cents today. Dawson said he reported his discovery to "practically every big company" but all turned it down.

Weather Closed In

Results of the expedition were reported from Prince Rupert during the week-end, but the story began Feb. 24 when a pilot left the four men on the glacier after landing his small seaplane on the snow.

Full supplies and the backer of the staking party, Bill Richardson, were to arrive on a later flight. But the weather closed in.

The party was rationed with 10 pounds of meat, a loaf of bread, a pound of tea and a pound of sugar, a small tent and a gasoline stove. By the third day, weather was still bad. Williams, established as leader of the party, decided on rationing.

Cooked in Soup

The meat, all that remained, was cooked into a soup, each man getting two cups daily.

The men eventually travelled down the mountainside to timber level and set up a second camp, spending three nights there.

Two Generating Units Turning Out Power

FITZROY HARBOR (CP)—Two of the eight generating units in the giant 220,000-horsepower Chats Falls plant of the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario began turning out electrical energy Tuesday night, 36 hours after it was damaged by a $2,000,000 fire.

R. H. Saunders, commission chairman, said in Ottawa that within the next two or three days the plant will be back at half capacity with another two units cleaned up and put back into operation. This will mean a daily output of 120,000 horsepower.

Mr. Saunders praised the work of five employees on duty Monday when an explosion caused by a short circuit in an oil breaker touched off the blaze.

The fire is considered confined to the power plant by stanch doors there which, he said, saved the entire power plant by standing between it and the rest of the building.

The fire destroyed one generating unit and a frequency-changing unit.

Says Quebec's Peace Group Is Not Red

QUEBEC (CP) — Gerard Fortin, president of the Quebec Workers' Committee for Peace, denied Monday in a prepared statement that the peace movement is a Communist organization.

Fortin, who is also president of the Canadian Woodworkers' Union, said that a statement to this effect made by Pat Walsh, Quebec union organizer, is not true.

The sky broke on the seventh day and the plane arrived on the glacier together with a long-delayed helicopter, held up at Prince

Chicago Black Hawks Strike Rough Trail In Quest Of Playoff Position

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

Michael J. Reddener, the lives, breathes, eats and digests statistics regarding his beloved Goodgears, has now turned optimist of the first water. Merely because his puck-chasing proteges evened the semi-final playoff series with the Glen Rays at one win each and a tie. Mike, me boy, goes shouting to the high heavens that the Goodies are heavily-favored to cop the series. Shucks, Mike, they're no more favored than the Glens on the percentage. Besides tonight's another night and there should be fireworks in this man's village.

Why not be a little more consistent, Michael. In one breath you state that Johnson, Goodies' goalie, "had little or nothing to do" (that we definitely won't buy, neither will 3773 fans) and in the next exhalation we read "Johnson made sensational saves." Come, come, Michael, tsk, tsk, tsk.

And remember, me lobby, one swallow does not constitute a binge, but we will go along with you that the team that wins in the other fellow's home igloo stands a powerful chance to cop the series.

It looks like another record crowd in Walt. Gerow's palais de glace tonight, and they should not go home disappointed. The Glens got a bad one off their chests the other night in Kingston, and it's hope it was a case of "get it over and not a half one. Anyway, they are not feeling too proud over their performance, and knowing they can beat the Goodies with the brand of hockey they are capable of showing, they'll all set to repeat the 6-1 dose they handed the Limestoners the other night.

THIS IS A MUST!

Coach "Lanzy" Pellmere (No, he's no relation to the Mayor of New York), was in high dudgeon the other night. "Lou" is seems is masterminding the Ontario Provincial Police hockey team, and as Coach "Red" Storey of the Fire Department "reels and ladders" in the annual Shrine-Police-Firemen hockey game in Memorial Arena tomorrow night.

Lou emphatically denied Chief Gerald Vance's charges that the lads that saw importing outside digits to bolster their club. "We haven't put the finger on any of the hired hands from outside points. Is it our fault if hockey players of the area practically force their services on us? After all, this is a free country. Is it our fault if some of these guys happen to be in town and dash out on the ice to help us without letting us know? Who are we to deprive our fellow officers of a few minutes of fun from their arduous task of protecting the lives and families of people, like firemen, etc.?

"They're all bonafide police officers," grated Louie biting a three-inch piece off a length of two pipe. "They've been finger-printed, baptized, blood-typed, converted, refrain from canoeing, live close lives, vote, have quit beating their wives, go to church and wrestling matches play penny ante (with others), bathe every Saturday night, and are good, clean citizens (once a week at least). What's wrong with a crew like that?"

"That ain't the way we heard it," quoted Chief Vance. "If they're not importing 'em, what was that guy wearing a jacket, sneakers, biting a pet seal and chewing a big cud of walrus blubber doing in the OPP office the other day. And why was he making out a traffic report if he was just a friendly fireside dropper-in?" Hello?"

"They're not kidding anybody," chorused the Smoke Eater choir. "We know every man-jack o' 'em. We should. We've had enough speeding tickets. Besides we know all their tricks. We have undercover men, too. In fact some of the guys have been under cover for the past three weeks.

Manager "Warpy" O'Brien made his own solo. "All the gentlemen of the city fire department," he warbled, are straightforward, honest citizens. Each of them signs the pledge of the fire department whenever he joins — or makes his mark. We have nothing to hide, except a few birthmarks, and our records are open to everybody, except the police. We are proud of our hockey prowess and would venture to wager a reasonable sum, that when the smoke of battle clears tomorrow night, the Fire Department will wear the laurel wreath of victory."

In serious vein, plans are completed for the grand show being staged by the police and firemen, plus members of the Quinte Skating Club, the clowns, and the Trenton RCAF Trumpet band. As is now generally known all proceeds go to the Belleville Shrine Club's Crippled Kiddies' Fund, a right worthy cause. Your twenty-five cents will not only afford you a grand show but the opportunity to help a kiddie less fortunate than yours and mine. How about it?

GOING WELL!

A hockey graduate from Trenton's Mayfair millpond and the Trent River, with no organized hockey experience under his belt, young Bob Allore, goalkeeper for Loyola University is going great guns in the intercollegiate hockey league.

The 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allore, Trenton, is being hailed as one of the net-custodian finds in intercollegiate circles and Loyola hockey authorities rate him as the best in years after he took over from Paul Gelinas.

While he has no shutouts to his credit as yet, Bob has led the Loyolans to victory in every game played thus far. He got the thrill of his life the other night. Following a game in, which the famous "Rocket" Richard officiated the Canadiens star shaked over in Allore, complimented him on his performance and advised him to "stick to hockey."

Bob comes by his hockey ability naturally. His father played in the early days with such well known district stars as "Toots" Holway and Stan Hagerman. He starred in junior and intermediate O.H.A. teams.

And there is plenty of family pride in the youngster's ability. His father and mother seldom miss a game in which he plays, while a sister, Mrs. Greg Panasis, Rockcliffe, Ottawa, also sees the "kid brother" in action quite often. A brother Paul is connected with his father in business.

Hit Road in Heavy Schedule With Rangers Giving Trouble; Hold Point Margin in Fourth

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks, who had the breaks from the National Hockey League schedule-makers last week, have hit a rough stretch of travelling in their fight for a playoff berth.

The Hawks have spent most of their working time recently beating Boston Bruins over the head every time the trail-weary Bostonians showed their faces in Chicago. Meeting them three times in eight days, Ed Reid's charges picked up two victories and a tie.

Keep Bars Packed

But now the shoe is on the other foot. After six straight games on the road, the Bruins play their next four at home while the Hawks keep their bags packed.

The Chicago schedule calls for a game against the last-place Rangers in New York tonight, a hop to Chicago for a date with Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday, a jump to Montreal Saturday and another overnight ride to Toronto for a Sunday tilt.

Even the Ranger game could spell trouble. The last - placers handed the Hawks a 4-3 beating on their last visit here and have been a nuisance of themselves generally in recent months.

A point ahead of the fifth-place Bruins and a similar distance behind the Leafs, Chicago can't afford to give many points away. They have 10 games left and can't drop down one of the four play-off berths.

The Chicago - New York game is the only activity tonight. While the Hawks are idling over the holiday, the leading Detroit Red Wings (the only Detroit team to have clinched spot, entertain New York and Montreal Canadiens play at Boston.

Bobby Shantz Modest About 1953 Season

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) —Bobby Shantz, the American League's most valuable player of 1952, doesn't expect to have a season as good as that of last year and says he will be fortunate to win 20 games.

The tiny lefthander of Philadelphia Athletics was a picture of modesty Tuesday as he attempted to explain how lucky he was to register 24 victories last season while losing only seven.

"It was one of those years when everything went right for me," said Shantz. "The boys seemed to rise to the heights every time I pitched. I don't ever expect to have another such season."

Shantz, who had three 1-0 victories over Pittsburgh, Pa., knuckleballer added: "I'm not that good a pitcher. As a matter of fact, I'm not fooling myself," the 27-year-old Pottstown, Pa., knuckleballer added.

Curtains for Stratford, Brantford As Dutchies, Mercs Take Series 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

You didn't need a calendar to tell it was playoff time in Ontario Senior Hockey Association Tuesday night. Of four games played, three went into overtime. Even after the extra period the game remained undecided.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Stratford Indians, last year's Allan Cup champions, were slaughtered on home ice by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen as the Dutchmen scored a 5-3 two-time victory and won the best-of-seven semi-final 4-1.

In Owen Sound, the Mercurys had an easier time, taking their best-of-seven semi-final with Brantford Redmen 4-1 as they glided to a decisive 9-3 victory.

The Mercurys, Allan Cup winners two years ago, now meet the Dutchmen for the OHA Senior A title.

Play Tie

Nonya Flashes and Abitibi Eskimos played a 5-5 tie at Iroquois Falls in the first game of the Northern Ontario Senior Hockey Association Series. A best-of-seven semi-finals.

In the other NOHA Senior semi-final Sudbury Wolves scored two goals in overtime to win 3-2 and take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final with North Bay Trappers.

The Indians took a 2-0 lead on Strat-ford goals by Mickey Roth and Bruce Burdett. Clare Martin and Bobby Schnurr tied it up for the Dutchmen in the second. Stratford again took the lead in the third on Pat Wilson's goal, but Charlie Brooker knotted the count. Martin won the game with his second goal with only 35 seconds of the overtime period remaining and Don Rope fired the clincher 30 seconds later.

In Owen Sound Jaydee McArthur passed the Mercurys to victory on two goals, the others going to Doug Gillespie, Bill McCrank, Jerry Reid, Ralph Hocking, Bill Allum and Buck Forslund. Doug McKay, Bill Shill and Wally Hnatiuk scored for Brantford. Shill scored his goal on a penalty shot.

Two third-period goals by the Flashes sent Abitibi and Nonya into overtime in which neither could score. Jerry Labelle led Abitibi with two goals and Phil Esther and Rod Bellais scored the others. Bob Read, Rumbey Kennedy, Glen Hunter and Don Prentice hit the net for Nonya.

Sudbury's Roly McLenahan broke the deadlock between Sudbury Wolves and North Bay Trappers when he fired the winner for the Wolves three minutes before the end of the overtime period. Gordie Heale added another at the final period. Dennis Anderson, Johnny Meehan and defenceman Len Speck were the other Sudbury subers. Frank Ringler, Jack Leslie and Chick Cecchini tallied for the Trappers.

Unbeaten Manitoba, Alberta Rinks Favored for Canuck Curling Finals

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sudbury (CP)—The West appears headed for a 1953 Canadian curling championship.

The two undefeated rinks going into the fifth draw, Manitoba and Alberta, are favored to fight it out for the title.

Manitoba has already won the championship in competition with big year's skip, Alberta has trailed off with the trophy four times. Eastern rinks have taken the championship only two times since its inception in 1932. The typist was cancelled in the war years of 1945-46.

Following the Calgary and Dauphin quartets, tied for top spot, are British Columbia with three wins and one loss, and Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario, with 3-2 records.

Sneaky Shill On

The Saskatchewan rink from Delisle, not as experienced as most of the other competitors, is not counted out. Many 'spiel followers think the team, skipped by 32-year-old Jimmy Hill, has gained valuable experience in its first four games and, if Alberta or Manitoba slip, may jump back into competition.

Tuesday night the curlers left their brooms at the arena and headed for the banquet-table and an evening of story-telling and renewing old acquaintances.

The 1954 championships, it was decided, will be held in Edmonton and the following year at Regina where Saskatchewan will be celebrating its golden jubilee commemorating the province's entry into confederation.

In Tuesday's fourth round the Alberta-B.C. game reached a thrilling climax in the final end when Alberta squeezed out an 11-10 win.

With the score tied at 9-10 going into the 12th round, Alberta laid down two stones and then skip Len Haw placed a perfect guard. Reg Stone, skip of the Trail entry, attempted a triple raise but failed and the Haw rink counted one.

Manitoba had no trouble with the Saskatchewan rink. The Dauphin four piled up points early in the game and finally in the ninth end Saskatchewan all but gave the game away. The Gowanlock crew won 14-4.

Quebec won its second game, disposing of Newfoundland 15-2. It was the St. John's rink's fourth loss. Quebec, which had a bye in the third round, has a 2-1 record.

Grand Watson's Port Arthur rink, representing Northern Ontario, defeated the Ontario entry 14-7. The game was in the bag for the north in the fifth end when three had been by the Chatham four gave the Port Arthur rink a five end and Ontario its second defeat against one win.

Two Maritime rinks, trailing in the standings, battled desperately for a win. Nova Scotia's bridge-water four finally defeated Prince Edward Island 7-6 after a see-saw battle with Barney Haines Charlottetown aggregation.

This afternoon's fifth round will see Newfoundland with the bye, Alberta meets Ontario; Manitoba, B.C.; Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan; Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, and Northern Ontario, Quebec.

The sixth round tonight: Saskatchewan vs New Brunswick, Ontario vs Manitoba, Quebec vs Alberta, Northern Ontario vs Newfoundland, Nova Scotia vs B.C.

MARMORA

Marmora Loses To Campbellford

MARMORA — Campbellford, coming from behind in the third, won the first game of their best four-out-of-seven series with Marmora on the latest ring on Monday evening by the score of 9-5.

One of the goals scored for Campbellford in the third came off the stick of a Marmora defenceman but both teams missed further opportunities to score.

The boosters set a fast pace in the first period. In the second, play slowed somewhat.

It was Campbellford's turn to get going in the third and they were rewarded with victory. Scorers for Campbellford were, Craig (3); Simpson, Blake, Cole, and Taylor. For Marmora the scorers were Doran (2); Lavender, K. Trumble, and Leonard.

About 900 saw the game. The second game will be at Campbellford on Wednesday evening.

The teams:

Campbellford — goal, Nelson; defence, Tye, Blake; centre, Zady; wings, Craig, Payne; alternates Blake, Herrington, Cole, Simpson, Jeffs, Wilson, Taylor, Pace.

Marmora — goal, Killins; defence — K. Trumble, Leonard; centre, Barrett; wings, Doran, K. Trumble; alternates, Haynes, Lavender, Mantle, Jones, Smith, Lovelace, Doyle, Gray; spare goalie, C. Trumble.

Referees — D. Bridgman, G. McFaul.

Veteran Driver Dies in Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Nathaniel Daniel Ray, 63, veteran harness race driver, died here Tuesday night.

He had been in poor health since suffering a stroke on the grand circuit last year. He was best known for the winter training season at Ben White Raceway.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret; a sister, Mabel Ray Birchcliffe, Ont., two nieces and a nephew.

Ray, who lived in Toronto, was originally a steeplechase jockey and switched to the sulky about 1925.

He drove Guy McKinney to a Hambletonian victory in 1926 and then went back to steeplechase horses before finally deciding on harness racing.

Ed Pine Hugs $7,500 Worth of Gold

British Speedboat 'Rainbow' Relinquishes 'Pot of Gold'

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A golden visitor from Britain was "on the loose" in this Eastern Ontario district the other day.

It was the famous Duke of York Trophy won by Hamilton's Art Hatch well-known Canadian speedboat driver, in 1951 which has been reposing in the vault of a Toronto bank except for intermittent forays to boating meetings.

The gadget is worth $7,500, is of solid gold, and goes about the country under heavy guard. Emblematic of the British 225 cubic inch speedboat championship, it was won by Hatch on Lake Windermere, England which he roared his "Costa Livin" to victory in three 30-mile heats.

Hatch's victory was more pronounced in the fact he defeated "Miss Windermere" a British boat powered with a Jaguar 200 horse-power engine, holder of three world's records in its class.

It was the first time a British motor boat trophy was won by a Canadian. To add spice to victory Jack Langmuir, Brockville, won outright the Daily Telegraph Trophy during the same regatta.

Will Receive Replica

The Duke of York Trophy is in the custody of the Canadian Boating Federation while in Canada. Considerable difficulty in securing government permission to bring it to Canada was encountered by Hatch. He will receive a full bronze replica when the trophy is returned.

Hatch won a thousand pounds in prize money and in addition sold his champion "Costa Livin" to a British sportsman for a like amount.

He already owns four speedboats. He plans to build another in Montreal which he expects to take to Italy as a member of the British Empire Speedboat team. But she will have to do 100 m.p.h. in order to qualify.

Ed Pine, North American speedboat points winner champion, Hatch's driving "Man - Friday," of this city, says he lost two pounds escorting the Duke of York through the district over last week-end. He brought it from Gananoque, thence to Madoc where it was on display at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of that village. Pine rushed it to a city bank for deposit, "sweating blood."

"Never saw so much nor had so much gold in my possession at any time," Ed said.

Hatch has asked him to drive his racers this summer and also to go to Italy as a driver, but Ed a garage operator, hasn't made up his mind.

Purchased "Miss Madoc"

Hatch has purchased "Miss Madoc," a Canadian, the Gananoque boat with which he hopes to gain more titles. Another of his champions is the "Costa Lotta," a .266 cubic inch design beauty.

Pine said there is talk in England of bringing a British speedboat team to Canada this year, with a Canadian team making a return visit.

The result of the Canadian entries was said by Windermere Boat Club officials to be the highest since Sir Henry Segrave made his attempt in 1930 with "Miss England."

The Duke of York trophy was presented to Hatch by the wife of Lt.-Col. Campbell, who held the speedboat record for many years at 141 miles per hour.

Pine was the North American speedboat high points title back in 1948, driving his "Maple Leaf." He took the title from Paul Sawyer, of San Antonio, Texas, the previous holder of the world's record, (124 mph) for .266 cubic inchers.

Sawyer, it will be recalled by speedboat men, was one of the drivers in the ill-fated race in Picton when the famous "Pops" Cooper was fatally injured. Paul lived in the Bay of Quinte when "Pop's" 135 cubic inch turbocharged through the air hurling the aged driver into the flashing waters of the Picton course.

Suffering skull and brain injuries, the beloved "Pops" died a few days later in a Syracuse hospital.

Both Hatch and Pine are well-known among speedboat drivers in this district. Both have raced in the famous Picton Gold Cup Regatta and have established enviable records in both this area and other parts of Ontario and Quebec.

JAY-WALKERS PAY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police started a second campaign against jaywalkers here and in the first seven days handed summonses to 126 alleged offenders. Police superintendent Sydney Lloyd said however that "many first offenders get off with a warning."

Barons Regain Top Spot In American League

Cleveland Barons regained undisputed first place in the American Hockey League Tuesday night by blanking the second-place Pittsburgh Hornets, 3-0.

Gus Kyrazy, rookie Baron defenceman, scored in the second on a 70-foot shot at 5:18 of the first period. Steve Wochy, right wing, got the other two in the third period.

Goalie John Bower of Cleveland recorded his sixth shut-out, his best record for any single season.

Boucher Says 'Red' Kelly Game's Greatest

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers says hockey's greatest player is not Gordie Howe of Detroit's Red Wings — almost everybody's choice—but Howe's teammate, defenceman Leonard (Red) Kelly.

Boucher believes Kelly is a shade more valuable to the champion Red Wings than Howe despite assertions in other hockey quarters that Gordie ranks with the best of all time.

"It won't surprise me," Boucher said, "if Kelly wasn't a unanimous selection as an all-star defenceman for the third straight year. That's a pretty fair recommendation. But more than that, you've got to go all the way back to Eddie Shore's prime to find one in his class. In other words, about 20 years ago.

"Shore was more spectacular than Kelly because of the way he hits. He was a wrecker—something like a bruising fullback in football—and he was a showman. But I doubt if he was any more effective."

Boucher said he would pick Kelly over Howe if he were starting to build a hockey team and had his choice of any player in the National Hockey League.

"Remember," he said, "this is the fifth year in a row that the Red Wings figure to take the pennant, and the years I've been there they traded away two outstanding defencemen in Billy Reichenbach to Boston and Leo Reise to us. Yet as long as they've got Kelly they don't seem to be weakening their defence."

This is the 25-year-old Kelly's sixth season with the Red Wings. He won the coveted Lady Byng Memorial Trophy last season as the National Hockey League's most gentlemanly player. He was also named to the All-Star team as a forward or a defenceman. Carson Cooper, then Detroit's chief scout, graded him:

"The red head," says Boucher, "attacks like a great forward, and fits into the attack like a great defenceman. There's nobody like him for taking the pressure off his own team and in a few seconds applying it to the other guys."

Western Clubs Being Polled Re Quebec Loop

SEATTLE (AP)—President Al Leader said Tuesday night the Pacific Coast League directors in Europe are being polled on whether they favored a proposed playoff series with the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Leader said he received a long-distance telephone call this morning from George Slater, Quebec league president, suggesting a post-season series.

The Quebec circuit voted Sunday night to approach both the Western and American Hockey Leagues on possible playoffs.

Leader, who said he personally liked the idea of a series with the seven-team Quebec league, promised to let Slater know early next week the outcome of the Western League club poll.

You've seen them all.. now let's talk VALUES

Here is performance with economy and safety. Beauty with comfort. Style with convenience. Your money has never bought so much in a lower-priced car.

OUTSTANDING ECONOMY—Plymouth's famous engine is built to save you money in fuel and upkeep! You have all the power you need—plus the most modern, fuel thrifty low compression engine of Plymouth's light-weight Aluminum-alloy 4-ring pistons. You get long mileage . . . long engine life . . . and trouble free performance that keeps costs way down.

"BIG CAR" SMOOTHNESS—Your money never bought so much "big car" smoothness. The new Plymouth Balanced Ride controls roll—pitch—and jounce . . . levels the road with three ways. Also a new, more resilient ride you have ever experienced. A road-test will convince you.

BETTER ALL-ROUND VISION—With 15.7% more glass area, you get all-round, close in vision—for comfort and driving safety. The one-piece optically curved windshield eliminates reflections. Electric windshield wipers don't slow down when accelerating or climbing a hill—ensuring maximum protection.

TWIN CYLINDER BRAKES—Plymouth Self-Guard hydraulic brakes have not just one, but TWO hydraulic brake cylinders in each front wheel . . . giving balanced control—for extra assurance of stopping power you can trust.

SAFETY RIM WHEELS—You have an outstanding safety advantage with Plymouth Safety Rim Wheels. Should a blow-out occur with Safety Rim Wheels—the tire remains securely on the rim, permitting you to bring the car to a safe, smooth stop.

BEAUTIFUL NEW STYLING—The new Plymouth is lower, sleeker, more beautiful—yet it offers you more head, leg and hip room. Try the back seat, too—it's over 5 inches wider in the new models. More trunk room, too, in the long, rear deck 24—30% more for your luggage.

More than ever before, the '53 Plymouths are the Top Value in the lower-priced field.

Cars as illustrated include certain extra equipment items. Check with your local dealer for information on modern equipment.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Smooth going likely until 5 p.m. Fine day for business and professional affairs. A wholesome period, make it pay.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Many real benefits. Friendship favored this enthusiastic day. Be alert to your possibilities, family needs.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Peak day in benefit influences. Writers, journalists, researchers, clerks, secretaries freshly sponsored by their stars.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—The "Go" sign in work and activities in which you usually take part. Mental tasks, hard labor have fine rays. Home, family offers special happiness.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—This day adds to the many generous ones this month has for Leo-born. You must be co-operative, strong in effort, sound in intent. Many blessings can be yours.

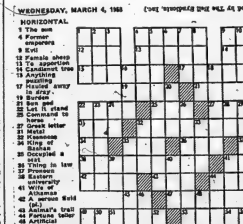
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Sort of day for all-out healthy endeavor. Artistry, finesse and accuracy will yield new lasting returns. Fine period on the whole.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Opportunities, fresh leads for gains and aids that make a day lofty, heartening. Be in the spirit of the day. You can achieve.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Call upon your true inner self to guide you at times this uncertain day. Avoid getting worked up to a heated state over news.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Always be true to your trust, family, associates (your Sign's innate strength), and three-quarters of your day is conquered.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Expect good results from honorable effort. Curb any tendency to rush things, and don't listen to rumor.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Some adverse prepaganda to squelch. Do it promptly. With sincerity and good will your endeavors will be appreciated.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—May be tendency to create one impression and act another. Cut carefully; avoid bias and be ready to take the side of sincere upright living.

YOU BORN TODAY are intuitive, an observer of good things in life, with fine appreciation for real values. Have ability and depth to become able doctor, lawyer, nurse, teacher; also capable business manager, scientist, musician. Don't be too retiring. Good-living Pisceans make loving, faithful life-mates and parents. Birthdate: Sir Austen Henry Layard, scholar who excavated ancient Nineveh; Dean Cornwall, artist.

Campney Answers Two Questions On Sawmill

OTTAWA (CP)—Ralph Campney, associate defence minister, said Monday the defence department has no interest in the business at Camp Petawawa for a couple of winters because of rising prices but got out last year.

He replied orally to two questions on the Commons order paper about the activities of a government-owned sawmill and the disposal of its products.

His replies didn't satisfy questioners Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) and Percy Wright (CCF—Melfort) but the speaker ruled that the questions might be answered in writing and the mile later said he had replied fully to them.

Mr. Campney said the department went into the lumber business in the winter of 1950-51 because it was considered more economical to cut the logs at that time of year than to store them and stockpiled.

Next winter another 500,000 board feet was cut but it was decided in June, 1952, to declare the logs surplus and put the sawmill in storage.

Council Shelves $17,850,000 In Major Projects

TORONTO (CP)—City council Tuesday authorized three minor projects and shelved $17,850,000 in major projects as the price tag on a proposed metropolitan council it will take over the responsibility.

The projects authorized were East Riverdale community centre, to include the waterfront highway, at $200,000, a library branch on the city hall, Spadina Avenue extension, new zoo and homes for the aged.

FISHING SEASON OPENS

PORT DOVER (CP)—Port Dover's fishing season swung into full activity Monday when the Lady Cosley Brothers, skippered by captain Ken Cosley, headed out for the nets. The catch was good considering the quantity of net set Sunday.

Sunday 11 boats of the Kibe fleet will join the Lady Cosley at set their nets. The Cosley Brothers is part of the latter fleet.

Govt. Will Buy 10,000,000 lbs. Dried Skim Milk

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided to buy 10,000,000 pounds of dried skim milk from the Canadian Dairy Co. in an effort to reduce a commercial stockpile that has doubled in the space of a year.

Agricultural officials discussed Tuesday that with Canada's concentrated milk industry facing a problem in mounting surplus production, federal relief will be provided through government purchase of about 50,000 barrels of the surplus product. Purchases will begin as soon as storage space can be found.

Under this new price support measure, first of its kind since 1949, the government will pay eight cents a pound for 3,000,000 pounds of dried skim milk produced on roller machines and 11½ cents a pound for 7,000,000 pounds produced through spray-machine methods.

These prices are slightly below current market levels. But the market-support move may cost the government about $1,045,000. If assessments can be made, the milk likely will be turned over to some international organization such as United Nations international children's emergency fund.

The federal cabinet is expected to reduce commercial stockpiles which climbed to 15,000,000 pounds on Feb. 1, double the 7,500,000 on Feb. 1, 1952.

Department Plans Four-lane Road Of 75 Miles

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of highways has plans for a new 75-mile four-lane highway north from Toronto around the north of Lake Simcoe it was reported Tuesday.

Reaction of the bill providing a metropolitan government for Toronto and 13 surrounding municipalities clears the way for construction of the new road, expected to cost $50,000,000.

Highways Minister Doucett hinted at the first plans by the Ontario Legislature Tuesday when he said that under the metropolitan bill, the province would take over the Markham road, now in the York county system and convert it with a by-pass under construction to take east-west traffic north of Toronto.

It is reported that the new road will follow the general line of the route of the Markham road, cut east of Lake Simcoe in connection with No. 11 Highway at Severn.

Sentence Reduced

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Tuesday reduced to a life penalty a 21-year sentence of five years and 10 strokes of the strap. The decision was in the case of Walter William Willaert, 23 of Sarnia, convicted last Sept. 22 for the rape of a six-year-old girl.

The court said in its decision that to accept as a first offender "is surely the part of wisdom and prudence in judical discretion."

The judgment was written by Mr. Justice J. A. Laidlaw, with Chief Justice J. W. Pickup and Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay concurring.

PAINTINGS LOST IN FIRE

TORONTO (CP)—Five paintings by artist Michael Snow were destroyed Tuesday night in a fire which damaged the home of his father, G. Gardley Snow.

Why We Say—
BREAKING THE ICE

... From velocity.

We use this expression to denote that we have been able to make an initial contact. The expression stemmed with the whaling boats of the Arctic area. They had to get special boats to break the ice so that they can continue fishing after.

Faces 16 Charges

TILLSONBURG (CP) — Alex R. Walker, dismissed as local agent by the Canadian Pacific Railway earlier this year, was arrested Tuesday on 16 charges of theft and uttering in connection with loss of some $35,000 by Tillsonburg and district residents.

He is charged with keeping money that he was given, mostly in Canadian funds, to pay for passage to Canada for their kinfolk in Europe.

The charges, 14 of theft and two of uttering forged documents, were laid by individuals.

Francois de Linares, General Of French Army in Indo-China, One of Ablest Soldiers of France

By JOHN K. MACKEEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Spanish conquistadores, sturdy British adventurers, and a one-time Canadian horse wrangler have combined through the years to give France one of her ablest soldiers today.

General of the Army Francois Gonzales de Linares, at 56, is just about what his ancestry would indicate: Tough, impatient and daring. His present job as commander of French Union ground forces in northern Indo-China demands each of these qualities in full measure.

And there is little danger the de Linares strain will die out. The general has 13 children.

Colorful Background

In his roomy headquarters recently, he skipped quickly over his family's early Spanish and British background, commenting only that it was "colorful enough." Then he began talking about his father.

"My grandfather was a British shipping man and my father was born in India. When he was 18, he took off in a sailing hull in from Bordogne for Canada. He used to tell me, years later in France, how he chased wild horses and broke them.

"He spent most of his 12 years in Canada in Northern Ontario and further west. I forget the place-names, except for how-do-you-call-it, Winnipeg? He was there, too."

Gen. de Linares speaking half in French, half in English, said his father became a Canadian citizen but, on his return to France, was renaturalized. He married in Brittany and, in 1897, the general was born at Guerande (Loire-Inferieure).

No Office Man

Suddenly, the general stopped talking. He slapped his huge desk, leaned over, and growled:

"I hate office work. Do you hear me? I hate it."

After a slight pause he continued. He volunteered to serve in the French army in 1916, and was sent to the academy at Saint-Cyr. There followed, in the next two years, bitter fighting in which he was wounded twice.

For gallantry in these actions, he was cited four times.

Gen. de Linares, whose eight rows of ribbons include the British DSO and the American DSC, has never been to Canada. He said he had not served with Canadian troops during the First World War, but fought with them in the Italian campaign of the Second World War.

"Some day," he said, "I shall visit Canada. My father always talked about it, and I admired the Canadians in Italy a great deal. But, for the time being, we have a war going on here too."

Between world wars, the general's duties took him to Morocco for five years, a hitch at the war college, and then back to North Africa for another five years. In 1939 he was promoted from captain to major and given command of a battalion of the famed Alpine Chasseurs.

After France was overrun by the Germans in 1940, de Linares established and directed the resistance movement in and near Lyon. Subsequently he was thrown secretly to England and, in 1943, he took part in the second Italian campaign.

Named regimental commander of the 5th Algerian Fusiliers, he led the unit throughout the Italian drive and on into southern France. It was in the siege of Toulon that then Lt.-Col. de Linares won the admiration of the late Marshal de Lattre de Tassigny.

Seven years later, following a post-war period of relative inactivity, Gen. de Linares was sitting at home with his family when a telegram arrived from then de Lattre. It said, in effect: "Come at once." Eight days later, Gen. de Linares was in Indo-China.

Determined Officer

Since that time, much has happened. The death of Marshal de Lattre a year ago left Gen. de Linares the only personality but determined more than ever to seek out and destroy the Communist-led Viet Minh.

Lately the general has been particularly successful. The battle of Na Sân in December, which resulted in some 8,000 enemy casualties compared to 1,000 French killed and French Union losses, has been described by competent observers as the most important Franco-Vietnamese victory of the six-year war.

But Gen. de Linares is the first to admit that this bitter war, involving close to 1,000,000 men, is about as far from a decision as it ever was. It is a classic stalemate.

As the ground forces commander sees it, a strictly military verdict is out of the question. He thinks also it will be impossible to persuade the enemy to lay down his arms, at least for a long time to come.

Must Win Civilian

Instead, he sees as the only realistic hope a decision brought about by military pressure where necessary, combined with a successful drive to win the civilian population wholeheartedly to the anti-Communist cause.

As, in a civilian capacity, French commissioner to North Vietnam, Gen. de Linares is in a good position to supervise both military and civilian campaigns.

Personally, however, he would far rather go into the field with the troops and stay there. He does exactly that whenever he can.

Meanwhile, he has this to say about the Indo-China war:

"This is a war here. It may be smaller than Korea but, to my mind, it is strategically more important. Don't forget that if Indo-China goes, so does the rest of Southeast Asia and all its food and resources. It's as simple as that."

Victorious General

In the biggest and one of the bitterest battles of Indo-China's six-year-old war, Franco-Vietnamese forces decisively defeated 20,000 Communist-led Viet Minh assault troops who surrounded and tried to storm the tiny airstrip at Na San, 117 miles west of Hanoi. The defenders' successful stand was planned by General of the Army Francois Gonzales de Linares, officer commanding ground forces in northern Indo-China. The general is shown touring Na San following the big fight. He spent most of a full day decorating men who performed gallantly during the siege, inspecting the scene of the fighting and talking to hundreds who took part.—(CP Photo.)

ESCAPEE PLEADS GUILTY

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Stanley Kizol, 18, pleaded guilty Tuesday to escaping from Lincoln county jail Sunday and to assault occasioning bodily harm to two jail guards. He was remanded to March 10 for sentence. Nick Petro, 63, in whose Grantham township shack Kizol was caught, was remanded for two weeks on a charge of aiding and abetting.

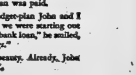
So we bought our "fridge" at the B of M...

My, how I wanted that thing. I got to dreaming about it and calling it "our refrigerator", though it still sat in the shop window. We saw it every Saturday night in the Acme Hardware as we walked home from the movies.

John said we couldn't afford it, and was dead-set against selling our one remaining bond or drawing on Aunt Jean's $200 inheritance we had racked away in a special savings account to be for human except in absolute emergency.

"But, John," I wailed, "we can't go on losing food with that old worn-out fridge. And what about the repair bills you have to pay for it every few weeks?"

He just bit his lip.



That was two weeks ago.

Funny how things happen. Next day I read an item on one of those women's columns about "borrowing and saving" by Personal Planning at the Bank of Montreal. It was about a situation sort of like our own.

So into the local B of M branch I went. Showed the Manager the clipping from the paper, told him our situation exactly, and in ten minutes he said he thought we could work out the problem without too much trouble. He asked me to bring John in to discuss the full details. As we walked out of his office, he gave me a copy of "Personal Planning".

That book opened our eyes about our finances.

The very next day John and I saw Mr. Easton, the Manager. After a few questions to my husband about his job, his salary—about our bond and "emergency" bank balance, he said he'd be glad to lend us the $550 needed for the fridge. He was satisfied we could pay off the loan in a year at $50 a month, and we arranged to transfer our special savings account to his office and to pledge our bond until the loan was paid.

Mr. Easton talked over the budget-plan John and I had begun to work out . . . said we were starting out right. "Even though you've got a bank loan," he smiled, "you're really saving your savings."

And that fridge . . . such a beauty. Already, John and I both call it "MY BANK".

He had invited Ma to the graduation ceremony, too, but she hadn't come. She had never seen the point, either, in her duties of Jenny was as intense as ever. Now that Harriet was living a life of her own and Joe was gone, Ma stayed in two dismal rooms the third story up on the south side and not far from Madison Avenue. She had always kept herself neat, her grey hair curled, her clothes clean. But now she had let herself go. Her hair was screwed into an untidy knot and short wisps hung straight around her fat face. She went around the apartment in a faded dingy wrapper and run-over shoes. And she wasn't always harangling him the way she used to. She'd sit for 15 minutes at a time, half listening to him talk and not saying a word unless he asked her a direct question. It seemed unnatural that she didn't even send him to her grandchildren.

He wished Ma could at least have come to the graduation. If it hadn't been for her in spite of the football scholarship those first three years, he wouldn't have gotten to go to college. The way she'd skimped and saved to send him money when he was in State University. She'd done without things herself and robbed Harriet and Joe to send him those checks. And when she fraternity had a week-end party for the pledgers one year he'd been ashamed to ask Ma to come.

Rick's mother came around after the graduation ceremony to second Rick's invitation to Centerville. She was a small woman, smart looking with an upswept hairdo, silver grey and expensively attractive clothes.

They all rode down to Centerville in Rick's car later that day, loaded down with all the incredible paraphernalia needed for two babies—bottles, diapers, suitcases of clothes, bassinets and the folding carriage.

The Morris home was a beautiful old remodeled colonial house that had been in Rick's family for two generations. Across the way, what had once been Morris' homestead acres was now a public park. They had a picnic supper there that evening. Manie, the Morris housekeeper, looked after the twins. It was delightful for Jenny.

The two weeks at Centerville passed in no time. Mamie and Mrs. Morris had practically taken over care of the twins, so that Jenny could go swimming with Rick and Tod and even dancing one evening. Jenny dreaded to go back to the trailer camp. And when Rick's mother found out that that was what they intended to do she wouldn't listen to it.

"You'll be better off in our little guest cottage" she cried. "It's just two rooms but we can fix it up, and you can live in it until Tod finds an apartment or house in Capitol City."

Jenny accepted with happiness only partially dimmed when Tod acted sullen about it.

The cottage, originally built as a caretaker's house, had been used later by Rick's father for his study.

Jenny bought colorful paper drapes for the windows and painted some second-hand chairs and an old kitchen table bright yellow for the kitchen. They moved their few belongings from the trailer, plus the new walnut marble-topped bureau and the gateleg table and antique chair Nina was storing for them. The cottage was small, but once it was furnished and the curtains up, they were delighted with it.

Then Tod got a job with a distributor for farm implements. It didn't pay so much to start but there was a promotion promised.

They celebrated in appropriate fashion with a party. Tod, using Rick's car brought Nina over on a Saturday evening to spend the week-end. The four of them went swimming, had a picnic, and then as soon as the babies were put to bed, the four played bridge until late. It was like old times. Tod bunked that night with Rick at the big house and Nina slept at the cottage with Jenny.

Nina and Jenny lay awake until almost 2 talking. Jenny was so excited about Tod's new job, and she was thrilled with the cottage too. "It's wonderful how nice Mrs. Morris has been, Nina. She's such a help with the twins!"

"You surely aren't planning to stay here at the cottage!" Nina said.

"Only until Tod can find an apartment or house within our means."

"It'll be a problem all right," Nina Said, "but I think I'd——"

"You'd what?" Jenny asked sharply.

"I wouldn't want you to take me wrong or anything like that," Nina said. "But I think it would be best for all concerned if you moved back to Capitol City as soon as possible, even though it is a help for Mrs. Morris to take care of the babies so much."

"Why what do you mean, Nina?"

"You know Rick's in love with you," Nina said. She paused and then added, "You are, too, aren't you, hon, for me saying it?"

"Mad! No, of course not," Jenny said. She was grateful for the darkness that hid the red creeping across her cheeks. "You're wrong—being silly Nina—or jealous."

One of the babies whimpered in his sleep and she got out of bed and padded around to his bassinet.

Nina sighed. "I'll admit I wanted Rick to fall for me, but I gave up long ago. You and Tod have been throwing him at me ever since last fall, but he doesn't see anyone but you, Jenny."

Jenny broke in, "Rick is Tod's best friend, and he's been so good to me, but it isn't anything like that, I know."

"Just the same," Nina insisted, "I think the best thing you and Tod can do is move back to Capitol City."

Jenny lay awake long after Nina's regular breathing indicated she was sleep. She remembered Tod's accusation: "Rick's in love with you." They had quarreled over it. And now Nina had brought it up. In some odd way both of them seemed to blame her. For something that didn't exist! Just because Rick was gentle and helpful and adored the babies, they had to jump to crazy conclusions that he was in love with her.

Rick had gone to work at the Centerville Trust Company. The job had been waiting for him as soon as he graduated. His grandfather had founded the bank, and now that his father was dead, Rick was supposed to work into the leadership of the institution. Tod envied Rick's security; no worries, a good job waiting for him to step into.

Perhaps it was because the Duncans always had to struggle that the things money would buy were so important to Tod.

Jenny herself was contented. The babies were sweet and healthy and utterly fascinating.

Tod had to catch the 6.45 bus in the morning and the evening bus didn't get down until 6.30, which left him little time at home through the week, but he had Saturday afternoon's off which didn't make it so bad. They would have liked to have a car, but they didn't have money enough for a down payment.

At first Tod was interested in his job and excited at meeting new people, but as the summer wore on, the job became less interesting and more routine and the commuting more tiresome in the heat and dust of midsummer. He would come home worn out, hungry and hot to find Jenny fresh as a daisy after a quick 5 o'clock swim in the park pool with Rick.

Jenny sensed after the first few times she talked about the swim with Rick, that it irritated Tod, so she didn't mention it any more. He wasn't too fond of swimming himself and that's why she had gone early.

She tried instead to act interested in his day, asking about his work, and the people he had met. But he nearly always came home in a disagreeable mood. She wondered why it was so difficult for Tod to adjust himself, to accept the small difficulties of life in a good natured way. She told him that one evening.

"You can't you just accept things as they are and not grumble about them all the time?"

His eyes blazed suddenly.

"Oh, so I grumble!" Tod said bitterly. "Who wouldn't! I slave in that hot office all day and then mad home on that jolting old bus in the heat, breathing carbon monoxide fumes all the way, eat dinner, go to bed, get up and do the same thing all over again the next day."

"But, darling, we'll find some place to live in Capitol City soon. Meanwhile, why don't we try to be contented here?"

"Why shouldn't you be contented?" he exclaimed. "You sit here in the cool cottage all day, eat a leisurely lunch, nap when the twins do, go for a swim with Rick——"

Just that's the sore point, I can tell Rick that you—"

"That's not the sore point!" he snapped. He pushed away from the table. The screen door banged after him.

Jenny got up and stood in the doorway, watching him stride down the driveway and turn off across the park. Every time they quarreled he went off like this and after a while he'd come back and everything would be patched up.

However, when Tod returned on this evening an hour or so later, he was still sullen. He came into the cottage and flung himself down in a chair and lit a cigaret before he spoke to her.

"I ran into Mis downtown today," he said. "She looked terrible. I'm worried about her. She wants me to stay with her during the week and come down here week-ends."

There was a stubborn set to his jaw. "I told her I'd think about it. And I've decided it might be a good idea. Commuting is getting me down."

MOSCOW RADIO SAYS STALIN HAS COLLAPSED

Separate Struggles For Power Seen When Stalin Dies

Who Will Rule Communism Of World Is Vital Question

Born in Hastings, Famed Physician, T.S. Cullen, Dies

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP)—When Joseph Stalin dies there may be two separate struggles for succession. One is the immediate matter of who is to be ruler of the Soviet Union. The other—and historically perhaps the more important—centers on who will take Stalin's almost exalted place as ideological master of world communism.

Stalin wore two hats. One was the temporal garb of ruler of power in Russia itself. The other was the more spiritual, but possibly even more powerful hat of an almost religious nature—that of the god of atheistic communism.

During his lifetime, communism has become known as Stalinism. All schisms from Stalin dictates were split from Stalinism. Such was the case of Leon Trotsky, who was to the Tiotism of Yugoslavia. Stalin's Russian successor may be G. M. Malenkov or V. M. Molotov or L. P. Beria or someone else.

Hard to Question Answer

But will that Russian receive the fanatical adherence of communists the world over? Russia's prestige has been enormously raised by somebody him a head-start in the race for Stalin's mantle, but there are contenders outside Russia, too.

Who may seek the mantle, but the land is small and his world the following smaller.

There are many who raise the startling possibility — startling to Western onlookers, that is—that Mao Tse-tung of Asian the next ideological fountain-head of world communism. The main contention is Mao Tse-tung, dictator of Red China, a man who made his own revolution, and won it.

Driving Toward Goal

Communism is driving toward its goal of world domination and an "ideal" society sometimes changes its course abruptly to meet changing pressures, and it needs a powerful leader at such periods who can explain away the sudden switches and make it all seem consistent.

Mao could fill the bill. He is an agile intellectual who has contributed much to Communist literature and has commanded plenty of prestige in the Red world.

Mao and his followers give his power base in Asiatic peasantry, but that lip service has always been to the power base in the industrial proletariat. He has given many signs of independence. He did not follow Stalin's advice to join Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang, but INSTEAD went ahead and set up a rival government—and did it in his own Chinese way.

The question is: Will Western (white) Communists follow a Chinese? The answer may be given in turning point in the history of the world.

Want to Hear Heads

TORONTO (CP)—The legislature's committee on commissions decided Wednesday to ask the chairmen of three provincial commissions to come before it to answer questions on their operations.

The three are Arthur Walsh of the liquor control board; Judge W. T. Robb of the liquor licence board, and Magistrate Thupper Bigelow of the Ontario racing commission.

No 'Halfway Meeting'

BELGRADE (AP)—The Yugoslav newspaper Politika today carried a three-column cartoon featuring the apparently dead Stalin rising from the Kremlin. In the foreground, a caricatured President Eisenhower, holding a fast retreat, was crying over his shoulder:

"I am taking my office back. I don't want to meet you halfway."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Cold westerly winds and snowflurries will persist over the provinces. Mostly fair and cold on Friday will be a little lighter except in northwestern Ontario. The strong winds are connected with the storm that moved throughout the province Wednesday and is today centred over the northern tip of Quebec province. The intense counterclockwise circulation will bring western continues sending cold air southward from the Canadian Arctic.

OPPOSITION MAY QUESTION RIGHT OF MEMBER TO SIT

Mines Minister Prudham Under Fire in House

OTTAWA (CP) — The right of Mines Minister Prudham to sit in the Commons may be questioned by the opposition.

A reply tabled in the Commons Wednesday disclosed that a company headed by Mr. Prudham has bought $100,000 worth of property from the government-controlled Canadian National Railways in Kitimat.

The purchase raised the question of how close members of Parliament may come to the government in business dealings. They are subject to forfeiture of their seats for certain forms of direct transactions with the government under the "independence of Parliament" clauses of the House of Commons Act. But the clauses do not apply both to cabinet ministers and ordinary members of Parliament.

Would Not Affect Status

The legal authority gave an offhand opinion that the purchase would not affect Mr. Prudham's status as a member of the Commons.

A cabinet member said it would appear that Mr. Prudham is on the clear legally, and that the only question involved is that of the propriety of the deal.

The question of propriety, he said, hinges on whether a member of Parliament's gets a "special consideration," in this case on the terms of the deal. Indeed, the price paid by Mr. Prudham's company seemed to be above the normal price.

Couple Acquitted On Manslaughter, Murder Charges

KITCHENER (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peppler were acquitted Wednesday by a Supreme Court jury on charges of murder and manslaughter laid after the death of their three-year-old daughter, Glenda.

Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, who earlier refused a defence motion for a directed verdict of acquittal, said he agreed with the jury's decision.

Medical evidence at the two-day trial was that the child died from injuries caused by a scalp bruise possibly complicated by asphyxiation.

Defence counsel A. W. Roy and Roy Youngson called no witnesses. The jury deliberated for an hour.

Crown Attorney Harold Daufman charged that Mrs. Peppler had been the principal in the beating inflicted upon the child by the two parents, cognizant with the infliction of the blow by the mother.

The couple still face a charge of assault causing bodily harm arising out of the same incident. It will be heard in magistrate's court here where the Pepplers will have opportunity to elect in which court they will be tried. Bail is being arranged.

Train Saboteurs in Red Schools Across Canada, Walsh Declares

QUEBEC (CP)—Pat Walsh, labor organizer who last week said he resigned from a number of Communist front organizations, said Wednesday he will meet Justice and Labor officials to volunteer information he has on Communist activities in Canada.

Walsh told reporters he was approached by the justice department last Sunday, two days after he announced his break with the Red-dominated organizations.

"For security reasons, I'm not saying when or where the meeting will be held," he said, adding that he said. "I don't want a bomb thrown at me."

Reporting that 250 trained Communist saboteurs are spotted across Canada, Walsh said Communist schools for training in sabotage and espionage were located at Bracebridge, Ont., and Camp Labor Day, near Edmonton, Another for Communists of Slav descent was at Petsamo, Ont.

Other Communist schools were in Ottawa, Lachute, Que., Sudbury, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Walsh said he has in his possession texts printed in Russia and used at schools for children in Winnipeg and Toronto. The books were operated by the Association of United Ukranians in Canada, Walsh said Communists dictate to young children.

Expert Reads Moscow Reports To Indicate Fight for Power In Kremlin Already Underway

William L. Ryan, Russian-speaking specialist on world communism, gives these views on Stalin's illness and what it presages.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PARIS (AP)—Moscow seems to be playing it straight with the story of Stalin's illness, and has in itself indicates there is division and uncertainty among the rulers of the Soviet Union.

If there were perfect concord among the powers of the Kremlin —that is, if there were someone at the top whose authority was unquestioned—it seems unlikely that Stalin's illness, apparently his final one, would have been announced so quickly.

The stroke was sudden. Indian Ambassador K. P. S. Menon saw the Soviet leader only a few days ago and reported him in apparent good health.

Bulletin Delayed

Soviet authorities held up the announcement of his illness only two days. For most-Soviet leaders, such a grave illness is usually announced in the obituary.

But the Kremlin-boss heirs were unable to hold the news up long and feel such a profound shock to the Soviet public in small doses. While one faction may be preparatient at the moment, the chances are it is far from secure in its dictatorship.

As at the time of Lenin's death, there is no one person who is eligible for the mantle of leadership even though Stalin had appeared to have chosen Georgi M. Malenkov as his successor. But the man who succeeds Stalin will need a mighty buildup.

Stalin was all-powerful in a way Lenin never was. Those under Stalin have been virtually robots. Under Lenin there were many who were not—Trotsky, Bukharin, Kamenev, Zinoviev and Stalin, himself, to name a few.

Danger in Rumors

In a struggle for power, it would be dangerous for the Soviet Union if Stalin lingered on, only just alive. This would permit the rumor mills to get in motion as they do quickly in totalitarian countries. It would generate a feeling of insecurity among the people and, above all, among members of the Communist party, high and low.

In a country like Russia, such a feeling could lead to an explosion.

If Stalin hovered between life and death, there would be suspicion, gossip and quarrelling in advance of the succession. Most of it would den strike which could present the country with an accomplished fact at any time.

But for a new leader to seize power before Stalin actually has passed on would be dangerous, like blasphemy to those in the party and state who believed in Stalin's role as a demi-god.

So it seems that behind the scenes there will be a struggle for power, if, in fact, it is not already on. Mr. Malenkov thus far may be assumed to have the upper hand, but he is by no means sure to out-Stalin Joe. A situation like that could lead to fearful bloodletting.

British Medical Authorities Amazed at Details Reported On Condition of Sick Premier

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—British medical authorities expressed amazement today at the frank, detailed description coming from Moscow of Stalin's illness.

They said today's bulletin on the Soviet premier's serious condition clearly shows that Stalin has practically no chance of recovery and physicians attending him are using desperate, even old-fashioned methods—some of them centuries old—by leeches—in the fight to keep him alive.

A specialist from Harley street —London's street of doctors—said: "Seldom has the condition of so eminent man been reported in such detail. The Russians are not hiding anything."

Views Differ

Morning newspapers in London were among the publications that carried giant headlines suggesting that Stalin already was dead. Not so. But many British medical authorities held little hope for him.

"Today's bulletin was so detailed, they said, that Russia apparently is playing for sympathy and the comparison of today's report with Wednesday's shows the expected deterioration and the expected length of time, he added.

For most of Europe's newspapers, the news was the biggest they've had since the war. Some, like London's Conservative Daily Mail, said "frankly, we don't know the answer. But Russia appears to be.

"Is Stalin Already Dead?" asked the pro-Labor London Daily Mirror in red, front-page headlines.

The dramatic news of Stalin's illness and the speculation over what happens next ended up in the biggest story in years.

People all over Europe still were hurrying to buy the latest editions of the newspapers, listening closely to news broadcasts and talking it all over among themselves.

Queen Mary Better

LONDON (AP)—Queen Mary is continuing slight improvement from a gastric ailment which has kept her in bed for more than a week, aides reported today.

The 85-year-old Queen grandmother had a very good night" they said. She is being attended by physicians at her home, Marlborough House.

Report Rural Ground Worth $100,000 Acre

TORONTO (CP) — United States interests are reported buying Ontario farms for cemeteries at $800 an acre and selling the property for as much as $100,000 an acre.

The report is to the Cemetery Act at the present session of the legislature was forecast in the Commons Wednesday.

Conservative member of the legislature, Mr. Thomas Parkhill and a former undertaker, said in an interview, house-to-house selling methods are being used by the U. S. agents.

Higher Gas Tax In Saskatchewan

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan's new government announced Wednesday night it plans to raise the gasoline tax by one cent a gallon, to 11 cents. The $1,100,000 new revenue will give Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines a surplus of $89,950 on current account in the next fiscal year.

Mr. Fines' budget, brought down in the Regina legislature, estimated current revenues at $70,534,- 810 and current expenditures of $70,444,860. The budget is 1953-53 more than $4,000,000 lower.

Capital expenses, not included in the budget, are listed at $17,300,000, plus $23,000,000 in advances to the provincial power and telephone corporations.

Buck Sounds Off

TORONTO (CP) — Tim Buck, Canadian Communist leader, said Wednesday night that if Premier Joseph Stalin would be a severe loss to democracy and would endanger world peace.

In a statement issued as head of the Labor-Progressive party, Buck said the situation following the death of Stalin would be "insidiously utilized by those elements hostile to the Russian leader and to the peace movement their efforts to aggravate the cold war."

ONT. GOVT. PLANS TO HELP PARENTS BY NEW BILL

Mentally Retarded Children Covered

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government announced Wednesday it will shoulder some of the burden of educating mentally retarded children.

Education Minister Dunlop introduced in the Legislature a bill to give financial assistance to parents who are paying for the special education of backward children in addition to regular school costs. Provincial aid would cover children not capable of entering auxiliary classes and of help- ful- ness enough to become wards of the government. Auxiliary classes are for "slow" children who can learn regular school lessons at a rate slower than normal.

New Groups Started

At present, retarded children receive no education or are in classes organized by groups of parents, usually conducted by a retired teacher.

Because of this, kind, currently operating or under organization in the province, Dunlop said, it is unfair to charge them school taxes when they are also paying individually for their children's education. Cities where groups have started are Hamilton, Toronto, Brantford, Ilton, London, Sarnia, Windsor and Kirkland Lake.

Mr. Dunlop said he will probably appoint a commissioner to study these cities to find out how many children are attending special classes and what kind of aid is needed most.

Economy Strain Reaches Limit, Says Churchill

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said today Britain has strained her economy to the maximum in her rearmament drive. He asked parliamentary approval for a record peacetime defence budget.

He told the House of Commons he is spending of £1,536,700,000 ($4,305,728,000) in the budget year ending March, 1954. That is £100,000,000 more than the previous budget. But he emphasized that this heavy arms load is absorbing only a fifth of the British time for the free world."

"Towards the end of March 4," the bulletin declared, "the state of health of Joseph V. Stalin continues grave. The patient is in a state of deep unconsciousness, with regulation of breathing as well as cardiac activity continue to remain disturbed."

Pravda Calls for Unity

As this latest report on the condition of their leader was announced to the saddened Soviet people, the Communist party newspaper Pravda, in a front - page editorial, called for "unity of the party and the people" in these days of crisis.

The government's council of ministers (cabinet) and the Communist party's central committee already had announced they were "guiding the party and the country, but there has been no indication here as to how government or party leadership would be affected by Stalin's incapacity.

Although unquestionably tense and nervous, Moscow's citizens evidenced little concern about their normal tasks as the morning broke with snow falling from grey, heavy - laden skies.and a biting east wind.

Factories, stores and offices were open as usual. There were no crowds in Red Square, the vast open area under the frowning Kremlin battlements.

The medical bulletin from the Kremlin doctors said that Stalin's breathing had improved somewhat Wednesday after the use of medical drugs—but later in the day "grave disturbances in the circulation were recommenced."

The announcement said:

"The cerebral haemorrhage in his left brain sector which occurred during the night of 1st-2nd of March on the basis of arterio-sclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and hypertonic disease, has resulted, apart from the right side paralysis of the arm and leg, loss of consciousness, in impairing the trunk section of the brain, accompanied by disturbances in the most important functions of breathing and blood circulation.

It reported that instances of periodic, so-called Cheyne-Stokes breathing" had become more frequent. This is a shallow breathing, broken by intervals in which no breath is drawn. It was named after Dr. John Cheyne, a Scot, who first described it more than 100 years ago.

New York medical sources said the mention of this type of breathing means that Stalin has suffered serious brain damage" and "is getting into serious trouble."

These sources said the bulletin shows clearly that Stalin "is dying," and that he "now is developing heart failure and possibly pneumonia."

The bulletin also disclosed that Stalin's condition has been caused by one of the oldest medical practices —the use of blood-sucking leeches—as well as such advanced scientific remedies as penicillin in the effort to save his life.

"For the second time, leeches have been used to draw blood," it announced. They apparently were applied in the hope of reducing Stalin's alarmingly high blood pressure —210 maximum to 110 minimum. He or she was described as not followed the news of Stalin's illness with as great interest as the Russian people. Many were asked Western newspaper men to telephone them at once bulletins on the prime minister's condition, no matter what the hour.

Death Pallor Reported; Heart Is Deteriorating

Late Bulletin Varies From Other Earlier Dispatches

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP) — Joseph Stalin's physicians reported tonight his condition is deteriorating hour by hour. Their third medical bulletin suggested that the life of the 73-year-old leader is ebbing steadily away.

LONDON (CP)—Moscow Radio today issued a sudden flash saying Premier Joseph Stalin has collapsed.

The bulletin broke the pattern by which Stalin's health had been officially reported once every 24 hours since his paralyzing stroke Sunday.

Today's latest bulletin said the Soviet dictator's condition was "grave" and that he had "collapsed."

His pulse was 120—compared to a normal 72—and he had taken a death pallor.

The condition of his heart has deteriorated," the bulletin said, adding that there was a heavy breathing difficulties and his blood pressure had increased.

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin's life ebbed away slowly but in a deep coma at 2 a. m. today, the second medical bulletin from his 76 doctors said the Soviet leader's condition "continued seriously grave."

The bulletin disclosed the brain haemorrhage that struck the 73-year-old leader of world communism Sunday night affected the trunk section of the brain in addition to the left sector where the bleeding occurred:

His heart action, blood circulation and breathing was continued "gravely impaired," it added.

Little Chance

In New York, competent medical sources said on the basis of the bulletin—first report on Stalin's condition since the initial announcement Wednesday of the illness—gave the Russian chief "little or no chance of recovery" heading Canadian neuro - surgeon said in Montreal that if the medical report was correct, the Soviet leader may already be dead.

"Toward the end of March 4," the bulletin declared, "the state of health of Joseph V. Stalin continues grave. The patient is in a state of deep unconsciousness, with regulation of breathing as well as cardiac activity continue to remain disturbed."

The government's council of ministers (cabinet) and the Communist party's central committee already had announced they were "guiding the party and the country, but there has been no indication here as to how government or party leadership would be affected by Stalin's incapacity.

Although unquestionably tense and nervous, Moscow's citizens evidenced little concern about their normal tasks as the morning broke with snow falling from grey, heavy - laden skies.and a biting east wind.

Coronation Red, Simplicity of Line Richness of Material Highlight Hospital Aux. Spring Fashion Show

Tall standards of Calla lilies interminged with adiantum fern, daffodils, pink and white snapdragons, sparkling ivy, and clusters of daffodils, backed by the Champs Elysees, the "Elysian Fields" of gay Paris with the Arch de Triomphe de L'Etoile in the distance, formed a delightful arrangement yesterday afternoon at the Capitol Theatre for the Spring Fashion Show sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of Belleville General Hospital.

Gay, sparkling, sophisticatedly lovely and tuned to the coronation theme with their spots of thrilling reds were the various designs in gowns, suits, coats, afternoon dresses and luxurious furs displayed by the pirouetting mannequins to a vast audience of style conscious women of the city and surrounding districts.

Work of Auxiliary

Preceeding the show proper Mrs. John Ennis, president of the Auxiliary gave a brief resume of the work of the Auxiliary which aimed to further the care of the patients of the hospital in the purchasing of needed supplies to which the proceeds of the fashion show eventually apportioned, the assisting of four nurses, financially; the monies obtained through the opportunity shop, situated in the market building; through spring teas and offerings. Mrs. Buchan also mentioned the fine work done for the patients through the Alpha Lambda Chapter in the mobile library, their visits to the sick bringing a comforting word and cheer.

Among the many lovely styles shown were those for the young subjunctive looking as if they had just emerged from a recent issue of the magazine "Seventeen" being in the popular vein in black and white horizontal striped wool, with cocoon jacket, with added all-black cummerbund, or added after the removal of the jacket, revealed a strapless dress. A most complete costume, meeting the requirements of any other suit with matching cape stole, fashioned of navy Barathea, was smart in its simplicity of line and a picture of simplicity without the edge.

Well Dressed Woman

For the well dressed woman of today, a dainty gown of English Barathea topcoat shown over a voile black and white check gown suit, evidenced surety of line and surety of fabric. This was suitable for the spring and early fall, the skirt showing kick pleats for ease of movement. Checks are favorites for spring.

An afternoon suit for street wear, ideally right, and equally suitable for afternoon tea was in peacock blue silk with a touch of pure silk. This too, upon the removal of the jacket, reveals just the right slim dress for either cocktails or dinner.

Coronation Red

Another ensemble, eye-catching, was of red, white and blue, most appropriately for the coronation year. This showed novel treatment of sleeves, with turned-up slashed cuffs, and novel pillet gloves. The deep armholes made it perfect for wear either over dress or suit. This was a navy Sheridan blend. This accomplementing the coat in navy Civrette was most attractive.

Suits in tweeds, homespuns and a new nubby, newly Lai fabric of 100 per cent virgin wool, were also shown; each one lovely in its own right.

For the April showers, a three-piece ensemble made of water-repellent materials and finished with Armo canvas for retention of shape and finish. This model was worn over a dressy little suit, which could be worn with her fashion or for any dressy occasion. Another coat -in apple green, was dressy as well as practical. This was worn with a candlelight boucle knitted suit.

Sportcraft Field

In the sports field, Sportcraft displayed an individually tailored all-wool tweed, a mixture of muted tones of pink, brown and blue. This was worn with a pink jersey blouse, which made a pleasing combination, especially with the matching fringed stole with which it was worn.

A lovely all-wool dress of May-flower pink, brilliantly encrusted strikingly effect with a wide navy belt gives the complete French costume a ready Christian Dior, of Paris, could give it. Another dress suitable for promenade, taken from the collection of Lew Sheddick, was in soft violet, and so youthful looking.

For evening wear, a gown in ballerina length, of parchment organza, embelished with tawny topaz and tangerine, accented with gold leaf embroidery, was most flattering, and lovely upon it, radiant wearer.

Luxurious Furs

The furs shown were luxurious and demonstrated grey kidskin, with black Persian lamb, grey lamb, popular muskrat in black, a most beautiful coat showing the dyer's art a fine Safari dyed Alaska sealskin, smart and significant, a Canadian squirrel coat, flowing, high collar, and deep cuffs, the Canadian squirrel jacket in finger-tip length was shown in coffee shade, with self pleated collar and rounded sleeves, small cuffs and ripple back — a lithe grey.

Stoles were also shown, one in muskrat sides, a soft fur of outstanding beauty, classical and simple in design, low placed pockets, can be worn over coats, suits and dresses.

Wedding Scene

Climaxing an outstanding fine showing of spring fashions was the wedding scene showing the bridal attendants, in mossy navy bridal and Florentine lace with net and Florentine lace with bandeau, quaint and feminine. The bridal equipe of Florentine lace with gaudets of finely pleated nylon.

The bride's model was a picture in romance, crepe, simple and gracious with wrist corsage of white roses.

Also shown for wedding guests, one in a French gown of blue nylon net and lace and also a Frenchwhite model; the other guest in a gown of all silk lace in Rose, St. Hazem.

The hats were, for the most part, small and chic enhancing costumes and gowns they were worn with.

The larger hats were few in number, worn with suits and dressy occasions. The shoes showed the Glocando trend, and were delightfully dressy.

For the most part, the dressier shoes to the traditional mid-calf length, and were full and graceful in the dressy-at-the occasion demanded.

Coronation Visitor

Of outstanding highlight was the portrayal by the narrator, Mrs. Ross Forrester, wife of the Elizabeth Arden beauty counsellor to the coronation might take. This included a model in steel grey, for furs, and the opera, a fur jacket with veil and evening ornaments changed a daytime to a dressy one for evening attire.

These deft changes were made with grace and precision.

Those modelling included Mrs. Ralph Starr, Mrs. Helen Buchanan, Mrs. Jinks Robb; Mrs. Phillan; Mrs. Tinko Robb; Mrs. Phillips Turner, Mrs. Gerry Carscallen, Mrs. Pat Campbell and Miss Gwen Carscallen.

Those exhibiting were: J. A. Hoff Coulter, Mrs. Grant Ashley, Mrs. Lake, Mrs. Grant Ashley, for furs; Angus McPee, jewellery; Doyle's Dress Centre for corsetry under the direction of Mrs. Phillips, Walker, corsetiere, and Miss Gallant, representative of the Elizabeth Arden beauty salon, "which give a basic sketch, a new foundation for a radiant, natural look"; Mesdames Rose, Hamilton and Glover; Leslie Shoe Store for shoes and luggage; Miss Maude Cowling for the delightfully chic hats, and Barber and Sons, florists, for the lovely floral offerings, and Brenmore Beauty Salon, hairdressing. R. E. Kunath was Organ-Organo.

Following the bridal scene each model appeared carrying a beautiful bouquet of red roses, as was the narrator, and the pianist, Mrs. F. Wilson, who rendered a musical background throughout the exhibit of styles.

Appreciation Tendered

Appreciation was tendered to the following for their assistance in making the show so successful; Mr. Masters, for his theatre; Mrs. Warham, for music supplied; Mr. F. Beeby of the Northern Electric, for lighting effects; Mr. Robert Tanner of the Theatre Guild; Mr. George Greatrix, for transportation of effects; to Walker Hardware; to Mrs. Phillips Faulkner for the lovely backdrop; to C.J.B.A. for P.A.; to Mrs. Gilbert Scott, general convener; to Mrs. Deacon and to Mrs. James Forrester; for a most delightful narration covering the styles shown and to the members of the Sorority and hospital executive who assisted in any way.

Committees

Those on the committees included: general convener, Mrs. Gilbert Scott; stage arrangement, Mrs. Fred Wilson, Mrs. R. H. Tanner, Mrs. F. Burrows and Mrs. E. E. Fullowell; lists, Mrs. A. Dickens, Mrs. W. E. Finkle, Mrs. J. Marshall.

Contractor Must Assure Town He Will be Responsible For Road, Sewer Services in Area

TRENTON (Special) — Contractor John Svec told council he wanted to build 20 attractive better-than-average houses in Trenton on a sub-division of land at the west end of Wilkins Street. But it isn't that easy because Mr. Svec first has to have his plan approved by council and then the Planning Board in Toronto. And in order to get the O.K. from council the contractor has been advised to assure council that he will be responsible for road and sewer services.

Council was told Mr. Svec needs the plan approved in order to raise capital to start the project. But he indicated that he wasn't agreeable to paying for the services to the lots for services.

In fact surveyor John T. Ransom speaking for Mr. Svec said he assumed the client had no interest in services until after the houses were completed. Town clerk O. W. Larry mentioned that once a house was built the town would automatically become liable for services.

Asked for Attention

Mr. Ransom asked the town to give Mr. Svec's plan immediate attention. He was told that the plan had been approved from the Pilnning Board with a questionaire attached to it. One of the questions wanted to know how the builder planned to pay charge for the services.

Mr. Ransom's answer to that question was "say no more questions now."

In his appeal for Mr. Svec, Mr. Ransom drew attention to the proposed Central Mortgage project right across the highway. "The town swallowed a whole big contract," he commented, "now they won't swallow 20 lots." He said that Mr. Svec was a Trenton man, who likes to live with the people of Trenton while Central Mortgage people brought in managers to do their building. He sighted trouble Belleville had in the early subdivisions had by outside contractors who left many problems behind them.

A few days ago a council committee viewed Mr. Svec's plans and made certain recommendations. Last night Councillor Clarence Sherwood, head of the committee, insisted that the recommendation must be responsible for services stand. Council's vote of confidence was in favor of Mr. Svec.

Mayor Roly Whitley indicated he was reserving about the difference in opinion existing between Mr. Svec and council. "I don't like this," was his terse remark after Mr. Svec and Mr. Ransom had walked out of the meeting without the approval of council.

Town clerk Larry suggested that why should the town pay about $1,000 for engineering services to benefit somebody else. It would only mean about $37 a lot cost for Mr. Svec, he added.

Sugrees Investigation

Councillor Don MacPherson suggested a complete investigation for council's benefit and the benefit of sub-dividers. A committee including Mayor Whitley, councillors D. MacPherson and E. Jane and town clerk O. W. Larry leave today for Toronto for an interview with the Department of Municipal Affairs and the Planning Board.

Deputy Mayor Kenneth J. Coush appeared before council suggesting the Hospital Board and asking council to again grant the hospital $5,000. Mr. Coush said he was firmly convinced the hospital was as important as the fire and fire departments and just as essential. Mayor Whitley agreed. Mr. Coush felt the hospital would be given every consideration. The mayor then announced that the hospital's financial statement would be available in about two weeks.

Hospital treasurer S. O. Graham, however, turned a light on the hospital's financial position of the hospital compared with last year. He said the deficit he revealed is $17,800, down $8,000 over last year. Grants and donations for the last year, he said, amounted to roughly $16,000.

"We are now on an even keel before too long," he told the council.

"If we asked the same as Belleville hospital for a deficit we'd be ahead another $5,000," he said.

Appeals For Action

Mr. Coush asked council to grant him one more request. He appealed to council to push the proposed housing development in the west Trenton. "The wheels seem to turn slowly" he said making reference to last year's council, "but I'm sure you will be glad knowing I wish that this new council would put the pressure on Central Mortgage. He made reference to five families from England who have now fined $26 Wednesday for assault. Webster testified that Dyer hit him with a hammer, causing severe head injuries.

over to Town Engineer John Neal.

Plenty of Trouble Lack

Eugene Curlette of the Wooler Roadwonders, wonders when tough luck is going to stop dogging him. He recently recovered sufficiently from a leg injury to return to work a few days ago when early yesterday morning flooding creek waters brought more grief to him and his family.

The Curlettes and their five children had to be turned out of their family flooded home in rowboats. They got away with a few belongings in the nick of time though the high water has receded it will take days for them to find their home and personal effect dry enough to provide normal living.

Mr. Curlette just started back on the job at the Dominion Tar and Chemical plant two days ago after a nine-month layoff after the accident.

Dr. McQuade Stricken

Medical Officer of Health Dr. E. A. McQuade was stricken suddenly with a severe attack of office yesterday and taken by ambulance to the Dominion Memorial hospital. Last night the hospital reported his condition as "fair." Dr. McQuade is a native M.O.H. here for many years. He is Coroner for Prince Edward and Sidney township. He is well known in Belleville especially as head of the staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

FOUND ABANDONED ON INGHAM STREET

Reported stolen from outside the city hall some time Tuesday night, the car owned by George Crockers, city hall janitor, was found abandoned yesterday noon on Ingham street. The car was undamaged and still had a tankful of gasoline. It had been driven only a short distance.

AWARDS RECEIVED BY BARRIE WRIGHT

Barrie Wright, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wright, 217 Dufferin Avenue, Belleville, and who attended the Department of Education Counsellor Training Camp at Bark Lake last summer, has received from the Royal Life-saving Society, the bronze medallion and the bronze cross.

He received also the Senior Red Cross Swimmer award and intermediate canoeist award.

ATTACKED FOREMAN

BRAMPTON (CP)—Joseph Dyer Manchester, Ont., was fined $25 and costs or 30 days in jail by Magistrate Arthur Webster for having him fired from his department. Dyer was fined $25 Wednesday for assault. Webster testified that Dyer hit him with a hammer, causing severe head injuries.

Two Vehicles Badly Damaged In Collision

Two cars, a hydro pole, some shrubbery and a lawn came to grief at the corner of Lewis and Yeomans Streets, Wednesday night as two vehicles collided, sending one out of control.

William G. Thrasher, 213 Station Street, was eastbound on Lewis Street, when his car was in collision with a northbound panel delivery driven by L. J. Belanger, of Trenton. Following the impact the Belanger car went out of control and clipped a hydro pole, ripped through some shrubbery and lawn on the property of W. J. Wale, 120 Yeomans Street, then continued in a circuitous route to end up back almost at the point of impact.

The Thrasher auto was damaged to the extent of $150; the panel truck by about $300, while damage to the hydro pole, lawn and shrubbery was set at another $100.

Many Taxpayers To Get Refunds On '52 Income

Approximately 24,000 of about 57,000 taxpayers in the Belleville taxation division reported to file 1952 income tax returns will be entitled to refunds this year, according to a news release by the Honorable George J. McCann, Minister of National Revenue.

The estimated amount of refunds to be claimed by taxpayers in the Belleville division is $568,000.

Throughout Canada approximately 4,300,000 individual taxpayers are expected to file 1952 income tax returns and of these an estimated 2,000,000 will be entitled to refunds as of a total amount of about $285,000,000.

Deduction at the source of very close to 100 per cent of the individual's total tax is in effect for the whole of 1952 and as result most wage earners will have either very little additional tax to pay or will be entitled to a refund.

Some of the factors that may give rise to refunds include interrupted employment; charitable donations or allowable medical expenses; marriage since 1952; an increase in the number of dependents and deductions for allowable union dues.

It is pointed out that taxpayers claiming refunds should file 1952 returns as early as possible in order that they may receive the refunds early. The deadline for filing returns is April 30 1953. The returns of taxpayers entitled to refunds are given priority provided they have been correctly completed and all required attachments are included.

No Reply Given

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann and Transport Minister Chevrier were unable to reply immediately Wednesday when asked in the Commons if seven cities applying for television licences would qualify for licences under government policy.

The question was asked by John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) He referred to an announcement Tuesday that the CBC board of governors will hear representations March 27 on applications for privately-owned television stations in Hamilton, London, Windsor and Sudbury, Ont.; Quebec City; Saint John, N.B., and Sydney, N.S.

Dr. McCann, who reports to Parliament for the publicly-owned CBC, said he knows nothing about

Problems Facing Dry Cleaners Is Outlined

Problems which frequently face dry cleaners were discussed at a meeting of the Dry Cleaners' Institute, Bay of Quinte division, by general manager of the Ontario Dry Cleaners Institute, Mr. Hartley Currie. The meeting was held in Lattimer's Town Room Wednesday night.

Mr. Currie attacked the quality of several fabrics on the market today which he described as "simply junk", and as, "not responding satisfactorily to dry cleaning processes."

Paying particular attention to fabrics such as regenerative textiles, including acetate rayons and hammered satins, the speaker urged cleaners to test these doubtful materials before accepting them for cleaning or processing.

"Test all taffeta by means of the application of water to exposed seams," the general manager advised. "Simply apply a little moisture to the seam and if after this test you observe the dampened portion to be lighter and slightly more opaque than the rest of the material, either refuse to garment or accept it, advising the customer it will be cleaned at his own risk. Actually the best plan," he said, "is to advise the customer to return the goods where they were purchased because they simply cannot be cleaned to anyone's satisfaction."

It was discussed at the meeting, ten of the members, representing the majority of cleaning establishments in the area, also represented an investment in cleaning equipment totalling some $250,000. This figure did not include values of the buildings and trucks, simply the equipment and machinery used in cleaning and pressing.

Last night's meeting was the second of the Bay of Quinte division. The following is a list of the directors elected to office at the previous meeting: George Ling, chairman, Clean-Rite Cleaners; Elie Clement, William Lynch, secretary - treasurer, City Cleaners; Addison Lloyd, Lloyd's Cleaners; Jack Goldberg, Spotless Cleaners.

HAS THE EVENT BEEN ANTICIPATED?

As this is written the latest word from Moscow was that Stalin had lapsed into a coma. But then, the first word out on Monday morning was that Stalin was dead—if not already dead. It is wholly in keeping with the cold war pattern that the world should be so misled and misinformed by the men in the Kremlin even in a crisis such as this.

In spite of this typical practice of Communist deception there can be no doubt that Stalin has been eliminated. Moscow this has occurred through Providence or by some human design, we cannot know. And it is sheerest speculation to attempt to read between the lines of the meagre bulletins which have come out of the Kremlin.

Such speculation is, however, inevitable when the consequences of Stalin's passing mean so much to the world. If there is any hope that it is to bring about some sudden change in the unhappy state of world affairs it lies in the prospect of a struggle for power within the ranks of the dictator's henchmen.

As disciples of Stalin they are steeped in evil. There are no conceivable treachery or villainy that are beyond them. It is possible that Stalin had anticipated this crisis and was strong enough to have prepared for an orderly transfer of power in the Kremlin. But in the light of Communist party history, and Stalin's own grim record of treachery among party associates and friends, this is extremely unlikely.

Stalin is that no such plans could have been securely set up and that in the resulting struggle for Stalin's power the inner conflict itself will bring about the downfall of the ruling Red conspiracy.

We can be sure that in the capitals of the Western world today this prospect is the one of most immediate concern. We can only hope that the Western powers have been looking forward to the eventuality of Stalin's death and have appropriate steps prepared for meeting the emergency.

MAY CHANGE ELECTION PICTURE

Earlier this week one well-informed Ottawa correspondent reported that the prospect of a spring election was still strongly in the minds of the St. Laurent cabinet. The decision is one, however, that could not be put off more than a few days because of the coronation and time is just possible that the events already made the decision for the Prime Minister.

Before the Stalin crisis arose it appeared that there was a growing feeling among Liberals that the fall and spring would provide a favorable climate for an appeal to the country. Not only have they been satisfied with reports from the home constituencies in the wake of the budget but there has been a considerable feeling also that things may get worse before they get better. No one in Ottawa pretends that with the coronation the lopsided majority of the Liberals will be reduced. The design of strategy, of course, is to go to the people at a time when the reception will be as favorable as possible.

With this in mind, says Arthur Hawley of the Montreal Gazette, "the Liberals expect to lose ground in Ontario, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and New Brunswick. But they believe they will be able to hold their own in the drastic cut in their majority." The Conservatives are particularly interested in gains in the eastern provinces, and it is said that they are not much concerned about third-party threats. This does not mean that the third party votes are being ruled out but that they are expected to be saved in a few western seats.

Warren Baldwin of the Southam News Bureau says that the Conservatives hope to profit by this means. They look for the Liberals to lose in the eastern provinces and expect that even though they may not gain many of these themselves they will be sufficiently split between the C.C.F. and Social Credit to generally enhance the Conservative position.

The sudden change in the international picture, however, may have ruled out any likelihood of an early vote. The election campaign is a tremendous affair to ready for the word if it comes. This preparation has been going on for some time.

It is expected that the next general election will see one dollar spent for every man, woman and child in Canada. The government will foot bills totalling over $5,000,000 for the operation of the election machinery. The political parties, and an estimated 900 candidates, are expected to spend nearly $10,000,000 in campaign expenses of all kinds.

Unlike Britain, there is no law in Canada limiting the amount a candidate or his supporters may spend in seeking election. However, expense accounts must be filed with the authorities and those filed in 1949 showed a high of $27,000 spent in one Montreal riding to lows of a few hundreds for candidates in some of the rural ridings. The cost to the winner is primarily to the winner and many in this category have known crushing defeats at the polls.

One financial hazard all candidates must face is the posting of a $200 deposit. This amount is forfeited if a contending candidate does not receive half the number of votes cast for the winner. Primarily it is a deterrent to crank candidates but many a "non-crank" aspiring to office has lost his deposit. In the Liberal landslide in 1949, 360 candidates, nearly half of those in the running, were in this unhappy position.

DISCOVERY

We have lost the foolish notions
Which we have had our years of
We used to think that money was a pleasure
We barricaded fortune against thieves who lived to prey,
But the world went topsy turvy and the dollars slipped away.

Time was by silk and broadcloth we were very much impressed.
We thought it proof of courage that a man was richly dressed,
And we've back beside the fireplace, and raising simple songs again.

But we've had our years of which have cluttered deep travel men smile,
And we've learned that faith and friendship are more permanent than style.

Once we gave our hearts to splendor and we thought ought to roam.
Long we fancied Life's great conquests must lie far way from home.

But the storms of trade swept o'er us and we found our triumphs vain,

"Do you mind waiting for your fee until I come into all this money you said I would?"

A Man from Scotland Yard

(BBC Bulletin)

When Tom Fallon left the Scotland Yard training School many years ago the old Superintendent who gave the parting lecture concluded, "You are now about to be let loose upon the unsuspecting inhabitants of this great Metropolis — 'well, here's my final piece of advice to you. When you find yourselves alone, clothed in all the Majesty of the law, I advise you to stand your uniform on the corner of the street and remain very quietly within it. If you wish to do that, all will be well. And I wish you all every success in your new profession."

Fallon, who rose to be a superintendent at Scotland Yard and has also been in charge of the "Thames River Police" quoted this advice in his BBC talk. A police-man's uniform can work wonders even in the most difficult situations — if only the man inside did not talk too much. Thirty years he had stood in his uniform in places ranging from the east end of London to the East African bush, and the thing he valued most in his career was the opportunity it gave him to study ordinary men and women. He said, "I have found kindness and courage in the most unexpected places, and I have come to believe that it takes little more than a stroke of luck to turn the development of weakness to make crooks out of men."

He chronicled the working day of the London policemen, directing traffic, investigating the street-wise young and old across busy streets during which he was constantly looking out for crooks on the prowl and thieves on the run. In between came the routine jobs and endless patrols he well remembers one occasion when he found a large excited crowd looking at a man who was a jeweller's shop. Someone suddenly shouted, "There he is" and he saw a crook who proved to be a burglar, high among the chimney pots. All the shop keeper and Scotland Yard-lion's only course was to pursue his man from outside the building by climbing to the roof and up a steep and narrow brick gable. He pulled himself up hand-over-hand and as he reached out for the final heave felt both mortar and brick giving way. He slipped and swayed backwards over an eighty foot drop. He thought he saw the man coming towards him and somehow managed to recover his balance and threw himself on a narrow ledge. He waited, stiff with fright. The criminal came up and said, "It's all right, guvnor, I'm giving myself" put a rope round his pull and had him in safety. "As he did that I heard the people down on the street below cheer him. How the crowd loves a good rescuer, whom he reluctantly took pythagoras' and next morning told the magistrate how the burglar had come to his assistance. This gained him a much lighter sentence and when he came out of prison Fallon found him a job.

Another rooftop rendezvous took place when a man with thirty years he had stood in his uniform in places ranging from the east end of London to the East African bush, and the thing he valued most in his career was the opportunity it gave him to study ordinary men and women. He said, "I have found kindness and courage in the most unexpected places, and I have come to believe that it takes little more than a stroke of luck to turn the development of weakness to make crooks out of men."

The Bossy Element

(Edinburgh Scotsman)

Lord Llewellin recently warned the Lords of the serious consequences of admitting noble ladies to membership of the House. Political women, he declared, are bossy. "We are not bossy," he said, "and don't let old Parliament the bossy element amongst us." The hint was taken by the Duchess of Bonnets, and the House of Lords had no Speaker to stop them running riot. Instead of the usual normal reactionary male will approve [illegible] of Parliament, they may be slightly apprehensive for the future of the reserves of the bossy element to such heroic candour. Does Lord Llewellin think he wouldn't realize the enormity of his affront to the Duchess of Bonnets? Or to any superiority in debate and good sense in action? So firm is this faith that the bossy element may simply regard Lord Llewellin and his colleagues as those who were amused by his remarks as faintly [illegible] schoolmasters. "We wouldn't set foot in the place if they came and begged us," one woman Peer is saying.

Other citizens who are neither Lords, women or reactionary men, may feel that the superiority complex is fairly equally distributed in the British nation and that the bees are as often in the bonnet as the bonnet is in a toque or a cloche. It is true, as Lord Llewellin said, that the remarks the Speaker can prevent them from buzzing inopportunely, but wholly a good thing. but some member tries to release the bossy element by pretending to pretext or relevance. More often than not when a member rises to a point of order all it is not a point of order at all, and it is usually because he has got his facts all wrong and is about to make a fool of himself. Then understand true tolerance. They are not consumed by ambition.

Strength for the Day

FALSE LEADERS

If we could only agrees to leave the affairs of life in the hands of the ordinary men and women who make up our vast majority, the world would believe that somehow or other peace and good feeling would prevail.

But we seem like a naive fantasy. Take the neighborly or community service, for instance. They get along well with one another, but the real trouble arises when a minority groups in this country as a whole. They have nothing against their neighbors, but we have anything against the Russians? Nothing whatsoever — only against their leaders.

The curse of the world seems to lie in ambitious, bungling leadership. This may seem like an over-simplification, but examine almost any situation you know and you will undoubtedly be led to the conclusion that somebody possessing marked qualities of leadership has stirred up trouble. If any trouble has been stirred up. Most people are good-natured, willing to live and let live, not interested much beyond the immediate joys and sufferings of their daily existence. But their leaders are not like that.

The common people are always in the middle. Our truly great leaders have come from the people and from them. These understand human aspirations. They understand true tolerance. They are not consumed by ambition.

Poaching

(Christiestown Guardian)

It is curious, to say the least, that poachers should so often be protected by the very sportsmen whose fish and game they are annihilating. The old idea that hard that game is somehow a private right unjustly made private property. It never was so in this country but the traditional attitude still exists.

Province Without Debt

(Lethbridge Herald)

It is a far cry from the virtual repudiation of Alberta's public debt by the late Premier Aberhart in 1937 to the announcement by the provincial auditor that, as at the end of the year 1952, Alberta was out of debt to all intents and purposes.

Starting in 1905 as a new province without revenue and without debt, Alberta, in the first 30 years in its existence built up a public debt of some $157,000,000.

That is not surprising in view of World War I, the post-war debacle in the agricultural prices and then the depression which started in 1929 and struck with unprecedented fury in the early thirties.

Bi-Partisan Policy

(Ottawa Citizen)

The Ontario Government which is Conservative, enjoyed a large surplus last year. The federal government, which is Liberal, has also been ending its fiscal years with surpluses. This seems to be the field in which a bi-partisan policy is a reality.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

THE NEW OBSTETRICS

An obstetrician and gynecologist of good standing is prompted by my recent outburst against hospital rules regarding the husband attending childbirth, to write a few comments in which he knows is useless protest. My advocacy of "natural" childbirth is childishly naive, the doctor says, and I wonder how naive one can be.

The specialist avers that he has some results to account in the facts, and that in 3,500 deliveries in his practice, including many doctors' wives and more than a dozen husbands had any desire to be present when their babies were delivered, and even fewer wives wanted their husbands to be with them.

My endless repetition of such dibrain has become so grooved by my endless repetition of such diseases as "natural childbirth" that it is incapable of being denied by the truth. It is well proved, he says, that no more than as many babies are lost in "natural" childbirth, and the gynecologists of the world are kept busy repairing the damage to tissues and prolapses that are the consequences of the methods he recommended.

Furthermore, the specialist relentlessly belabors my head, is safe to bet that I deliberately investigated these discredited ideas in order to gain the publicity and reader-ship. It is almost unbelievable that a few get particulars of one successful practitioner who has a little knack of writing... there's ballyhoo ... Stalin ... McCarthy ... and now ruby ...

But before we get down to facts I have he said something that seems more significant than all Le rest of his remarks:

My wife and I have three babies—thank God, not by the so-called natural childbirth which you advocate, but with the help of scientific obstetrics — adequate medication, good anesthesia, forceps and episiotomy. At none of these deliveries did I desire to be present nor did my wife want me to be present."

These are cogent considerations in the obstetrician mentions. They are not all essential in every parturition, however. In many instances none of them is indispensable.

The specialist impresses this layman as a conscientious man with a little knack of writing by casually mentioning that he has successfully attended 3,500 childbirths. With becoming modesty he recommended, "I have now many infants and/or mothers... with Stalin and McCarthy."

Even in the time, when this eminent specialist was playing hopscotch, adequate medication, good anesthesia and forceps were conventional appurtenances of childbirth. I must admit that episiotomy was then "called for only in rare and extraordinary cases" in my authoritative textbook (Hirst) stated.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The desire to remain alive is common to all of us, though you might doubt it from the attention such as hockey players in play-off, test pilots, daredevil drivers and similar wage earners. But to most people the desire grows morbid. In my town there lived until lately a man of considerable wealth. His wealth came to him in the years of scarcity and not as a failure. But at last he latched onto a fairly solid fortune. At this juncture he got the idea that he was going to be killed.

It came to him, he secretary told me, on an air trip to Chicago. It was not a rough trip. He had been, as he put it, "through in his earlier years, before his wealth, but he was not at this eyes. But on this Chicago flight he suddenly became sure that in the plane might crash. And he went simply crazy. He lay in bed for months in a semi-coma, where he dared risk his life on a Pullman berth back home. For several weeks, he lurked about his house sending for everyone to come and see him. To his amazement he professed his plight.

He had his chauffeur purchase an rig up in the back seat of his car one of those safety belt affairs that are supposed to be fastened on taking off and landing. This was necessary, as I cringed in the safety belt, trying to keep his eyes closed as he drove, and his mother used to drive more slowly.

He died, of course, in bed, of ulcers.

In my case I have had many noble opportunities to die in the wars, in far and wild countries, and I have been over mid-Atlantic in a bomber; all sorts of them. Until lately, I figured I had seen everything, done everything, and was ready any old time for the summons.

A few weeks ago, my first grandchild was born, a boy. I had always told me he figured he I don't feel exactly the way that poor millionaire felt.

The Viewed With Doubt

(By B. K. Sandwell, in The Financial Post)

I propose to confess to it frankly with suspicious eye on every scientist who proclaims that his object is to "benefit the human race." I don't believe that there is to what will be the effect upon the human race or anybody else. I do not assume I find that people, and even scientists, differ widely in the kind of benefits which are to be desired in a perfected, or even a bettered human race.

For example, a German medical scientist named Koch once tried on the charge of having subjected Jewish prisoners to torture in the Belsen concentration camp. Jewish Jews and gypsies to phosgene and mustard gases without the administration (for comparison) with those whom he did immunize. The prosecution charged that he is a practicing Christian and that he did this because he believed "which is the more important — the survival of the species or the individuality of the Jew?" He supported by the director of the Institute of Hygiene at Munich, (I should like to have Pasteur's views on the subject), who says that Koch's medical experimentation was actuated by a "sincere desire to benefit mankind as a race."

I cannot recall anything in the teachings of Christ which suggests that the survival of the human race, considered as a mere matter of its physical survival on earth) is to be given a wholly exaggerated importance as to justify any and every conceivable course of conduct.

Ethical concepts such as these who is the greatest in the kingdom are now prevalent in Russia seem to me to constitute a menace to the foundation for a moral code. The scientist does not regard himself as self as a practising Christian, but he has surely overlooked the fundamental fact that "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and the accompanying very explicit instructions as to who is a neighbor.

Army Has Changed

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

The army has changed. In an advertising layout for the recruiting of personnel as members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps four clerks are shown in uniform, not one of them wearing lasses. Being able to see must be one of the requirements now.

The Best Gift

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

Canada will give millions of dollars in foreign aid this year, perhaps flood victims. But the best gift of all would be to provide new homes in this country for many of them.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BANISH MONOTONY

All sorts of reasons are given for the state of monotony. And often, one or more, of these reasons are true. Monotony is due to useful action. Climate, disagreeable work, disagreeable associates, or an imagined state of ill health. Many others, of course.

To a state of mind, however, I believe we shall find most of the excuses for the existence of monotony in our lives. The fact that a person does not complain of any monotony. The one who is in a monotonous job, doing something useful hasn't time to notice monotony.

A balanced variety of foods gives us physical health. And a balanced variety of things to do keeps us far away from any monotonous existence. Suppose that you are one whose work during the day is monotonous. The cure then is to vary the occupation of your mind with something different in your spare hours. Selected reading, an interest in sports, contact with people of varying occupations, or the taking up of some hobby.

Things never rust out that are kept in use. And we can let our mind grow sluggish and gain a monotonous state if we do not do a varied mood.

Variety is the most willing servant we own. It will go on errands to any part of the earth. It will obey any command that the will suggests. If kept well fed, it will not complain. Sole monotony however, is the poorest sort of diet for the mind.

Change is the most fearsome enemy to monotony. Therefore change your habits. Start with open arms by every forward-looking thought that you have. Never trust change. Never be afraid of it. It is the hope of humanity.

Monotony dies rutis—and ruts, in time, stop progress.

Everything should be done to create interest in life. Without them—many, many of them—we are apt to become dull, confused and become mere killers, wonderings and dreamers of good and thrilling doesn't turn up. There is no excuse for anyone, leading a monotonous existence.

When We Get to Mars

(Christian Science Monitor)

What, we wonder, would have been the impact of Martians who came to the mountain just as the mountain was on its way to Mohammed? Or, what would have passed each other in the night?

Something roughly similar occurred in the case of Sgt. Luther Jones, Jr., who made a quick trip home from Germany on a 30-day furlough to surprise his wife, only to find that she had left New York that day on a summer visit to him in Germany. They were both surprised all right.

What surprises us—still — is the way average folk nip around the world these days.

It's as simple as that. The world has become so new; the new whisks back to the old; and if nobody's home when they find it by jet it's no matter for ruining an airlift to Earth.

Harping Angels

(Brandon Sun)

About now those June brides-grooms-turned-husbands and wives are angels as they are always harping on things.

MARMORA

Centre Hastings F.W.T.A.O. Unit Holds Meeting

Marmora—A meeting of the Marmora unit of the Centre Hastings F.W.T.A.O. was held in Marmora public school on Thursday evening.

The president, Mrs. J. Heath in her opening remarks, welcomed the members and reminded them of the following week being "Education Week." She also urged that as many as possible attend the O.E.A. convention to be held during Easter week.

The federation motto for the year is "Be Professional". Miss M. Rousborn read a timely article on this subject from the Educational Courier.

An interesting discussion on "Phonics", was led by Miss Hilda Henderson of Deloro public school.

Choral reading which proved instructive and entertaining was conducted by Miss Hilda Taft with the members forming the class.

Mrs. Grenville Mellejohn, a newcomer to the district and a guest of the evening, gave an enlightening talk on "The Mother's Point of View."

Two fine readings "The Teacher" and "The Teacher's Prayer" were given by Miss Verna Black of the White School in Marmora township.

Ladies of the Home and School Association served refreshments at the close of the meeting and a social period was also enjoyed. Presentation

At the home of her sister Mrs. Fred Spry, on Sunday evening, Mrs. H. G. Potts received the presentation of an electric tea kettle from her three sisters, Mrs. Spry, Mrs. Roy Eccles, and Mrs. Jack Hunter, of Toronto, prior to her departure for her new home in Beaverlodge, Sask.

In attendance at this event which followed supper were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hunter, Mrs. Roy Eccles, Calvin Baker, and Miss Valerie Childs, all of Toronto, in addition to Mrs. Potts and her husband and son Wayne.

Mr. Richard Howe, of Beavertoe, was the week-end guest of friends here.

Sharon McGreror has returned home from a week's visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McGrerver in Toronto.

Mrs. Sandy Lammies and Mrs. George Bonter of Belleville, called on Mrs. Stanley Lavender on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Gray and son Joseph, of Trenton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Blakely.

2ND THURLOW

25th Wedding Anniversary Honored By Neighbors, Friends

2ND THURLOW—Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Don Leeming tendered them a surprise on Monday night in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Harry Crills read an appropriate address expressing the good wishes of all on this happy occasion and wishing them many more anniversaries.

On behalf of those present, Mrs. F. Mitchell presented them with a lovely silver cream and sugar set, for which both expressed thanks and spoke of the many treasured friendships made over the period of years.

Among other gifts received was a beautiful 400-day mantel clock from their sons, Donald and Billie.

The evening was spent in cards and social chat.

Refreshments were served and a happy time spent.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Leeming were supper guests on Friday evening of Mr. and Mrs. A. MacPhee, of Foxboro, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. MacPhee presented them with a lovely silver butter dish during the evening.

On Saturday night, the following friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. D. Leeming, who gathered at their home in honor of their 25th anniversary were, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Leeming, Mr. and Mrs. A. McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Kay; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whittle and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ormsby, Mr. and Mrs. C. Brown and family and presented them with a lovely coffee table and aluminum bowl. Mr. and Mrs. D. Jackson were unable to attend as they were in Windsor for the week-end.

WALLBRIDGE

Wallbridge — March has come in like a lamb with sunshine but the weather at the time of writing, March 2nd., was down to zero.

Sorry to report Mrs. B. A. Lucas is quite ill at the home of Miss Jenny Kiernan. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leggo-beer, of Belleville, were callers on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

W.I. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Thompson on Wednesday night with a large number of men and lady members. It being men's night, they had an interesting program and Mr. F. Flagler, of CJBQ, Belleville, was the guest speaker. All enjoyed his talk.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound on Wednesday last.

Quite a number are still confined to their homes with severe colds.

Mrs. R. Logan, of Hamilton, returned home on Friday and spent the past week with her mother, who was 96 on February 19th.

With the weather so bright, housecleaning seems to be the topic among the ladies. Some farmers are thinking that syrup making will be in progress if the weather is favorable.

COOPER-REMINGTON

Cooper-Remington.— The W.I. meeting was held on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Earl Whiteman's with a large attendance.

The Club Girls held a skating party at Cooper rink on Thursday with a good attendance and all report a good skating.

One of the residents, Mr. William J. Irwin passed away on Friday at the home of Mr. John Irwin at Eldorado.

Mrs. Fred Fitzgerald called on Mrs. William Fitzgerald on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. A. Graham of Madoc, visited Mrs. George Graham over the week-end.

The ice being soft in Cooper rink on Friday night, Queensboro and Tannery did not play hockey so a number from here attended the game at Madoc between Bancroft and Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rollins spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Holland at Crookston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hark Rollins spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rollins at Peterborough.

Mrs. George Graham spent Wednesday with Mrs. John Thompson at Eldorado.

Miss Shirley Fox called on Mrs. George Harris on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. George Grant and Mr. Thompson, of Shelbourne, spent Thursday with Mrs. George Graham.

Sorry to hear Mr. Lorne Irwin has fractured his foot.

A large number attended the Junior Farmer skating party and dance on Friday evening in Madoc.

Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. Holmes, and Mrs. Fox, also Mrs. Bird, spent Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Gordon Chapman.

SCOTT—COOKE

Tall white standards of pink and yellow gladioli, interspersed with ferns lined the chancel rail, while similar flowers banked the altar in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, February 26, at 2:30 p.m., when Canon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church, assisted by the Rev. Everett Smith, assistant rector, united in marriage Marlene Joan Cooke, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cooke, to Reginald Scott, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scott.

Mr. John C. Wilbers, organist of the church, presided at the console of the organ and rendered the traditional wedding music, accompanying the boys' choir of eight voices, who sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love", Psalm 67, as the bride and bridegroom approached the altar rail, and "Brother James' Air", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white nylon net and satin, fashioned with a fitted, softly draped bodice featuring an off-the-shoulder pearl sequin embroidered nylon with yoke having jewel neckline and tiny sleeves. The skirt was fashioned of petal-edged lace appliqued on white nylon net gathered into the fitted waistline of satin. Her double fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of matching lace incrusted with seed pearls. She wore long mitts of matching nylon net and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of pink roses tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Loreen May, of Belleville, was maid of honor, while Miss Joyce Goodfellow, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Illeane Locke, of Belleville were bridesmaids. All were taffeta gowns of harmonizing, graduating shades of dark rose, light rose and pink, respectively, fashioned with fitted, strapless bodice and white velvet jackets, and full floor-length skirts. The maid of honor wore a white velvet Juliet cap headdress, and the bridesmaids, white Juliet headdresses. All carried white satin muffs crested with yellow roses and yellow ribbon streamers.

Little Linda Cooke, six-year-old niece of the bride, was dressed in her frock of pink taffeta made on princess lines with rounded neckline, ruffled cap sleeves, and full floor-length skirt. A wreath of tiny pink roses encircled her blonde curls, and she carried a nosegay of yellow roses trimmed with yellow lacelon ribbon.

Mr. Kip Summers, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. John Campbell, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. James Cooke, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception for 100 guests was held in the Legion Hall, which was delightfully decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells for the occasion. The bride's mother, attired in powder blue crepe and net made on princess lines with net yoke having a sweetheart shaped neckline, with pink accessories and corsage of Britannia roses, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue crepe and lace with pink and white accessories, and corsage of white heather and pink roses, tied with white ribbon.

The bride's table was beautifully arranged with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with yellow rosebuds and white narcissi, and decorated with a cloud of pink tulle upon which yellow rosebuds were sprinkled. Assisting at the table were the bridesmaids and the bride's attendants added an exquisitely lovely touch. Little place cards depicting a bride, marked the guests' seats.

Pink candles and clusters of fragrant white narcissi bloom adorned the guest tables.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a navy blue wool gabardine suit with white nylon blouse, navy and red accessories, grey topcoat, and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside in Belleville upon their return.

The bride's gift to her bridesmaids was a flash camera; to her maid of honor, a pearl pendant with matching earrings; to her bridesmaids, pearl necklaces with matching earrings and to her flower girl, a silver locket and chain.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a matching rhinestone necklace and earrings; to the groomsman, a leather wallet, and to the ushers, cuff links.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Montreal, Port Colborne, Kingston, Napanee, Frankford, Picton and Trenton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Loreen May, Cedar Street, which opened the meeting and after the business part a gay sing-song was enjoyed by all.

Frances Young, leader of the Club, gave a few words of welcome to the guests and also commented on what is gained by club work. She instructed the girls in final preparations for "Achievement Day" to be held in Cherry Valley next Saturday. Marilyn Barber demonstrated rolled checkerboard fancy sandwiches, using various filling and bread.

A skit was presented by Margaret Cockrell, Marion Conklin, Anne Recker and Jean Barber, entitled "How to Pack a Week-end Suitcase".

Anne Recker commented on a "Table Set for Two".

A buffet luncheon was then served by the girls.

Mrs. Clifford Barber extended a vote of thanks to the girls and their leaders for the enjoyable evening.

Women of The Moose Entertain White Cane Club

On Thursday evening the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, held their last meeting of the month in the Moose hall with Sr. Regt. Mary Peoples presiding.

Frances Collesio was initiated into the defending circle.

Many thank you cards were received. Account was given on the chicken supper and the proceeds turned into the chapter. Sr. Regt. Mary Peoples spoke of banquet she had attended to celebrate the White Cane Club birthday, one member from each service club attended and all had a wonderful time.

There is to be entertainment at the next meeting to celebrate St. Patrick's Day with Jr. Grad. Regt. Kay Donnovon as convenor. The meeting was brought to a close and members of the White Cane Club invited to the lunch room where a banquet had been prepared by Peggy Mintz and Olive Roth. The guests were introduced to members and seated at the gaily decorated tables.

Peggy Mintz introduced Mr. Wishart, who first tendered thanks to the Women of the Moose for lovely banquet and spoke briefly on the blind people and the difference in the help they received now and a few years ago.

First School

The first school started for the blind was by Louis Braille and his system is still used today.

During the First World War Colonel Baker, a veteran, came to realize how badly a start was needed in Canada and with help started the Brantford school for the blind where young people are taught to take their place in the world along with their sighted brothers and sisters.

The C.N.I.B. trains adults and helps them find work, tries to prevent total blindness by surgery and glasses also by giving pensions. To help blind people at home there is the Visiting Miss Monroe, who goes to the homes and not only helps the people adjust themselves, teaches them to keep house, do handicraft, but teaches Braille and moon type.

Mr. Wishart also said that blind people do not want sympathy but just a little help to help themselves. He also gave a brief talk on the new building for the blind to be built at Kingston. He again expressed thanks and received a big hand.

Thanks Tendered

Margaret Bishop, president of White Cane Club, was then introduced by Peggy Mintz and tendered thanks on behalf of the club, herself to the W.O.T.M. for banquet.

Peggy Mintz thanked the members of the W.C.C. also Mr. Wishard and Margaret Bishop for attending and hoped they would enjoy themselves. She also thanked the co-workers for donations and the girls who worked. Sr. Regt. Mary Peoples also expressed thanks to W.C.C. for attending and hoped they would come again. Servers for banquet were: Mike Calbury, Dorothy Gray, June McQuaid and Olive Roth.

After supper, Alex Blackburn, blind pianist, played many selections for a sing-song and dancing drawing a lovely evening to a close.

Previous to the meeting, a hockey game was presented to a blind boy with proceeds from penny games on Saturday being used to purchase it. The draw donated by Kay Donnovon was won by Selina Iles and the one donated by Sheila McQuaid was won by Margaret Crawford.

Happy Hostess Club Entertains Mothers, Leaders

The project "Club Girl Entertains" drew to a close last week when the club entertained their mothers and a few former leaders and members. This last meeting was held at the home of Miss Joan Wood, Ameliasburg, on Tuesday evening.

The President, Marilyn Barber,

Deseronto Y.P.U. Enjoys Films Of Pioneer Days

The Deseronto Y.P.U. held its regular meeting on Monday evening in the United Church parlors.

The meeting opened with worship service conducted by the president, Marion Aylesworth. Scripture lesson was read by Doris V. Twiddy. The offering and missionary givings were received.

During the business period it was decided to make plans for a special missionary church service.

Two interesting films were shown by Rev. W. Neelands, these included "Pioneer Days" and the "Atomic Bomb". Each brought a great thought before the young people and proved most helpful.

The president moved a vote of thanks for pictures shown and Rev. W. Neelands closed the meeting.

Club Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. Y.P.U.

The Holloway Street Y.P.U. held its weekly meetings on Monday evening, with Elgin Haynes, president, presiding.

Following a rousing sing-song, led by Neil Smith, a short business period was held after which the meeting was turned over to Jean Campbell. The topic was "Learning to Know Jesus Better". Taking part were Jean Campbell, Marilyn Bird, Doris Hill, Dorothy Craighead and Nancy Harrison.

Refreshments were served and the meeting closed with "Taps".

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The boy overseas has problems, too

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17, and have a problem that confuses me.

The boy I am in love with is in the army and far away from me. My girl friends are always telling me that my boy friend is writing love letters to other girls they know, and they tell me some of the things he writes which are the same things he writes to me. For example, he always tells me he loves me and that I am the only girl for him, but the girls tell me that he writes the same to other girls.

I really don't know what to believe, with him saying one thing and others saying another. I want to believe him, but it's difficult with other people telling me something different.—T. C.

Dear T.C.: The thing for you to do is to try to realize that a boy who is far away from home is a very lonely person, and so he wants to feel close to as many people back home as he can. Such young men are always lonely, having been snatched away from everything familiar and dear to them, especially when they are sent to a strange country and in frightening surroundings. In other words, you must try to look at things from his boy's point of view, so that you can understand why he writes to those girls as he does—if it is actually true that he does.

You cannot expect a boy under such circumstances always to know his own mind. When he is getting so many strange new experiences all the time, his thinking can become very mixed up. You can help him most at this time, not by trying to be the "only girl" in his life, but by being willing to share him with other friends. You can get yourself into this frame of mind by asking yourself honestly which is really the most important right now—your own wishes or his need for home ties.

If you will be understanding enough to look upon him, while he is away, as just a good friend, write him nice, newsy letters as often as you wish, and be content to leave romance out of it until he comes home and gets adjusted, you may not only be doing him a very fine service but you will gain greatly in maturity yourself.

"Cradle-robbing" is hardly the name for this

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a boy who seems to like me very much, and I would like to go out with him, but he is four months younger than I am, so I would feel as though I would be "robbing the cradle".

One of my girl friends, however, tells me that four months doesn't matter, especially since this boy is taller than I am and looks older.

What would be your advice?—T. H.

Dear T.H.: My advice is to go out with this boy as much as you like and think nothing whatever of his being four months younger than you are. If you enjoy each other's company, and have a good time together, that is all that matters. It takes a great deal more than a mere four months' difference in age to "rob the cradle."

Cheese Is Expendable

By Mary Moore

The second sentence is going to be even more complicated than this one—but I am sure it will be appreciated by especially males—that you know the likes of.

The new second wife of a doctor friend of ours, who is strictly a meat and potato man regardless of his training, said that she was so glad when Lent came because it was such a sound reason for not serving meat to her husband's church husband seven days per week.

She is a good cook—an excellent one—and variety in cooking is the spice of her life—after the toy of her late-in-life marriage, of course! We were mulling over really posh dinner menus without meat, and she is going to serve the best and most cheese delicacies you will find below, that are my idea of carriage-trade food.

CORN AND ALMOND CREAM SOUP

Four cups whole milk, 2 1-2 cups cream-style corn (1 20-oz. tin), 1 medium onion chopped, 1 stalk celery chopped, 2 bay leaves, 4 tablespoons each butter or margarine, flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-8 teaspoon each paprika and celery salt, 1-2 cup chopped or shredded blanched almonds, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup heavy cream.

Heat the milk and corn together in top of double boiler until very hot. Saute but do not brown the onions and celery in the butter along with the bay leaves. Add the vegetables and cooked with the butter and limp —about 10 minutes over very low heat. Stir in the flour until smooth, then stir in the hot milk and corn mixture, stirring until thick. Fish out the bay leaf. Gently heat the almonds in the melted butter until they are tinged with gold. Add to soup, reserving a few to sprinkle on top. Add the heavy cream and heat through. If desired reserve a little of the cream and whip it. Put a blob on top of each serving of soup and sprinkle this with whipped almonds. Absolutely scrumptious. (The fatsos are going to hate me.)

CHEESE CROQUETTES

One-half pound grated cheddar cheese, 3 cups soft breadcrumbs, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-8 teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons water, 1-2 cup sifted dry breadcrumbs. Mix cheese, soft crumbs, 3 beaten eggs, Worcestershire sauce, salt and cayenne. Form into balls. Dilute the 1 egg with the water and roll the cheese balls in it, then roll in dry crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat at 365 deg. Fahr. until delicately browned. Skim out and drain on unglazed paper. Serve hot with

TOMATO SAUCE

Simmer 1-3 tablespoon chopped onion and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley in 2 cups canned tomatoes for 20 minutes and then strain. Then, Melt 4 tablespoons butter or fat and stir in 4 tablespoons flour and some salt and pepper, then add the tomatoes until thick. (This is a good sauce for poached eggs on toast when you have to get a quick supper ready.)

Some time ago I gave you the recipe for Mother's Celery Dish and Cheese, which is very good again soon for it is a favorite with me. But the following recipe is little like it and uses more cheese, and macaroni instead of

CELERY AND CHEESE-DISH

One and one-quarter cups grated mild cheese, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup milk, 1 cup boiled celery (outer stalks and leaves), 1 cup boiled macaroni, salt and pepper. Combine cheese, beaten eggs, Worcestershire sauce and milk, and beat until light. Combine celery, and macaroni and spread in bottom of greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper until and cover with the cheese-egg mix. Stand dish in pan of hot water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, which takes about 40 minutes. For special occasions you can turn out on heated platter and pour over some cheese sauce and garnish with 1-3 lb. sauteed mushrooms.

NEARLY FREEZE IN CAR

men were nearly frozen when their car left the road about 30 miles north of here and became stuck in the ditch. Joseph Woods, 26, and Jarvis Campbell were found Monday by Clarence Campbell, Dr. Lloyd Bailey of Lakefield said: "Apparently they just went to sleep in the car and didn't wake up. Woods was pretty well numbed."

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Her problem: Limiting the number of shower guests

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be matron of honor at a wedding soon, and I would like to give a shower for the bride-to-be. My problem is how to limit the number of guests, as my apartment is small, and also I can't afford to give a large shower. Her fiance has quite a number of relatives with whom she is very friendly, and she too has a large number of friends. Do you think it is necessary for me to invite all her fiance's relatives and her girl friends, would it be proper for me to select a small number, her closest relatives and as many as possible of her closest girl friends? (I want, if possible to avoid any hard feelings among the relatives.)—Vicky.

Since it is always a correct procedure to invite only the guest of honor's closest friends to a bridal shower, I suggest you follow this plan. Then you will as much as possible avoid all the opposite among the relatives, both the bride's and the groom's. Just make it known that you are going to invite "only Anne's bridal attendants and her other closest friends."

Prayer for groom's parents to give reception two weeks after marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son has just returned from service, and it to be married soon. The bride-to-be lives in Texas, and is coming to our home town to be married. Because of financial problems, he doesn't want a large wedding, but would like a reception so that his bride can meet his friends.

1. Must the reception be held the same day as the wedding, or could it be postponed until, say the following day?

2. How should the wedding invitations be worded?

3. Since the bride is wearing a suit or street-length dress, is a corsage proper?—Mrs. M.

1. It will be in excellent taste for the bride and groom to have the ceremony performed when they wish, and then for you, the groom's parents, to give the post-wedding reception when the couple have returned from their wedding trip. It is, I judge, the couple are to live in your town, this would be a particularly appropriate procedure. A combination wedding reception, welcome-home in your son, and welcome-to-the-bride.

2. Very small and informal wedding your son and his bride-to-be wish and keep plans as they will. It would be appropriate and proper for you to invite relatives and friends verbally or by telephone.

3. Yes.

Prayer to send with announcement cards to close relatives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think it is proper to send birth-announcement cards to in-laws and to my family?—(Mrs.) A. M. P.

Yes; entirely proper, if you wish to. And why not, if close relatives already have been told the wonderful news. For many people, particularly such close relatives of the new baby, treasure the cards as a record and reminder of the exact name of the baby and the date of its birth.

Five-Year-Old Celebrates Birthday With Party

A happy time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Slingsland, Roslin, recently, when they entertained 20 little guests to their daughter Ethel's fifth birthday.

During the afternoon games, sing-songs, and a reading from little Shirley Chisholm, was enjoyed.

The dining room was prettily decorated with balloons; the table was centred with the birthday cake and the trimmings of pink and white carried out in the decorations. Each had little baskets of candies with serviettes and suckers at the plates.

After luncheon was served all departed for home, tired, but happy; wishing Ethel many more happy birthdays.

During the afternoon several of the parents called.

BOWERMAN'S W.A.

BOWERMAN'S — Bowerman's W. A. February meeting was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Donald Wood with the president Mrs. Robert Wood, in the chair.

Mrs. Warner McFaul, being a guest, kindly played the organ for the hymns.

Mrs. Ken Wood took charge of the devotional period.

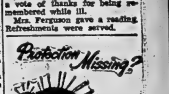
The roll call showed 17 members and three guests present.

The collection and book dues amounted to $13.76.

It was decided that a cupboard be made for the Bowerman's W.A. dishes in the Orange Hall.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ken Wood on March 18.

Mrs. Harold Johnston tendered a vote of thanks for being remembered while ill.



Mrs. Ferguson gave a reading. Refreshments were served.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

By Fulton Oursler

Chapter 15

PETER'S MOTHER-IN-LAW.

Through the cool sweetness of a May morning Jesus led His band of five men down the highroad from Samaria back into Galilee. They had come to a halt, for a little rest, not far from Nazareth, and beggars and curiosity seekers had gathered around them, when a shocked silence fell suddenly; all movement ceased, and the unclean mob stood rooted in fear.

A rich and powerful magnate had suddenly appeared among them. His breast was decorated with a pendent disk covered with watery-blue squarmarines, black opals, and emeralds. Through the path they instantly opened for him the nobleman strode forward. But as the crowd peeked and turned their heads, they observed that the stranger's face was pale, his eyes moist. His words were incredibly humble.

"I have heard," he began without parley, "strange reports of you—a carpenter of Nazareth. There is a tale of a fountain of wine you caused to spring at Cana.

And another tale, which has gone before you, of how you read the mind of a disreputable woman at Jacob's well. Such reports have given me, a despairing man, hope. I need help. I come from Capernaum; my son is there — very ill. Please come down and heal my son, for he is at the point of death."

"Unless you see signs and wonders, you believe not," Jesus replied with a tenting glance at the rich man.

"Lord, come down before my son, dies," pleaded the father breaking his aloofness.

Jesus closed His eyes; this man's tears were real. Softly He spoke:

"Go your way. Your son lives."

Dubious Disciples

As the rich man looked up, there was no doubt, but only hope in his face. His eyes spoke his gratitude as without another word he turned and with outstretched arms flailed a path for himself through the crowd and ran down the open road. The five disciples were speechless; Peter's brow knitted in wonderment. Not until later would those dubious disciples learn what had happened.

The next day, as the ruler was still making his way down the steep roads to Capernaum, he was met by servants coming up to greet him, and with news. His son lived!

"Praise God! At what hour did he get better?"

"Yesterday, at the seventh hour, the fever left him."

At the seventh hour! That, at the father knew, was the exact hour when the carpenter from Nazareth had told him: "Your son lives!"

This healing was a master stroke. It fixed the attention of the whole region on Jesus. Everybody heard of it; as He returned to the metropolis by the lake, throngs of people were frantic to see and hear Him. At once He was invited to make a series of public talks. Crowds packed the rectangular Capernaum synagogue with its illicit Corinthian pillars; they hung on to His words, but many with earcocked for error. And sophistry! These fishermen and merchants and workmen were well instructed in Moses and the prophets.

Two More Deeds

And there in Capernaum two deeds performed in public still further increased His fame. The first occurred in the synagogue.

Jesus had been talking when suddenly a man in the crowd began to scream. Running up to the front, he fell writhing to the floor. It was shocking to see him contorted in his ghastly spasms; the spectators shuddered.

Many knew the man, and a chill of repulsion came over them because they believed he had a devil; believed that some spirit, unearthly and unclean, possessed his body, making him two persons in one frame. That, they thought, was why he yelled at the feet of Jesus and shrieked:

"Let us alone! What have we to do with you, Jesus of Nazareth! Did you come here to destroy us?"

And then, oddly changing from plural to singular, as if only his real self spoke, the sick man finished in a piteous plea:

"I know who you are—the Holy One, of God!"

Without a second's hesitation Jesus spoke sharply and decisively, commanding something vicious and unclean within the man:

"Hold your mouth and go out of him!"

That moment the illness ended. The exhausted man lay quiet as a sleeping child.

No wonder the people talked.

And right after this episode Jesus performed another strange deed—in the home of His close friend, Simon, called Peter.

Peter's mother-in-law fell seriously ill, with a glaze over the eyes, dryness in the throat, the cheeks flushed, forehead burning —a painful agony of fever. It was an epidemic illness, that fever, often prevalent in the low country after the first rains of autumn.

None of the weird prescriptions of the physicians had helped Peter's mother; all medicines efficacious against fever had failed to still the rising fire in the old woman's veins.

She Was Well

When Simon returned home, just after the Master had healed the demoniac at the synagogue his mother-in-law was much worse; Peter felt sure she was dying. The ex-fisherman did not wait, but rushed back to fetch Jesus. Andrew and Jesus, John and Nathaniel stood in the doorway as Jesus passed in and went directly to the bed and touched the mother-in-law's hand. She turned away from Him, hostile at first, then looked back with a bewildered air, not knowing how to account for the instant change in herself. Until then she hadn't thought much about Jesus. She had been sick. Now she was well. Strong enough to get out of bed and minister to all six of them.

By sunset of that same day the whole town heard about it and the house of Peter was mobbed. The narrow streets before it and behind, the alleys and the broader highways were choked with sick people. They hobbled on crutches and crawled on their knees; old men were toted on the shoulders of their sons and old women cradled in the arms of husbands who staggered under their weight; children hastened and soothed by mothers and fathers, they all came clamoring. Some had pains and fevers, boils and cancers and leprous sores; minds that were like the stables of wild creatures, full of lust and hate and blood thirst. They were crippled, and humpbacked and blind, they were dumb and tongue-tied.

Upon them all, one after another, Jesus laid firm, cool hands. He blessed them, not with a solemn face but with a bright expression, even a chuckle, especially for the youngsters. Not one was left with boil, or fever, or speechless mouth. The cripples were uncrippled, the humpback now had a straight spine, the dumb could speak and shout his thanks, the blind could see the Master's pleased but perspiring face. And others knew, like the man in the synagogue, fell down in their writhings, were released and they, too, in their ecstasy cried out:

"You are the Son of God."

The Draught of Fishes

The story that seemed to create the most wonder was not about healings, however, but the tale of a draught of fishes.

The Master, as many now called Him, had been beleaguered by a listening crowd, pressing so close to Him that He was forced to the very edge of the lake. Near by were two fishing boats, with oars, mast, and little sails. Fishermen stood ankle deep in the water, washing their nets, but their baskets, made of wicker and rope work, were empty.

Jesus saw that one of those ships belonged to His stormy fellower, Peter. Waving a hand to the impatient crowd, the Master clambered into Peter's boat. Would the sailors pull out a little further into the water? Thank you, Peter! Now the impetuous, over-eager throng must keep its distance. Jesus had a little space for Himself, and, sitting quietly in Peter's boat, He finished His talk. When the crowd began to disperse, He turned again to His friend:

"Simon, launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught."

Peter heaved a patient sigh. He had begun to feel one needed a great deal of patience to deal with this calm, pale, unruffled Jesus. Very politely the bearded fisherman made a protest. Clearly the Master did not realize . . .

"We have fished all night and have taken nothing."

But the Master did realize it! Indeed, that was why He had made the suggestion.

But Now Look!

So Peter called his helpers and they did as Jesus had advised them. No fish all night long, no fish for all their tough, hard work in the dark — they were completely discharged. But now look! Look in the full glare of morning light — silver pounds of flopping, wriggling, squirming fish, bulging the nets until the ropes broke. They had to call partners from another ship; they filled both holds with the catch and even so the ships wobbled and nearly sank with the weight of their cargoes. And Peter, the shamed fisherman, weeping at the memory of his own skepticism, pleaded with the Master:

"Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord!"

The others stood by watching —Andrew who was Peter's brother, and James and John, who were their partners, and Nathaniel. They heard, as well as Peter, the calm, super reply addressed to them all:

"Come after Me and I will make you to become fishers of men. Fear not!"

That settled it as far as these five were concerned. They had seen and heard everything. This was their definite call and they answered it, even though already warned it was a pathway to death. No more fishing except for men!

CAMPBELLFORD

St. John's Y. A. Club Views Interesting Films

CAMPBELLFORD. — The St. John's Young Adults' Club met in the basement of the United Church for its regular meeting, with the president, Walter Elliott in the chair.

Earle Nelson led in the singing of a few songs, with Bruce Barnum at the piano. Marion Smith and Grace Paisley were in charge of the devotional period.

Marion Smith reported a net profit of $40 from the cooking sale held recently at Lockwood Lanes.

The Rev. D. M. Smith said he intended the club to take charge of a fireside hour after the evening service in the near future. He also mentioned that the Sunday School would appreciate a donation for a miniature projector to show colored slides on Christian work. The club voted $10 for this purpose, in keeping with that voted, by other church organizations.

The program was in charge of Marion Smith. A piano solo by Bruce Barnum, was enjoyed by all. Walter Elliott operated the motion picture projector for films, the first depicting tourist attraction on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls and the second was a C.N.R. feature on Jasper Park and the Canadian Rockies. The final item on the program was a contest.

Light refreshments were served, bringing the meeting to a close.

MELROSE

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan entertained Mr. and Mrs. Doug Lazier, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Lazier and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren, to tea, on Wednesday evening.

The trustees of school area No. 1 entertained the teachers, their husbands and friends at a euchre in Shannonville School on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren spent some friends in for tea on Friday evening.

Mrs. Russell Macfarlane accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Masters to Campbellford on Sunday afternoon where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hall. Mrs. Hall is convalescing following her recent illness and stay in Peterborough Hospital.

Mr. L. Dawson is slowly improving at Belleville Hospital and hopes to be able to go soon to the home of his niece.

Miss Beatrice Macfarlane opened her home for the special day of prayer meeting and Mrs. Sherley Denille was hostess to the Melrose W.I., for their February meeting.

Mrs. John Beatty, of Belleville, is staying this week at the home of her brother, Mr. Russell Macfarlane.

Mr. L. Scott spent the Sunday dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Weese, and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Weese spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubbie, Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. John English called on Mrs. Alex McLaren on Thursday evening.

Township Council met on Monday afternoon in the township hall and the Junior Farmers held an evening meeting in the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Weese spent Sunday with friends in Tweed.

Mrs. Charles Bates, Jr. is visiting her father and sister, this week-end at Burk's Falls.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family of the late Sara Hines, whose funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Thomas Gedco has returned to Mr. Russell Macfarlane's after a two-months' stay in England. His trips over and back by plane were enjoyable as no difficulties of any kind were encountered.

3RD OF SIDNEY
Douglas Pyear Heads Federation

3rd Sidney—The annual meeting of the Sidney Federation of Agriculture took the form of a banquet at Aikens' Hall with the Aikens' ladies catering. Due to so much illness in the township, only 117 attended.

James Campbell, president, called on Burton Hubbie, secretary, to introduce the head table. Jim spoke again, welcoming the guests and congratulating the people of Aikens on their hall.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Harry Coulter introduced Mrs. George Burkitt, guest speaker, president of the West Hastings Women's Institute work and origin.

Gordon Demille rendered an entertaining number, Doug Pyear and Verna Brown gave vocal solos.

Mr. Harry Morrow, Reeve of Sidney township, spoke briefly and introduced Mr. Lee Grills, past warden, who explained county council work.

Harold Varty, county president, was called and spoke briefly.

Harry Brown tendered thanks to the ladies to which Mrs. Allan McComb responded.

Officers Elected

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, conducted the election of officers for 1953: President, Doug Pyear; vice-president, Jack Kane secretary-treasurer, Burton Hubbie. The following directors were elected: Stanley Wallbridge, Gilbert Sills, Burton Hubbie, Horace Knight, Harry Phillips, Leslie Pinkle, Roswell Held, Gerald Brooks and Harry Brown, with the following as associate directors, Harry Rutter, Harlejeh Hamilton, Alex Vandervoort, Bert Bush, Ronald Longwell, Colin Donald, Ed Heckman, John Kane and Doug Pyear.

CONFIDENT DEER

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—A tourist from Rochester, N.Y., James Wilkinson, had to bring his car to a halt on the Niagara Parkway while a herd of five deer trotted sedately toward the Niagara river for a drink. Deer have become more plentiful than ever in this area.

CAMPBELLFORD
Prompt Action Saves Home

CAMPBELLFORD — Firemen in Campbellford were called to the farm home of Douglas Rutherford, about five miles north west of the town over the week-end. The fire had eaten its way up through a partition and firemen and neighbors had considerable trouble in putting it out. Floors in the upstairs rooms had to be ripped up to get at the blaze.

Only the prompt action of the Campbellford firemen and neighbors in responding to the alarm is credited with saving the home. Cause of the outbreak is believed to have been overheated furnace pipes and damage is estimated at several hundred dollars.

POPULATION INCREASES

LONDON (AP)—England and Wales had an estimated population of 43,940,000 at June 30 last year, the registrar-general's office reports. This is an increase of 140,000 from the June 30, 1951, figure. The estimate put the population of the London area at 8,364,000.

TO TOUR KOREA, JAPAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Radio comedian John Wayne and Frank Shuster, with their singing star Terry Dale, will leave Vancouver late this month for a five-week tour of Korea and Japan to entertain Canadian troops, Army headquarters announced Tuesday.

Many Attend 175th L. O. L. Euchre Party

ALLISONVILLE — A large crowd attended the L.O.L. 175 euchre party Friday night with 19 tables in play. Ladies high prizes went to Mrs. E. Pearsal and Mrs. Gilbert; lone hand to Mrs. L. Root; men's high prizes to Mac Hardy and E. Pearsal; lone hands to Mr. Gilbert.

Mrs. Basil Ainsworth held the lucky plate number 13 and received a new broom donated by Mr. Charles Tripp of Wellington. Mr. Joe Foley also donated a prize.

Thanks were tendered to all those who helped to make this evening a success.

Conveners were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wood.

Another euchre party will be held March 13 with Mr. Percy Lough being the sponsor.

OPPOSITION MAY

Information on the purchase was given in reply to questions by Douglas Harkness (PC — Calgary East) and Ray Thomas (SC-Wetaskiwin).

Raise Matter

Mr. Harkness told newspaper men he may raise the matter in the House, but that he hadn't yet had time to decide what course he will follow.

The sale to Prudham Building Supplies Ltd., involved 1 9-10 acres of CNR property in Edmonton including the old CNR station and freight shed. The sale was made this year by negotiation. No tenders were called.

Straight Business Deal

Mr. Prudham, member of the Commons for Edmonton West, is president of the company and its controlling shareholder.

In an interview, Mr. Prudham said he had not consulted the cabinet before the purchase was made, but had been given to understand later it was not out of keeping with his cabinet job.

Mr. Prudham said the transaction was a "straight business deal," which had been under negotiation since 1946, before he came to Parliament. He said his company had always hoped to buy the CNR property, across the Calgary-Edmonton highway from its lumber yard but on the same side of the highway as its main holdings.

"We consider we paid more than anyone else would have," he said, declaring that the Prudham company's need for more space had sent up the sale price of railway property.

An appraisal of the property by an independent firm, said Mr. Prudham, had set the valuation at $88,300, including $56,150 for a disused station building and $5,000 for an old freight shed. The city of Edmonton's valuation of the property and buildings was $31,026.

Voted Down Motion

In opening proceedings, members voted 121 to 59 against a Progressive Conservative motion for further reports on defence department administration. The bid was sponsored by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) who sought information on defence department inquiries dating back to 1946.

In the budget debate, Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) said Finance Minister Abbott had presented a "capitalist budget" to Canadians Feb. 18.

The relief went to large corporations and to wealthy taxpayers.

"It is the kind of budget I would love to fight an election on," said Mr. Stewart.

George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) urged the federal and provincial governments to act to protect the dairy industry from the manufacture of dairy product substitutes from oils.

J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton West), representative of a tobacco-growing constituency, said the five-cent reduction in the excise tax on cigarets was not good enough.

ONT. GOVT. PLANS

Dr. Dunlop also submitted a bill to permit dismissal of teachers without appeal to a board of review. He said such dismissals would occur only when a teacher is deemed too undesirable to finish out the term of his contract, usually at the end of a school year. The minister said he will exercise this power only with approval of the local school board concerned.

Wants Owners Protected

Speaking during the throne speech debate, A. J. Child (PC—Wentworth) said the government should protect home buyers who are at the mercy of "unscrupulous building contractors who chisel at every opportunity."

Mr. Child, a Hamilton business man, said one contractor in Hamilton collected $30,000 in down payments and vanished. Only a few excavations were made on home sites before he disappeared.

He suggested contractors be licensed in the same way as subcontracting electricians and plumbers.

W. J. Grummett, house leader for the two-man CCF representation in the Legislature, said the government should give northern mining communities a larger share of taxes collected from mines.

The Cochrane South member also recommended that a research council investigate the whole field of edible oils to learn their effect on farmers' welfare and the health of the public.

He recommended salary increases for guards at provincial jails, and for provincial police. Mr. Grummett said higher pay is the only enticement to the type of men necessary for a good force.

"Dissatisfaction among the guards spreads to the inmates," he said. "Every case of trouble in provincial institutions can be traced to this source."

Attorney-General Porter, discussing the government's plan for unifying essential services in the Toronto area, said control of the Don jail, court houses and registry offices would be shifted from the city to the metropolitan council governing the whole area.

FRANKFORD

Place in The Church Impressive Talk Given to 3M Club

FRANKFORD. — The 3M Club of Frankford United Church held its regular meeting in the church hall, Monday evening with a good turnout of Frankfordites, and their guests of the evening, the Wooler Double or Nothing Club.

President Gene Lohnes was in charge of the worship service. The Scripture passage was taken from St. John's gospel.

Gene gave a short talk on "Peace of Heart", Myrtle Poland gave a reading, "Keeping Ahead".

A committee was appointed to look after the coming performance by the "Video-eties" on April 8. The committee, consisting of Orval and Peggy Berry, Jim and Myrtle Poland have full charge of ticket distribution and advertising. Further donations were received toward the purchase of new hymnaries for the church, a gift from the 3M Club.

Guest Speaker

Rev. J. MacEachern introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Lieut. Philip Gardner of the Salvation Army Corps at Trenton. Lieut. Gardner brought an impressive message to the two clubs, speaking on the individual's place for each one in the church, and the place for the Spirit of God in each church-goer. He demonstrated his talk most effectively with a bit of "magic", showing the way in which the Spirit of God can enter a life against seemingly impossible obstacles, but in turn, can be driven out again by counter-forces of evil, and lack of faith.

Preston Chase thanked him for his splendid address.

A short period of recreation was conducted by Frank Terry, Karl Austin's group were the winners of a "Fish" relay. In the song titles contest, all entries were so good, that it was declared a six-way draw.

Ernie Wallace led in a sing-song, at the close of which, grace was sung, and a bountiful buffet-style luncheon was enjoyed. Rev. William Fletcher, of Wooler, pronounced the benediction.

The W.M.C.

The W.M.C. of the Full Gospel Tabernacle held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Clinton Chapman. President, Mrs. Wilbert Reid, welcomed everyone and opened the meeting.

Mrs. Wilbert Reid brought a message on everyone's co-operation and unity, blending together to one end, to glorify God.

Mrs. Gerald Curry read the Prayer Bulletin. Lengthy letters were handed out. Letters were read from Rev. J. Lasseques, of Montreal, expressing thanks for a parcel received. One from Toronto was also read for material. A missionary questionnaire is to be studied for the next meeting.

Work was shown, and this is to be displayed at the Missionary Rally to be held in the Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle, March 9. Attendance was 16. Mrs. Austin Watson dismissed the meeting.

Films Shown

The C.A.'s of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle held their regular meeting in the church on Friday evening. Reg. Solmes led the song service. Rev. Charles Barker, missionary from Trinidad, British West Indies, brought a message from Romans. He mentioned the missionary progress in the different islands, and showed beautiful colored films from the islands. Rev. G. Pierce gave the announcements.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Mansterroll and family, in Trenton.

Mr. Bob Carlisle, of Oshawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlisle.

Mrs. W. A. Robinson of St. Catharines, visited her sister, Mrs. George Halsall, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLeod and family, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Doug Gee and family, in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Patrick, and family, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McFarland, in Trenton.

A number of relatives from out of town, attended the funeral of the late George Manning. Among those attending, was his only daughter, Hejen, of Peterborough.

United Church Mission Band

The Mission Band of Frankford United Church held its regular meeting in the church hall on Monday afternoon, with a fine turnout. The Scripture was taken from the Psalms. Mrs. Poland read a story.

The Mission Band plans to hold a tea in the near future, and further details will appear shortly.

The program consisted of verses, read by Betty Lou Town, Carolyn Carlisle, Jean Caldwell, Margaret Farley, and a piano solo by Mary Fitvak.

RAWDON

Rev. F. E. Honey, Missionary to China, Returns to Canada

RAWDON. — Relatives and friends in Rawdon township will be interested to know that Rev. T. E. Floyd Honey, former missionary to China, has taken over the position of associate secretary of the Board of Overseas Missions of the United Church, under Rev. Dr. David H. Gellagher.

Mr. Honey with his wife and three young daughters, was one of the last United Church missionaries to leave China. They were fortunate in not being imprisoned by the Communists but it took them a full year to get an exit permit and they arrived in Canada early in 1952.

While on furlough Mr. Honey directed a youth caravan under the Board of Christian Education last summer, and since has been travelling with the United Church Expedition.

Born at Wooler

Floyd was born at Wooler, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Honey, while they were serving pastorate there. At present his parents reside at Lindsay, Ontario.

Floyd and his wife, the former Audrey E. Black, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Black, of Brantford, both graduated in theology from Emmanuel College in 1946, with scholarships. Floyd's ordination followed and then the couple were married, after which they both took post-graduate work at the Union Theological Seminary in New York, for two years.

Returning to Canada, Floyd served as a minister on the Baltimore, Ontario, circuit for four years before going to China. He was a member of the teaching staff of West China Theological College at Chengtu.

Spoke Chinese

When the Honey's arrived back in Canada, the two younger daughters, ages five and three years, received a great deal of attention because they could only speak Chinese. However, today the situation is reversed, they now speak English, but have forgotten the Chinese.

Floyd is a first cousin of Mr. Allen Reid, 4th concession, Rawdon, and is well known in this district for his interest in Young People's work.

Stalin Is Seen With Churchill, Truman At Potsdam Conference

P-C Motion Voted Down in House By 151 to 59

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative bid for further reports on defence department administration was voted down Wednesday by the Liberal majority in the Commons, 151 to 59.

It was the latest stage in the battles arising out of the Currie report on the army works services. The Conservatives have been referring to it other reports and basing their charges that the department is inefficiently and extravagantly run.

Associate Defence Minister Campney said Wednesday the new bid would take so much time, occupy so many officials and cover so much territory that it would be virtually impossible to answer it.

It was a request by E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) "for a copy of all reports, findings, recommendations or other conclusions of all investigations or surveys made since June 30, 1948, dealing with the army works services, the Royal Canadian Ordnance Services and/or the administration of the department of national defence on which said investigations or surveys $1 or more was spent."

Mr. Fulton offered to restrict this to reports made to the department by people outside the department but Mr. Campney said he couldn't accept such a change on the spur of the moment. The vote was then called on the original motion.

All three opposition parties and two independents supported Mr. Fulton. The Liberals voted against him.

May Change Name

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's nine normal schools won't be "normal schools much longer. If a bill introduced Wednesday by Education Minister Dunlop is approved by the legislature.

The bill would officially change the name from "normal schools" to "teachers' colleges." Dr. Dunlop said this would bring the status and prestige of the schools in line with recent advancements in the training standards.

CHOSEN CCF CANDIDATE

GALT (CP)—Mrs. Peggy Geens of Preston, mother of a family of six sons, Wednesday night was chosen CCF candidate in Waterloo South for the next federal election.

Living Costs Drop Fifth Of Point in January

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs as reflected by the new consumer price index dropped one-fifth of a point during January to 115.5 from 115.7, the bureau of statistics reported today. It was the third monthly decline in a row.

The January drop, propelled mostly by lower food prices, followed a decline of three-tenths of a point last November and one-tenth of a point in December. The index, based on 1949 prices equaling 100, reached a peak of 118.2 in December, 1951.

But while the consumer price index declined, the cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, continued to rise, increasing by one-half a point to 184.9 from 184.4.

It was the second consecutive monthly increase in this index on which escalator clauses in many wage contracts in Canada are scaled. This statistics increased one-fifth of a point in December. Its peak was 191.5 in December, 1951.

New One More Accurate

However, the bureau considers the new index as more accurate and as the official gauge of price change.

Under the new index, the food group dropped four-fifths of a point in January to 112.7 from 113.5 with lower prices noted for sugar, tea, eggs, oranges, potatoes, tomatoes, lettuce and celery.

These overcame boosts for margarine and some meat cuts.

The shelter column rose to a new high of 122.5 from 122.3. The cost of household operations also rose fractionally to 116.6 from 116.5, slightly below the record of 116.9 in January, 1952.

Clothing eased to 109.8 from 109.7 while the column entitled other commodities and services remained unchanged at the peak of 108.

On the wholesale side, the industrial materials price index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, eased to 238.4 on Feb. 26 from 238.7 on Jan. 30.

The Canadian farm products index, also based on 1935-39, soared to 215.5 from 217.

Scattered price declines were noted for fir timber, while lead, raw rubber, lead, zinc, oats and pepers, overweighed increases for beef hides, raw cotton, tin ingots, wheat and hogs.

Power Probably Will be Divided Among 3 Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith believes that when Stalin dies his power probably will be divided among three men—Molotov, Malenkov and Beria.

The former U.S. ambassador in Moscow, now undersecretary of state, expressed his opinion three years ago in a book called "My Three Years in Moscow."

It was learned reliably at the state department that Smith still feels the same way.

The general wrote in 1950 that V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and L. P. Beria seemed to be sharing the major part of the power delegated by Stalin.

"My own belief," Smith said, "is that when Stalin dies his power will be divided among these men."

Molotov is deputy premier and former foreign minister; Malenkov is secretary of the Soviet Communist party; Beria is chief of the secret police and of atomic development.

Polish Pilot, Fleeing from His Soviet-Dominated Homeland, Lands MIG-15 in Denmark

ROENNE, Denmark (AP) — A Russian-built MIG-15 jet fighter plane was taken at Roenne airport this morning by a Polish pilot fleeing from his Soviet-dominated homeland, police reported.

It is believed to be the first time one of the powerful Red jets —mainstay of the Communist air force in Korea—has been brought intact from the Iron Curtain undamaged.

The pilot asked for political asylum and was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

A heavily-armed military cordon was thrown around the plane. Photographers and reporters were barred.

Danish military chiefs on this strategic Baltic island—only a few minutes flying-time from the Soviet controlled Polish and East German coasts—hurried to the airport to inspect the MIG.

No information was available as to whether the prize jet would be handed over to Allied air force specialists or would be returned to Poland.

Officially Protests

Twice in recent months the Soviet government has officially protested Denmark's participation in the NATO defence arrangement, accusing the little Scandinavian country of taking part in an anti-Russian war plot.

The authoritative British aircraft annual publication, Jane's All the World's Aircraft, says a "fairly complete" MIG-15 was salvaged from enemy waters off the North Korean coast by the Royal Navy in 1951 and was examined by the United States Air Force, but efforts to make the plane airworthy for flight evaluation trials were abandoned.

In London, a British air ministry spokesman said technical data on the construction and performance of the MIG-15s was obtained from the plane recovered in Korea. He added, however, that an examination of the undamaged craft would aid allied technicians.

U.S. Expecting Little Change In Red Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top U.S. state department officials today discounted the chances of any early radical change in Soviet foreign policies under new Kremlin leadership.

Some experts believed that Prime Minister Stalin's removal from power—as disclosed in the official announcement of his illness —might paralyze Soviet operations, for a time and to a degree, because of a probable struggle for the mantle of succession. Many persons in high position consider it likely that Stalin is dead.

The official U. S. attitude was to assume Soviet policies would go along substantially unchanged and that the U. S. must expect to fight the hot war in the Far East and the cold war elsewhere for an indefinite period.

However, U. S. authorities recognize that in the long run a change of dictators could profoundly affect Russia's world aims and her methods of seeking to realize them.

They also point out that Stalin has been not only the leader of Soviet communism for 29 years but has grown into a symbol of communist unity and power.

There was speculation here that with his disappearance from the role of active leader any other person would for a long time find it impossible to exercise the same attractions for Stalin's followers.

FLU CLOSES SCHOOLS

DUNDAS (CP)—An influenza epidemic in this town near Hamilton forced the closing of schools Wednesday. Dr. C. L. Bates, acting medical officer of health, ordered the Dundas High, Public and Separate schools to close until Monday because $50 students—one-quarter of the enrolment—are sick. Dr. Bates urged parents to keep their children away from public functions.

Cautious Military Policies Dictated by Sudden Crisis

By KELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will be near-cautious to avoid sudden changes in military policy which might alarm either the Soviet Union or U. S. Allies during any transition in the Russian regime.

This became apparent today as the U. S. defence department weighed each bit of information about Joseph Stalin and consulted frequently with the state department.

Two potentially-dangerous situations were seen if the U. S. military, for any reason, should make major changes in armed force strength or disposition of troops at this time:

1. If the U. S. should start an abrupt buildup of strength on the belief the danger of war was increasing because of Russia's internal situation, a new and inexperienced regime in Russia might seize upon this as a pretext for launching "preventive" war.

2. If there was a decision to cut down the U. S. armed forces, for reasons either international or domestic, the Soviet Kremlin and Allies might interpret that as meaning the U. S. believed the danger was gone with the departure of Stalin from power.

There was disposition in U. S. military quarters, as there was among some Congress members, to feel that a live and active Stalin has been a restraining factor which held Russia back from any military adventures.

Those who argued that way did not seek to say that Stalin was any less guilty of other dark deeds of diplomacy and duplicity, but only that he appreciated the danger of embarking on warfare for his goals.

Even if a new Russian leader of professed moderate or peaceful intentions should come to power—and the names of no such persons appeared among the probable candidates—the U. S. would be loath to reverse immediately from its present policy of full military readiness.

U. S. military leaders, with bitter experience in dealing with Russians after the Second World War, want deeds instead of words from Russia to demonstrate peaceful intentions—stopping Soviet aid to Red China and North Korea, agreement to atomic arms control by inspection.

Workers Paid Less Than Govt. Took in Taxes

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian automobile workers were paid less in 1952 to build motor vehicles produced in Canada than the federal government collected in sales and excise taxes on them, D. C. Gaskin, president of the Studebaker Corporation of Canada and of the Canadian Automotive Chamber of commerce, said Wednesday.

He told the Advertising and Sales Club here that federal taxes totalled $138,487,863 while the 36,000 workers in the industry were paid $131,092,275.

He said 84 per cent of Canadian automobile driving is essential.

SHOCK TREATMENT

EDINBURGH (CP)—As part of a plan to protect stocks of salmon and trout, electric "barriers" are to being laid in streams that are being developed for electric power. Electrodes sending electric impulses will guide the fish away from turbine intakes.

Van Fleet Appears to Favor Smashing Allied Offensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. with the Rouse foreign affairs committee, chairman Robert Chiperfield (Rep., Ill.) reported Van Fleet had said U. S. troops could be pulled out of Korea in numbers only after a military victory placed the army on a shortened defence line which could be held by the South Koreans.

Achieving a shorter defence line in Korea would mean driving to the narrow waist of the peninsula, north of the North Korean capital city of Pyongyang. Such a line would be almost half the width of the present line which closely follows the 38th parallel.

Chiperfield described Van Fleet as being "emphatic in stating that the war in Korea must end in nothing short of victory—anything short of that would be defeat — peace in the Orient would require the unification of all, or almost all, of Korea."

Van Fleet blueprinted no sure way to victory in Korea except by armed force.

Tax Division Has $5,052,000 In Unclaimed Money

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax division has $5,052,000 in unclaimed cheques to deliver to the proper people, Michael Starr (PC—Oshawa) was informed Wednesday in a government reply.

It showed that unclaimed cheques dating back over the last few years were in the possession of various department of government are worth roughly $5,400,000 with the great bulk of that consisting of cheques in the hands of the tax division.

They presumably are tax refunds which have never been claimed.

Expert Reads Moscow Reports To Indicate Fight for Power

If Stalin's successors are sincere, the West can look for a most cautious regime while he consolidates himself. But if the successors—a regime, in fact, which could be almost completely overthrown—have made no changes with his power.

Malenkov is said among the younger element in the Communist party. Stalin is the last of the powerful old Bolsheviks. Those who hold more or less honorary posts in the top hierarchy do not matter. The rest of the Bolsheviks were purged out of existence by Stalin himself to secure his own power.

Even the word "bolshevik has disappeared officially. It is a word which suggests revolutionaries. But in a country where a small privileged class—6,000,000 or 7,000,000 Communist party members—has entrenched itself, revolutionaries are no longer wanted.

Many Executed

As it was with Lenin, so it is with Stalin. There are many in the Soviet Republic who will welcome his passing just as Stalin apparently welcomed the death of Lenin. He was impatient for power. Those under him now are impatient.

But much more than ever now if Malenkov wins out, the Soviet Union may be expected to take no chances with a step which might lead to the destruction of a war, which it might not survive. His fifth columns will continue their work through the world. But Malenkov is a man who likes a cheap victory and will retreat when it is necessary to make himself wholly secure.

Krupp Industrial Empire Broken Up by Govt.

BONN, Germany (AP)—The vast Krupp industrial empire which armed Germany for three wars was broken up Wednesday. Alfried Krupp agreed to sell his family's coal, steel and iron holdings and, in effect, to leave industries.

Krupp, who served 2½ years as a war criminal, will receive $47,800,000 for the properties he sells. In return the Allies will give him bonds worth only $14,800,000 in family holdings, estimated to be worth $200,000,000.

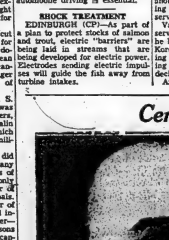
The holdings he retains still will leave him one of Europe's greatest manufacturers of steel products. They include plants making all everything from steel tubes, pipes and plumbing, trucks and locomotives to ocean-going tankers.

Confiscated by Allies

Once worth nearly $500,000,000, the sprawling industrial empire was confiscated by the Allies when Germany was defeated and then a U. S. war crimes tribunal in 1948 of using slave labor and plundering occupied countries. Sentenced to 12 years, he was freed in 1951 by former U. S. high commissioner John J. McCloy as an act of mercy.

The plan to sell off the coal, steel and iron properties was worked out directly with Krupp by Britain, U. S., and France. The West German government declined to guarantee that Krupp would not try to buy back into these industries.

Justice Minister Denies Suggestion By Left-Wingers



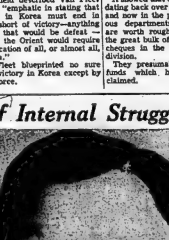
OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson denied Wednesday suggestions by left-wing groups that the United States influenced the Canadian government in proposing amendments to the Criminal Code.

Mr. Garson made the denial following verbal and written testimony by the League for Democratic Rights, the Congress of Canadian Women and the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America before a special Commons committee.

The league has been described as Communist-inspired. The electrical workers union was expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor several years ago as being Communist-dominated.

C. S. Jackson of Toronto, president of the electrical workers, and Mrs. Rae M. Luckock of Toronto, president of the congress, both indicated belief that U. S. got pressure on Canada to tighten treason and sedition laws.

Central Figures Of Internal Struggle To Succeed Stalin



Lavrenti P. Beria

With Joseph Stalin dying, if not now dead, in Moscow, the world anxiously speculates upon the successor to his power as head of the U.S.S.R. and leader of a Communist alliance embracing 800 million people in the Kremlin's politburo. There is no indication how this question is being, or has been, settled. It is conceded, however, that an internal struggle is under way for power.

Georgi Malenkov

Vyacheslav M. Molotov

If handman of Stalin: Vyacheslav M. Molotov, 61, the foreign affairs expert, with the ominous figure of the Soviet secret police chief, Lavrenti P. Beria, 52, in the background. Though Stalin was a symbol of all the anguish of the cold war period that followed World War II, his death or incapacitation might signify an end to Soviet policy than some of his associates in the politburo.

Nikita S. Khrushchev

Stalin should die or prove incapable of carrying on as prime minister, the struggle could shape up as a battle between Georgi Malenkov, 50, dour right-hand of Stalin; Nikita S. Khrushchev, 58, Communist party secretary; Lazar M. Kaganovich, 59, Jewish member of the politburo, and Nikolai A. Bulganin, 57, minister of defence.

Government Birthplace

Birthplace of Representative Govt. in Upper Canada, Simcoe House, Now Infested With Rats

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Only rats now live in historic Simcoe House, birthplace of representative government in Upper Canada.

Within the walls of the little white house, now strewn with rubble, Governor John Graves Simcoe of Upper Canada first met with his executive council in 1792.

Many years later Kingston, city with a proud historic background, hailed Simcoe House as a shrine and took steps towards its preservation.

Recorded on Plaque

A plaque was erected above the doorway now broken and boarded. It read:

"In this house Governor John Graves Simcoe and his executive council met for the first time in 1792 and inaugurated representative government for Upper Canada.

"The house was moved to this site in 1935—its preservation has been made possible by E. Chown and Son Limited—Kingston Historical Society — Kingston Kiwanis Club."

But today behind the plaque the rooms of Simcoe House are littered with cardboard cartons, old rags and dirty papers. Sunlight streams through gaping cracks in the roof and the wind whistles through smashed windows.

Harry Hollywood, in charge of the civic skating rink built beside Simcoe House, told a reporter-of seeing rats 18 inches long about the house.

As he spoke, a teen-age girl looked in at the doorway and asked: "When are you going to tear this place down? If you don't do it soon it will fall down."

Moved Three Times

But Simcoe House has an impressive history. R. A. Preston, secretary of the Kingston Historical Society, says the house was one of three brought to Kingston from Carleton Island, at the head of the St. Lawrence river, in 1783. The island was a British base and an attack by United States forces was feared. In Kingston the house was occupied by the garrison commander.

In 1868 the building was moved again to a second site within the city and finally in 1935 it was rolled to its present location—the former Kiwanis Square, a playground for children.

Local historians are "reasonably certain" that the executive council held its first meeting in Simcoe House but one family claims that the property where the first meeting was held was bought by one of their ancestors, Joseph Vallieres.

Unusual Construction

The old house has an ancient and unusual construction. Its beams or joists radiate like the struts in a barn, leaving open spaces which have been filled with rubble and mortar for insulation.

When the Kiwanis Club relinquished its lease on the playground to an all company, it agreed to undertake movement of the house to a fourth site in Macdonald Park, near Murney Tower. High cost of the move has delayed the project but Kiwanis Club officials say that $1,500 has been set aside for the task and it will be attempted before the spring.

Meanwhile Simcoe House stands empty and unattended. In one of the lower rooms—there are two on the ground floor and three on the second—a colored print of the Fathers of Confederation lies trampled and torn in the dust.

London Puts Ban On Stage Hypnotists

LONDON (AP)—The London county council voted a ban Tuesday night on stage hypnotics. Dr. Somerville Hastings who proposed it said: "I look upon stage hypnotism as a denigration and blackening of human personality, for people under the sympotic state make fools of themselves against their will for amusement of those present at an entertainment."

DIES AFTER OPERATION

OSHAWA (CP)—Ralph Vine, 53, of Nestleton died in Oshawa General Hospital Tuesday of an internal hemorrhage 22 hours after a tonsillectomy. The boy's father, Herbert Vine, said a doctor operated at Port Perry Monday and hemorrhaging began during the afternoon.

Private Stations Seek Television In Seven Cities

OTTAWA (CP) — Licences soon will be sought for privately-owned television stations in seven Canadian cities.

Applications for the licences have been filed with the 11-member CBC board of governors by companies in Hamilton, London, Sudbury, Windsor, Quebec City, Saint John, and Sydney, N. S.

The board announced Tuesday that it will hear representations on the applications at a public meeting March 27. But the board cautioned it may not make immediate recommendations on the applications.

It said it will be prepared to postpone action on the applications if there are others who wish to apply for TV stations in the same area.

Niagara Television Limited applied for a TV station in Hamilton. The company is composed of three firms now operating radio stations in Hamilton—Maple Leaf Broadcasting Company, Wentworth Broadcasting Company and the Hamilton Spectator.

The London application came from the London Free Press Printing Company Limited, operator of station CFPL in London.

The Sudbury licence is sought by station CKSO of Sudbury. The Windsor application came from Western Ontario Broadcasting Company Limited, operator of station CKLW.

Peoples' Prayers With Russians Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower expressed his sympathy to the Russian people today in commenting on the serious illness of Prince Minister Stalin.

Eisenhower voiced hope in a statement that God will watch over the Soviet peoples "regardless of the identity of government personalities."

The text of the statement:

"At this moment in history when multitudes of Russians are anxiously concerned because of the illness of the Soviet ruler the thoughts of America go out to all the peoples of the U. S. S. R.—the men and women, the boys and girls—in the villages, cities, farms and factories of their homeland.

"They are the children of the same God who is the Father of all peoples everywhere. And like all peoples, Russia's millions share our longing for a friendly and peaceful world.

"Regardless of the identity of government personalities, the prayer of us Americans continues to be that the Almighty will watch over the people of that vast country and bring them, in His wisdom, opportunity to live their lives in a world where all men and women and children dwell in peace and comradeship."

SIX ESCAPE FIRE

MOUNT FOREST (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Vermeesch and their four children escaped Tuesday when fire levelled a farm house on the 9th concession of Caradoc township. They were tenants on the farm owned by H. Whiting. Loss was estimated at $5,000.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

Assistance FOR WORRIED EXECUTORS

WHEN a relative or friend names you in his Will as Executor of his Estate, the time will come, (if you survive him), when the problems of administering his estate will be all yours to worry about.

If you are a busy man or inexperienced in estate administration, you will find that the many details and problems involved will be more than you can handle with justice to the estate, the heirs, or to yourself.

Should you find yourself in this position, appoint The Royal Trust Company as your Agent to administer the estate with you. This would relieve you of practically all the work and annoyance and much of the responsibility.

Conversely, in consideration for the friend you might appoint in your own Will, be sure to name The Royal Trust Company as Executor of your estate to act alone or with a friend as Co-executor.

Brownies Not For 'Beer Town'

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—A new move to shift the St. Louis Browns' baseball franchise to Milwaukee before the start of the 1953 season ran into a road block Tuesday, and influential parties on both sides agreed there's no chance of it immediately.

The Milwaukee franchise in the American Association is owned by Boston Braves, who don't want to sell. The Braves were offered $500,000 compensation to move their Milwaukee club to Toledo, an open territory, but Lou Perini, president of the Braves, said 'no.'

Bill Veeck, head of the Browns, is eager to move and Milwaukee is beckoning him with a $5,000,000 stadium, but the Braves aren't willing to get out unless they can pick up an equal franchise elsewhere.

"We wouldn't stand in the way of Milwaukee getting into the major league," said Joseph Cairnes, executive vice-president of the Braves. "But before we give up the franchise we want a triple franchise with the same potential."

Bad for Juveniles, Ban Candy Cigarets

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — The North Dakota house of representatives voted 82-39 Tuesday to outlaw the sale of candy cigarets in the state. Representative Arto Scegel something we consider their Link said candy cigarets "educate the small fry of America."

Favorites Beaten In Opening Round Badminton Play

TORONTO (CP)—Fourth-seeded Bruce Benham and Dave McTaggart of Vancouver were eliminated from men's doubles play Wednesday night in the only upset of opening day at the Canadian badminton championships.

The Vancouverites, pre-match favorites to advance easily into the third round, were beaten 15-8, 15-12 by P. Ferguson and G. Conwath of Woodstock.

Otherwise, the seeded players led the way in all events.

By an Eyes

The top-seeded singles stars—Don Smythe of Toronto, Darell Thompson and McTaggart of Vancouver, and Gordon Simpson of Montreal got through the first round on byes, then moved without trouble through the second and third.

Others who advanced into the fourth-round quarter-finals are Vancouverites John Brock and Benham, Jack Muir and Bev Westcott of Toronto.

Two rounds of women's singles were completed, reducing the field of 30 to eight. Top-seeded Marge Shedd of Toronto and Clare Lovett, Joan Bardsley and Lois Reid of Vancouver all qualified without difficulty.

Others who advanced to the quarter-finals were Helen Doig and Norma McKean of Montreal and Doreen Walker and Joan Hennessy of Toronto.

Marjorie Mapp of Montreal, last year's women's singles champion, did not enter the 1953 competition.

Ferguson was defeated in the third round of men's singles by G. Simpson of Montreal, 15-6, 15-3. H. Ransom of Woodstock went out to D. Smith of Toronto in the first round, 15-9, 14-18, 15-8.

F. Cartmell of Niagara Falls, Ont., won his first-round match from R. Jackson of Calgary, 15-8, 15-12.

In the third round of men's doubles, R. Smith and T. Pollock, Woodstock, defeated A. Phillips and T. Matheson, Winnipeg, 15-10, 15-2. Ferguson and Conwath lost to T. Elliot and B. McNight, Saint John, N.B., 15-4, 15-12 in the same round.

In the second round of women's singles, D. Walker, Toronto, defeated A. Hepworth, Woodstock, 11-4, 11-5.

Brundage May Cancel Trip To Australia

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Avery Brudage, chairman of the International Olympic Committee, said here Wednesday that in view of rather discouraging reports of Australia's preparation for the 1956 games, he is considering cancelling his plans for a trip to Melbourne.

He has air line reservations for Friday and had planned to look over the Olympic Games setup in Australia and to see what preparations have been made.

But after reading a report from Melbourne by Arthur Coles, chairman of the organizing committee, Brundage told The Associated Press: "It doesn't appear to be necessary for me to go down there if they aren't able to settle the matter among themselves." He expects to make his final decision today.

Coles had remarked: "If he (Brundage) came out now, there would be nothing to show him. All we could do would be to put him in a plane and fly him over the Melbourne cricket ground, and say 'there it is ,the finest cricket ground in the world.'"

Nothing has been done about housing athletes and other Olympic visitors.

Black Hawks Grab Third Place But Position May Be Only Temporary One

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A GOOD ONE FOR THE GOODIES

Just what vitamin Coach Johnny Carr-Harris of the Kingston Goodyears injects into his squad is a deep dark secret, but the fact remains the Limestone lads'boys came up with the best performance seen on Belleville ice to hoist the Glen Rays a decisive setback last night.

The Glens, on the other hand, had about as much color as a two-year old government building flag. They couldn't do a thing right, their passing was bad and while they didn't get anything resembling a break they came up with one of the poorest displays of the season.

The speedy Kingston forwards ripped through the Glen defence time and again and only the outstanding work of Tony Farisi prevented the score from mounting. Johnson at the other end was good, too, but the Glens were either outfinished or missed the net or bounced around by a pocket goal-mouth defence of the Goodyears.

On the other side of the picture the Goodies couldn't do a thing wrong. Their passes were laid down like an army order, their shooting was deadly and they took the fullest advantage of every opportunity and break that came their way.

The Glens scored a goal late in the third heat that was disallowed because it appeared Referee Heffering was a little whistle-happy. The puck was ripped into the net by Clayton Ellis Wills breasted heavily on his pincole a second before the rubber went in. He called it back, and that was final.

The Glens must win the fifth tilt in Kingston tomorrow night or they will be heavily favored to replace the goat in the mothballs. The win here last night gives the Goodies a decided advantage since they have at least two more games in Kingston than here. But the Glens will have to shake-up over'is wrong with 'em if they want to remain in this sizzling hockey set.

QUACK QUIP

The other is all set. All friendship betwixt the Ontario Provincial Police and Belleville Fire Department has been temporarily suspended, and other actors in the annual Shrine Club Police - Firemen hockey drama are heading for the wings.

Sheriff Ira, besides the hockey game, clowns, the Trenton SCAF Trumpet Band, Quinte Skating Club stars and last, but not least, the presentation of trophies to minor hockey winners.

Included in the presentation will be the Ontario Intermediate trophy to E. Stellker, Juvenile; the CJBQ trophy to Bert MacDonald, peewees; the Daw Whalen trophy to Gary Little, midgets; the Pat Boland trophy to Bob Wannamaker, bantams, and the Hugh Hurst Memorial trophy to Charles Kingston. The first four trophies are "most outstanding player" awards and the fifth to the outstanding team in division. The presentations will take place between the second and third periods.

During the second-third period interim, the Quinte Skating Club stars will take over. Included are: The Misses Joan Doyle and "Jackie" Woodcock, who do "stories"; Wylie Wiffman and Pudsey Hall, clarinet; Mary Rose McNally, stogie and a skit "The Gingham Dolls," which includes Carol Pinkwell, Mary Lou Cook, Margaret Arnott, Barbara Simmons, Mary Pearce, Ardell Hunter, Shirley Fox and Willa Wilkes. Barbara Shaver and Gordon Davies are the conveners.

Clowns Will perform in a comedy riot so ll looks like "a good time in the old town tonight."

President H. R. Storey of the Belleville Shrine Club, extends a cordial invitation to the public to enjoy the fun. All proceeds go to the Shrine Crippled Kiddies Fund.

BEST OF LUCK!

Proud champions of COSSA senior "A" basketball, the gold and black jerseyed court warriors of Albert College seek further honors on Saturday in Toronto where they participate in the Ontario Federation of Secondary Schools provincial championships.

Coach Johnny Hayman and COSSA secretary "Pete" Booth are proud of their charges and feel confident they will return with their second title of the year. The team is in excellent shape and has been bolstered with Bruce Vaughan and Jack Teagher, junior squad stars. Vaughan, six foot four, the tallest man on the squad, hails from Tilsonburg. Teagher, five foot six, is from Kingston.

While there are no George Mikans on the team, the players average six feet in height. The "shortest" is Archie Brown of Port Severn, Ont., who tips the beam at 5.8.

The team is a representative one. From Toronto comes Murray Block (6.01) Bert Faulkner (6.1) and George Chase (5.11). Vaughan and Larry Burk (5.11) hail from Tulsa, Owen Sound King (6.6) comes from London: Blake Harris (6.1) from Barrie; Mike Geets (6.3) from Upper Cliff; Spencer Balmer (5.10) from Three Rivers, Quebec; Norm Hazlehurst from Hanna, Ont; Mal Black 5.10) from Timmins; Gerry Springer (5.9) from Kingston.

And looking over that roster you will find not a few names whose owners scintillated on the football team that won Albert its first COSSA championship last year.

Albert meets the winner of the NOSSA at one o'clock and should they win this one, meet the winner of the WOSSA-ROSSA in the final at 8 p.m. In the event of their being defeated in the first game they will meet the loser of the second in a consolation final at six o'clock.

Defeat New York Rangers 4-1 To Take Point Lead Over Leafs; All Teams See Action Tonight

By The Canadian Press

Chicago Black Hawks grabbed possession of third place Wednesday night, routing the tail-end New York Rangers 4-1, but their position may be only temporary as all National Hockey League teams see action tonight.

The Black Hawks have a scant one-point lead over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs, whom they meet at Chicago in one of three games tonight.

In the other games, Detroit Red Wings, who are almost assured of the championship, play the New Rangers at Detroit. The second-place Montreal Canadiens will go against the Bruins, who are fifth, at Boston.

Jim McFadden Gets Two

Jim McFadden led Chicago's attack against New York with two second-period markers, giving the Black Hawks a 4-0 lead. Bill Mosienko and Gus Kyle each counted in the opening period. Rookie Ron Murphy robbed Chicago goalie Al Rollins of a shutout about midway through the final period.

Only 4,372 fans saw the game.

With Detroit safely in first spot with 71 points and the Canadiens holding second comfortably with 60, tonight's NHL spotlight will be on the next three teams, whose positions are separated by only three points.

The last-place Rangers appear to be out of it.

Toronto has 58 points and will be running to overtake the Black Hawks. In the event the Maple Leafs lose, the fifth-place Bruins are in position to advance into a tie for fourth place with Toronto.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Charlie Conacher practically clinched the National Hockey League scoring championship 18 years ago tonight when he scored three of Toronto's 10 goals against Montreal Canadiens. Conacher wound up the 1934-35 season with 31 points on 36 goals and 21 assists for his second consecutive scoring championship.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

By The Canadian Press

Jim McFadden, who scored two goals Wednesday night as Chicago Black Hawks handed New York Rangers a 4-1 National Hockey League defeat.

Nineteen Stars To Attend Celebrity Dinner

TORONTO (CP)—Nineteen oldtimes and modern stars from 19 sports make up the list of notables for tonight's second annual sports celebrities dinner of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association.

Proceeds of the $25-a-plate dinner which serves as an opening publicity kick-off for the country-wide Easter seals campaign, go to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. Revenue is expected to be about $15,000. At its first dinner the association raised $10,820.

Emphasis in the guest list is on the old stars. Among them are George Goulding of Toronto and Bill Sherring of Hamilton, track stars early in the century. Another is Willie Hoppe, for many years world billiard king.

Three old hockey stars will be on hand: Frank Nighbor, the Pembroke Peach whose deft poke-check contributed to success of the old Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League and the former National Hockey Association; and defenceman Cling Johnson and left wing Bushy Jackson, members of The Canadian Press NHL-all-star team of 1931-32.

Other notables are: Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion; George Selkirk, George Toporcer and George McQuinn from baseball; Otto Graham of Cleveland Browns' fame, football star; Ernie Howard of Toronto who, 10 days ago, became the first Canadian to win the United States squash championship; Bobby Pearce, Joe Wright, Jr., and Jack Guest, Sr., Canada's three living Diamond Sculls winners; Marshall Cassidy, leading New York Racing official; Horton Smith, head of the Professional Golfers Association of the U. S.

Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener golfer who was chosen by the association as Ontario's outstanding athlete of 1952, will receive a plaque commemorating the award.

Seated among the guests will be 12-year-old Bruce McGregor, this year's "Timmy," symbol of the drive for the crippled children. Bruce, who comes from Vermonville, about 70 miles east of Toronto, is a five-year fight against paralysis.

Barrie Edges Marlies in Overtime; Galt Wins in Junior 'A' Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

It wasn't as easy as the experts predicted when the three favored Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams Wednesday night won their first rounds of the playoffs.

It took Barrie Flyers an overtime period on home ice to defeat Toronto Marlboros 2-1 and Galt Black Hawks also needed overtime to down the visiting Oshawa Generals 5-4. Toronto St. Michael's, under less pressure, won 4-1 from St. Catharines Teepees in regulation time at Toronto.

Barrie now has a 1-0 lead in its best-of-seven semi-final series with Marlboros and St. Michael's and Galt have 1-0 leads in their best-of-five quarter-finals.

Minnie To Go

After a scoreless first period in Barrie Billy Harris sent Marlboros ahead 1-0 at the eight-minute mark of his second. Little Tony Poeta tied the game for Flyers in the third. Don McKenney fired the winner one minute before the end of the overtime period. The Dukes play the Flyers in Toronto Saturday in the second game.

In Toronto, neither team scored in the first period. St. Michael's was ahead 3-1 by the end of the second and added another in the last. Captain Bill Dineen paced the Collegians with two goals. The others were by Ed Plata and Jack Caffery. St. Catharines broke Ed Chadwick's shutout when Brian Cullen scored in the second. St. Catharines travels to Toronto for the second game Sunday.

Until Ken Wharram's overtime goal won for the Black Hawks, the game against Oshawa was a tossup. Rick Collin sent the Generals into a 1-0 first-period lead but John Mudder and Minnie Menard put Galt ahead. Oshawa again pulled ahead in the second when Bob Mader scored two and Bob Attersley one. Frank Borello pulled the Flyers to within one goal of Generals. In the third period Menard slammed in his second of the night to tie it up for Hawks. In the extra period, Wharram scored the winning goal. Oshawa will be the scene of the second game Saturday.

Stamps Thump Canucks 7-1

By The Canadian Press

Calgary Stampeders tightened their hold on third place in the Western Hockey League by thumping Vancouver Canucks 7-1 Wednesday.

Ray Barry paced the Stamps with three goals. Pat Lundy fired two while Gus Kyle and George Agar notched singles. Walt Atanas scored for Vancouver.

A three-goal effort by Don Slater and a last-minute goal by Jackie Hamilton enabled New Westminster Royals to down Tacoma Rockets 4-2. Wayne Brown and Adam Mcttled the Tacoma goals.

Kingston Defeats Glen Roys 7-3; Take Game Edge In Series

Were Full Value for Victory In Fourth Game Before 2,200; Glens' Defensive Play Ragged

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Kingston Goodyears, playing inspired hockey, took full advantage of a team that couldn't get untracked and handed the Glen Roys a decisive 7-3 defeat here last night to take a game edge in the senior "B" semi-finals playoff series.

The Goodyears lead the series with two wins, a defeat and a tie, and a victory in Kingston on Friday night would establish them strong favorites to cop the semi-finals and meet the winners of the Oshawa-Stouffville series over under way.

The Goodyears were full value for their victory. They leaped into a terrific offensive at the start and ripped through the Glen Roys' defensive almost at will to take a 2-0 early lead.

They maintained the fast clip in the second heat and slashed home four more goals before the Glens broke the ice at period end. The homesters grabbed some sort of belated life in the latter part of the third period to score twice, but it was too little and too late and the Goodies skated off with a well-deserved win under their belts.

Seven Penalties

The game was cleanly played with Referees Maurice Walsh and Lee Heffering handing out eleven penalties and strangely enough eight of them fell to the Goodyears. All of them were minors, and one or two of the cheap variety.

Jack White paced the Kingston offensive with two goals and an assist with Clint Tinkess coming up with a pair. Wm. Gerow got one and one with MacGregor and Nicholson contributing the rest. Jerry Dendinger was the lone bright spot for the Glens potting a pair with Bob Micheliff getting the odd one.

The Glens scored a fourth goal late in the third period when Vern Goyer slashed in the puck but Referee Walsh, a little whistle-happy, tooted his instrument a split second before the puck made into the net. For what reason nobody seemed to know. Peter Gow and "Red" Johnson were scoring stars of the series thus far in the Glens' seven minutes in the penalty box. Peter was "called" all night by a Goodyear supporter while "Red" was the target for night with a choice selection of body checks.

Tony Farid came up with another outstanding performance and the Glens can thank the youngster for the score being what it was. Glen defensive play was one of the worst seen this year and the boys apparently could not get their sights and bodies lined at the right time. The speedy Goodyear front lines swept through to Farid's doorstep time after time with little opposition. The Glens passing was away off and when in close the Goodyears packed the goal-mouth with scrap-shooters' huddle.

The Glens flashed some action late in the third period when they used three men with the wolved. They hemmed in the Goodies who were caught in their end and Johnson and his defence mates held them down to two markers. But the damage was done and that was that.

Score Early

The crowd scarcely settled down when Joe Watts, Goodyear defenceman got the gate for interference and the Glens rushed to the attack. They were overanxious and a double later MacGregor, speedy Goodyear forward broke into the clear and raced in to score. And a few seconds later he nearly duplicated the feat. Johnson juggled Wardhaugh's hot drive, but the Goodies came back and Farid kicked out three stickers from in front.

Vern Goyer slipped into the clear and rocked Johnson but Nicholson deftly finally tripped him as he got his shot away, and earned a two-minute sentence.

While, Farris and Gerow engineered a pay-off drive that saw the puck [illegible] slide to the winger made [illegible] stake to put the Goodyears [illegible].

Jack White made it 3-0 after two minutes of the second period on a pass from Myke and on the return Johnson came out of his net 30 feet to check Herring. MacGregor "flew" back and tipped a goalmouth pass to Nicholson and the red light flashed 4-0. Wardhaugh was in alone but Gower threw him off stride and his shot bounced off Johnson's pads.

The Goodyears ganged their forces and Jack White scored a second goal, heaving the puck over the prostrate body of Farid to increase the margin.

Break Key

Jerry Desjardins finally broke the scoring ice for the Glens hurling the rubber into the net after Nicholson had drawn a penalty. It was the hottest drive of the night by the Glens. MacGregor finally broke away again but his shot missed the net by two feet.

The Glens, now desperate, staged drive after drive in the third period and Doran-Jones combination was buried back by Johnson. Then came a break for the Goodyears. A Glen pass bounced in pass off a referee's leg and the puck went straight to Don Johnson's stick, the form in and slipped Tinkess the pass and the score was 7-1.

The Glens belated drive paid off with two goals, and they had to swarm all over the Kingston defence to get them. Micheliff scored the second Glen marker from Doug Batesko's pass and four minutes later Desjardins got his second tally of the night with Day and Micheliff lend getting assists. Goyer scored the fifth goal was called back. The Glens were battling desperately at the end and the gong was forced to repeat before the troops called it a night.

'Big Jim's' Pal Seriously Ill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sailor Tom Sharkey, once the keenest ring rival of James J. Jeffries and later his closest pal, is seriously ill in hospital here.

So ill, in fact, he has not been advised of the death of Jeffries Tuesday night. The full significance of the passing of the old champion possibly would not be clear to Sharkey.

Sharkey will be 80 next Nov. 26.

Sailor Tom is still fighting the battle of life but in a feeble way. He entered the hospital last Aug. 1, a penniless elderly man who asked no favors. Financial aid from friends came in and it brought cheer to the man who gave Mc Jeff his two toughest fights.

Buffalo Bisons Virtually Oust Providence Reds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, the "never-say-die" club of the American Hockey League, defeated Providence Reds 6-4 Wednesday night and just about wiped out all hopes the Reds had of getting in the playoffs.

The clubs traded goals in the first period. The Bisons broke the game up in the second session with three markers.

Cal Mackay paced the winners with two goals. Other Buffalo marksmen were Bob Fryday, Jim Conacher, Gene Achtymichuk and Merve Davis.

Alf Baccari, with two, Barry Sullivan and Paul Gladu tallied for the losers.

Cleveland Barons shaded Syracuse Warriors 3-1. The victory gave league-leading Cleveland a four-point edge over second place Pittsburgh Hornets.

Barry Pilchuck opened the scoring for Syracuse in the first period but two goals by Steve Wochy and Glen Sonmor were enough for the Barons' win.

Hawks Await Verdict On John Casey's Injury

An infected hand may have a lot to do with the writing of Belleville Black Hawks' junior hockey players' epitaph. The axe will the opener of their first game of the final series with Kingston Vics here Saturday night.

John Casey, right winger still of juvenile days is the victim of the infection. Casey, whom coach Jack Bowles called the most dangerous forward in the league inside the opposition blue line, had the mit lanced yesterday and may not be able to dress for the Saturday tussle.

In such an event, Barrett will use Wayne Bovay and Sherman Brant on the third line with Ray Hermiston. Should Casey be pronounced fit, however, either Bovay or Brant will sit this one out.

Manager Bill Cook announced the rest of the team in top condition after a Wednesday night workout.

Manitoba, Only Unbeaten Rink In Curling Championships

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUDBURY (CP)—The curling history of 14 years ago is repeating.

In 1938 a little-known skip named Ab Gowanlock brought a small-town rink from Glenboro, Man., to Winnipeg, won the provincial championship and for the first time took a non-Winnipeg crew to the Canadian curling championships.

That rink won the Canadian title, top event of the bonspiel season, in nine straight games.

This year, Gowanlock, now well-known, brought another small-town rink, this time from Dauphin, to the Manitoba championships, won, and came here to try for Manitoba's 14th victory in the event, now in its 24th year.

Ab, now 52, has a young rink and in pre-spiel speculation was expected to be the strongest contenders. Living up to predictions, the Dauphin four have won six straight games. Around Sam Pezzelo's centers, Gowanlock is touted to win his second personal victory.

If he does, it will also be Manitoba's second victory in a row. Civil duty

Gowanlock, one of the coolest skips in the game, piloted his rink to the playoff hopes as they entered

In the morning fifth round the Manitoba crew edged Reg Stone's BC foursome 10-9 while at night he led them to a 13-8 win over Ontario, which for a time appeared as if it might be the spoiler of the round-robin event.

Manitoba won the morning game when Gowanlock threw in a perfect draw shot in the 12th end with the score 10-8, knocking out one Fred stone and holding the BC count to one.

In the evening round a blowup by the Chatham, Ont., crew in the middle ends gave Gowanlock the break he needed. The Ontario rink missed several knockout shots in the seventh, eighth and ninth, and Gordon Gilbert, vice-skip shots last, missed draw shots which had been sitting in perfectly earlier in the day.

The up-and-coming crew from Wednesday's play was the Montreal St. George's rink skipped by Ken Weldon, representing Quebec. They racked up two victories to give them a 4-1 record and shove them into second place.

In the morning Ken Weldon quartet knocked off Northern Ontario 10-3, the win coming in the last end. Going into the 12th the score was tied 5-5. Quebec had two in Dauphin skip, missed a draw shot which gave the round to the Montreal aggregation.

It was as close at night when the Quebec team came out on top of a 10-9 score with Len Haw's Calgary lads, representing Alberta, who lost 10-8 to Ontario in the afternoon.

In the night's sixth round the Weldon team steadied down and downed the Alberta crew a few battles. A two count in each of the eighth, ninth and 11th put the Montreal four into contention for the championship.

Two games—one in the fifth and another in the sixth round—required an extra end.

At night the British Columbia-Nova Scotia game went into the 13th with the score tied 8-8. Reg Stone, skilful B.C. skip, drew to four ounces of the button and made it for a one-point margin and a 9-8 victory.

New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island had put on practically the same show in the afternoon. Tied 8-8, New Brunswick had two in the house and Frank Acorn, the Charlottetown skip, missed his shot. It went trough the house giving the Moncton rink a 9-8 win.

Saskatchewan split the day's play equally winning the fifth-round match with New Brunswick 17-6. But in the morning they lost to Barney Haines, the veteran skip from Bridgewater, N. S., in 11 ends.

Newfoundland had the afternoon bye, but in the sixth round lost its fifth straight game to Northern Ontario 10-16. Going into the final end, it was Ontario, Newfoundland, with the Port Arthur boys needing, but in the house after the final rock was tossed, PEI had the bye in the evening draw.

Hockey Player Fatally Injured

COLLINGWOOD (CP) — Robert Gillies, 17, of nearby Stayner, was fatally injured Wednesday night when his head struck the boards during a hockey game.

Gillies, right defence player with the Collingwood Juniors of the Ontario C team of the Ontario Hockey Association, died about five hours after the injury which he suffered after 15 minutes of play in the final period of a game with the Aurora Bears.

Ed Bean, coach of the Collingwood team and a former player with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, said Gillies was moving fast behind his own net with his head down, trying to centre the puck. He was jolted by another player and slammed into the boards.

Gillies was taken to hospital here and had consciousness shortly after midnight. He died in an ambulance that was taking him to Toronto 25 miles south of here, for brain surgery.

Wednesday night's game was the first in playoffs for the Junior C championship.

Gillies had been playing organized hockey about five years and was finishing out his first season with the Greenshirts. Previously he had played teams at Stayner. He attended high school at Collingwood.

A second youth killed in sport Wednesday was Kenneth Cox, 17, of Selkirk, Man. He was about to take part in a wrestling match when he fell and struck his head on a cement floor.

Quebec Official Named Prexy Curling Body

SUDBURY (CP)—Emmett Smith of Bourlamaque, Que., was elected president of the Canadian Curling Association at the annual meeting Wednesday. He succeeds H.F. Rankine of Saint John, N. B.

W. C. Boyd of Regina was elected first vice-president and R. A. Donahue of Halifax second vice-president. Walter C. Cowan of Toronto was re-elected secretary.

The association invited a group of 25 Scottish curlers to play 20 matches in Canada next season for the Strathcona Cup, awarded for international curling matches. The Scottish curlers were invited to come to this country this winter but were unable to make the trip.

Members of the executive include: Northern Ontario, Sam Rothschild; Northwestern Ontario, E. W. Duncan; Ontario, A. M. Heron, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, S. Francis.

Court Game To be Replayed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Basketball Association at an executive meeting Wednesday night dealt with two protests in the London Wolf's-Riverside intermediate B playoff series and ordered another game between the two teams.

The executives, sticking to their decision to "throw out" the first game of the series which Riverside was played in Riverside, allowed the second game, which London won by a nine-point margin, to stand.

The executive gave London a choice of playing a sudden-death game on a neutral floor or carrying their nine-point lead into another game to be played at Riverside.

London decided on the latter course.

Wrestling Fun, Boy Dies

SELKIRK, Man. (CP)—An injury suffered in a playful wrestling match in a school basement caused the death Tuesday of a 17-year-old boy from nearby Kirkness.

Kenneth Cox was about to wrestle with a friend in a test of skill but at the reached out to grasp his opponent he fell and struck his head on the basement floor, coroner Dr. W. R. Reid said.

The injury did not appear serious. Later in the day he complained of feeling ill and his father took him to a doctor who diagnosed a brain haemorrhage.

Dr. Reid said the boy was rushed to hospital in Winnipg but it was too late to save him.

Maxim Whips Nardico

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Joey Maxim, a cutie from the old school, gave Tampa's Danny Nardico an early boxing lesson Wednesday night but had to get off the deck from a seventh-round knockdown to win a unanimous 10-round decision at Miami Stadium. Maxim weighed 183½, Nardico 176½.

A right hand bomb by Nardico dumped Maxim on the floor for the first time in many a year toward the end of the seventh round after he had been teaching Nardico the art of the left jab. Joey popped up about four but had to take the automatic eight-count. He held on to weather the storm that was Nardico's only threat.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A day for caution, especially in personal conduct. It may not be easy to get a great deal done but attention to duty will return some benefits.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Advice to Aries helpful for you now. Be patient, listen to proper advice. You may have to urge yourself, but the effort will pay.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your Mercury and some other planets today warn against being smug or careless. You will need your best down-to-earth effort for top results.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Not all easy going today perhaps but it is well that every day isn't too soft. Extra care urged in dealing peevers, also in your other business.

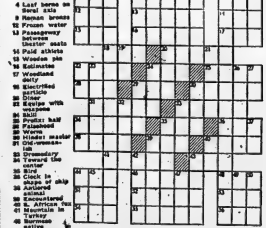
July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Check your schedule, for it's important that you do know what you're about to do. You may find snags. Don't worry over them.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—It can be a difficult day so think calmly about tasks and added responsibilities. Often we accomplish more and better on such days.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Less strain and fewer restrictions, but it is still not all smooth sailing. Be attentive to business; also be willing to heed wise advice.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Self-control, cultivating resistance to the satisfying of any unhealthy desires is grand practice any day. This really leads to true success.

November 24 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—An easing up of restrictions if you are sensibly careful making contracts, other agreements. Economy of money and energy needed now.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your Saturn, and other planets warn of undue haste, needless errors because of stubbornness or unbending attitude. Be extra careful!

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—If day seems indifferent, you need not be. Urge yourself to tackle both big and little tasks; meet emergencies with vim. Day can be productive.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A middle-of-the-road day. No extremes, but do keep up enthusiasm and you can get ahead at whatever is your work, social or other activities.

YOU BORN TODAY: Sincere, reliable, studious. If you realize your many possibilities and put to work your natural talents, you can easily go far. Prayer a great help. Birthdate: Michelangelo, great artist, sculptor; Eliz. Barrett Browning, Eng. poet.

Couple Suffers Severe Injuries In Car Accident

Picton—Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Parks were admitted to Prince Edward County hospital here yesterday suffering severe injuries, suffered when their car left the road and plunged over a five-foot culvert. The accident occurred near Wellington and as the couple was returning to Picton from Belleville. The highway was slippery with ice and snow, there having been a light rain. Mrs. Parks suffered a fractured broken ribs a leg injury and shock. Extent of the head injuries has not been determined as he is suffering from concussion and X-rays have not been taken. Provincial Constable John Cunningham investigated. Dr. C. Caughey is in attendance. Dr. Russell Bonisteel, Belleville, attended the injured at the scene of the accident.

RAWDON

River Valley W. I. Sponsors Fifth Euchre Party

RAWDON.—The fifth of this year's series of euchre parties was held recently at the school house on Friday evening under the auspices of River Valley Women's Institute. The entertainment committee convened the party and the prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonell.

There were seven tables in play with guests from Stirling and Carmel. The prizes were awarded as follows: ladies' high, Mrs. Clifford Pinkie; low, Mrs. Ernie Chisholm; men's high, Percy MacMullen, low, John R. Sager; travelling lone hand, Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Refreshments were served after which dainty were extended for prizes and "Happy Birthday" was sung early Saturday morning for Mr. Richard Rawson.

The Institute will sponsor another party at the school house on Friday evening, March 6, when Mr. and Mrs. George Heasman will provide the prizes.

RAWDON

RAWDON, — Mrs. Jack Bush and baby daughter, Jane Elizabeth, of River Valley, spent a few days last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoard, at Hoard's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs attended the wedding of Miss Dorothy Irene Moran and Mr. Lawrence Way, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moran, Frankford, on Thursday and the reception which followed at the Bank Lowery Hall.

Mrs. Fred King is ill at her home.

Messrs. Edward Montgomery and Stanley Hamilton, Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Pleasant, on Sunday, Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Sine, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sine and Mrs. Ethel Mae Sine, Mrs. Walter Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clancy visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ernest Anderson and Mr. Anderson, Frankford, on Sunday.

Mrs. Ted Preston, 5th concession, is a patient in Bellleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carlisle entertained River Valley Farm Forum, on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heasman, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Severe and Mrs. Harry Morrow of the River Valley community attended the Federation of Agriculture banquet in Ameliasburgh Church hall, on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clancy spent Sunday with Miss Evelyn and Cora Bailey, Peterborough.

Mrs. Roy Bush entertained 15 ladies to an Institute quilting on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. Norman Heasman has returned to his home at Oak Hills, following a visit with friends operation in Toronto, last week.

Mrs. George Merrick returned home from Belleville Hospital, on Saturday.

Rt. Wor. Brother Fred Bateman, Grand Master of the Orange Lodges of Ontario East, and Mrs. Bateman, spent a few days of Ottawa. Brother Bateman was on an official business trip making final plans for Grand Lodge, which will be held in Belleville on April 19.

At this meeting Brother Bateman will complete his two-year term of office. While in the city, they were guests of Mr. Don Sutherland, Grand Secretary of Ontario East, and Mrs. Sutherland, and they also visited their cousins, Brother M. D. Wellman, County Master of the City of Ottawa, and Mrs. Wellman. On their return trip, Brother Bateman visited Brother C. H. Wood, Kingston, Grand Treasurer of Ontario East.

Mount Pleasant Y.P.U. cancelled its regular meeting scheduled for Friday evening.

Mrs. Sid Williams spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canning, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Craig, of Ottawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Mr. Will Folts and Mrs. Folts, over the week-end.

About forty of the "Two-by-Two" Club with their presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam, visited "The Endeavorers' Class" of West Huntingdon on Friday evening.

Among those who assisted with the program were: Mrs. R. R. Bonsteel, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Malcolm Sharp and Kalvin, Mr. Orno Sharp, and Mrs. James Hoard.

Next week the club plans to have Mr. William Calnen, Stirling, as guest speaker.

The sweetcorn was bare recently burning green along the tracks from Anson to Stirling. This is probably the earliest record of such activities. The crows have also arrived to herald spring.

The great speaker at Bethel United Church on Sunday evening, March 8, will be Mr. Clement David, a student from India, who is taking post graduate work at Queens Theological College, Kingston. His uncle, Professor Harold, of India is to speak, at present, touring with the Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort recently entertained Mr. K. Zeller, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment I.O.O.F.

WOMAN PRAISES SYNTONA

Was Rundown; Suffered Stomach Gas, Indigestion

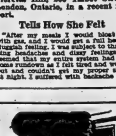
Nerves on Edge, Got Tired, Dizzy Spells, couldn't Sleep Well. Also Had Pain in Back, Limbs, Joints. Tells of Relief.

"For a long time I suffered from stomach troubles, and felt awfully tired and rundown, but after I was obtained such grand relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound that I do not hesitate to recommend this fine medicine to anyone suffering as I did." said Mrs. Flaretta Hill, 568 Talbot Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

Tells How She Felt

"After my meals I would bloat up with gas, and I would get a full heavy, sluggish feeling. I was subject to throbbing headaches and dizziness. It seemed that my entire system had become rundown as I felt tired and worn out and couldn't get my proper sleep at night. I suffered with backaches and pains set into my limbs, joints and body.

Relief Came Quickly



"Then one day a friend told me I've been taking Syntona, and in fact it hardly seemed any time after I got some of this medicine until I began to feel relief. I took four bottles of it, my constipation is relieved and I am feeling fine. My appetite has improved 100% and I sleep much better at night, so I feel more rested in the mornings and have more energy than I formerly had and practically all cleared up.

"I am recommending it to all my friends and I can truly say this statement bearing it will be the means of helping others who suffer as I did."

How It Acts

Made from 12 of Nature's Utmost Herbs and Roots Syntona Compound is entirely hand selected, carefully prepared and blended by skilled herbalists, and has the stimulation of glucose acids and poisonous waste matter from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan, the Druggist.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

"But Tod, the twins and I will be here alone, and surely you—"

"You know you can always depend on Rick."

Anger swept through her in a fierce rush. "Tod, you're being deliberately hateful."

"All right. I'm being hateful. Ma needs me. She's all alone and she's not well. I'm concerned about her. I see no reason why I shouldn't stay with her during the week instead of riding back and forth on that beastly bus. If you really needed me here evenings, it would be different. Besides, like Ma said, I'll have some time to look for a place for us. She said she'd help me find something."

Jenny bit her lip to keep it from trembling. "You—you will try to find a place."

"I said I would, didn't I?"

Jenny wondered if Rick and his mother believed her when she said Tod was going to stay in town to try and find a place.

Jenny tried not to feel resentment toward Tod's mother and she reasoned that the temporary separations would draw Tod and herself closer together. But before long she began to have a panicky feeling that Imelda's gulf was widening between them. One hot evening in August Tod phoned from Capitol City to say that he wouldn't be home for the week-end. Ma was sick. Ma needs me."

Jenny's eyes filled with quick tears as she hung up the phone. That wasn't the real reason he was staying away. He had never been contented in the cottage. He seemed to resent Rick. Jenny left the twins with Mrs. Morris that Saturday morning and borrowed Rick's car to drive up to Capitol City, resolved to rent the first place she found that she could live in.

It turned out to be a basement apartment on a shabby side of town. It smelled a trifle musty, but on the south there was a row of windows.

There was a fireplace, too, wonderful for cold winter evenings and dismal afternoons. Aside from these two advantages, however, there was little to be said for the apartment. The kitchenette, a converted closet, was dark and damp and smelled of mice and roaches. The tiny bedroom's window opened on an alley. And the rent was far too much, $65.

A basement would be damp, Jenny mused, and probably not too good for the twins, but she could take them for long walks in the sun to make up for it. She'd have to keep them off the floor but it wouldn't be long until they'd be out of the crawling stage anyway.

Once she'd made up her mind to take it, she felt elated. Tod was surprised when she phoned him. "But Jenny, whatever made you take it into your head to drive up and look for a place yourself?"

"When you said you weren't coming home for the week-end, I couldn't stand it," Jenny answered. "I felt that any place, no matter how shabby or inconvenient it was, would be better than our being apart. I hope you like it. It's not bad, really!" Her voice grew hesitant with excitement, her weariness over the long day's search gone now completely. "It even has a fireplace."

"That's wonderful, Jenny." "It's not in a very nice part of town, but—"

"Well that doesn't matter too much. After all, it's just temporary."

"Yes—just temporary."

"I'll see about renting a truck to move our things up Monday."

Jenny walked out of the phone booth on winged feet. Another fresh start for them, she thought happily. Everything would be all right now.

XII

Jenny had thought Tod's restlessness and discontent through the summer had resulted from commuting back and forth, and the strain of acclimating himself to his job. She had even wondered if jealousy of Rick had something to do with it. And now that they were settled in the basement apartment on Randolph street she looked for a change in him.

But there was none. His irritability and moodiness increased instead of lessened.

"Tod, are you worried about something?"

"No. Of course not." He picked up a magazine and opened it at random.

"You seem to be worrying over something I thought maybe it was something I could help with. Is it money?"

"Does anybody ever have enough money?" he said, almost too promptly.

A short silence, then Jenny said it knew this apartment costs more than it's worth, but if we're together, you and I and the babies, it's a great deal."

Tod snapped the book shut impatiently and rose.

"Are you worried about your mother?" Jenny asked.

He went over to the closet and took out his hat. "Yes, I'm worried about her." A thin hint of irritation threaded his voice.

Jenny watched in silence as he put on his coat and went out muttering something about cigarets.

Tomorrow, she decided, she would see Mrs. Duncan. She could ask the landlady to sit with the twins for an hour.

Tod walked briskly down the shabby street, guilt washing through him in sickening waves. He couldn't stand to have Jenny turn those brown eyes of hers on him so sympathetically, asking what was troubling him.

For months now, ever since he had gone to work for the firm he had been seeing Liz Conover. She was working for her father's advertising firm, which handled Tod's company's business. He saw Liz nearly every week. She brought over the advertising copy personally, instead of sending it by messenger.

He had thought he would tell Jenny casually of having seen Liz. But there had never seemed to be an opportune moment in the beginning. And now seeing her had come to be something different, something he looked forward to with trembling hands and a thudding heart, and a feeling of contempt for himself. He couldn't mention Liz casually to Jenny now.

He was stirred up. And that was what Liz wanted. He was sure of it the day his boss, Mr. Freytag, said, "Duncan, Miss Conover from the advertising agency says you ought to be handling our advertising layouts. She told me you were good at that sort of thing, that her father had tried to get you for the firm."

He admitted he had been interested in advertising, and from then on it was settled. He had conferred with Liz over the copy. Each meeting had been more tense and filled with undercurrents than the one before. Liz knew her power over him.

DEATH ENDS STALIN'S 29-YEAR REGIME

U.S. Is Stalled On Foreign Policy By Stalin's Death

Attitude Can Only be One Of Sharp Watchfulness

RCAF Wing Set For 4000-Mile Hop to Germany

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP)—The first RCAF wing ever to be based in Germany in peace time is poised for the 4,000-mile hop to its new quarters at Zweibruecken, Germany.

Three of Canada's F-86E Sabre jet squadrons lined up Thursday at air defence command headquarters here for a ceremonial review, preparatory to taking off next Monday for Goose Bay, Labrador.

Defence Minister Clarkin told the assembled Canadair's plane pilots in action in "months ahead of the target date."

Lord Ismay, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, joined Mr. Clarkin in bidding farewell to the pilots.

Mr. Clarkin said Canada's contribution to Sabre jets to the RAF was ahead of schedule and, after the original order is completed, Canada "will likely send more."

The squadrons—413, now at Bagotville, Que., 434 at Uplands near Ottawa and 427 at St. Hubert—will form the 439 Sabre wing in Europe. The other two wings are in England.

In the lead plane for the hop, officially named Leap Year Three, will be Sqdn.-Ldr. Lyle Gervais, Ontario-born commander of 427 squadron.

CCL Brief Asks Tax Exemption

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today attacked the federal budget in its annual submission to the cabinet.

Calling it a "business dividend" budget, the 370,000-member congress also said the sales tax of 10 per cent should have been reduced and the personal income tax exemptions raised.

Some of the major points in the CCL submission:

There should be a national health insurance plan, and the least that can be done at the moment is establishment of a parliamentary committee to study the idea and make recommendations;

Unemployment insurance benefit payments should be increased with cost increasing workers' payments up to the $55 ceiling now being held by the government;

Subsidized low-cost housing should be provided;

The scope of the federal labor code, now taking in a restricted range of inter-provincial industry, should be widened to include the automobile, oil, steel, packing, lumber, forest and gold-mining industries;

GIFT FOR QUEEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A painting of the construction of the historic road from New Westminster to Vancouver has been completed by V. R. Thimm here a gift for the Queen. It is expected Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace will take the painting when he goes to London for the Coronation.

GRATEFUL TOWN

KAMSACK, Sask. (CP)—Council of this town 140 miles northeast of Regina, resolved Thursday that it came to Kamsack after a cyclone in 1944, to send $1,000 to the relief fund for European flood sufferers.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cold weather will linger over the province will slackes by evening and give way to more southerly winds on Saturday. These will bring milder weather.

A small area of atmospheric pressure over British Columbia this morning is responsible for some light snow entering the province from the northwest late Saturday.

FEDERATION ASKS BOOSTS IN FARM PRICE SUPPORTS

Urge Eggs, Hogs, Butter At Higher Guarantees

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture asked the federal government Thursday to boost price supports on farm products and urged a federal investigation of the meat industry to find out why the consumer isn't getting the benefit of livestock price declines.

A 13-man federation delegation, headed by president H. H. Hannam called on Prime Minister St. Laurent and his cabinet ministers and in a 19-page brief recommended:

1. A boost of five cents a pound in the government's price support on butter, increasing the floor to 63 cents a pound wholesale from 58 and making the increase effective for two years. The present program ends next spring.

2. A jump of seven cents a dozen in the price support on eggs, boosting the floor to 45 cents a dozen from 38 and 42 cents, 40 cents and extension of the support program to cover poultry.

3. An increase in the floor price on hogs, now 23 cents a pound. The federation said that if the hog prices are higher than the government floor price, but it said a boost in the floor was required to keep production up to the consumption level.

Other recommendations ranged from federal aid for orchardists to special "disaster" loans to farmers hit by floods, drought, frost or other natural calamities.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Changes in Soviet leadership following President Stalin's death seem certain to slow down the making of basic new foreign policy decisions promised by the Eisenhower administration.

By President Eisenhower's own estimate, the situation facing the U. S. government in the future involving questions like a cold war, peace or new outbreaks of hot war is so unpredictable that its attitude can only be one of sharp watchfulness.

Furthermore, is the opinion of other high government officials, this uncertainty may continue for many months.

State Secretary Dulles, at the time of his nomination for the No. 1 cabinet spot in the Eisenhower administration, said he would promptly undertake a review of U.S. policies all over the world. Dulles said that might take a year. He said many policies might be retained, but he hoped that new and better ones could be found in most instances.

The critical Far Eastern situation growing out of the communization of China and the Korean and Indo-Chinese wars is clearly one place where the administration is committed to produce some new approach if at all possible.

Dulles spoke at a time when the U. S. had to assume that Russia would continue pretty much on the same familiar lines indefinitely under the leadership of an aged but apparently healthy Joseph Stalin.

That assumption now has been destroyed.

Some persons high in the new administration are known to have regarded Stalin as a moderating influence on aggressive Soviet policies. They feel some apprehension that his removal from the scene is likely to make things worse, not better.

7-Year Sentence For Manslaughter In Girl's Death

KITCHENER (CP) — Kenneth Wiles, 21, today was sentenced to seven years in Kingston penitentiary for manslaughter in the fatal shooting Jan. 27 of 17-year-old Marie Huras, his former girl friend.

Wiles was, originally charged with murder, but the charge was reduced Monday when the jury brought in a manslaughter verdict.

The Crown contended he shot his former girl friend in a fit of jealousy when she returned his engagement ring and started going out with other boys.

Wiles testified Miss Huras was fatally wounded when a gun lying between them went off accidentally when the vehicle hit a rough spot.

A sawed-off shotgun was found near the girl's house was said by the Crown to have been the weapon.

Major Rotation Turnover Underway For Canadian Forces in Korea

SEATTLE (CP)—A new major rotation turnover is underway for Canada's forces in Korea.

More than 1,100 soldiers are scheduled to leave Calgary, the biggest movement from this port for Korea rotation. They will relieve men who have had a year's service in Japan and Korea.

The sailed recently, military secrecy shrouding the actual departure date and the route. The United States Army troopship carrying them to the Far East.

The men are members of the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, Camp Petawawa, Ont.; No. 58 transport, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Camp Borden, Ont.; Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Camp Borden and the 9th field squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, Camp Petawawa. They will relieve units of the 25th brigade group in Korea.

Some of the Canadians are volunteers for a second tour of duty, including Sgt. Bill Osborne, MC, a veteran of 14 years service.

Other second-tour men are S. Sgt. H. E. Roy, Vancouver; Sgt. L. M. Evans, Edmonton, and Pte. J. F. Rousseau, Tisdale, Sask., the first west to the Far East with the 2nd battalion of the PPCLI.

As the big army transport sailed, the bands of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 3rd battalion and the western command band of the PPCLI from Calgary played at the dockside.

Many Canadian Americans who saw the departure it showed that the Canadian Army makes music "most everywhere it goes."

Most Russians Take News Of Stalin's Death Grimly; See No Letup in Cold War

By PHIL CLARKE

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe reacted with fear and uncertainty to the news today that Stalin is dead.

Except for loyal Communists, there was no shedding of tears. But neither was there jubilation.

Most Europeans took the news grimly, with only a few expressions of hope for a letup in the cold war.

The biggest worry expressed everywhere was that the new rulers of Russia might seek Stalin's wary cold war policies and possibly plunge the world into a shooting conflict.

Western diplomats studying the official death announcement found scant clues to who takes over now. But the announcement, signed by the Central Committee of the Communist party, the U. S. S. R. Council of Ministers and the Praesidium of the Supreme Soviet—Russia's three most powerful bodies—made it clear there is no new bid for friendship with the West.

The announcement promised a continued build-up of Russia's armed forces, navy and intelligence services to deal "a decisive rebuff to any aggressors." It spoke of friendship with China and other Communist satellites and with workers of capitalist and colonial countries.

Seeds for Crack in Unity

Some Western observers saw signs of a possible crack in Communist unity in Moscow in the announcement's call for an all-out struggle against "national and external foes." But many feared any such disunity might heighten the danger of war rather than lessen it.

The news two days ago of the Soviet leader's grave illness gave Europeans time to ponder its implications, and today's early morning announcement that the Russian leader was dead came as no great shock.

Many had speculated that Stalin already was dead when Moscow first announced his illness and that the obituary was being delayed to give the Russian people a chance to brace themselves.

But the final announcement hit Europe with the impact of a new dawn, carried with it cold foreboding.

Received With New Fear

A report from Bonn said West Germany received the news of Stalin's death with mixed fear. Millions of Germans hated him, but they counted on his unwelcome peace patience to avoid a hot war in Europe.

Italy's anti-Communist Premier Alcide de Gasperi said, "The universe has tomorrow remained grave."

Government leaders in Scandinavia, minding perhaps of the meaning of the Russian flag, delivered cautious statements politely praising Stalin.

Gen. Van Fleet Takes Lid Off Korean Ammunition Shortage, Alarm Is Aroused in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet has booted the U. S. army's lid of secrecy off the munitions, tanks and ammunition shortages in Korea—and the alarm reverberated in Congress today.

The Senate's armed services committee called in Van Fleet. Military planners are responsible for the shortages which, Van Fleet said, have left his troops using grenades needed for close-in mountain fighting.

However, the army's chief of information, Maj.-Gen. Floyd Parks, said important parts of the defence department records showed no hand grenade shortage in Far East deputy. Parks did not discount possible local shortages "due to distribution difficulties," but said there were enough grenades stocked in the Far East to meet normal conditions.

One senator, who asked that his name not be used, quoted Van Fleet as saying shortages have been felt for the last 22 months and will not be overcome until the end of next time this summer.

Van Fleet's testimony Thursday recalled bitter charges by some congressmen—captured so much interest that he was asked to appear again today before the Senate's armed services and appropriations committees.

Pleas of Guilty Entered by Four On Tax Charges

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — Pleas of guilty were entered on Thursday for four businessmen on 45 of 124 charges of income tax fraud involving an estimated $130,000.

Alan Masters Grigor, member of the taxation office of the Sudbury district of the department of national revenue, testified about his investigation.

Magistrate Lorne A. Langdon said he would hear pleas later on the other 79 charges against the men as well as the Soo Equipment and Supply Company, which they operated here.

Defence counsel for the firm, H. S. Richardson, entered a formal plea of guilty on behalf of the company on a charge under the Excise Tax Act.

Charged are Goldie Best, millwright, Lloyd Ernest Ledger, Knapp, and Clifford S. McKeown, all of Sault Ste. Marie, but the Income Tax Act, and the Excess Profits Act.

DEVOTED CAREER

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Edith Cook, retired nurse, died here on March after 32 years of caring for the sick at Pleasant Lodge, formerly the home for the aged and infirm. Since she first started her career as a nurse, she had figures she has been off work "maybe a dozen days."

Hangs for Death Of Half-Brother

MONTREAL (CP)—Peter Mentenko, 28, was hanged at Montreal's Bordeaux jail early today for the murder of his 24-year-old half-brother, George Demchuk.

Mentenko walked calmly to the scaffold and mounted the hands with jail governor, Dr. Zenon Lesage, and Sheriff Paul Bureau before the noose was placed around his neck.

The trap was sprung at 12:32 a. m. EST and Mentenko was declared dead 13 minutes later.

The body of Hescehuk, bludgeoned to death by Mentenko, was found on Allard, April 28, 1950, in a lead-lined sunken shaft in a Montreal East field.

Mentenko was convicted at his third trial on the murder charge.

GOLDEN JUBILEE

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—The Moose Jaw Golf and Curling club will celebrate its golden jubilee this year. Celebrations are being planned to start on June 28.

Record Peacetime Budget Passed By British House

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons passed Prime Minister Churchill's £3,636,760,000 ($4,-582,928,000) record peacetime defence budget Thursday night.

Churchill then announced he would ask Parliament later to approve retention of conscription for another five years.

The measure, carried by 295 votes to 254 a Socialist opposition amendment asking the House to reject the note of the program and urging the present two-year term of conscription be shortened every year.

The Labor party wanted the House to "take note of" the program instead of directly approving it in a move to pacify its remi left-wing, led by the absent Aneurin Bevan, which wants the arms bill slashed.

Churchill had told the House "if we are to make a lasting period year by year it would discourage our friends and might well encourage, the other ones."

He said it would be disastrous to cut the two-year conscription period. There could be no relaxation in the arms program "at this critical but formative, gravt but not unpromising moment."

Parliament will in fact later this year be asked to keep conscription going for another five years, he announced. The course of events in the meantime "gives no ground for expecting an early relief," he said.

Autopsy Ordered In Death of Woman

TORONTO (CP)—An autopsy has been ordered into the death of 79-year old Minnie Cecil Bowmanville who died Thursday night in hospital here.

Dr. Morton Shulman, assistant coroner, today said death is believed to have resulted from pneumonia and a possible skull fracture.

Miss Grande was brought here from a Bowmanville nursing home on Feb. 25. At that time she had bruises on her face and head and X-rays revealed a possible skull fracture, Dr. Shulman said.

SALSBERG CAUSES NOISIEST SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Biting Personal Remarks Hurled Across Floor

TORONTO (CP)—Noisy protests and biting personal remarks were hurled across the floor of the Ontario Legislature Thursday during a three-hour attack on the government by J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew.

Mr. Salsberg, only Communist member in the legislature, accused the government of "blackjacking" Toronto-area municipalities into accepting its plan for the essential services in the Toronto metropolitan area.

Promising that he would have more to say today, Mr. Salsberg sat down shortly before adjournment with government supporters telling him to "end the filibuster" and "save his breath to cool soup."

He said the metropolitan plan was devised for the benefit of real estate interests. He said they sought to combine the assets of the municipalities in the area against financial failure of any one municipality.

Mack Name Calling

At times the debate degenerated into name-calling between Mr. Salsberg and cabinet ministers, particularly Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar and Attorney-General Porter.

Couple Given Two Years For Neglecting Family

WALKERTON (CP) — Gerald Liddle, 29, and his wife, Ethel, 26, were sentenced Thursday to two years less a day definite and a year indefinite on charges of neglecting to provide the necessaries of life for their five children.

The couple were told when a postmortem revealed that the Liddles' four-month-old son, John Charles, died of malnutrition.

The Liddles also were sentenced to a year's concurrent on a charge of inflicting unreasonable treatment on their children.

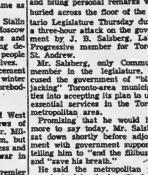
Sentencing the Liddle, Magistrate O. E. McClevis said he was not convinced either her nor Liddle's plea. He recommended her transfer to the Ontario Reformatory and would be taught how to keep her home and raise her family.

He said he would favor recommend her release as soon as officials there were satisfied she had become competent as a homemaker.

Dictator's Body Lies In State; Heir Unknown

News of Death Thursday Held Up for Seven Hours

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY and EDDY GILMORE



Moscow (AP) — The body of Prime Minister Joseph V. Stalin, felled by a stroke and heart failure at 73, was removed to Moscow's beautiful Hall of Columns today to lie in state. A funeral befitting one of the most powerful men in history is in preparation.

The Soviet "Man of Steel", who ruled over one-sixth of the earth's surface and dominated one-third of its people, died last night in the Kremlin four days after being stricken. Death came at 9.50 p.m. (1.50 p.m. EST) and was announced to the Russian people eight hours later.

Stalin lay paralyzed and in deep coma at the end.

There was no hint as to who would succeed this man, who led the Soviet Union's 200,000,000 people for 29 years and called the plays for Communists the world over. But a joint statement from the Communist party and the government called for continuation of such policies as strengthening the armed forces, increased vigilance at home and tighter bonds with communists abroad.

At this time there is no prospect of any change in the policies Stalin pursued.

JOSEPH STALIN

This afternoon a motor hearse left the St. Spasskiy gate of the Kremlin. While thousands assembled on the Square to see it off, the hearse moved slowly from the Kremlin to the Hall of Columns, House of Soviets.

Immense heaps of flowers and wreaths surrounded the Russian beige flag past to gaze for the last time at the man who led them to victory over Nazi Germany. Thousands were in line when the gates opened.

The processions for those wishing to pay "Generalissimo" (goodbye) will continue day and night until the funeral, a commission headed by Nikita S. Khrushchev now is working on funeral plans. No date has been announced for the final services nor has there been any word where Stalin is to be buried.

The Hall of Columns is only a few hundred yards from the great mausoleum in Red Square where V. I. Lenin, Stalin's predecessor and father of Russian communism, lies embalmed in a glass coffin.

Moscow was cold, windy and unpleasant today but life went on as usual. Hundreds still were filing into churches to place candles before icons and to pray for the dead, many crossed themselves repeatedly.

There were small crowds in Red Square, but nothing about it slowly, gazing sadly at the buildings of the Kremlin and at Lenin's tomb, from which for so many years Stalin presided on May Day and Nov. 7 anniversary of the revolution to review and on other state occasions.

In front of the House of Unions there is a picture of Stalin in his generalissimo's uniform, decorated with evergreens, a symbol that his country will long remember. Embassies and legations lowered their flags to half-staff.

The death of the man who sparked the development of Russia to a position of world power second to a great industrial power exceeded only by the United States was first announced by Moscow radio at 4:07 a.m. today local time, in a special broadcast to Soviet provincial newspapers.

The official announcement said:

"There has ceased to beat the heart of comrade-in-arms and genius-continuer of the cause of Lenin, the wise leader and teacher of the Communist party and the Soviet people—Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin. The death of Stalin, who gave all his life to dedicated service to the great cause of communism, is the heaviest loss for the party and workers of the Soviet nation and for all progressive mankind.

It was issued in the name of the central committee of the communist party, the council of ministers (government cabinet) and the presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

Appeared Stunned

The Russian people appeared stunned and grief-stricken by the news. For years, Stalin had seemed like a father. "Excuse me," said one Muscovite chauffeur of his own car, "I have to go and weep."

All over Moscow, black-bordered red flags appeared on public and private buildings, and whipped the snow-blanketed city. Thousands of pieces of black crepe were being hung on buildings and homes.

Stalin Wiped Out Opposition In Bloody Purges of Early 1930's

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Stalin entrenched himself as the world's most powerful dictator by wiping out his opposition in the bloody purges of the 1930s.

Leon Trotsky was the first to go. Stalin defeated him for control of Soviet power after Lenin's death. Trotsky in Siberia in 1928, Trotsky was driven from Russia two years later on instructions from Stalin's agent to Mexico where he was murdered.

Actually, Stalin was supreme ruler in 1928 when he launched the first five-year plan of forced industrialization and collectivization—the basic ideas advocated by Trotsky. But it took him several years to consolidate this power. Lenin's death came in 1924.

Stalin needed a reason. He found it in the murder on December 1934 of Sergei Kirov, a strong supporter, in Petrograd (now Leningrad).

The blood bath followed. In a series of purge trials that began in 1935 and ended in 1937, most of the leaders who had been Lenin's principal lieutenants were accused of treason, of collaborating with foreign powers and of conspiring to bring capitalism back to Russia.

The most sensational of the trials —characterized by the West as strictly frame-ups—was that of Marshal Tuchachevsky and a host of officers of the Soviet army.

They were accused of treason, of conspiracy with Hitler, and executed. So chief prosecutor was Andrei Vishinsky.

Executed later were the majority of the generals who had controlled the court martial that tried Tuchachevsky and his colleagues.

The purges were accompanied by a country-wide shake-up of the party and governmental machine, involving imprisonment of thousands of army officers and the removal or exile of hundreds of thousands of government officials and party members. Siberia became a by-word of devastation to Russians.

Internationally there were defections from Stalin's rule. His most important ideological defeat came in 1948 when Marshal Tito broke with the Kremlin after he had refused to subordinate Yugoslavia's interests to those of Russian communism.

In brief similar defections in other countries, Stalin moved in the last few years to purge his top leaders u. his satellites.

Gomulka was the first in Hungary, Slansky in Czechoslovakia and Kostov in Bulgaria were executed. Ana Pauker in Romania

J. Allen Francis Talks on Preparation Spring Seed

"Bring New Members" was the motto of the Junior Farmers' meeting held at Cannifton Orange hall recently.

J. Allen Francis, Assistant Agricultural Representative for Hastings, addressed the meeting; his topic being "Spring Seed Preparation." He gave reasons for poor crops, saying that by looking at the drill survey you would find that even material and every one was displaying her handiwork.

After the meeting Allan Lott started the joint meeting off with a rousing sing-song, after which Bruce McPherson read the club paper. Recreation directed by Doreen Lott. Refreshments were served.

A team was then picked to enter the square dance competition.

Seats Available At Coronation For Mayor Haig

The offer of two tickets to Westminster Abbey for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth on June 2 has been received by Mayor A. M. Haig. The notice from the Secretary of State at Ottawa was read to council members at their meeting earlier in the week.

The tickets to the Abbey would be made available to the local mayor free of charge. Costs of accommodation, transportation and other incidentals would have to otherwise be provided for. The invitation to attend the Coronation was referred to the executive committee.

FOUR INCHES SNOW IN NORTH HASTINGS

The bare fields and the absence of snow very much in evidence in the southern part of Hastings County this winter does not apply in the Bancroft area at the present time.

Thursday's snowflurries that came and went in Belleville area put a white mantle of about four inches on the ground in North Hastings.

North of Millbridge the department of highway snowplows were out and sanding crews were putting a liberal application of sand on the hills.

POLICE BLOTTER

City police did not have to look far for a crime Thursday night.

Hearing the sound of someone walking about upstairs in the police station an officer investigated only to find a man obviously intoxicated, wandering about the hall and courtroom. Beneath his arm was a part bottle of wine. He was led downstairs and lodged in the police cells after being charged with drunkenness.

Thomas Hinton, Sidney Street, complained that someone had forced the trunk lid of his car and stole his spare wheel, tire and tube. The car was parked in the yard at the above address.

Girls' Choral Ensemble Features Opening Night of Kampus Kapers

A packed house greeted the D. Harris, F. Furmidge, B. Meyers, 1953 edition of Kampus Kapers, J. Mott, R. Denike, N. Fudge, presented by Belleville Collegiate Institute students at the auditorium last night. Another program will be presented tonight.

The Girls' Choral Ensemble highlighted the production which was under the direction of H. W. Brown-Wood. According to Mr. Townsend, certain kinks have been worked out since opening night and the show will be considerably more streamlined for tonight's presentation.

The Choral Ensemble was composed of:

First sopranos—Jarka Novak, Joan Shindell, Marilyn Barbet, Susanne Cavers and Betty Lou Hogle.

Second sopranos—Marion Silk, Jan Churchill, Norma Vaughan, June Bowerman and Gethia Joslin.

Altos—Marilyn Spencer, Janice Beatty, Joan Wood, Ruth Watson and Jacqueline Avery.

The Collegiate band, under the direction of M. A. Cooper, opened the program and was followed by the grand opening, with Ken Bell as commentator.

A gymnastic exercise titled "The Glow Worms" was particularly colorful spectacle featuring girls in white and girls in red with fluorescent dumbbells. In the set were: Anita Brown, Jacqueline Hall, Betty Williams, Carole Martin, Dawn Larmon, Marilyn Barbet, Janet Follett, Ruth Watson, Joan Slade, Dorothy Allen and Susanne Cavers.

A humorous gymnastic number followed, an even dozen of the top gymnast si the group strutting their stuff on the box horse. Contributing to the comic relief were Bryan Meyers, Terry Clifton, Bob Ireland, Barry Ray, Pat Smith, Tom Richard, Orval Avery, Malcolm Rowan, Sherman Brant, Neil Hogle, Bill Wagner and Ted Harris.

"Three Dots and a Dash", a straight comedy skit featuring Don McCurdy, Bud Lancaster, Terry Clifton and Carol Matchett provided a change of pace for the patrons.

The comic strip "I'll Alone" influence was evidenced in the gymnastic number, a hill-billy mock wedding. It was, according to the program, a wedding of the "real crazy" and got a fine reception.

In the skit were Bud Lancaster, commentator; mistress of ceremonies, Pat Campbell; bridesmaids, Shirley Duncan, Lorna Hollingsworth; father, David Wilcox; bride, John Woods; groom, Terry Clifton; best man, Don Cherry; flower girl, Pat Angevine; train bearer, Sharon Conway; flower girl, Jack Keast; bride's mother, Marjorie Kellett; minister, Sid Alexander. Ross Wylie; guests, Sandra Winters, Kay Homan, Anne Bennett, Barbara Gaffney, David Williams, Gary Hall, Francis Taylor, Wayne Ray, Donald Cook, Harold Gorham and Don McCurdy.

Don Carver followed with a slapstick comedy routine called "Before and After" by Warren Forbid."

"The Shamrock and the Thistle", featured Irish and Scotch dancing and singing—Scotch sword dance, Jacqueline Fordyce and Fred Hagerman, being a standout of the production. Others taking part were, Beverley Fox, Shirley Kells, Diane Murray, Lorna Lowe, Josephine Hurst, Suzanne Cavers, Marie Sanderson, Peggy Parker, Deason Catton, Larry Tucker, Edward Green, Randolph Evans, Allan Thom, Bob Jordan, Elaine Davis was also on the program.

An eye-catching number, Kampus Kapers Korus Line brought forth a host of dancers who were aided in their activities by the collegiate orchestra. Those contributing to the attractiveness of the proceedings in this case were, B. Fordyce, D. Cavers, S. Hunter, E. Terry, S. Fisher, D. McDonald, M. Reid, D. Maleod and S. Steward.

The gymnasts look over again, this time giving a fine exhibition of precision tumbling on the mats. Contributing their talents to this were, T. Clifton, M. Rowan,

Correspondent Can Remember Reunion Held in Early 20's

Trenton (Special)—The last time Trenton went all out to celebrate was during the early part of the roaring '20's. The occasion then was a week long celebration known as the Soldiers' Reunion."

I was only about five years old then but I can still remember the great enthusiasm stirred up by the citizens who organized the show. I can recall that many visitors came to town among the many was my grandfather from Hamilton who died since. The spirit of the reunion caused such an impression that I still remember it as one of the great thrills of my lifetime.

There was a mile long parade of decorated wagons and cars, including the horse-drawn steam fire engine. I can still see the motorized haystack entry passing the judges seated on the wooden platform in front of the town hall known as Firemen's Park and how the crowds cheered the Grand Coulter textile plant.

I am sure every resident in town painted colored bunting and lights decorating their houses. I can remember the name of the winner of the prize for the best decorated house (the late William Bleecker) because my late father won the second prize for his efforts. Looking back at it still being utilized by one of my family.

And now 30 years hence some of the descendants of those who staged Trenton's best remembered celebrations prepare to discuss the history of the early party which is every bit as interesting.

Mr. Alras in Algiers

Mr. O. G. "Buster" Alras has written a letter from Algiers a stopoff on the route to Naples. He claims he is taking with his wife through the Mediterranean.

Up until the time of writing the genial coal merchant saw only glimpses of the old world through a porthole. He has been confined to sick bay most of the trip with a severe attack of influenza. He says he feels better however and talks about landing at Venice, Italy, March 18 and then by train through to Paris on the 20. He hopes to be able to visit the grave of Trenton soldier Officer Commanding Lt. Col. Bruce Sutherland, who died killed in Italy while leading the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment into battle.

There will be more news in a few days the writer says in his letter.

Nemitin Reach Top

It was a long hard struggle but they came through to win. That is the story about Nemitin stubborn bowling team in the Trenton Businessmen's League. The team that lost the leadership was Farrars, who had been on top most of the season. They are still pressing however, needing only one point to draw up even with the Nemitin outfit.

The bowling story of the season concerns E. Horace Ormshaw who again took the laurels with a weekly high singles with 378. One of the veterans of the alleys for many years Ormshaw's name can always be found among the highest scorers. He is an ardent exponent of the game and after the winter and spring season close he starts the indoor golf and fall grind at the Trenton Country Club's lawn bowling green. His continual high scoring is the envy of many younger bowlers regarded as a triple threat man in any league.—

Results of last week's competitions are as follows: Men's Singles 1274-67; Farrars 1256-62; Stevens Ambulance, 121-47; Trent Cleaners, 119-49; Peach Kings, 1242; Wo-Way Cleaners, 63-75; Postmarks, 91-77; Bond Clothes, 75-93; Vanderbilt 71-93; Cutler's Lunch, 73-95; Riverside Dairy, 94-100; Wo-Way Cleaners, 1242; Belairs, 57-111; Plymouths, 49-110; Wilsons Dairy, 48-120; Sutherland, 1242.

High singles: E. Ormshaw, 378; R. Scallon, 312; Ken Mansfield, 304; C. Young, 301.

High triples: N. Labelle, 784; R. Scallon, 741; A. Sager, 755; R. Lawrence, 718; G. Carr, 712; C. Young, 711; Mansfield, 702.

High team single Farrars, 1242; high team triple Nemitin, 3548; high average, H. Ormshaw, 238.

High Interest Shown in First Night School Held in North; Over 200 Attend 'Open House'

Bancroft—First year projects made at the first adult night school to be held in this centre of just over 1,000 population were on display at "open house" held in the North Hastings high school here Thursday night. Approximately 400 persons from the Bancroft district, including 200 "students" attended.

The young adult group in North Hastings have taken high interest in night school classes this winter. It was their first chance to study vocational projects and they made the most of their opportunity.

The fine work in dresses, skirts and shirts of children's wearing apparel sewn by members of the sewing classes would seem to signify the fact that all were made by beginners in the night school sewing classes.

The same was true in many of the other departments, especially in the woodworking class where completed projects indicate keen interest as well as adaptability to the job.

Drive Miles to Attend

Fifty per cent of the 200 young adults enrolled in night school classes are from Bancroft and the immediate district but now taking the courses are driving as far as 30 miles twice a week.

Gordon Wragg North Hastings High School principal, and also in charge of the night school classes, said there was high interest in the practical courses with big enrolments in the sewing, home nursing, and shop classes.

But a full variety of vocational courses are being offered at the night school. For example there is a class in oil painting and art with W. Schleinger of Lakefield, former professional artist in Switzerland as the instructor. Forty students are taking this course.

Night school classes at the Bancroft high school were late in getting underway last autumn. Their organization was principally due to Principal Wragg who acted promptly in getting things underway when he realized the people were interested.

"We didn't get going until November, but the enthusiasm of the students made up for the late start," he said. "We were almost bowled over, when over 200 turned up at the organization meeting."

Considered Model School

Before coming to Bancroft last September Mr. Wragg had been interested in night school work at his school at Shelbourne.

Built in 1947 at a cost of $325,000, the North Hastings High School is considered a model school for a typically rural centre such as Bancroft.

Nothing was omitted when the six classroom school was built. Included are lab facilities, shops and a home economic department that would do justice to a big city school. Even photography is taught as an extra curricular study with several young people using the darkroom set up in the school lab. Principal Wragg, himself a photographer hobbyist, is teaching the interested boys and girls what he knows of the art.

The North Hastings high school filled a big educational need for students in the north end of the county. It is truly a central school with seven buses bringing in students from as far as 30 miles distant.

Well Utilized

And the school is being well utilized. Built to accommodate 250 students, it already has filled the gallery, cafeteria and P.T. rooms turned into classrooms. Day school enrollment is 320 and is increasing by 25 to 30 every year. About 70 of the students are from Bancroft.

"I don't know what we are going to do for accommodation in a few years' time," Mr. Wragg said.

Although the first year night classes for adults drew the greater interest than was anticipated, even bigger plans are being made for next winter. Thursday night's "open house" for the night school classes was aimed at getting the interest of even more young adults for classes next October.

All in Adult Group

Nearly all attending night school classes this winter were in the adult group with Principal Wragg putting the ratio at about 95 per cent. They represent the group of residents who until this year had been denied any opportunity of developing a hobby or securing vocational training.

Sewing, typing and bookkeeping and shops classes saw the highest registration with three units being necessary in the first and second groups. Oil painting also went over big with two groups, numbering 40 students, taking this course.

Last night's "open house" program was opened with class members and guests hearing an address by Dr. Peter Loder, director of two-year courses at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. Dr. Sigh talked on recent trends and aspects of rural education.

The Department of Education and the Ontario Department of Agriculture are paying a big share of the cost for night school classes at Bancroft. Instructors' salaries are being paid by the Agricultural department and by the community programs branch of the Department of Education, while the North Hastings High School Board is supplying the accommodation and facilities.

DR. PETER LODER

The Belleville General Hospital has an addition to its staff in the person of Dr. Peter Loder from Halifax. Dr. Loder has been appointed to head the radiology department at the hospital. His duties commenced the first of this month.

A graduate of Dalhousie University, where he obtained his M.D., the doctor was born at Grand Falls, Newfoundland. Taking his formal education in his home province, Dr. Loder graduated from the school of medicine in 1947 and immediately joined the staff of the Victoria General Hospital in Halifax.

While at the hospital, where he remained until coming to this city, the doctor studied radiology and at the time or his separation from the Maritime hospital, was associate radiologist there.

The 29-year-old radiologist was married to a nurse from Halifax in 1947, when they both graduated. They have two children, both boys ages four and three. At the present time, Dr. Loder's family are still in Nova Scotia, until he can locate suitable living quarters.

NEW ACT OF POLITICAL CONTORTION

Something new in political contortions should be added to the pages of the histings in Canada when the next general election occurs. In the featured act of acrobatics will be the Social Credit candidates seeking a place in power on a Simon-pure, back-to-Aberhart platform of Social Credit theory.

It is the expressed intention of the Social Creditors to make a national appeal and it has been emphasized that this appeal will be founded on the funny-money absurdities which brought the party into political power in Alberta in the depression years of the '30's. The men behind the wider campaign are those who embraced the queer economic theories of the late William Aberhart without question. They still espouse them. But the intriguing novelty is now in the fact that the new-found hopes of the old-line Social Crediters have been bolstered by the record of the Social Credit administration in Alberta. And this record has had as little in common with the preachings of "Bible Bill" Aberhart as the record of any government in Canadian history.

Ingenious strategy of this new Social Credit story in the foothills province is that in its success it has become a complete refutation of every cherished concept of the funny-money theorists. It is a success which is not unfairly compared to the success in business which white tribes of Indians on reservations in Oklahoma were attaining a few years back. Like the Indians in Oklahoma, the Social Crediters in Alberta struck oil.

It is in this stroke of fortune, curiously enough, that Alberta's Social Crediters are actually in a position today —after shedding all the Aberhart absurdities—to carry out Aberhart's wildest promise of paying $25 monthly dividends to Alberta citizens. Of course they are not doing that, you have to give the scientists credit.

It will be remembered that in his weekly preachings from the pulpit of the Prophetic Bible Institute in Calgary, Aberhart was at first swaggered into the belief that within a few months of his election the money changers. He was a man of more than a few hatreds but he received his most bitter scorn and denunciation for the Canadian Bankers' Association and the Canadian Mortgage Association. What better scapegoats in the impoverished west in the '30's? What better promises to the electors than monthly dividends and a society in which credit was debt free?

So it was that "Bible Bill" swept into power. He promptly set out to destroy the interest structure in Alberta bonds in half and proceeded to enact bill after bill of new legislation, each completely beyond the powers of provincial jurisdiction under the British North America Act. Each Aberhart experiments could not be carried out, his successors remained in office by conforming to orthodox principles of government practice and eventually reached the era of prosperity.

And what of his successors today? The truth is that they wouldn't touch Aberhart's credit nonsense with a 10-foot pole. The province Aberhart left was free of debt, wealth that province is now actually debt free. The accounts have not yet been actually squared, but there is more than enough in government revenues to do it. A most outstanding debtor. Yet the truth is that the average Albertan is still without any noticeable diminution in his taxes. And the reason why the present Social Credit government finds it more profitable to invest its surplus cash in no less a field of business iniquity than the mortgage business.

Instead of making outright grants adequate to meet the increasing demands on the municipal taxpayers the government has devised a system of lending money to the municipalities. At a profit. And when Social Credit could have taken the role of Santa Claus which had been the promise of Aberhart, it has chosen the role of the scorned money lender.

Of course there is a difference. Mr. Aberhart preached the belief that money and credit were created with a scratch of the pen. He didn't have a theory covering the use of money which comes from oil and his younger disciple and successor, Premier Manning, has been forced, poor fellow, to follow the example of the banks and the mortgage companies.

It will be interesting to hear all this explained and reconciled by the Social Credit candidates for the House of Commons.

MAKING MONEY LAST LONGER

The average citizen is not likely to learn by carrying out the experiment himself but it is interesting to know that there may be trouble with paper currency—folding money, that is—"last longer."

It is being done all the time, we are told, in Ottawa. Unfortunately this is a process that can be used only in the mint and has no relation to how long money lasts in the spending departments.

It has been found that paper money needs aging if it is to have the maximum useful life. The Bank of Canada has presses that put the official signatures on as many as 45,000 bills a day. But it is some time before they get into circulation. They are put in a vault and left there to "age" for seven or eight months.

The bank has found that they last much longer as a result. For some individuals it would be wiser to take the first step in this process and just leave it in the vault. The bank's experience is that once in circulation a bill should last from six to eight months. That has never been our personal experience.

THE DAY

Honor is lost in a single day,
From the one false step comes shame,
By one thoughtless turn I may Ruin
And never the path reclaim.

So keep me true till the night slips down,
And grant me the strength, I pray
To keep to my best till I come from town,
Let me cling to the right today.

One day at a time is all I ask,
One day with its doubts and
Let me come tonight with a well done task
And I shall not dread the

For faith is lost in a moment's time,
In an instant man may stray,
So let me come from the dust and grime
With the joy of a swell-spent day.

With between one hundred and one hundred and twenty-five men applying at the Red Cross Hostel on Bridge street each day for meals, the task of feeding the hungry of this city has been in no way diminished lately. With the average food cost of six and one half cents each the hostel is almost self supporting or would be if the number of meals served averaged 120. The affairs of the hostel are managed by Mr. Cyril Wallis, manager of the Dominion Bank, and the Ladies of the Red Cross who, Mr. Waite states, are doing a wonderful work.

Miss N. Minore has returned to her home in Lindsay after visiting relatives here.

Miss Mary Shannon of this city is spending a few days in vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shannon at Latta.

Shaggy If Not Doggy

(Hamilton Spectator)

Hardly any one will mourn the passing of the pseudo cut, a hair style which was flattering neither to the woman who wore it nor to the dog from which it was supposedly copied. But a terrible possibility has arisen that woman may be preparing to go from bad to worse; to jump out of the kennel into the tundra.

We have just been looking at some pictures of a new "hair-do motion" style which is being offered as a successor to the poodle cut and we find ourselves irresistibly reminded of that noble (but regretfully extinct) animal, the musk-ox.

Musk-ox are right in their place, which is north of Latitude 70; indeed against the empty background of the Arctic they do have the considerable attraction of representing life and movement in an otherwise motionless landscape. But we do not believe that we want to share our home with a creature whose hair falls blankly in the eyes and parts at the sides like the fringe of a worn-out afghan.

Mining Booms

(St. Catherines Standard)

The trouble with most mining booms in the past is that soon or late, the bottom falls out and a lot of people are left holding the bag.

Another Fad Passes

(Windsor Star)

The editor of a girls' magazine contends bobby-soxers have become a race extinct as strappers, within the span of several years. This may come as a surprise to parents who observed one or more flip-flopping from the house in its abbreviated hosiery as recently as this morning. But the editor could be right.

The excitable ones made bobby sox their symbol, and in that way cast an unmerited reflection on other wearers of the hosiery, who were less given to exhibitionism. Whether the bare-brained ones disappear, or simply grow out of the bobby sox class, the editor did not say. We suspect that they have not been replaced in a good many cases.

We older folk may as well be practical about these matters, of course; and that leads to the question: What next?

Nature abhors a void, but is on the way, and perhaps even now is being cooked in the heads one of those teen-agers at a bocker party Saturday night that you might have suspected she was her great grandmother, defending a wagon-train against an Indian raid.

Open Prisons

(Charlottetown Guardian)

There is a group of prisons in Britain in which over eighty per cent of the prisoners were come to prison for the first time do not come back. These prisons are operated by the open prisons which have developed since the war, largely because of the shortage of accommodation in the ordinary prisons, and of locked cells and high walls.

The director of prison administration, Sir Lionel Fox, in Prisons Today, writes in The Spectator describes a pattern of life in these open prisons. All of them have something in common—they are very different in the type of prisoner received, the work done or the amenities provided, but the daily life is strenuous. Work is plentiful, and the conditions reflect challenge the spirits of even the hardiest prisoners, and the standard of discipline is somewhat very high. The spirit of these institutions is based on the existence of a very real sense of community based on confidence and trust between prisoners and the relatively few staff-governors, assistant governors, prison teachers and technical instructors.

The success or otherwise of the plan depends upon the process of informed selection. Prisoners guilty of violent crimes or of nomadic habits are not suitable for any prisoner who misbehaves or shows that he is not worth the risk militates against the reform of offenders. Even prisons could keep suitable prisoners fully occupied during their sentence in more healthful and in more healthful state of mind on release.

Dateline 230 B.C.

(New York Times)

An archaeological expedition that even the layman can understand appeared in the current issue of the National Geographic Society-Explorers Journal. It brings a Greco-Roman cargo ship believed to have foundered in the Mediterranean in the year 230 B.C. Some amphorae have already been recovered from the wreck and it has been possible to take a look at the hold, part of the cargo and the ship's timbers.

The project of raising the vessel, refilling her and actually sailing her is, of course the course is a way of getting physically into touch with classical times that is almost unique. The dead past can really be seen to come alive and can be perceived with the senses as well as in the imagination. Dr. Frederick Van Doorninck's exploration of the highest order and deserves the hearty thanks of all French collaborators deserve rich congratulation.

Triumph Of Tin

(Chicago News)

The favorite sarcasm of husbands to gadding wives: "I don't know how to use a can opener!" is even truer than they suppose. How does indeed, and the fact represents one of the long strides of civilization in the last century and a half.

The canning industry has brought unsurpassed convenience goers to Chicago in the last week. They represent the National Canners Association and innumerable auxillary groups built around the manufacturers of tinplate that are vital to our food supply.

Man's ability to serve us his food for future use, and to live in cities away from his source of supply, has been a factor in the development of human society not generally appreciated. Civilization was hardly possible until other ways of preserving food than would keep, both to feed himself and domesticated meat animals. Before that time man was half his time hunting. He ate when he had it.

He got along with grain and meat economy for several thousand years. As explained above probably he got the idea from the way in which grain was stored it and cooked it. This was in 1809. A year later an Englishman tried the tin-coated iron can for the same purpose and the canning industry began.

The can will keep on the shelf. It is a comforting thought as we contemplate other advances of the civilization much grateful by a dependable food supply.

Ancient Holdings

(Gall Reporter)

It was in 1670, when Charles II ruled that a charter was issued to a group headed by his first cousin, Prince Rupert, under the name of "The Governor and Company of Adventurers Trading into Hudson's Bay."

Through the Hudson's Bay Company, Canada's commercial England gained a foothold in the Canadian West. Its early operations with adventurous French explorers and traders.

The Company's activities, almost from the beginning, were more than a trading business. Its officers, almost without exception, were men of action, on all desert islands everywhere. They were instinctive leaders of men, and it was largely through their influence that the wilderness was tamed. But the Company has never since, and I have always felt, that it ever lived up to its opportunities.

The Bible was ruled out of the game on the grounds that the wilderness would have no effect on all desert islands everywhere. They were instinctive leaders of men, and it was largely through their influence that the wilderness was tamed. But the Company has never since, and I have always felt, that it ever lived up to its opportunities.

Through the Company's possession a block of land was given to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. It walks of fifty to fifty-five miles wide and extended from Lake Superior to the Rocky Mountains. Over it every alternate township in a belt twenty miles wide was awarded to the railway company. The rest of the land was granted to the Hudson's Bay Company. In addition to these lands, the company was also granted 7,000 acres in the vicinity of Edmonton, Alberta, and 50,000 acres in the Peace River district.

The retention of these lands in the company's hands, in the interval, proved unsatisfactory, especially in the progress of settlement in the prairie provinces.

Starting out these so-called "block" were sold and opened to settlement, the withholding of other blocks retarding their further development.

Now a deal is being negotiated under which the Alberta government will purchase all its rights in Bay Company lands in that province.

Closing out these far-reaching real estate holdings does not, however, mean the end of Hudson's Bay Co. influence in Alberta. It continues as a great trading organization, represented by numerous posts on the northern frontiers as well as by huge and thoroughly modern department stores in the great Alberta cities.

Doubtful Value

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

We took a good look at some close-up photographs of the moon the other day and, frankly, we don't think much of what we saw. A mess of dead craters and such.

Now comes word that other goals of our space ship enthusiasts are somewhat less alluring than we'd been led to believe. At a symposium of the American Rocket Society Rocket it was stated by men who ought to know that the moon's weather is ghastly. Temperatures average 30 below zero, there's neither oxygen, air or water.

Mars, of course, is a mere 86 million miles from Earth. Those who like longer trips have always favored Jupiter, only 400 or 500 million miles away. But it now seems that Jupiter, too, has drawn the short straw.

Now the last estimate, for building a satellite space ship, is a humbling 400 pieces by skyrocket to the Moon, Mars, Jupiter, was the original plan. Four ships from where or other. All federal, state, and local taxes are repealed. And as the space ships themselves, are extra.

Well, or what? For the privilege of going to a dead moon to look at a live earth? For the privilege

THE MARKED BANK CLERKS

I have suddenly realized that I am a frustrated man. To my knowledge a newspaper in Georgia and a school teacher somewhere in Iowa would make a quorum if we held a meeting convention of people who call it cri. Frustrated, yes, but not discouraged, for I am confident several more readers in North America would do as I do—they don't know the correct pronunciation of C R I.

C R I is easier to say than "cold" and twice as fast. When you call it c-r-i you show your ignorance.

Ah, ah! It is enough to betray your ignorance, without making a demonstration of it. After all, every one is ignorant about one thing or another.

In the course of the "flu" flurry last month a bank president had three clerks with cheesecloth masks and permitted a photographer to take a picture of them at work for the newspaper. An explanation was printed under the picture assured the public the masks were for the protection of both the clerks and the customers. It was a smart publicity stunt, no doubt, but the use of such masks for a few days at the will or whim of the individuals who wear them is of little value in the prevention of the C R I.

Instead of masks, bank clerks, should be handling money. Employers who meet briefly and transact business with many individuals in the course of the day, should be separated from the customers by a glass partition, such as has been used in banks, ticket-offices and the like for many years, with a gap. Through a semi-circular opening a foot wide and six inches high money, tickets and documents may be passed on a waist or desk level. But conversational spray could hardly pass directly through the opening and, in the case of a direct, almost instant transfer of invisibly fine moisture droplets laden with the germs or virus of the respiratory infection that the "flu", diphtheria, measles, infantile paralysis, meningitis, pneumonia, tuberculosis, whooping cough, laryngitis, stomatitis, scarlet fever and, to the best of our present knowledge, even chicken-pox and smallpox gets busy.

It is, indeed, conceivable that the germ or virus of any C R I (common respiratory infection) may travel first on hands, clothing, book, paper, or any surface and later reach the mouth and invade the body with infectious disease. But, fortunately for humanity, most of the germs of disease — producing (pathogenic) kinds cannot survive even a few seconds in the cold (temperature below body temperature) and dry (free from presence of moisture) or sunlight (daylight). Germs killed by sun exposure the germs or viruses lose potency to produce disease or infection. So we should not, anything indirectly, say by handling money, delivery by playing cards flipped by a tongue moistened thumb, it is not likely to amount to much.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What with the popularity of Twenty Questions and Who's My Line and similar progrems on the radio, the cult of such parlor games has increased enormously during the past winter. It has been well-nigh impossible to call on friends without finding them out becoping embroiled in games that tax both their wits and intelligence. And that is hardly what one expects in calling upon old friends of an evening for conversation on this theme the other evening I found myself involved in assuming game which consisted of naming books you would choose to take with you if you were to be marooned alone on a desert island for the rest of your life. Name them, and explain your choice.

The Bible was ruled out of the game on the grounds that the wilderness would have no effect on all desert islands everywhere. They were instinctive leaders of men, and it was largely through their influence that the wilderness was tamed. But the Company has never since, and I have always felt, that it ever lived up to its opportunities.

RISKS

Initiative is one of the greatest gifts with which one can be endowed. A big brain doesn't assure success unless it may be filled with the germs of many a talent, but without the spark of initiative and the initiative to bring them to the light they might just as well not be there.

We do not learn the practical things in life in the high school, or by reading a large library of books. We learn by doing. We learn by taking a very worth-while thing has some risk to it. We must learn to walk under conditions of life. No one knows the value of risks better than the man who has run them. He who risks most — and does it first — will be born, in the end, the least.

Glance at some men's faces and they have the appearance of a life that has run away with risks! Masterful faces are such.

The men who sailed and flew the oceans took great risks. Their ancestors had been afraid to do doing — but they inspired those who followed. Every risk taken by man reversed a possibility and many an opportunity. You cannot go through life without risks.

Ideas are not only born through risks, but they are developed to maturity through them. Ideas themselves are risks! But there would be no world without them — no hope left in the world. When undecided — risk it!

but they get plenty!

Our daily newspaper gives us an abundance of examples of risks that climb the highest for risking. Indeed history would be the poorer without the examples of endless risks taken by men without regard for the safety or conditions of life. No one knows the value of risks better than the man who has run them. He who risks most — and does it first — will be born, in the end, the least.

Glance at some men's faces and they have the appearance of a life that has run away with risks! Masterful faces are such.

Bell Expansion Adds 455 Phones Here During 1952

A total of $83,300,000 was expended by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada for new construction in Ontario and Quebec during 1952, the highest amount for a single year in its history, according to the company's 72nd annual report mailed to shareholders here.

During the year, 136,373 telephones were added to the company's system, bringing the total number in service to 1,976,123, the report, signed by Frederick Johnson, president, states. There were even more new applications for service than in 1951 but the total of 58,334 unfilled orders at the end of the year was the lowest at any year-end since 1945.

Commenting on the report, C. W. Preston, Bell manager in this region, said that 455 telephones were added in Belleville during 1952, bringing the number in service to 8543 and leaving 56 unfilled orders at the year end.

The report notes that there is still a heavy demand for service that must be met as quickly as possible.

Net income for the year amounted to $2.47 a share, compared with $2.08 a share in 1951. The usual $2 dividend was paid and an amount equivalent to 47 cents a share was added surplus which the report states, is still far below an adequate amount in relation to the company's capital and magnitude of operations.

The number of shareholders increased by 17,339 during the year to 100,890, nearly four times as many as there were seven years ago. No other Canadian company has as many owners of its stock. Ownership of the company continues to be predominantly Canadian and shareholders living in Canada control 90 per cent of the stock; those living in the two provinces the company serves hold 83 per cent. Shareholders include 10,339 company employees and pensioners.

The company is entering a new phase of the development and provision of special communication services, the report states. A mobile telephone network serving vehicles on streets and highways, is being expanded across southern and eastern Ontario and into western Quebec, and 16 of the 25 new stations required are already in service. The Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal microwave radio-relay system, designed to transmit long distance calls and television programs, is close to completion. The associated linking from Buffalo to Toronto, providing connection with United States television networks, is already in service. Other special types of telecommunication facilities are also being provided to meet particular needs of other industries and government services.

4th Belleville Scout, Cub Pack Hold Banquet

The 4th Belleville Scout Troop and Cub Pack held their annual father and son banquet Friday evening at the Kiwanis Centre.

About 120 fathers and boys were in attendance and the meal, for which many thanks are due to the Ladies' Auxiliary, was of the best.

At the beginning of the meal, a welcome was extended to all cubs, scouts, fathers and visiting leaders by the chairman of the group committee, Mr. Charles Lusk. The blessing was asked by Frank Creegan, president of Kiwanis. The program got under way with a toast to the late World Chief Scout, Lord Baden Powell of Gilwell, by Bob Langlois. Bucky Wilson of the Cub Pack then proposed a toast to the fathers which was replied to by Roy Rackman, Mr. Al Gardiner, cubmaster, then presented three badges and one service star. Mr. Don Allan, district commissioner, presented 30 proficiency badges, one first class badge and two proficiency cords.

Then followed a sing song. Kiwanian John Driscoll introduced the guest speaker who was Constable Jack Kennedy of the Provincial Police. Mr. Rackman spoke briefly, but pointedly on how to help policemen even just by being observant and his remarks, which was well illustrated with true anecdotes, was enjoyed by everyone.

The appreciation of the audience was expressed by Mr. J. Waldon of the Kiwanis Club through the chairman.

Following this the scouts and cubs played some games downstairs while movies were being prepared. These were shown and when they were over, everyone went home happier, wiser and content.

The cub badges awards were as follows: Toy Maker, Malcolm Gibson. Collectors, Don Wilson, Cammie Wallbridge. Two Year Service Star, Bill Soratos. The Scout Badges were: Cyclist, Karl Keppes, Frank Chick, David James. Interpreter, Peter Keppes, Karl Keppes, Alex Schadon. Entertainers, David James, Bob Powell. Leatherworkers, David James, Bob Powell. Missioners, Frank Chick, Bob Langlois. Printers, David James. Athletes, Peter Keppes, Plumber, Bob Powell. Swimmers, Bob Langlois.

'Musical Ride' To be Presented Before Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP has been invited to display the famed "musical ride" of its horses before the Queen during their Coronation visit to Britain, Justice Minister Garson said in the Commons Thursday.

Mr. Garson said the musical-ride troop, which will take part in the Coronation parade June 2, has been invited to appear in the royal tournament at Olympia Stadium in London in the presence of Queen Elizabeth.

The troop also will appear at some agricultural fairs and fulfil other engagements which Mr. Garson did not specify.

"It is clear that there is a very considerable demand for its attendance," Mr. Garson said, "and it is proposed to accept as many engagements as can be filled."

The horses are due to arrive in London May 8—giving them time for acclimatization and practice before the June 2 Coronation—and to sail for home July 7.

The command performance of the Mountie troop will mark the second time that the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh have seen the musical ride. It was staged for them in Ottawa during their tour of Canada in the fall of 1951.

Mr. Garson told the Commons that 46 RCMP horses will be sent to the Coronation.

They will provide a full mounted troop that will lead the Canadian contingent in the Coronation procession and a mounted escort for the carriage of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

CHILD KILLED IN CAR

KITCHENER (CP)—Phillip Bemm, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Benn of Preston, was killed Wednesday night when his father's car broke through a guard rail and fell 15 feet down a bridge-approach embankment. Mr. Benn was seriously hurt.

Rescurer, Bob Langlois. Public Healthman'z, Bob Langlois. Clerk, Bob Langlois. 1st. class badge and "A" cord, Bob Powell. "B" cord, Bob Langlois.

At this time, Mr. Allan presented the troop with a awarded crest for completing their 1952 planned achievement target, and in the absence of the A.D.C. of Cubs, presented the pack with their's also.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Constable Harry McKee, 243 Foster Avenue, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Jeanine Crea is expected home Sunday from Montreal, where she has been visiting relatives for the past week.

Mrs. Ron Button, who has been visiting in Toronto for the past few days, has returned home to Montreal.

Miss Ruth Watson, pupil of Mrs. Leonard Dandeneau, R.M.T., was among those receiving honors in Grade VI at the recent Royal Conservatory of Music examinations.

Miss Adrienne Campbell, a Grade VI piano pupil of Mrs. F. Houston, R.M.T., has successfully passed with honors the recent examinations held by the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

Mr. Arthur Galbraith, of the C.N.R. ticket office, who suffered a painful injury two weeks ago, returned yesterday from Belleville General Hospital, and is now convalescing at his home, Charles Street.

Mrs. R. C. Anderson, 264 Coleman Street, has gone to Toronto to meet her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Gerald and Anne, of London, Ontario, also her two sisters and sister-in-law, in Toronto. While there she will attend the fashion show being held this week.

Dinner Party

A delightful dinner party was held yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gilmour, 104 Avonel Street, in honor of the 53th wedding anniversary of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Button, with the immediate members of the family present, including: Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Button, and baby, Laurie, and Mrs. Ron Button, of Montreal.

Euchre Party

On Tuesday evening an enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mrs. Jack Allin, College Street, when friends gathered for euchre. Fourteen tables were in play. Those receiving lucky ladies, Mrs. Lovelass, Mrs. K. Ferguson; consolation, Mrs. H. Daley; men: Mrs. M. Kent, Mrs. D. Hart; (played as man); consolation, W. Allin. Lone hands, Mrs. M. Weddings

WHITEHEAD—LOCKHART

A double ring wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Ashton at the United Church parsonage on Bracondale Hill Road, Toronto, when Norma Audrey, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Lockhart, of West Huntingdon, became the bride of Mervyn Robert, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Whitehead, of Toronto.

The bride, attired in medium grey suit with navy accessories and corsage of red roses, was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Patricia Lockhart was her sister's only attendant, and was dressed in navy blue suit and accessories with a corsage of yellow and white baby mums.

Mr. Charles Lansfield, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's home at 1036 St. Clarens Avenue, Toronto. The bride and bridegroom left on a short honeymoon in the States. They will reside at 16 Delrey Drive in Toronto.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. JUBILEE AUX.

The March meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church was held Tuesday evening in the church parlors. A delicious supper was served by Mrs. Mayhew's group.

The president, Mrs. Jones, welcomed guests and conducted business of the meeting. The next meeting is to be a pot-luck supper with the Afternoon Auxiliary on March 31.

Miss Thaine's group was in charge of the program. Mrs. T. Calder led worship service on the theme of "Prayer". A reading by our key of day and bolt of night."

The chapter dealing with medical missionaries from the study book, "Along African Trails" was reviewed by Miss Thaine. In Angola there is not one doctor to 100,000 people. The expectancy in Africa is not over 30 as compared with that of Canadians which is over 67. Nutritional disorders are common. In Angola loss of baby and mother life is appalling. Modern drugs have taken much horror from sprues.

After the meeting, an inspiring play "Two Masters", presented by Vois Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, was much enjoyed.

Not Four — Nine Grandparents Here

With the customary four grandparents on the scene any baby can be assured of not going short on affection, but nine-months-old Joseph Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cunningham, Wilkins Street, Belleville, will have a hard time choosing among his grandparents.

The reason is that little Joseph does not stop off at having only four grandparents — he has nine, believed to be a record.

The nine grandparents, the parents, and baby himself all got together recently for a family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams, Ameliasburg township in Prince Edward county, about 18 miles from Belleville.

The occasion was the 88th birthday or Joseph's great great grandmother, Mrs. J. G. Simonds.

It took considerable effort to figure out who was who, but here they are:

Front row — Mrs. J. G. Simonds, 88, great great grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. G. Cunningham and Joseph, and Mrs. B. Kennedy, 89, great grandmother, of Ottawa. Second row — Asa Broad, 78 and Mrs. Broad, 75, of Massassaga, great grandparents; Mr.S. Robert Adams, 61, grandmother, and Mrs. Joseph Cunningham, 37, bemoiling of a record.

Quinte Field Naturalists Hear Bird-Song Recordings

Tape recordings of bird songs formed a novel but effective basis of a lecture presented to the Quinte Field Naturalists Club by Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto, executive director of the Federation or Ontario Naturalists.

Songs of several thrushes, wrens, sparrows and other birds recorded by Dr. Gunn after maternal paragraphs of patient waiting, were faithfully reproduced by the amplifier. Colorful slides of the birds projected on the screen fixed the songs more firmly in the minds of the listeners.

Faithful Reproduction

On one occasion, Dr. Gunn related, the song of a hermit thrush was reproduced with such fidelity that another thrush flew round the amplifier replying with his own song during which pause in the recorded song.

The normal, rapid, high-pitched song of the marsh wren was uncannily dropped one and then two octaves by reducing the speed of the recording to a half and to a quarter of the normal speed. This made the multitude of notes more distinguishable and, incidentally, more pleasant to the human ear.

The eerie cry of the loon brought back fond dreams of past holidays on some beautiful northern lake.

Vital Link

In a brief discussion of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, Dr. Gunn pointed out that it had been the vital link among the numerous field naturalist clubs throughout Ontario for 20 years. It serves to encourage the study of wildlife and conservation in many practical ways and in an educational way through the medium of bulletins and annual field courses given at Camp Billie Bear.

The local club plans to continue the Audubon Screen Tour lectures during the 1953-54 season and to add to this series a speech film by Mr. Dick Bird, who has won acclaim in the past with Belleville audiences.

CAR DITCHED, ESCAPES

CAPELLA (CP)—A slow-moving train Thursday dropped a car driven by Jack Oldfield, 31, of Ruthburn 20 feet into a ditch. Oldfield was knocked unconscious but later was able to walk from the scene, his dog "Lucky," riding with him, escaped unhurt from the wreckage.

St. Michael's—Holy Rosary P.T.A. Holds Interesting Discussion

St. Michael's and Holy Rosary P.T.A. met on Monday evening, with chairmen open for inspection at 7:30.

Mr. K. C. McCallum presided at the meeting which followed. First, there was a short business meeting; next, a program in harmony with the central note of "Education Week' was presented. Rev. Father Chartrand.

The opening number was a chorus by the Grade IV group from Grades six and seven. A reading was then given by five Grade eight boys, John Black, Dale Burley, Tim Cook, Michael Dunn and Dennis Cunningham. The boy choristers returned for a second chorus, after which Maureen Kennedy gave a short recitation. Mary Elizabeth Lally impersonated the various characters in "Overheard Lines at a Circus".

As a final number in the pupils' part of the program, a group of boys from Grade ten, in fact panel discussion, traced the history of education in Ontario from the time when Canada became a British possession till the present. The boys taking part in the discussion were, Karl Bel-Sister Mary Cyrilla's.

sanger, Richard Brown, Leo Farrell, Basil Hanley, Wayne Johnston, Earle Mackerras, Bob Rose, Joe Ryan and Richard Walsh, Edmondson Dibenedem

The chairman next called on Rev. J. J. Buckley to conduct the rest of the program. Representative members of P.T.A. were called to the stage to participate in another discussion in which each ably pointed out the connection and importance of education in his particular field of work. The group was as follows. Mr. R. H. Collins, representing law; Mr. F. Cunningham, the teaching profession; Dr. E. N. Harrop, agriculture; Mr. E. C. McCallum, P.T.A. president; Mr. E. Mulcahy, engineering; Mr. "Z. W. Phibbs, labor and management; Dr. F. H. Ross, the medical profession; Mr. K. J. Soden, accountancy.

Considerable discussion ensued when Father Buckley invited questions on the panel.

The attendance plaques were won by the following classes: St. Michael's Academy—Miss Mary Andrew's and Miss Murphy's; Holy Rosary School—Sister Mary Agnes Clare's and

QUESTION:

Being an amateur . . . I have clipped and kept a file of your recipes . . . hope you will never forsake us or I'll be lost for ideas for meal planning . . . I'd love to get a recipe for those little chocolate biscuits, chocolate-coated. They are quite expensive to buy . . . I'm sure you could economize with a home recipe. The biscuit consists of a little round cookie about 2" in diameter, with a mold of marshmallow on top and dipped in chocolate entirely . . . can you help me, please?

ANSWER:

Make a plain cut-out 2-inch cookie (see below). While they are still very hot top with a marshmallow. The cut side of marshmallow should be on the cookie, to make it melt somewhat. When they are cold marshmallow will be stuck firmly to cookie, then you can dip them in melted cooking chocolate. Melt chocolate over hot not boiling water, until it is just melted, but keep it warm while you dip, so that the dipping. Lift out dipped cookies, with drain, place on waxed paper to harden.

PLAIN CUT-OUT COOKIES

Three-quarters cup butter, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups red but not sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter well, then add sugar gradually while creaming. Add beaten eggs, then flour sifted with baking powder. Chill thoroughly. Roll a little dough at a time on lightly floured board. Cut into 2-inch rounds. Bake on buttered cookie sheet at 350 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes.

Since you may not want to make cut-out cookies I am giving you

VANILLA WAFERS

One cup barely melted butter, 2-4 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 3-4 cup sifted but not packed flour, 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1-2 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix in order given (as in recipe shows) and chill dough. Roll into 1-8 balls between buttered palms. Place on buttered sheet and press down with fork. Bake about 8 or 10 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. These may be put together in pairs with butter icing and since you like fancy cookies, top cookie may be dipped in melted chocolate. Then spread icing over the icing-coated bottom cookie.

QUESTION:

I am watching your column for recipes I can use for my overweight husband . . . I get so tired cooking boiled meat, cabbage, turnip and onions. Our house reeks with the smell of it all . . . ha'll eat the same thing over and over without grumbling . . . I make your chocolate ice cream quite often and will be happy to see more of the same things so I can vary his sweets.

ANSWER:

Yvonne I have printed only a little of your charming letter. I enjoyed visiting with you by mail too. I think your husband would like

ORANGE FREEZE (no sugar)

One cup strained orange juice, 11 sucaryl tablets, 2 tablespoons strained lemon juice, 1-3 cup whipping cream (or whipped topping), 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. Mash 10 sucaryl tablets finely in 1 tablespoonful of the orange juice. Combine with remaining orange and lemon juice. Pour into refrigerator ice tray and freeze until hard. Mash the remaining sucaryl tablet to a fine powder. Whip cream and add mashed tablet, salt, and vanilla. Spread this whipped mixture over frozen fruit juices. Return to freezing compartment and freeze until whipped mixture is frozen.

WHIPPED TOPPING

(Use in place of whipped cream if reducing.)

One-half cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 cup powdered skim milk, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. Put water and lemon juice into bowl and add the powdered skim milk. Beat with a rotary beater until stiff. Beat in sugar and vanilla. Chill and use as you would whipped cream This makes about 2 1-3 cups.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A marriage that was wrong from the beginning

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 14 years old and am married to a man of 25. We have only been married two weeks, yet he acts very intent to me and everything I say or do makes him angry. I don't know what's wrong with him.

I love him very much, but I doesn't seem to me that he loves me. What do you think?—J. C.

Dear J.C.:

How did a girl of 14 ever come to marry a man of 25? Something was seriously wrong here from the very beginning. No 14-year-old girl is ready for marriage, and no man of 25 could possibly be in love, in the right sense of the word, with a child of that age. Moreover, your marriage, at 14, is illegal in the state where you live, and this fact provides legal grounds for its annulment. Either you or your parents must have falsified your age for the records. To my mind, your parents should have your marriage annulled and send you back to school and the normal life of a girl of your age. I suggest that you take this up with them. Or, if you are afraid to do so, then go to the nearest social welfare organization and discuss it with someone there.

Don't live constantly in daydreams

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl with two dear boy friends, one, 16, who lives in another city, and one, 21, who is in Korea. I write to both of them, and while they're both very attractive, somehow I can't love either of them as I should. The 16-year-old one tells me in every one of his letters that he loves me. The other has said it in only two of his letters.

I have to choose between these boys, because I don't think it's right for girl to have two boys friends. I've known the one, 16, for years and the other for only a few months, yet time has nothing to do with it. While I am separated from both of them, I realize that if one's love is great, being apart won't change this affection.

Can you help me make the right choice?—D. H.

Dear D.H.:

I am sure you have no boy friends, one, 16, who lives in another city, and one, 21, who is in Korea. I write to both of them, and while they're both very attractive, somehow I can't love either of them as I should. The 16-year-old one tells me in every one of his letters that he loves me. The other has said it in only two of his letters.

I have to choose between these boys, because I don't think it's right for girl to have two boys friends. I've known the one, 16, for years and the other for only a few months, yet time has nothing to do with it. While I am separated from both of them, I realize that if one's love is great, being apart won't change this affection.

Can you help me make the right choice? I am 15 years old.—D. H.

Dear D.H.:

While you can be sure that I fully realize how deeply teenagers feel their first romances, and that I am very sympathetic about it, don't you think you're going rather far out of your way to find a romantic problem, particularly in the case of the young man who is in Korea?

I can't see any reason in the world why you should feel obliged to "choose between" these two boys, especially when one of them, whom you really know only slightly, shows little or no interest in you. And why should not a girl have two boy friends? The way I look at it, a teen-age girl should have just as many friends among the boys as she can, and preferably wait until she is older to choose a "steady".

It seems to me it would make a lot more sense if you would stop walking the romantic-tragedy romance, write both of these boys a friendly letter and then wait a few years before getting quite so dramatic about love.

Particularly, I urge you not to get so dreamy that you see romance where it doesn't exist and it won't spoil your fun at all, even in 15, if you start resisting yourself to be a little realistic about things. Instead of living confusingly in daydreams.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY W.M.S.

The February meeting of Holloway street United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors.

After the president, Mrs. Coulter had welcomed any visitors and expressed sympathy and pleasure at the goodly number of members present, an impressive worship service was conducted by Mrs. Dozie and her group.

Mrs. Dozie took as her theme "the community or grace."

The scripture was read by Mrs. Bennett from Matthew 25:18-30 and the meditation given by Mrs. Wese. Mrs. E. Morgan and Mrs. E. Bush, who touched on the church as a means of grace and pointed out that grace is gained through service.

At this time, Mrs. J. A. Scriven favored with a solo, "Bless This House," which was much appreciated.

Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Hubbs reviewed the Study Book, "Along African Trails," depicting African village life and customs.

A short business meeting followed with reports from the treasurer, Mrs. Burrows. Friendship secretary, Mrs. Wease, reported 83 home calls and three hospital calls. Supply secretary, Mrs. Weslover reported four quilts completed and sent to the Red Cross, Toronto, for flood victims overseas.

Mrs. Westover made an appeal for good used clothing which could be made over for children and for any other warm articles of clothing suitable for a bale being sent overseas in the near future.

Mrs. Cordes read an article on "Christian Stewardship" which brought home to each one present how important is the contribution to home and foreign missions.

The date for the presbyterial was announced for March 24-25 in Holloway Street Church.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Dozie and her group and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

4TH THURLOW

Recent Bride Feted With Gifts

4th THURLOW — Mrs. John Ritz, with Mrs. Clayton Ritz, Mrs. Lorne Ritz and Mrs. Don Williams as co-hostesses, entertained on Monday evening in honor of Mrs. A. F. Duffy (formerly Donna Ritz), a recent bride of a red and white kitchen shower.

Following a couple of contests and humorous readings, a wellladen wagon of gifts was brought in and presented to the guest of honor and Donna graciously thanked her friends for the lovely gifts.

Dainty refreshments brought a delightful evening to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ruckstuhl and Linda and Sandra, were entertained to supper on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brookshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton and Jean and Ronnie, with Mrs. and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cole and Keith, were Saturday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pulman, David and Beth, spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunne Martin spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coulter and June of Roslin, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ruckstuhl.

Mrs. Joe Longevine, Paul and Catherine, spent Friday last with Mrs. Arthur Treverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Martin, Mr. and Mrs. John Ritz and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Howes were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz.

Presentation.

On Saturday evening a number of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walker to spend a social hour with their son, Lyle Walker, before his departure on Tuesday to join the armed forces in Korea and present him with an expansion identification bracelet and to wish him the best of luck.

DESERONTO

DESERONTO.— Mrs. M. Ryan entertained the members of the Ladies' Euchre Club. Prizes were won by Mrs. Harry Bender, and Mrs. Harold Topping. Consolation prize was won by Mrs. G. Sodd and travelling prize by Mrs. G. Fox. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Marion Lovell, of Toronto, and Mrs. Charles Barber, of Napanee, were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwards.

Mr. William Crabbe, of Queens University at Kingston, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crabbe and family.

Mrs. Vera Fox is in Rochester, N.Y., owing to the illness of her brother, Mr. Miles Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sharpe of Kingston, were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Joyce and family.

Mrs. G. Brundige of Brockville, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Leffman.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Howard of Colwens, were week-end guests of the former's father, Mr. Henry Howard, during the past week.

Miss Helen Harvey, of Toronto, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Harvey.

Mr. Vince Thomson and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Thomson visited with their mother, Mrs. Archie Thomson, on Sunday over the week-end.

The regular weekly meeting of the Deseronto Hobby Club was held with 16 members present.

The president, Mrs. Weber, presided.

It was decided to secure a shield or cup for competition in the school for best display of handicraft.

Plans and projects for the Hobby Fair which is to be held on Wednesday, May 13, were discussed. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. E. Walker.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. Sid Brown, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Bissette served refreshments.

The mother and daughter banquet sponsored by the local association of Girl Guides, was an outstanding event of the past week. It was held in the Lions Club hall, which was generously donated by Mr. Mailler. The potluck supper was supplied by the mothers and members and the Lions Club loaned its equipment.

The Guides and Brownies, each accompanied by their mother or a friend, were seated at four tables.

Each Guide patrol was responsible for the decorating of its table and for favors for the Brownies and Brownies, who were their special guests.

The decorating of the head table was ably done by Company Leader Marion Crabbe, assisted by Lieut. Mrs. Legris.

All joined in the singing of "O Canada," which was followed by the Guide grace.

The chairman for the evening was Guide Captain, Mrs. G. Armstrong, who introduced the guests at the head table. These were Lieut. Mrs. M. Legris; local association president, Mrs. D. F. Weber, Mr. C. Cole, former Scout master; Brown Owl, Mrs. T. Scott; Division Commissioner, Mrs. G. Rickwood; chairman, Mrs. G. Armstrong; Mrs. K. F. Blachford; Tawny Owl Mrs. N. Leavitt; His Worship Mayor W. Scott; Mrs. Ross Sexsmith, Mrs. E. Tramme and Brown Owl Mrs. S. Clark of Napanee; Tawny Owl Miss Ann Vine, of Napanee; was also present, as was Mrs. Scott of the Guides.

The Toast to the Queen was proposed by Lieut. Mrs. Legris and was followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

A welcome to guests was extended by the chairman.

The Toast to the Mothers, proposed by Company Leader Crabbe and was responded to by Mrs. E. E. Maybee.

A welcome was extended to the Brownie Mothers by Brown Owl Mrs. T. Scott.

Lieut. Mrs. Legris thanked those who contributed to the supper and to the local association for all their assistance.

A brief resume of the local association since its inception was given by Mrs. Ross Sexsmith.

Division Commissioner Mrs. G. Rickwood introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. K. F. Blachford.

Mrs. Blachford's talk on "Our Chalet", was most informative and interesting, especially to Guides and Brownies as it is their international home in Adelboden, Switzerland, and the dream of all is to visit it some day.

The model of the Chalet, which was built by Mrs. Blachford's sister, Mrs. James McAuliff, who was the first Canadian Guide to visit, was the centre of interest, and did much to make the Chalet more real to them.

Tawny Owl Mrs. Leavitt thanked Mrs. Blachford on behalf of those present.

The tables were then moved back, and the following program carried out.

Enrolment ceremony, when Brown Owl Mrs. Leavitt was enrolled by Commissioner Mrs. G. Rickwood.

Color party, A.P.L. Annetta Dorey as color bearer, A.P.L.s Phyllis Bender and Ann Gartland as escorts.

Presentation by Division Commissioner Mrs. Rickwood of Second Class badge to A.P.L. Phyllis Bender of Lily-of-the-Valley Patrol and Acting Patrol Second, Diane Lord of the Bluebird Patrol in a suitable ceremony. Diane was also presented with her Patrol Second's stripe having won it previously.

Thinking Day ceremony by Guide Company, illustrating the development of the Girl Guide movement from its beginning in England in 1909 to the 24 countries, which are members of the world organization.

Grand Circassian Patrol for the best decorated table. Presentation was made by Mrs. Weber to A.P.L. Marilyn Hines of a set of semaphore signal flags and a first aid kit.

Brownie and Guides in double circle, give a sing-song.

Remarks by Division Commissioner Mrs. Rickwood expressed appreciation of the Guide Leaders' work, and the singing of "Taps" brought the evening to a close.

TWEED

Tweed — Friends in Tweed learned with regret of the sudden death of Charles "Chuck" Scrimshaw, Citizen employed by W. T. Hawkins Ltd., in charge of the company's aircraft. Mr. Needham was piloting an ambulance aircraft in South Carolina, and was taking it to Detroit, when the plane struck a high tension power line and crashed during the recent high wind storms. Both Needham and his assistant were instantly killed.

Tragedy of Self-Deceived

By ROY L. SMITH

Just because the story is laid in the midst of a wedding scene, surrounded by the spirit of hilarity and merry-making, we have no unlocked a great part of the tragedy of the wise and foolish girls. To miss out on a gala event may be too bad; but it is not fatal. But to lose out on life for the reason that we have hoodwinked ourselves is the essence of tragedy.

The Story Itself

A wedding in the ancient East was attended by all manner of merry-making. It was an occasion to which young and old looked forward eagerly, and looked back upon with great delight. To miss a wedding was to miss one of the high pleasures of the year; but to miss out because of stupid lack of preparation was almost unthinkable.

Jesus told the story of ten girls — three is no significance in the number—who had planned on going to a wedding. Five of them made careful preparation, and five of them trusted to luck. When the great hour came those who were ready were admitted, and it became the memory of their lives. Those who were not ready had no on to blame but themselves for their sorry predicament and disappointment.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 8, "Jesus Urges Alertness." Matthew 24:1—25:13; Romans 13:11-14

Short-Sighted Youth

There is an old proverb to the effect that the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts, but the truth is that in all too many cases the thoughts of youth are short, short thoughts.

Today's fun holds such an attraction, and tomorrow's amusements are so far in the future; the applause of the crowd is so much more interesting than the ultimate victories. Laughter now is so much more appealing than the deep satisfactions that come with old age.

Copyright 1953 by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America.

As a consequence youth is being seduced by a thousand temptations which will appear so silly and so senseless 25 years from now, Robby Burns, the beloved Scot, sighed for the power that would give us the ability to see ourselves as others see us. What a blessing it would be if we could see ourselves today, as we will see ourselves 20 years from today.

Beware, My Boy!

Good sense, experience, and every other faithful teacher is angered, young man, in warning you against the excitements of today which will become the regrets of tomorrow. It is a strange thing that God has set before you the most important decisions of life just at a time when you have the least judgment and experience.

Ask the old man who has come up to the great hours of his life what have been his greatest satisfactions, and what have provided him with his most lasting joys. Ask him what the pure-metal happiness has been and what the gold-weak lies have been. Only in the most extreme instances will you find an elderly person advising you to continue in a way of drinking, gambling, or wasting. Even one who does is held suspect.

On the other hand, those who have lived the whole of life are positive in their warnings. They tell you to "Beware!" And they have good reason for their judgment. They have watched the reckless.

There is a sense in which it can be said that youth is a period when one must walk a tight rope. There are so many chances to make fatal mistakes. At no other time in life do we need better judgment, and more we have it ourselves, we had better take it from those who have.

Watch therefore," is very modern and very down-to-date.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

By Fulton Oursler

Chapter 16

THE FIRST CLASH

It was on His return to Capernaum that His first clashed with the public authorities. They were agents from the Jerusalem Temple, sent down to make an official report on the wonder-worker.

Jesus had entered a private home and sat in an upper room, answering questions from a group of scholars. The Temple agents were there, too, they had orders to follow Him everywhere and note nothing. Suddenly, overhead, they all heard a disturbance. Much annoyed, the master of the house climbed up to the roof. What he found there was a family, a wife and four sons, carrying a fathen, deathly ill.

The sick man's wife pleaded with the outraged householder. Her good husband had caught a wasting disease; without warning his whole body had lost the power of movement or sensation except for an intense internal suffering. They said, the wife and the sons, who had carried the sick man to Capernaum, that no doctor in Galilee knew how to cure paralysis. More, they knew that the old man's death must soon follow.

That was why, in desperation, they had lugged the sick man a weary distance here. They had arrived, they still could not get to Jesus. The human crush around the synagogue had been too dense; no one, sick or well, would give way for them. Later He entered this house of a friend and sat talking with them in an upper room. So the pilgrims dragged the bed and the sick man around to the back of the house next door. No crowd there! Up a narrow flight of steps they carried their burden to the roof.

A Case of Command

They wanted to lower the sick man through the opening in the roof, deposit him in front of the Master, and implore His mercy. All very touching, but the irate householder was ready to order them off the premises when the pale, upturned face of Jesus stopped him; that glowing gaze was full of command.

"Very well, then! Lower him away!"

They lowered mattress and dying man to the floor. Jesus looked down at the unmoving patient. He then bent beside the dying stranger, laid lean hands on icy cheeks, and stroked the cataleptic eyes. He spoke in a profound hush.

"Be good of heart, son! Your sins are forgiven you."

A horrified murmur raced thru' the audience. The Temple agents now sat up and prayed. Here was something to report to Jerusalem.

"Blasphemy!" squawked one. "Who can forgive sins but God alone? Blasphemy!"

No one replied as the dread charge, punishable by death, sounded and echoed in the room. Jesus was still bending over the sick man.

"What is it." He asked, facing the men from the Temple, "that you think in your hearts? Why do you think evil? Which is easier to say: your sins are forgiven—or: arise! Take up your bed and walk?"

"I Say, Arise!"

His pastor the cheeks of the man who until then could not budge but only feel this great pain. Then Jesus' voice sounded slowly and deliberately:

"But that you may know that the Son of Man has power on earth to forgive sins, get up! I say to you, arise! Take up your bed and go to your house."

Everything seemed to stand still for one breathless instant. Then in sight of all the immovable man began to move. The speechless man spoke. The first sound was a great cry of relief, a convulsion of joy that shook his whole wasted frame. Struggling up to one elbow, he cried: "Thanks be to God!"

The sick man put his palms on the earthen floor, forced himself to stand up, stood everything for a moment, then weeping in his new strength, he bent over and did as he had been bidden; he lifted up his bed and walked out of the house.

And Jesus smilingly waved His hand to farewell to the relatives upstairs before they raced after the man He had healed.

The crowds were breaking up in jabbering confusion. But the doctors of the law and the agents from Jerusalem huddled in a corner and put their heads together.

"The Son of Man! From where did He get that phrase?" One of them remembered. The prophet Daniel had used the same pregnant words.

Was It Heresy?

"I saw in the night faces, and behold one, like the Son of Man, came with the clouds of heaven . . ."

The Son of Man! Fulfilment of Daniel's prophecy? Power to forgive sins? It was heresy. They would go back to Jerusalem and report upon this business.

They returned with renewed zeal to trap the Master. Up until now He had chosen His words too carefully for them to indict Him for blasphemy. What, then? Well, among the more conservative the talk in Capernaum was that Jesus and His friends were rather loose in their observance of the Sabbath laws. There might be a real opening because disregard of the Sabbath was a heathen's offense and could also be punished by death.

It was only a few weeks later, on a Sabbath in the synagogue at Capernaum, that Jesus noticed the same foxy old faces hovering in the rear of the crowd. They were watching eagerly as a young man up front cried out to Jesus pleading that He heal his withered hand. Would the Master heal a man on the Sabbath? That question was in every mind in the synagogue.

"Arise and stand forth in the midst," said Jesus. The groaning man tottered forward; the Master took the withered hand, all shriveled and grey, and held it between His own strong, pale hands. By this time the Pharisees should have realized how well the Master knew the law. He was well aware that to break the Sabbath was punishable by death; so it was stated in Exodus 31: 14. So once again His life was hanging by a thread as His clear challenge to His enemies rang out:

"I ask you if it be lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do evil? To save life or to destroy it?"

Men and Sheep

Then, letting His dark gaze sweep the crowd in one magnetic glance, He demanded:

"What man is there among you that has one sheep and if the same fall into a pit on the Sabbath day will he not take hold on it and lift it up? How much better is a man than a sheep?"

His intensely compassionate eyes held them.

"Stretch forth your hand."

In another instant both the man's hands were alike; the gray and withered one restored to health, white and firm and whole as the other. The tumult of the crowd ended the service. But the Temple agents, flaunted with anger, went off to conspire with Herodians in the town. That unsavory crew of royalists did not want to free Israel; they were marplots anxious to get rid of Pontius Pilate, the procurator of Rome, and establish a descendant of Herod the Great on the throne of Judea. Here were strange bedfellows — but they were in agreement in asking one question.

The question is still being asked today.

Meanwhile Jesus Himself went into the desert alone and prayed all night.

RAWDON

Bethel-Zion Y. P. U. Presents Three-Act Comedy

RAWDON. — Bethel-Zion Y.P.U., under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Edward J. Keesey, Plainfield, presented its three act comedy in Mount Pleasant church hall on Wednesday evening.

A large crowd was in attendance and enjoyed the various laughs throughout the presentation.

The cast was as follows:

Nancy Edwards as Raggedy Nan, has escaped from a nearby orphanage and seeks shelter at the farm; played by Marilyn Hodgson; Gramp Withers, a kindly old man in whose home the play was centred, Ted Kay; Agatha, Gramp's daughter-in-law, and a schemer for position and money, Donna Kay; Florence, her daughter, who loves a country chap, Shirley Kerr; Tilly, the maid, who hoped to marry a man, have a home of her own and be her own boss, Beverly Gow; Phineas Scrogg, the richest man in town, Bob Sullivan; Scrogg' son, who wants to be president of the local Co-op, Wayne Gow; Mrs. Flanigan, the village gossip, who knows everybody's business, Betty Kay; Tommy Wyatt, a young farmer who also wants the Co-op president, Dale Cranston; Constable Cruthers, a member of the village police force, who is afflicted with stammering, Franklin Kay.

The Play

Act I—Depicted a summer afternoon in Gramps Withers' home when "Raggedy Nan" seeks shelter from the nearby orphanage; Act II—took place in the same room a month later, when everyone's plans have gone topsy-turvy; Act III—was presented in two scenes, the first whereby exchanging sleeping beds for love, made the wrong people fall asleep in their chairs and twelve hour later everything ends happily for the young folks who are in love.

During intermissions, Beverly and Wayne Gow sang "Turn Back the Hands of Time" and "Now is the Hour", while Joan Kerr and Eileen Kay sang "I'll Find You Again", and "My Blue Heaven". Miss Shirley Kerr was accompanist for all selections.

Several children sold homemade candy for Mount Pleasant Baby Band between Act I and II.

Rev. R. R. Bonnick expressed thanks on behalf of the "Two-by-Two" Club, who sponsored the play. Later the club entertained the cast and their friends to light refreshments.

ELDORADO

ELDORADO — Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin and Judy spent a couple of days with Mrs. William Irwin of Gravenhurst.

St. Michael's Wins Bay of Quinte Volleyball Title

St. Michael's High School volleyball team won the O.S.S.A. Bay of Quinte District championship on Wednesday night defeating the Smart Ontario School for the Deaf team 29-20 in the final game of the tournament.

St. Michael's swept through the tournament undefeated, turning back the Trenton and Picton school teaching with four O.S.D. handed that team its only defeat of the journey.

Coach Jack Doran's team was presented with the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy for the first time since it was donated by Bob Bisland of Bisland's Sport Shop, 315 King Street.

The winners, who won the championship last year and were defeated by Collingwood in the provincial tournament, go to Hamilton on March 20th in their second quest for Ontario honors.

Five teams took part in the Quinte tournament including St. Michael's, O.S.D., Trenton, Albert College and Deseronto.

Judges for the tournament were principals of Albert College and the O.S.D., and the sports director of the Y.M.C.A.

Coach Doran paid fine tribute to the O.S.S.A.-sponsored game. St. Michael's won the title," he said, "we were coached all the way of this fine team. They play an outstanding game and are a credit to their school and the district."

BCI Girls Win Over OSD

In an exhibition basketball game played at the Collegiate, Belleville junior girls won a 32-23 victory from O.S.D. After a sluggish first half B.C.I. led by the Bennetts, pulled far ahead. O.S.D. rallied somewhat in the last quarter but were unable to break through Belleville's defence.

The teams:

B.C.I.—Ann Bennett 13 points, Barbara Bennett 8, Eva Hrachovec 3, Alberta Fox 2, Sheila Inwood 4, Sandra White 2, Carol Weston, Margaret Anderson, Donna Bicklin, Dawn LaRue, Beth Wilbur.

O.S.D.—Peggy De La Franier 8 points, Gail Cayer 7, D. Brown 4, Elaine Garrett 3, C. Gravelle 2, V. Martin, Joan Shaw, L. MacOrmand, Mary Chong, J. Masci.

FISHERMEN ESCAPE

DIGBY, N.S. (CP)—Three gillnetsmen escaped to safety Thursday across wind-lashed rocks when their 35-ton Halifax fishing craft was driven ashore and battered to bits on the shoals at nearby Hampton Cove. "We escaped with our lives and that's all," said Capt. Frank Walsh of the Lena, a 61-foot craft.

Farmers Getting Higher Returns Says Gardiner

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner says the return to Canadian farmers is going up from year to year as production and prices increase.

Mr. Gardiner entered the budget debate Thursday in the Commons to take issue with opposition statements that farmers face a dark future because of surpluses and loss of markets.

The only agricultural surpluses, he said, are 21,000,000 pounds of New Zealand beef and 76,000,000 pounds of canned pork. They would be disposed of eventually.

The government was not "getting worried" about markets.

When a market for one product disappeared, farmers had switched to other products.

In the debate, Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) said Mr. Gardiner had tried to picture the farmer as better off than ever before. The fact was that the real position was "worse than at any time in the last 10 years."

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC-Hamilton West), only woman member of the Commons, said if tax rates were to be cut for the man who relied on investment income, more relief should have been given to the low-income working man. The exemptions should have been raised for him and the floor of deductible personal expenses eliminated entirely. The sales tax could have been slashed.

Wants Exemption Upped

Dr. Reed Paulin (Ind—Beauce) said income tax exemptions should have been increased to $1,500 from $1,000 for single and to $3,000 from $2,000 for married persons. Expenditures could be cut to make up for loss of revenue.

BOAT SAVES DRIVER

DIGBY, N.S. (CP)—A truck hit a boat here and saved its driver from possible drowning. George Newcombe was driving his truck onto a pier Thursday when the vehicle went out of control and plunged over the end. But the truck hit the fisheries patrol craft Granada and the driver of the vehicle remained on the wharf. Newcombe climbed out uninjured.

Injuries Blamed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Injuries suffered in falls were blamed Thursday for the death of 79-year-old Glenda Bedford who died in hospital Feb. 28.

Her body was a mass of bruises when she was taken to hospital from the home of Mrs. Beatrice Farson with whom she was boarding.

Mrs. Farson told police some of the bruises were caused when sadistic playmates stoned the child and others in falls from the crib and down a basement stairs.

A coroner's jury found that Glenda died "as unnatural death from injuries most likely the result of falls."

MOST EUROPEAN

Comment by British newspapers ranged from fears of greater tension to hopes for agreement between Russia and the West with Yugoslavia President Tito sitting in, perhaps, as a mediator.

The privately-operated radio Free Europe warned anti-Communists inside the Iron Curtain to keep cool and avoid drastic action despite Stalin's death.

World Crush Readjustee

Commentaries beamed to the East by transmitters in Germany and Portugal cautioned that the dictator's exit does not mean immediate liberation, and that premature resistance would be suppressed mercilessly.

Diplomatic representatives or most countries presented formal eulogies to Stalin and offered their sympathy to the Russian people.

India's Prime Minister Nehru cabled Moscow that Stalin's "services to his people in peace and war brought him unique renown and his death removed from the contemporary world a personality of exceptional gifts and great achievement."

Newspapers and lesser people gave full vent to their feelings, describing Stalin in terms ranging from "tyrant" to "patriot."

Editorial comment ranged from the London Times' description of him as "the arch-fiend of our time" to the Conservative London Daily Sketch's brushoff: "Let him now be shed—the world is well rid of him."

POWER

These difficulties "assumed a grave nature" at times during the night of March 3, the resume continued. From the start of the illness, the Russian leader also suffered disturbances in the blood circulation system including high blood pressure, flickering pulse and dilation of the heart.

From the first day of the illness, it said, Stalin's temperature rose and a high white blood cell count was registered. "Many have pointed to the development of inflamed lesions in the lungs."

The account said that his condition deteriorated generally Thursday with constant attacks of severe heart and circulation difficulties. An examination showed signs of "acute disturbance" in the blood circulation of the coronary artery, "accompanied by focal changes in the heart."

"On the afternoon of March 5, the condition of the patient deteriorated rapidly, respiration became shallow, the pulse rate reached 140-150 beats per minute (normal is about 70) and the pulse pressure dropped."

The resume was signed by the 10 doctors who had tried to save the life of the Russian chief. They were headed by A. F. Tretyakov, recently named Soviet minister of health.

The doctors had used a variety of treatments including oxygen, camphor compounds, caffeine, glucose, penicillin and even the age-old, emphysema of blood-sucking leeches, still used frequently by Russian doctor to reduce blood pressure.

Pravda Black Bordered

Stalin's illness was announced first Wednesday morning, Moscow time, 48 hours or so after he was stricken. Thereafter two more medical bulletins were forthcoming before the final announcement of death and the review of his illness.

Black-bordered editions of Pravda, the official communist party newspaper, and other journals in the Soviet Union published the news of the prime minister's death today, along with a large portrait of Stalin in military uniform, the last medical bulletins and the announcement that the body would lie in state.

Along with these, they published the proclamation of the party and the government appealing for unity and hierarchical solidarity behind and calling for a spirit of "implacability and firmness in the struggle with internal and foreign enemies of the U. S. S. R."

Most of the statement reiterated policy lines that have been long emphasized in Soviet declarations. Indicating that the government plans to continue the essentials of Stalin's foreign and domestic policies.

Will Strengthen Forces

It declared that both the party and the government stood for strengthening the Soviet armed forces to "constantly heighten our readiness for a crushing response to any aggressor." But it also called for the development of international cooperation and business ties with all countries.

It asserted the Soviet Union would tighten bonds with Communist China, the peoples' democracies and workers in capitalist countries and would continue policies of strengthening peace and fighting against preparations for a world war.

The newspapers announced the official commission appointed to arrange Stalin's funeral is headed by Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the central committee of the Communist party.

SALSBERG CAUSES

Mr. Porter heckled Mr. Salsberg consistently during the session. "Does he acted him to be a man" and withdraw a remark concerning Mr. Porter's conduct of the planning and development department before he became attorney-general.

"It's time the attorney-general stopped being an infant," Mr. Salsberg said. "His remarks will be read with humor by our public school classes."

Mr. Dunbar shouted down the speaker when Mr. Salsberg implied the minister was not in control of his department.

"You are not," he like that down my throat," Mr. Dunbar said.

Noisiest of Session

The debate was the noisiest of the session. Speaker Rev. M. C. Davies several times rapped for order and cautioned Mr. Salsberg to confine his remarks to discussion of the metropolitan bill.

W. J. Stewart (PC—Toronto Parkdale) demanded withdrawal of a statement that Premier Frost was holding a whip over the Toronto members to ensure their support of the bill.

"I didn't mean it as an aspersion," Mr. Salsberg said, "It's only a figure of speech."

"I see no figure of speech in Russia," said the attorney-general.

Before the debate, government ministers submitted several measures for first reading.

1. An act governing theatres, which would allow children 14 and over to attend movies in the evening unaccompanied by adults. The present limit is 16.

2. An amendment to the Forestry Act giving the minister power to set dates for fishing and hunting in the province's forests. The fire season now is from April 1 to Oct. 31 and extensions can be made only with cabinet assent.

Mines Minister Kelly said changes may be made in a proposed amendment allowing aerial prospecting leases to be granted on tracts of land up to 100,000 acres.

The Prospectors and Developers Association of Canada has said individual prospectors should have been safeguard against individual companies obtaining prospecting rights on huge areas.

The bill is intended to provide authorization for airborne prospecting, but says that 90 per cent of the land under lease would be returned to the province when the surveys were completed.

Says Amendment Threat

The prospectors association said the amendment is a threat to the livelihood of the independent prospectors association and the government should guarantee they would not be squeezed out by large companies.

Education Minister Dunlop introduced a bill to ensure faster action in teacher-school board disputes. It would reduce from a year to 30 days the period in which the minister must decide whether a board of review should be appointed to investigate a dispute.

Howe Smashes Point Record As Red Wings Blast New York Rangers 7-1

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

The most important game of the senior "B" duel between the Kingston Goodyears and the Glen Boys, as far as the latter is concerned, takes place tonight in Kingston's Community Centre where the squads clash in the fifth battle of the best-of-seven series.

The Goodyears went one up on the Glens Wednesday night and were the first team to break through the other fellow's services. They played inspired hockey and even Coach Johnnie Carr-Harris reluctantly admitted he thought the team was slightly "over its head." Be that as it may, the Goodies seized opportunists of the first water, and seeming determination after the first few minutes, ripped into action that saw them practically unable to do anything wrong.

Whatever it is, Carr-Harris has injected a fine fighting spirit in the ranks of a team that was disgruntled and out of harmony three or four weeks ago. If you can believe that a team whipped one like the Goodyears of Wednesday night by a 17-8 score, which Orillia did, albeit the game was protested, then you might get an inkling of the change Carr-Harris has wrought in the Goodyear machine.

In an interview following Wednesday night's game, Carr-Harris would not disclose the nature of his method, beyond the fact: "I talked to them and told them I needed them to play hockey for me." That they're doing just that has been amply evidenced in the last two clashes with the Glens.

But the Glens can and will play better hockey than they dished up in their last two performances. They are more or less on the spot tonight, but if they produce the brand that set the Goodies back on their haunches with a 4-1 defeat in the second game of the series, the hockey sun will shine a lot brighter along the banks of the Metra.

JUNIORS READY!

Meanwhile the junior teams from Kingston and Belleville are themselves for what could shape up to a blazing struggle before the group championship is decided. The Black Hawks and Kingston Vics meet here tomorrow night in the first of their best-of-seven series and with the winners probably clashing with the victors of the Brampton Esquesing-Weston Dukes final series in the Big Six group.

Tom Casey, with an infected hand, is the only casualty in the Hawks' ranks with Coach Don Barrett reporting the other hands all set and ready to go. Ray Gilmour, a new Invalcon will be without the services of Don Senlor, starry centre ice player, and Paul Ray, clever winger. Senior will probably be out of the first two games due to the fact he has a new job that demands his services at night. Ray is out with a fractured wrist.

The Vics should be well rested as we understand they haven't seen action, apart from workouts, since they ousted the Peterborough Trjohn Links in three straight games. The Hawks were pushed to the last strand of the wire by the hard-fighting Lindsay Warriors, but they should be rested too, and tomorrow night's battle should see sixty minutes of furious flying action.

* * * *

BASKETBALL!

The Albert College senior basketball team, COSSA "B" champions, who play in the provincial finals in Toronto tomorrow, have drawn the NOSSA champions, from South Porcupine in their half of the semi-finals. Pembroke C.I., EOSSA champs, are stacked against Exeter High School, WOSSA titlists in the other half with both games taking place at 1 p.m. The winners play off at eight o'clock the same day with the losers taking part in a consolation series two hours previous.

* * * *

IT WAS GOOD!

It was a grand show—the best the ladyboxks of the police and fire departments have staged since the Annual Shrine Police-Firemen get-together came into being. An estimated 1,800 people enjoyed the party and the best feature of all is the fact that the Crippled Kiddies Fund of the Shrine Club will be swelled by a substantial amount.

The police-firemen pocketeasers staged an exciting duel with the honors being all even at a three-all tie after sixty minutes of exciting ice calisthenics. The Quinte Stanley Club stars added a touch of beauty, color and grumsery of motion that left nothing to be desired. The clowns were hilarious, while the "Undertakers' Race" had the crowd in stitches and the riders on their "britches."

Presentation of trophies to minor hockey league stars provided a touch of sports dignity while the Trenton RCAF Trumpet Band gave ample evidence of its reputation of being the best musical organization of its kind between Toronto and Montreal.

The practical side of the shindig perked way down in the person of winsome Joan Greer, a crippled little "Sweetheart of the Shrine", who smiled her pleasure when she was carried in centre ice to face the puck. And those lumps in many throats were not because of overgrown tonsils.

Appreciation of the Shrine Club to Inspector O. McDougall, Police Chief Walter Probert, Fire Chief Gerald Vance and their merry men, who gave so much of their time and effort; to the participating artists and band and to the general public which contributed so generously, was a simple heartfelt "Thank You."

FLIERS PARADE

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—Sabre jets from the RCAF base at North Luffenham will participate when the Queen's color of the RAF in the United Kingdom is paraded here April 1. The ceremony will be reviewed by Defence Minister Earl Alexander.

Surprising Bruins Dunk Habs To Climb Into 4th Place Tie; Black Hawks Whip Leafs 4-1

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gordie Howe broke a record at Detroit Thursday night, but the news in Boston is that the Bruins are still capable of playing winning hockey.

It was reasonable to expect that Howe would shatter his own National Hockey League scoring mark before the season ended, but the rejuvenation of the Bruins came as a welcome surprise to their home-town followers.

Their 5-0 victory over the second-place Montreal Canadiens came after a rough seven-game road trip, in which they picked up only a couple of ties and slipped from third to fifth place. In one evening, they climbed back into a tie with Toronto for fourth place—the lowest play-off position.

Gordie Gets Two

They did it with the willing assistance of the third-place Chicago Black Hawks, who knocked off the Maple Leafs 4-1.

Howe picked up two goals and three assists as the Detroit Red Wings came close to clinching the league title with a 7-1 victory over New York's last-place Rangers. Dal gave Gordie 90 points—four more than his previous mark of 86, which set in 1951 and equalled last season.

Howe's two goals ran his bag for the season to 45, five short of Maurice Richard's 50-goal mark.

Linemate Ted Lindsay matched Howe's three assists. Johnny Wilson, Alex Delvecchio and Red Kelly were the other Detroit scorers while Andy Hebenton and Gump Worsley robbed Terry Sawchuk of a shutout in the last period.

The Bruins welcomed back Dave Creighton, out since New Year's night with a broken leg and observed captain Milt Schmidt's 35th birthday. Creighton scored twice and helped out on additional scoring efforts by Fleming Mackell and Bill Quackenbush. Rookie George (Red) Sullivan counted the remaining Boston tally.

The Hawks, winning their second game in as many nights, took an early lead on goals by George Gee and Bill Mosienko. Jimmy McFadden adding an insurance counter in the second frame. Eric Westerman scored for the lone marksman.

All clubs are idle tonight.

Tigers Believe Shortstop Find

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—If Harvey Kuenn doesn't develop into one of baseball's top shortstops, there are going to be an awful lot of chagrined people in Detroit.

Every Tiger official you talk to from general manager Charley Gehringer down pins hopes on the 22-year-old bonus youngster from Wisconsin University has the makings of a great ball player.

They may be right, too. Kuenn, who pronounces his name as if it were spelled Keen, certainly has looked like a real hitter in spring training although he leaves something to be desired in the field. The 185-pound 6-foot, 3-inch collegian is not a power hitter, but is more of a line-drive type. He shows a lot of poise at the plate, possesses a keen batting eye and has the knack of hitting the ball where it is pitched.

Signed by scout George Moriarty for a $53,000 bonus after he finished his junior year last June, Kuenn was sent to Davenport where he batted .340 in 52 games in the Three-Eye League. Recalled by the Tigers late in the season, Harvey batted .316 in 16 games and struck out only once in 80 times at bat. Defensively, he committed four errors in 105 chances for a .962 percentage.

'Knock Hard' Wins 'Chase'

CHELTENHAM, England (CP)—Gallant old Knock Hard won the £3,000 added Gold Cup at Cheltenham, Britain's "mecca of steeplechasing," Thursday.

Knock Hard, a nine - year - old owned and trained in Ireland, was ridden by Ian Irish jockey Tim Molony. The Irish horse finished five lengths ahead of Lord Hallowes' mare owned by the Contessa di Sant Ella with Galloway Leader Bran third.

The second choice, Dorothy Paget's Mont Tremblant, failed to be named for the Canadian winter resort—was fourth in the 12-horse field which opened the event of three miles and two furlongs.

Johnny Pierson of the Bruins who scored two goals and figured in two others in the same game.

Gordie Howe of Detroit who scored two goals and added two assists as the Red Wings trounced New York Rangers 7-1.

George Gee who got a goal and an assist as Chicago Black Hawks downed Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1.

Submit Four Rule Changes For Football

MONTREAL (CP) — Four major rule-change recommendations have been submitted to the Canadian rugby rules committee by the Quebec Rugby Football Union. It was learned Thursday.

The rules committee, headed by Dave McCance of Ottawa, will meet in Edmonton March 26 to prepare a slate of proposed changes for presentation to CRU authorities during a three-day meeting.

QRFU recommendations are:

1. Unlimited downfield blocking by players in the line of scrimmage.

2. Limited substitution. Players to be permitted to leave and re-enter the game only twice in each quarter.

3. Forward pass not required to cross the line of scrimmage, eliminating loose ball in play on fumbled snaps, etc.

4. On third-down pass, incomplete or intercepted in the end zone ,ball to go to defending side at point of third-down scrimmage.

Canuck American Skating Stars Meet for Titles

CLEVELAND (AP)—A United States team, including two world's champions opposes a team of 13 Canadian stars in the North American figure skating championships opening here today.

Hayes Alan Jenkins, 19-year-old Akron, O., college boy, wears the men's crown, and Tenley Albright, 17, of Newton Centre, Mass., is amateur women's figure-skating queen.

Each will be seeking an initial North American title in the two-day competition. Jenkins was third in the last North American championships at Calgary in 1951. The biennial event alternates between two countries.

The United States team, chosen by a committee of the U.S. Figure Skating Association, numbers 14. Youngest of the U.S. skaters is 13-year-old Dorothy Reise of New York, entered in women's figure-skating.

Jenkins, a sophomore at Colorado College, will be skating on friendly ice. Cleveland Skating Club. He has been a member of the club 11 or since he was nine.

Miss Albright, U.S. champion last year and silver medallist at the 1952 Olympics in Oslo, is completing her last year at Manter Hall School. She announcets and intends to begin studying at Radcliffe next fall, preparing to be a doctor.

Both 'teen-agers took top laurels last month in the world competitions at Davos, Switzerland.

Figure-skating titles in the North American will be scored 60 per cent on figure-skating tests to be held today, and 40 per cent on free skating performances tomorrow night. The individual winners will not be known until completion of the Saturday night program.

Here is the line-up for today! 9:30 a.m., men's figure skating. U.S. — Hayes Jenkins, Cleveland Skating Club; Dennis Richerson, Broadmoor Skating Club, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Dudley Richards, Boston Skating Club. Canada — Peter Firsthrook, Toronto Skating Club; Charles Snelling, Granite Club of Toronto; Peter Dunbar, Toronto Skating Club.

1:30 p.m., ladies' figure skating. U.S. — Tenley Albright, Boston Skating Club; Carol Heiss, New York Skating Club; Miggs Dean, Detroit Skating Club; Margaret Anne Graham, Tulsa Figure Skating Club. Canada — Barbara Gratton, Toronto Skating Club; Dawn Bleasley, Oshawa Skating Club; Yarrow Pettit, Minto Ottawa Skating Club; Veri Smith, Toronto Skating Club.

RECORD EXPORT

LONDON (CP)—An all-time record was achieved in 1953 in exports of the United Kingdom motor industry, including cars, trucks, tractors and engines. The total of about £234,000,000 was nearly 15 per cent of the entire value of U.K. exports.

Badminton Singles Final All 'East'; Western Stars Fall in Major Upsets

TORONTO (CP)—The final of the over G. Tyrell of Montreal.

senior men's singles in the Canadian badminton championships will be an all-eastern competition. The Toronto Badminton Club announced Thursday night.

Four Vancouver stars, two of them top-seeded players, fell before easterners in major upsets.

Don Smythe of Toronto, the 1953 titleholder, will likely be the big favorite the event. He stopped Vancouver's John Bouck in the quarter-finals 15-7, 15-2.

Toronto's Bev Wescott ousted Daryl Thompson of Vancouver, 15-8, 15-4, 15-8. In the other quarter-final match, doubles specialist Bruce Benham 15-5, 11-15, 18-14, to enter the semi-final.

Earlier in the day defending champion Jim Carnwath of Woodstock Ont., moved through the rounds of junior men's singles to reach the semi-final.

In the senior women's singles it will be a battle between Vancouver and Toronto in the semi-final. The Vancouver victors were Joan Batchley and Lois Reid while the Toronto stars are Marjorie Shedd and Joan Hennessy.

In the women's doubles semi-finals Barbara Ince and Joan Warren of Toronto will meet Clare Lovett of Vancouver and Maureen Bray of Toronto. Marjorie Shedd and Joan Hennessy tackle Joan Batchley and Lois Reid in the other bracket.

Fifteen-year-old Jean Waring of Calgary reached the final of the women's singles consolation. Miss Waring defeated Ann Kennedy of Montreal, 15-4, 15-4, in the semi-finals.

Ken Noble, youthful Vancouverite, won the men's consolation final with a 15-7, 15-13 victory and Lorraine Nayler, 15-10, 15-8.

In the women's singles consolation quarter-finals, Toronto players won two matches as did two West-town stars. Jean Waring of Calgary and Ann Kennedy of Montreal are the outsiders along with Toronto's Anne Scott and Maureen Bray.

Scheduled for play today are semi-finals in all open events and consolations. The final of the women's junior singles also will be played. Other finals are set for Saturday, concludes of the four-day tournament.

Police-Firemen Hockey Night Best Since Event's Inception

There is one good feature about the Provincial Police headquarters, Toronto.

In colorful contrast was the splendid show, all too brief, staged by stars of the Quinte Skating Club, Garbed in beautiful costumes, the skaters, all young girls delighted the crowd with a talented performance.

Miss Joan Doyle, Miss Jackie Woodcock and Miss Jane McNally exhibiting graceful skating symmetry of motion in their singles numbers while Wilbo Wilkes and Pauline Hall were seen in a colorful pairs exhibition.

The "Gingham Dolls" six young ladies, gingham-garbed executed precision-like routines in a sparkling dance-skating number. The skaters received a fine ovation as did the individual stars at the close of the show.

Included in the "Gingham Dolls" were Misses Carol Pickwell, Mary Lou Cook, Margaret Arnott, Barbara Shaver, Mary Pearce, Judell Hunter, Shirley Fox and Willo Wilkes.

A trio of clowns headed by Jack Dickens had the crowd in continuous merriment throughout the show and delighting the young element when they tossed gifts of candy over the boards.

The Trenton RCAF Trumpet Band gave a sterling performance and showed a more or less amazing repertoire. It played before the show and during the intermissions, and its performance was one of the outstanding features of the show.

A screaming bit of comedy was seen in the "Undertakers' Race" when four, stalwart Shriners mounted high, shiny, one-wheeled chariots, pulled by hockey-playing "steeds." Shriners Schriever drawn "flat-top" ridden by Shriner Horace Wright, allthred to victory. It won by a "saddle."

Trophies Presented

Recognition of minor hockey and sports was given in the presentation of trophies to various youthful stars. The Ontario Intelligencer Trophy was won by Barry Walker in the juvenile division, was presented by George H. Garvey. The C.J.B.Q. Trophy, peewees, to Earl MacDonald by Dr. E. H. MacDonald; the Dave Whalen Trophy, midgets, to Gary Little. The "Toots" Holway, the Earl Bacon Trophy to Bob Wannamaker by Sammy Simmons and the Hugh Hurst Memorial Trophy to Charles Kingston by "Red" Dorsan.

Montreal Rink Takes Top Spot In Curling Championship Race

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUDBURY, (CP)—A Montreal rink skipped by Ken Weldon, making its second straight try for the Canadian curling championships, led the pack "going home."

With only today's two rounds left, Weldon, who piloted his St. George four to five victories in last year's championship, won his seventh straight victory Thursday. The only defeat for the Montreal quartet came in the first round when they were dumped 14-5 by British Columbia.

The Quebec provincial champions' string of seven wins set a record for a Quebec entry. Quebec has never won the top curling event.

Manitoba Loses

Highlight of Thursday's three rounds was the defeat of Al Gowanlock's Manitoba rink in the morning for the second and at night by Grant Watson's Northern Ontario four.

The two losses broke an unbeaten string of six straight victories for the Dauphin rink that left them in second spot in the standings after the nine rounds completed. They won the silverware in 1938 with a clamoro, Man., rink, is shooting for his seventh straight victory and the second consecutive win for Manitoba, which has won 12 ends and 23 competitors written into the records.

The Montreal rink defeated Manitoba in the morning round on the last end. With the score 5-4 the Quebec had a rock almost on the button and protected by two guards. Gowanlock laid his first throw almost touched the Quebec rock but not shot. Then Weldon repeated the same shot, easing the rock just a fraction closer to the button.

Gowanlock's second rock was wrecked by one of the Quebec guards and the Montreal rink won by a point.

It was almost the same story at night, when Northern Ontario led 13-6 going home. Don McGregor, the Port Arthur rink's vice skip, threw his last stone through the house, giving Manitoba two points.

When Watson came up in clearing spot, his first stone was short and knocked one Manitoba rock out. Gowanlock, on his last stone, had to knock out two to score enough to force an extra end. He tried a raise shot but narrowly misses, but it went through the house with almost a foot on either side of the spare.

Quebec had little trouble with Nova Scotia in the afternoon game. After Barney Haines, veteran skip of the Bridgewater quartet, drew in a perfect stone to count four in the first end, the game was all Province of Quebec. It was 10-3 at the sixth and ended 17-7.

In the deciding games the Quebec team rolled in one in the first and second ends before Nova Scotia's wick scored one in the third. A three for Quebec in the fourth and a four in the sixth served up the game and the Moncton rink went down 14-4.

Manitoba's only victory of the day came in the afternoon eighth round when they walloped previous Newfoundland 22-5. The Dauphin rink piled up a 12-1 count after six ends and 17-3 lead after nine. Biggest Round

The biggest score of the round robin was piled up by Reg Stone's British Columbia rink. The Vancouver pilots rolled in one in the first end, two in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth for a total of 14 before Newfoundland managed to get on the scoreboard.

The biggest score of the round robin was piled up by Reg Stone's British Columbia rink. The Vancouver pilots rolled in one in the first end, two in the second, three in the third, one in the fourth and two in the fifth for a total of 14 before Newfoundland managed to get on the scoreboard.

In the morning, the Trail rink raked over New Brunswick 12-5, but at night missed some crucial stones to lose 18-11 before Saskatchewan, which had the afternoon off.

Alberta, tied with Nova Scotia in fifth place with a 5-4 record, ran up an early lead over Newfoundland in the morning and was edged by Northern Ontario, 9-8, in the afternoon. The Calgarians had the bye at night.

Watson won the game for the Port Arthur crew in an extra end. When Northern Ontario had one stone near the button and one well back on the ring, Len Hew, skip of the Calgary crew, missed his second last shot and Watson drew for another guard. Saw that attempted a draw, but left the stone near the button, counting one for the Port Arthur rink.

Ontario won two of its three games defeating New Brunswick 8-7 in the eighth round and Prince Edward Island 11-7 at night. In the afternoon the Chatham rink was slammed by Nova Scotia 8-5.

In the morning, Saskatchewan defeated P.E.I. 9-5. The Prince rink, skipped by Jimmy Hill, had a three-point edge going into the eleventh, but a two count in that end gave them the boost they needed and in the 12th the Chatham crew got one.

Haines piloted his Nova Scotia representatives to an even win over Newfoundland at night. It was the Rocky Rockwell rink's eighth straight loss.

Quakers Gain In Western Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Saskatoon Quakers stretched their lead in the Western Hockey League to eight points over Vancouver by defeating Edmonton Flyers 3-0 Thursday night.

Saskatoon is in fifth place, 15 points behind Saskatoon.

The Quakers' goals were split among Herb Joffrey, Jackie McLeod, Ray Masson, Johnny Chad and Chuck McCullough. Vic Stasiuk fired two for Edmonton with Len Haley notching the other.

Bantams Ousted By Peterborough; Lose Game 9-7

PETERBOROUGH, (Special)—Peterborough Bantam and Midget "A" hockey teams survived another OMHA round here last night before 60 fans to advance into provincial semi - finals against Toronto Marlboros. The Bantam Shamrocks defeated Belleville 9-7 to take the series by a 21-14 score, while the Midget Aces drew 3-3 with Kingston but won their round 9-8.

Both were fast, fairly clean contests, the first one seeing Belleville rally strongly toward the end of the game, and the second finals being marked by a third-period comeback by the Peterborough boys after Kingston had the round score whittled to a one-goal lead for Aces. The reverses eliminated Belleville and Kingston from further competition this season.

Pat Doherty's local Shamrocks racked up a 3-0 lead in the first period on goals by Gary Darling, Pat Baker and Larry Lounsberry, the latter also adding an assist. They had a 3-1 edge in the second, Lounsberry hitting the twine twice and Baker once on a pass from Peter Stewart. Lounsberry had a big night for the Shamrocks, Bob Hull, who starred throughout in an iron-man performance for the Quinte crew scored once in the second frame. He came back to rap in three for the two in the third on fine solo dashes. Bill Foster got two for Belleville and Bob Wannamaker one. Lounsberry, Darling and Hull helmed the scoring for Shamrocks in the third, Darling aiding on two in a neat effort, and Mahoney and Frank Daly one each.

Belleville drew six of the 10 penalties in a well-handled game. Play was speedy and exciting with both goalies turning in a lot of hot rubber. Lounsberry and Darling stood out for the winners with Hull and Foster starring for the losers.

Belleville: Goal Wright; defence, Hull and Spafford; centre, Foster; wings, Baker, St. Louis. Alternates, Foster, Mc-Kenzie, Wannamaker, Rowbotham, Pollard and Musgrove.

Shamrocks: Goal, Bilej; defence Lounsberry and Haig; centre, Darling; wings, Peer and Stewart. Alternates, Daly, Lapic, Jay, Armstrong, Mahoney, Baker, Stewart, Kimball and Tellock.

Referees: E. Woodcock and J. Semark.

Fielder Leads Flyers to Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gayle Fielder got two important points in the last to help pilot St. Louis Flyers to a 5-3 victory over Hershey Bears Thursday night and gain a tie with Eddie Olson of Cleveland Barons for the American Hockey League scoring lead.

With the score tied 3-3, Fielder passed to Modin McLean and then held off a Hershey defenceman while McLean potted the winning goal.

In the final minute, the Bears took out goalie Gordon Henry and Fielder slid the rubber into the empty cage at 19:50 for the clincher.

Fielder and Olsen now have 72 points each.

Kenny Hayden tallied twice for the Flyers in the first period, while Leo Labine and Arnie Kullman drew second goals for the Bears. In the second, Buddy Boone counted for the Flyers and Kullman again for the Bears and left the score deadlocked.

Moores, CNR Tied for Lead

Moore's Chisellers helped themselves to seven points at the expense of the Lawn Bowlers last night at the Bowl-O-Drome and by doing so tied the CNR for the lead in the Major "A" Bowling League. The scores were 3705 and 3603.

In the other games G. H. Woods (3577), CNR (3384); and Hardwick Printing (3324) won 5-2 victories over Belleville Golf (3299); Schwak's (3300) and Upper Canada News (3132) respectively.

George Bellis topped the field with a triple of 870 while Jim McKenzie had high single of 334. Other scores were: A. McKenzie 811 (306) E. Greenfield 807 (305), J. McKenzie 802, K. Moore 786, W. Bateman 777, C. Hardwick 769, L. Lennox 756 (311), W. Hayden 743, A. Holway 730, F. Martin 729, H. Nidley 715, J. Legault 710, D. Ashley 709 (316), A. Hitchon 705, J. Callaghan 694, K. MEN WHO THINK OF TOMORROW PRACTISE MODERATION TODAY

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Football is not the only game with a triple threat. There is a triple squeeze in bridge that is a thriller. You can see an example of it in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ A 9 5
♥ K Q 3
♦ A K 9 6
♣ A 4 2

WEST
♠ K J 8
♥ 8 5 4 2
♦ Q 8 7 5
♣ J 10

EAST
♠ 7 6 5 3
♥ 9 7
♦ J 10 4
♣ K Q 9 7 6 5

SOUTH
♠ 10 4
♥ A J 10 9 7 6
♦ 3 2
♣ X 9 3

South was hiked into a contract of six hearts and the lead from west was the natural king of spades. From the looks of things, there are two losers to worry about; one in each black suit.

No obvious chance of saving one of these tricks can be seen from the start. So, if there is any chance at all it will have to be with a squeeze of some kind. So, declarer plans accordingly.

A squeeze is not effective until all the cards possible peel from the hands. Here, since you can afford to lose one trick, let west hold trick one and take his spade crown with dummy ace.

Run four leads of trumps, slufting a dummy club. Take the two dummy diamond tops and ruff the dummy diamond six in south. Each hand is now left with only four cards.

South with his three clubs and 6 trump, Dummy holds his two pines and the ace with one club. West hangs onto his diamond queen, spade jack, two clubs. East keeps his four best clubs.

Notice the dummy sizes threaten west! Right here south leads his last trump as a squeeze. All west can afford to let go is a club. So, dummy may as well throw away either nine.

A small club now enters dummy with the 9, and west is elgened of clubs. So, dummy resigns, the small club and south finesses the nine to take the last two tricks for what he needs.

You may call yourself lucky at finding west with those clubs. But you must admit that you gave yourself the only chance to succeed. Which is all any good bridge player can do.

Movie Column

By SON THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Do actors who recreate their stage roles have an unfair advantage in Oscar races?

Helen Leigh thinks so.

The English actress last year won her second academy award, for playing Blanche Dubois in "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"It really came as a surprise to me," she remarked. "I honestly didn't expect to win. I think I had an unfair advantage over the other actresses in the race. After all, I had done the role for eight months on the stage in London.

"In fact, all of us in the picture had an advantage. Gadge (Kim) Kazan had directed the play, and Marlon Brando, Kim Hunter, Karl Malden and I had all played in it.

"There really ought to be two categories in the acting division—for those who have done stage roles and those who create their roles for pictures. By doing a play for months you can get into a role and perfect it. It's a lot more difficult to be handed a script just before you begin to shoot a picture."

That argument has been heard before, since such players as Joan Ferrer, Judy Holliday and Miss Leigh in recent years have won Oscars for roles they played on the stage. It will no doubt be heard again, since stage stars Julie Harris and Shirley Booth are up for awards March 19.

Despite her arguments, Miss Leigh is holding on to her new Oscar, plus the one she won for "Gone With the Wind."

She is in Hollywood to complete her role in "Elephant Walk," for which exteriors were filmed in Ceylon.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG. — The Young People's Union of Thomasburg circuit, recently held an enjoyable meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Thompson, Moira. There was a good attendance. Gordon McIlmoy was in charge of an interesting program. Later, a social half hour was spent and appetizing refreshments served. Thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thompson for their hospitality.

The church service conducted by the Thomasburg and Moira schools in the United Church, at Thomasburg, will be March 15, a 7:30 p.m., it was formerly announced for March 8. Service as usual March 8 at 7:30 p.m.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the United Church plan a cookinole party to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Baldrick on Wednesday, March 11.

The epidemic of colds and flu is subsiding in Thomasburg. The increase in attendance at school and Sunday School was gratifying.

HOSPITAL REQUESTS

TORONTO (CP) — An elderly splinter who died in Guelph Nov. 25 has left approximately $200,000 to be divided equally between the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto General Hospital and Toronto Western Hospital. Other bequests from the $242,583 estate of Eleanor Johnston go to relatives. Miss Johnson, a resident of Toronto for many years, moved to Guelph shortly before her death.

AT THE CAPITOL—Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, as fledgling spy soldiers of Uncle Sam in Airborne Infantry, make a hilarity knee-bender parachute descent in this scene from "Jumping Jacks," opening today and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre. Joe Sawyer program is Technicolor "Hurricane Smith," continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

AT THE BELLE — This scene from David Lean's "Breaking the Sound Barrier," showing today and Saturday at the Belle Theatre shows Ralph Richardson (Winner of the New York Critics' Award as "The Best Actor of the Year") Ann Todd and Nigel Patrick, watching the crucial take-off of a Jet plane. Walt Disney's Cartoon "How to Ride a Horse", is an added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL— Tough John Drake and scheming Yvonne De Carlo find romance and adventure on a perilous voyage for sunken treasure in Paramount's "Hurricane Smith," Technicolor adventure now showing at Capitol Theatre today and Saturday and next showing. On the same program, "Jumping Jacks" starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

AT THE McCARTHY—What's fruit salad to a fruitcake like Mary Castle? Bonar Colleano discovers his medals can't top James Griffith's beard in Stanley Kramer's "Eight Iron Men," now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Another advantageous day for most essential matters. Make new tries, contacts of value; use strategy. Pioneering in new ideas could bring added gains.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Be alert. Quality, efficiency, accuracy essential this thinly favorable day. You know many of the answers but do you use them rightly?

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Here is an outlook made to order for you speedy, clever folks. Matters of real consequence should have first chance and careful handling.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Don't be squeamish about undertaking new hard tasks, if you expect to advance today. You may have to carry more than your usual share but it will be well worth it.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Ideal setup for you who evoke Lucites. It is what you accomplish in the end that counts. Along the way practise self-restraint, no rash bets or words.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Excellent openings for you rather conservative folks. Don't hold back foolishly; take some leeway in thought, action. Romance, social affairs tops.

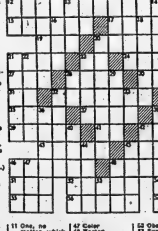
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Stars friendly, but day calls for your best, wise precautions if you hold important position or have tight schedule. Least fuss and red tape the better.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Fine results can be achieved today, but you will have to put pressure to all-out action. The diplomatic way is the right way now. Make promises without checking.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Be mild or just so-so day, it's either going to be a big one or nothing much. You have the ability, so face it, take the reins in hand and drive to success.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Planetary indications mostly fine. You should be able to make fresh headway in business, financial, professional matters. Clerical work, building, mining, construction favored now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Smart figuring of duties, problems should easily put over this in-many-ways generous period. Favorable business of ideas can be advanced.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—A day for you to make your mark. Use successful experience, tradition, knowledge of the laws of averages.

YOU BORN TODAY: Are intellectual, upright, kindly. Can make headway in business, management, banking, science, art. Could become excellent navigator. your Sign usually enjoys the sea and its environs. Must worry so much. Let well enough alone. You are generally right in deductions. Birthdate of: Luther Burbank, world famous botanist.

MAY STERILIZE RATS

TORONTO (CP)—It may soon be possible to sterilize all rats in city sewers by radioactive isotopes. When the present generation of rats could be left to die of old age, Dr. D. C. Brunton, president of Isotope Products Limited, said Wednesday in an address to the Electric Club of Toronto.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Emhart

As he walked along now through the sight he wondered if it wouldn't be best to make a clean breast of it. Why not say, "You see how it is, Jenny—having been in love with her once I feel upset over contact. But it'll get over it. She doesn't mean anything to me really. Just be patient with me, Jenny."

No, that wouldn't make sense. He'd been married to Jenny for a year and a half now, and if Liz still had the power to tear him to pieces inside, there wasn't any use trying to explain it to Jenny.

No wonder Jenny knew something was tormenting him.

The next day Jenny put the babies to bed with bottles for their naps at 2 o'clock and asked Mrs. Slattery, the landlady, to sit in the apartment while she took a taxi to the Madison street apartment where Tod's mother lived.

Mrs. Duncan didn't seem to be home. One of the neighbor women in the building talked to Jenny about her.

"She's always takin' nerve medicine Mrs. Duncan is. She goes around to different drug stores getting that prescription filled. She does!" Jenny was shocked.

"Yeah, she's always doped up with it. I said to her the other day, I said, "Mrs Duncan why do you take so much of that there nerve medicine. You know it ain't good for you. What if the doctor found out?" And she said, "Nobody's gonna tell him!" And I says, "But why do you take so much of it?" and she says, "Because it makes me feel like I'm floatin' on a cloud. I forget I don't feel good and news of my kids come to see me no more."

Jenny escaped after a while. After she had told Tod he went that night to see his mother. But there was little he could do. Three weeks later, in December she fell down a flight of stairs and was taken to the hospital and then to a nursing home.

Tod was relieved in a way, because he knew the medicine habit could be broken, but on the other hand with money being paid out each week to the nursing home his financial situation became more and more desperate.

—XXII—

With the hospital bill for Mapilled on top of a budget already strained it was ridiculous to think of buying anything but the barest necessities. To keep the twins both well fed and warm was the main thing. Even then, in December, they began having colds.

Nina, the only person Jenny saw with the exception of the landlady and Tod and the grocer, came often and offered advice in copious qualities. "You ought to get the babies out of this damp apartment, Jenny," she suggested one day. "And why don't you get yourself some new clothes hon? It would pep you up. Max would still give you a discount."

Jenny, worn out from all-night croup sessions, and worrying about saving pennies, and trying not to mind her shabby appearance, struck back that day with the pent-up resentment of months. "We're lucky to have this apartment. And as for clothes—it's ridiculous to even think of getting any for myself."

"Tod always looks like a fashion plate."

"That's different. His job depends on it."

"Jenny, you owe yourself something. Look at you —your hair needs fixing and you've got circles under your eyes from being up at night with the twins.

MALENKOV NAMED SUCCESSOR TO STALIN

Says 'Revolution' Has Occured Within Kremlin

Young, Vigorous, Radical Men Surrounding Leader

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(Russian-Speaking Expert on Soviet Affairs)

PARIS (AP)—The sharp stream-lining of the Soviet government under its new dictator, Georgi M. Malenkov, suggests determination on his part to push at all costs the building of the Soviet economy to the point where it will rival that of the United States and make him ready for any emergency—including war.

Malenkov likely was busy on such a project long before Stalin died Now, with a free hand as boss, he obviously intends to quicken the pace and let nothing stand in his way.

Streamlined Cabinet

The new Mr. Big has combined the many ministries of the vast bureaucracy which is the Soviet government, eliminating many bulging sides and centralizing authority. The picture of Malenkov's revolution—and a revolution it is—becomes one of sharp centralization of authority in the hands of those he thinks he can trust most.

Young and vigorous men are taking over, pushing the older ones into the background. This is in line with the Malenkov idea. He himself, has only just passed the 50-year mark and his reservoir of strength is in the class of Czechoslovakia's new boy up after the Communist revolution, sealed off from the rest of the world and ordered to understand in the Stalinist dogma).

First, Malenkov moved cautiously to consolidated his position with the Soviet army, which would represent the greatest potential danger, and at the same time the greatest support, to his rivals. He installed a Communist who is no Stalin at all but a financial wizard with a marshal's baton—N. A. Bulganin, as the minister of war.

Under Bulganin he brought in two deputies who not only are war heroes but who are known to best soldiers the Soviet Union has produced: Zhukov and A. V. Vasilevsky.

Malenkov has taken his most important ministries—those concerned with electric power, building and others concerned with heavy industry—and placed at their head men who are experts in them. The number of ministries has been cut down considerably by the mergers in what is clearly an effort to end the confusion in the Soviet bureaucracy.

Malenkov proved himself a strong and capable business organizer during and after the Second World War when he accomplished momentous feats of reconversion and rehabilitation in the wake of the Nazi destruction. He established himself as a man who would let nothing or nobody stand in the way of increasing.

Malenkov's government is more centralized than the most centralized even than Stalin's.

Communists are demanding the "greatest solidarity of leadership" and warning of the "impossibility of any deviation from the political ever" beepsk his intention to be the sole source of interpretation of anything which smacks of opposition.

In the foreign field he will give the Nazis and Mr. Molotov, who is not wazi a big fight and will avoid it, but he will not relax the war tion of attrition.

Transport Hits Side of School Bus, Driver Hurt

ODESSA Ont. (CP)—A transport loaded with whisky hit the side of a school bus Friday, went out of control, smashed the corner off a frame house, careened across a vacant lot and was finally stopped by the side of a brick house.

The truck driver, James Josey of Toronto, is in hospital with serious injuries. Charles Lake, 30, truck driver of the bus, and the nine children aboard were uninjured.

Police said the bus was about to turn left when the transport came up behind and, attempting to avoid the accident, sideswiped the bus.

Damage is about 15 miles west of Kingston.

Alberta Budget Up $50,000,000

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta will spend $50,000,000 more this year than it did in 1952.

Premier E. C. Manning, bringing down his budget in the legislature Friday, said total expenditure for 1953 will be $174,083,000. He also had good news for Alberta municipalities finding it hard to keep their services in step with their growing population.

He gave details of a plan for a $25,000,000 revolving fund, part of a broader scheme to share Alberta's increasing revenues with the municipalities. Municipalities will be able to borrow money from the fund at 2½ to 3- per-cent interest.

The premier estimated expenditures apart from loan projects at $127,256,130, an increase of more than $21,000,000 from last year. Revenues were estimated at $138,-368,160, leaving an approximate surplus of $410,930.

Ate Bottle of Rye

TORONTO (CP)—A man ate a bottle of rye with his dinner after the liquor force during a recent Northern Ontario cold snap.

Chairman Jack Kelso told the Ontario liquor control board told of the incident at a meeting of a Legislature committee.

He said he received a letter of complaint from the Northern Ontario man, whose name he did not divulge.

The man wrote that he had a bottle of rye in his automobile when the temperature nosedived. First thing he knew, the stuff was frozen solid. So, instead of drinking it, he ate it.

FIRE KILLS 2 BROTHERS

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Two brothers, Ernest Villeneuve, 14, and Jackie, 5, died Thursday night when fire destroyed their home at The Pas in northern Manitoba. Mrs. Ernest is believed to have been overcome by smoke. The cause is believed to have died in a fall from the boys' attic bedroom.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The current cold spell continues in Ontario, with other cold winds and mostly sunny skies. Friday night in Northern Ontario temperatures were unitary. White River recorded 12 below, Earlton 13, Sudbury and Manitoba 10 below. In Southern Ontario they ranged from 16 to 15 above. While it will be cold in the south of Ontario tonight, it will be just as cold or colder in central and southern regions.

CHARGES OF WASTE RECKLESSNESS AIMED AT GOVT.

Liberals Praise Boost to P.M., Clarion, Abbott

OTTAWA (CP) — Charges of waste, inefficiency and recklessness were aimed at the government by opposition groups in the Commons Friday as the budget debate reached the end of its second consecutive week.

Liberal members denied the charges and praised the records of Prime Minister St. Laurent, Defence Minister Clarion and Finance Minister Abbott.

In the debate, to be resumed Monday, John Diefenbaker (PC Lake Centre) said:

"Too much and too many of the monies extorted and squeezed from the Canadian people are being wasted today by the parasites of extravagance."

Solon Low (CCF—Assiniboia) said that as the days go by more and more "inefficiency and extravagance" is shown in the defence department. But Prime Minister St. Laurent apparently had decided to stick with his cabinet even if they were considered dangerous to be inefficient and incompetent.

"I don't agree," he said.

"I say this government rocks with strength and the cabinet is loaded with reckless men."

Jean Francois Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) said Mr. Argue's attack on the prime minister was not deserved and he was the member for Saskatchewan.

Trying to Exaggerate

Ernest Bertrand (L-Kingston City) said the opposition was trying to exaggerate a few misappropriations and the auditor forced into a general condemnation of the forces. He said he wished to repudiate any attempt to make a blanket condemnation of the forces and the defence department.

Turning to the budget, he said it was only natural that everyone would like to see greater reductions in expenditure if they could be afforded. However, necessary defence and social security expenditures must be met.

Fair Night Spent By Queen Mary

LONDON (Reuters) — Ailing Queen Mary had "a fair night," it was announced this morning.

There was no further change to report in Her Majesty's condition," the announcement from Marlborough House, her London home, added.

Queen Mary, 85, grandmother of the present Queen Elizabeth, has been confined to bed for the last two weeks with a recurrence of an unspecified stomach complaint.

Her doctors visit her daily but she is allowed only a limited correspondence and personal affairs.

Her eldest son, the Duke of Windsor, and her only daughter, Mary, the Princess Royal, are heading back to London to be with their mother, both sailed Friday night from New York.

Duplessis Thinks Bomb Threat Linked With Anti-Red Charges

QUEBEC (CP)—The pastor of Pat Walsh's suburban Boischatel parish has been given provincial police protection following a threat that his church might be "blown up" during Sunday morning mass today.

The threat was in a letter sent to Rev. Pierre Gravel, long-time foe of Communist labor leaders in Quebec province.

Mr. Duplessis told his regular Friday press conference the letter said "the statements Pat Walsh is making are most hurtful to the building up of the church and presbytery."

Walsh, a member of Father Gravel's parish, resigned from a number of Communist-front organizations last week.

Although Walsh says he has not asked for police protection, the officers assigned to Father Gravel's parish will also keep movements about Walsh's home when he is away. The former labor leader has organized neighbors to give his family protection when he is absent.

Mr. Duplessis said information gathered by provincial police corroborated many of the statements made by Father Gravel in his "crusade cause" to believe that many damaging acts were committed in the province by Communists.

New Soviet Dictator

GEORGI MALENKOV

Disciple and first lieutenant of Joseph Stalin, 50-year-old Georgi Malenkov has succeeded to the top of the Communist dictatorship of the USSR. A complete shake-up at the top brings in a new and vigorous clique of deep-dyed Reds around him.

Russia Prepares for Greatest Funeral in 37-Year History With Stalin's Burial Monday

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet union today prepared the greatest funeral in its 37-year history for Joseph V. Stalin. The new government and the Communist party announced that his body, after rites Monday, would lie alongside Lenin's in Red Square until a great pantheon—a new temple shrine of world communism—is built to receive them and other Red "immortals."

An official announcement of the party central committee and the government council of ministers, now headed by Georgi M. Malenkov as Stalin's successor, said the funeral would be held at noon Monday but gave no details of the form the rites would take.

Nor did it say whether any part would be taken by religious leaders, who have led public prayers for Stalin since his last illness was announced Wednesday.

Moscow observed the second of four days of deep official mourning for the fallen leader who died Thursday night of heart failure and other complications following a massive brain haemorrhage Sunday. Sorrowing Muscovites and other Russians waited through bitter cold in a 16-abreast, 10-pulsing line to pass Stalin's—flower-banked, open coffin.

Reign on High Platform

It rested on a high platform in the House of Trade Unions' great empire-styled Hall of Columns, on Red Square a few hundred yards from Lenin's mausoleum.

From over the world, top foreign Communists hurried to the Soviet capital for the last rites of the man who for 29 years, ever since the death of Lenin, received first allegiance of the Soviet Union's 200,000,000 people and of Communists abroad.

The miles-long queue of mourners was the chief sign of activity in the tank-draped city. All theatres, movie houses and other places of entertainment were closed.

A huge portrait of Stalin, in marshal's uniform, draped in black, hung above the main doors of the Hall of Columns. It was decked with a bough of evergreen to symbolize that his memory would live.

5-YEAR TERM FOR FRAUD

MONTREAL (CP)—The maximum seven-year penitentiary term for fraud was imposed Friday by Chief Judge Edouard Archambault on Gaston Belair, 45, of Quebec for having defrauded a 76-year-old spinster of $5,000. Yvonne Ouimet, grey-haired complainant, testified Belair posed as an investigator of some sort and asked her to look after all her business. She trusted him with her signature on a blank cheque.

Truck Driver Killed, Seven Cars Derailed

YANKLEEK HILL, (CP)—Walter McLeod, 34, of Morrisburg was killed Friday when the truck-tractor he was driving derailed a train, burned and set fire to an empty railway coach near here.

The spectacular crash occurred when the truck, headed south from Hawkesbury to Cornwall and loaded with 15 tons of paper, slammed headlong into the front end of the locomotive.

All seven cars of the CNR freight were derailed and 200 feet of track was ripped up. Police said the driver, who had no chance to escape, the flaming wreckage, apparently tried vainly to take the ditch in an effort to stop. They believed the truck's brakes failed.

Two hours after the crash a smouldering baggage car was still straddling Highway 34.

Coast Liberals To Support SC

VICTORIA CP—BC Liberals who hoists the balance of power in the B. C. House, will vote with the Social Credit Government Monday in support of the present government's first budget, Liberal Leader E. T. Kenney announced, but added that his party objects to many features of the budget.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett indicated an election in early June by saying the present session will end this month.

The fiscal Sons of Scotland Dodders are trying to emigrate from Canada to either Costa Rica or Uruguay, Attorney-General Robert Bonner told B. C. members. He said representatives of the 2,500-member sect are consulting with the two latin-American governments.

NEW CORONATION STAMPS

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department announced Friday that a new issue of stamps bearing a full-face portrait of Queen Elizabeth will be issued May 1, a month later, the day before the Coronation, a four-cent Coronation stamp will be issued. The new set of stamps will be in denominations of one to five cents in brown, green, red, purple and blue.

HEALTH MINISTER URGES ECONOMY IN NEW HOSPITALS

Says Construction Must Be Kept to Essentials

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Mackinnon Phillips said Friday municipal councils should keep their purse strings if they hope to build and operate hospitals on an economical basis.

Speaking in the Legislature during the throne speech debate, Dr. Phillips said staffs must be cut and hospital construction restricted to bare essentials to meet rising taxes and costs.

Dr. Phillips said hospitals should not be built for skyscrapers, but not long, low buildings on acreage land. This type of construction, he said, was much cheaper.

Multiple-storey hospitals cost an average of $8,000 a bed, compared with $4,000 a bed for one or two-storey buildings. He suggested space be made smaller, ceilings lower and corridors smaller. The public should not feel these changes would not detract from comfort and efficiency.

Free Organization

He said he favors a national health insurance organization, financed from royalties from development of resources rather than from taxation.

Dr. Phillips said Alberta is the only province, besides Ontario, to afford public health insurance, by virtue of heavy royalties payments from oil development.

Joseph Salsberg, Labor-Progressive (Communist) member from Toronto St. Andrew, rapped the government's plan for federation of services in the district with municipalities in an hour-long speech.

He spoke for three hours Thursday and provoked bitter debate but his remarks Friday were greeted by an impassive audience.

Salsberg Praises Stalin

Mr. Salsberg praised Joseph Stalin, and said his death was "a severe loss to all who strive for a peaceful world." His tribute to the Soviet leader was the reply from the half-empty house.

Education Minister Dunlop interposed a bill for first reading which would authorize a central council of teachers' federations and local organizations in the province.

There is a central council, with headquarters in Toronto, would give trustees a medium of communication with the education department similar to that provided by the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

UK Speculates On Surprise Vote

LONDON (Reuters)—Many politicians here are speculating whether if Prime Minister Churchill will ignite a surprise political fuse on Coronation, counting on high public spirits to strengthen his majority in the British world.

Some of his supporters reckon that Churchill will spring a surprise thing by such a move because he now controls a voting margin of 16 in the 625-seat House of Commons.

But top cabinet ministers poohpooh the idea.

The present Parliament still has 18½ years left of its full five-year term.

British Warships Will Escort Tito to Britain on State Visit

LONDON (AP) — British warships will escort Yugoslav President Tito to Britain for his March visit, the Admiralty announced today.

It said that Tito—Communist ruler of anti-Soviet Yugoslavia—is expected to sail for the British Mediterranean base in a Yugoslav vessel which will be picked up by the Royal Navy. But a Yugoslav embassy spokesman in London said that arrangements are not yet complete for Tito's trip to Malta.

The foreign office announced Friday that Queen Elizabeth II invited Tito would come to London a week earlier than originally planned.

The realignment of power in the Kremlin following Stalin's death will top the agenda of Tito's talks with British officials, informed sources said.

Tito also will meet Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden with whom he briefly returned from talks in the United States with President Eisenhower and other top American leaders. Tito will get from Eden some of the latest U. S. views on cold war developments.

The recently concluded Yugoslav-Turkish-Greek tripartite pact for defence of the Balkans will come up for discussion.

Tito has been invited to lunch with the Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Overall Shakeup Of Top Govt. Personnel Seen

New Leader Long a Close Associate of Dead Red Chief

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi M. Malenkov today led the Soviet Union as successor to Joseph V. Stalin. His elevation was accompanied by a wholesale shakeup of top government personnel.

Selection of Stalin's 51-year-old protege to be the new Russian prime minister was announced by the Kremlin Friday night. Long a close associate of the dead Communist chief, Malenkov had been considered his likeliest successor.

A government communique said the heads of other changes—apparently aimed at streamlining the Soviet administration—were necessary to assure "uninterrupted and correct" leadership of the country and to prevent "any kind of disarray and panic" following Stalin's death.

The communique also announced that the Supreme Soviet—the Soviet Union's Parliament—will meet in Moscow March 14 to consider the changes.

Switches Made

Among the most important switches are:

1. L. P. Beria, boss of the Soviet secret police and Russia's atomic energy program, named head of the newly-combined interior and state security ministries. He presumably also will retain his police and atomic duties.

2. Deputy premier V. M. Molotov returned to the post of foreign minister he held from 1939 to 1949. He replaced Andrei Vishinsky, who has appointed permanent Soviet representative to the United Nations in New York. Vishinsky had taken over the foreign ministry job from Molotov.

3. Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, a member of Stalin's five-man inner war council during the Second World war, was named minister of the armed forces in place of Marshal A. M. Vasilevsky. The latter became a deputy minister.

All Deputy Ministers

Beria, Molotov, Bulganin and Lazarus Kaganovich were all renamed deputy prime ministers. With Malenkov, they will form a "presidium" of the council of ministers that apparently will be a highly-important government organ.

Charge Is Dismissed

LINDSAY (CP) — A charge against a 19-year-old boy of running a gambling house was dismissed in police court here by magistrate R. I. Moore.

The charge was dropped because the boy had given his age as a lie and court proceedings were opened under that impression.

Five other young men, charged with being found-ins, were fined when the magistrate said he could not admit a statement given to police by one of them. He said the police chief had read clauses in the Criminal Code to each young man constrned as a threat.

Magistrate Moore criticized the mother of the 15-year-old for accepting money from him, even if she thought he was a winner and was not taking any rakeoff.

Accused of Beating

BRANTFORD (CP) — Donald Adams, 37, accused of beating his wife with a bone-made cat-o'-nine tails because he thought she had been unfaithful, was charged Friday with assault causing bodily harm.

Adams, who was arrested while at work, was remanded in custody until Monday.

More Housing Facilities Will Be Set Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Resources Minister Winters told a union delegation Friday he would meet with Ontario government officials on the question of setting up more housing facilities for automobile workers at Oakville.

The delegation from the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO-CCL) asked for action to facilitate housing for about 4,500 workers expected to be hired in the next year to work in a new Ford plant.

It headed by George Burt, of Windsor, UAW Canadian director, the delegation said that mortgage terms on home-building be eased and that services be made available in Trafalgar township outside Oakville. Virtually all building land has been taken up in Oakville.

George Hosang to Represent Eastern Ontario Scouts On Contingent to Coronation

George Hosang, 16, member of the 1st. St. Thomas Scout Troop, is the envy of all Scouts in the city today and also of fellow students at Belleville Collegiate.

The reason is that he has been chosen as one of two Scouts to represent Eastern Ontario at the Canadian contingent to the Coronation in June.

The announcement that the Belleville boy had been appointed to go to the Coronation was received in the city yesterday afternoon by Archie Lewis, district Scout commissioner. The other Scout to represent Eastern Ontario at the Coronation will be Allan Postlethwaite, of Fort Henry, Kingston.

Choice of the Belleville Scout to go to England for the Coronation is a distinct honour to Belleville. As one of the two Scouts to represent Eastern Ontario George was chosen from approximately 2,000 Scouts. The Eastern Ontario area ranges from Cobourg to Cornwall and north to Peterborough and Ottawa.

Boy in Turnvale.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hosang, Bertram Blvd., George was born in Toronto and commenced his Scouting activities in the Queen City where he was invested as a Cub in 1945. After three years as a Cub he became a Scout receiving his tenderfoot badge in 1948. The family moved to Belleville in 1949, when George became a member of the 1st. St. Thomas Troop. He received his 2nd. class Scout badge in 1951 and became a Queen Scout in 1951. All told he now holds 16 Scouting badges and received his 1st. Class Cord in January of this year.

Scoutmaster Proud

As head of the 1st. St. Thomas Troop, Scoutmaster Herb Middleton is proud that a member of his troop has been chosen to go to the Coronation.

He says George has taken an especially keen interest in all phases of Scouting activities. He likes athletics and has participated fully into all outdoor activities. He is a member of the cadet corps at Belleville Collegiate.

In an interview yesterday George told the Ontario Intelligencer that it was quite an honour to be chosen to represent the Eastern Ontario district at the Coronation.

He had known for some weeks that he might be chosen. His name and that of Ted Langlois, also of this city, had been considered by Scouting authorities.

But, nevertheless, he was surprised as well as pleased when the announcement came through. At that he wasn't any more excited or pleased than was his mother.

Mrs. Hosang was also smiling when she learned her son would go to the "Coronation . . . I am very glad for George's sake," she said. "It will be a grand experience."

Final Showing Kampus Kapers Much Enjoyed

T. V. Station, W.B.C.I. presented its second and final showing of Kampus Kapers before a packed house in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium on Friday evening. Part of the presentation was next to exceptional and the entire show went off without a hitch.

Highlighting the spectacular, annual performance was the much publicized and justifiably lauded "Girls' Choir Ensemble," under the direction of Mr. C. E. Templer, collegiate musical director. Comprised of five soprano, five second soprano and five altos, the ensemble rendered a series of three Negro spirituals, "Deep River" as Hindu "Kari Farm", and a combination choral harmony and piano solo with Mr. Templer at the piano, of "Is It Memories?" and "Stella."

Adding to the dreamy effect of the classical rendition was the soft lighting and green and blue spots focused on the performers. The contrast was so effective and contrast was concerned, added much to the audience's and the ensemble's performance. The formally attired Mr. Templer and members of the ensemble received an encore at the conclusion of their presentation, exhibiting masterful technique for a brilliant production.

Second Skit

The second star, without a doubt must be awarded to participants in the "Wedding" skit. Strictly slapstick from beginning to end, the show was replete with all outdoor activities. Life is a comedy at the cadet corps at Belleville Collegiate.

But, nevertheless, he was surprised as well as pleased when the announcement came through. At that he wasn't any more excited or pleased than was his mother.

Mrs. Hosang was also smiling when she learned her son would go to the "Coronation . . . I am very glad for George's sake," she said. "It will be a grand experience."

POLICE BLOTTER

Gasoline pumps at Halloran Bros. garage on Camelton Road were considerably damaged Friday night when an unknown truck driver backed into them and drove away without notifying the owner.

Police were notified of the incident today but as far the person responsible has not been located.

Charles Ryan, driver for a local bread company, reported a dog had run under the wheels of his truck while he was driving on Parker St. The dog was killed.

Council Approves Recommendation To Grant Permit to Build Service Station at Harriett, N. Front St.

Acting on direct information from the Ontario Highways Department that plans for the proposed new four-lane highway north of the city included a "cloverleaf" intersection at Dundas Road and as result North Front Street would become a main artery, city council at a special meeting Friday afternoon reversed its previous decision and grant the British American Oil Company a permit to build a gasoline station at the corner of North Front and Harriett streets.

The application of the oil company for a permit to build the service station at the south west corner of the above street had been before council on several occasions, the matter being thoroughly discussed from all angles on Monday.

Also at this meeting council turned down the application to have the matter laid over for two weeks to allow the city to obtain information as to whether North Front Street was likely to become a main artery leading into the city, when the new dual highway was built.

Delegation Meets Minister

Following Monday's meeting Alderman Arthur Ellis, who is chairman of the planning committee, Alderman Thompson and traffic committee chairman and David Barker, building inspector, visited Toronto, where an audience had been arranged with Highways Minister Hon. George Doucett by Premier Frost. ercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West.

The committee reported that Mr. Doucett showed them the department plans for the new highway, showing a cloverleaf intersection for the Foxboro Highway. They stated that the North Front Street would in all probability be the main artery leading north out of the city.

It was this information indicating North Front Street would eventually be a main artery, that led council to pass the reconsideration approving the favourable decision in regard to the service station at North Front and Harriett streets.

It had been previously pointed out in council that if North Front Street was to become a main artery out of the city, it would be necessary to widen the street. If so residential property in the area would be affected and it was through the kindness to property owners if the street could be left as a commercial area.

Kenneth Ross, representing the British American Oil Company, assured council that service stations would be built sufficiently far from the roadway to allow for widening. He stated that this was deemed necessary at some future date and would ask no compensation.

C of C Members Given History On Pakistan

Marmora — Interesting first hand information on the new Moslem state was given members of Marmora district Chamber of Commerce and wives at a dinner well attended dinner meeting in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening by Mr. Amin-du-Din, assistant director of industry, Malakat, Pakistan, guest speaker of the evening. In introducing the speaker, Mr. Willistenhome Delore who was a fellow passenger of his on the same plane from London to Montreal last November mentioned that the speaker had acquitted himself with high scholarships granted to Pakistan by the United Nations.

Graduate of Lahore

Making use of such, he was for a few months with the Hindu and Moslem Commission in Trenton for the purpose of studying the public and paper industry as it applied to person plan. Mr. Amin-du-Din is a graduate of Lahore university and has specialized in history and economics. Accompanying him and specially invited at the close of the meeting was Henry Cervenka, Belleville artist and Heaven Fenbid".

The singing of a bachelor bouquet are the performers in the Shamrock and Thistle. The production consisted of the Scotch and Irish folk songs and dances, with soloists and participants Suzanne Cavers, active in many of the shows of this and particularly in this special offering, showed the audience she had a voice and talent that are going to enjoy listening to again. The choir direction of Miss Cavers, might be the fact her notes are a little weak. However, the people lady certainly has a beautiful voice and well worth listening to once more. Heard as a soloist partner, in the operatic-like skit, were remembered as encore.

Space does not permit all the numbers on the program to be individually mentioned. But, presentations by the physical training classes were not get unmentioned. Precision timing was shown in each of the numbers in the complete interesting and fine performances by all the boys and girls involved.

Certainly a heavy vote of thanks is due the directors of the Kampus Kapers program for the time and effort they spent in bring the production before the people of this city. Although the show has been presented down another performance, residents will not soon forget Kampus Kapers of 1953 and indeed, look forward in anticipation to next year's showing. —(J.B.)

Maple Syrup Holds at $1.50 Quart on Market

Egg prices were a bit firmer on the local produce market today as farmers quoted 55c per doz. for firsts and 53c for mediums. This was a 4c per dozen increase over last week's prices.

Maple syrup was quoted at the same price as last week, $1.50 per gallon. Quart lots brought $1.50 and pints 75c.

Potatoes continue their downward price swing with farmers quoting $2.50 per bag and 40c for ten lb. bags. Parsnips were 30c per half peck; carrots and beets were 25c per half peck; turnips a dime and 15c each, and winter onions a dime per bunch or three for a quarter.

Whitefish was 40c per lb. with pike and herring selling at 35c or three lbs for $1.

Top grade delicious apples sold at $4.50 per hamper and 90c per basket. Talman Sweets were 90c per basket and Spies sold McIntosh 75c.

Prices of the quarter brought 23c and 30c per lb. for front and hinds respectively.

Inside inside market fowl sold at 50c and 55c per lb. for chicken.

CHIEF CONSTABLE FOR SEEED APPOINTED

Tweed village has a new chief constable. He is Constable Donald Mitchener of the Gananoque Police Department, who has accepted the position vacated last month by Chief Constable Spratt, and will take over his new duties on March 15th.

He has been on the Gananoque police force since last July and was formerly on the board at Colborne Bay penitentiary at Kingston. He served in the armed corps during the last war. He is married with a family of five.

committee from the Department of Lands and Forests with respect to the department assuming supervision of the dam and levels on local waters.

Alex Fraser announced the next meeting on April 2 would be "Delore night" when Michelle Wells drew attention to the fact that at its last meeting Harmore village council decided to erect street name signs.

Alex Fraser referred to the Red Cross drive. It was decided to have donations turned in to the next directors' meeting. Before the meeting adjourned for the evening Mr. Delore, a guest of the evening was called upon for a few words.

IN MEMORIAM

HILTON. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Hilton, who passed away March 8, 1951.

Many a lonely hour
Many a silent tear
Is the sad result of memory
For he was taken when
God gave me strength to fight it
And courage to bear the time
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
A happy home we once enjoyed
A love that was sincere
But God has seen it best to part
We shall meet over there.
Sadly missed by wife, Alma Hilton. M7

TURNER. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Albert E. Turner, who passed away one year ago, March 7, 1952.

On God's dear mercy quietly sleeping
Where the trees their branches wave
Lies a dear one we loved so well
The husband I could not save.
Not a day do I forget you dear
Not a thought do I miss
His spirit fled before we knew
That he had passed away
At night the silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here
Where sleeps the one I can't forget
Until we meet over there.
Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Ethel. M7

TURNER. — In loving memory of our father, Samuel H. Turner, who passed away one year ago, March 7, 1952.

Memories are sweet
Though they bring a tear
As we gently kneel
And whisper dear
Father remembered
Is not to be seen
Those by the world
Is hands by our side
And whispers dear children
—Ever remembered by sons, daughters and infants. M7

A Scientist Finds God

Editor's Note: Richard Carruthers, 288 John Street North, Belleville, has forwarded to the Ontario Intelligencer the address of a scientist of Baltimore, Md., to the men's club of his church. It is a personal narrative which we believe many of our readers will find interesting. Mr. Carruthers' comments and the address by Dr. Short follow:

Much has been written to the relationship of God and science, and it was interesting to read an address before the Rotary Club in Carlisle, England, by the bishop of Carlisle (Dr. Thomas Bloomer). Part of his message was devoted to God and science which was as follows:

"It used to be said 'Glory be to God for God is the Maker of all things' but we had been passing through an age when there had been a lot of people saying 'Glory to man in the highest because man is the maker and discoverer of all things.' Man's assurance in his own ability to manage his own affairs and plot his own course had indeed been very strong. So much so it had been proclaimed that science had made God unnecessary. There were many people who thought this was true but it is not.

"Science," said the bishop, "had done great things and he had no quarrel with science. Science could only make discoveries and put them at the disposal of man, but how man used it would depend on his relationship with God and nothing else.

"He always brought to mind my visit to Baltimore last summer. I stayed at the home of Phil Stout, manager and director of the Industrial Research Laboratories in Baltimore. Mr. Stout is a strong supporter of his church and teaches a class of boys between the ages of 13 and 16 at Sunday School. He told me of an address he gave to the men's club of his church, "How I Found God." It follows:

St. Paul Stricken

"St. Paul, on the road to Damascus, was violent stricken down. He arose and said, 'what wouldst thou have me do, Master?' Paul, for the first time, recognized that a great many people find God in a blaze of emotion, but that is not a lasting time. I decided that I must find God, if there was a God, by a more logical approach to the method. Perhaps this was true because of my scientific tendencies. At any rate, each of us must find God in his own peculiar manner.

"I grew up in a highly religious atmosphere. My father and mother had a simple abiding faith which, when I was young, seemed somewhat stupid, but which in later years I found very beautiful. (Little did I then realize that they both had had religious experiences that stood as a foundation of their spiritual stability.)

"The first step I think in attempting to arrive at a mental acceptance of God is the justification of faith. My early conclusion was that faith was to be indulged in by the mentally lazy. Later on I came to the conclusion that faith is absolutely necessary in our lives because there are so very many things beyond our checking or understanding, even with the most brilliant mind. I was surprised at the realization that it was normal to have faith in my fellow men. Suppose, for example, that I had decided to ride in an elevator of a certain building to the tenth floor. Would I first check the cable to find if it consisted of a wire rope made up of 64 No. 10 steel cables? Would I then take one of those cables and break it in a testing machine, finding that it would withstand 500 pounds? Would I then satisfy myself that the elevator was capable of carrying me up to the tenth floor? I found that if I took such an attitude that I would have to lead quite a primitive life. Moreover, since I obviously had faith in my fellow men, certainly it was not too much or out of place to give God the same consideration.

College Period

"During the period I was a freshman and sophomore at college I went through quite a period of doubt and bewilderment. Perhaps the first 'religious' shock I experienced was through the death of my grandmother. She was a very fine person and was lovely to children. However, she had a small bump on her forehead that was the result of a fall when she was a young girl. It turned into cancer, and despite her great suffering over a period of years, never once did I hear her complain. When I stood by her casket I felt sinful and said to myself, 'if God is so good why doesn't he take better care of His own people?'

"Later on I would hear various ministers delivering their sermons and would wonder what justification they had to make the statements they did, and of the book from which they read and referred to — was this not a pretty fairy tale or perhaps a fantasy? I thought to myself, 'These people keep talking about a man God and he about which none of them seem to have had any first-hand knowledge. Is it all theory, and if so, what supports this theory?' I desperately and sincerely wanted to make up my mind one way or the other, 'does God exist or not?'

"I came to the conclusion that if God did exist I could hardly hope for Him to reveal Himself in a blaze of glory to me as He did to St. Paul. I had been taught in Sunday School that we could find God if we seek Him, 'Seek Me and ye shall find — knock and it shall be opened unto you.' Perhaps I need not look for Him in high and mighty places. The poem by John Greenleaf Whittier impressed me:

'We may not climb the heavenly steps
To bring the Lord Christ down:
In vain we search the lowest deeps
For Him no depths can drown.'

Locating a City

"I reasoned finding God might be like locating a city, such as Baltimore, that was covered with a very dense fog. We could not enter into or see the city, but possibly we could erect some signposts around the perimeter directing us to where the city lay. Found enough signposts from various directions then we could be absolutely sure that the city existed, even though enveloped in an island of fog. I desperately wanted to get the answer to this problem and started looking for sign posts.

"One day while riding in the family car I came face to face with a frightful accident between an inter-city bus and a large delivery truck. I helped carry class a man who was dying. I heard his final words, which were: 'Oh God, please help me.' This seemed me profoundly, not so much because of the event itself, but the fact that when all else had failed he instinctively turned to all that he left—to God. I reasoned if we have a definite yearning in a certain part of us that is created to meet this desire or need. Food is available when we are hungry, or sleep is provided for the sleepy, or rest for those that are tired, and so forth. Was it unreasonable to expect that there might be something to satisfy the desire to know God? The mental struggle was over — I found God all around me."

CARS CRASH, 3 HURT

FULTON, Ont. (CP) — Adam Landle, 53, of Welland was critically injured Thursday when two cars collided head-on near here. He suffered a fractured skull, brain injury, broken right leg and right arm. Two Hamilton men were injured seriously. Bernie MAIL-Allen, 23, a passenger in Landle's car, suffered a head injury and face cuts. Sam Stokes, driver of the other car, suffered possible head injuries and a cut chin. Fulton is about 15 miles southeast of Hamilton.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"Lead Me To Calvary"

King of my life, I crown Thee now,
Thine shall the glory be;
Lest I forget Thy thorn-crowned brow,
Lead me to Calvary.

Show me the tomb where Thou wast laid,
Tenderly mourned and wept;
Angels in robes of light arrayed
Guarded Thee whilst Thou slept.

Let me like Mary, thru the gloom,
Come with a gift to Thee;
Show to me now the empty tomb,
Lead me to Calvary.

May I be willing, Lord, to bear
Daily my cross for Thee;
Even Thy cup of grief to share,
Thou hast borne all for me.

A New Hampshire young woman, Miss Jennie Hussey, wrote this popular Lenten hymn about half a century ago and W. J. Kirkpatrick, the gospel singer, set it to music.

Although it is missing from most of our mid-twentieth century hymn books, it had a leading place in American gospel song collections for years.

Miss Hussey grew up on a farm. She spent many of her girlhood hours writing poems, and, at 15, she enjoyed the thrill of seeing her first verses in print. Three years later she was writing regularly for several magazines.

This was the beginning of a literary career that continued through most of her life. She wrote many charming stories for children but she was known best for her religious songs. It is said that she authored more than 150 hymns in all. "Lead Me To Calvary" has outlasted most of the others.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, a native of Pennsylvania, was also a religious musician during the War between the states. In later years he became widely known as an organist and singer and as a writer and publisher of hymns.

Eggs Analyzed

"Later on I read of some scientists who had completely analyzed the contents of an ordinary chicken egg. Moreover, the scientists have been able to take basic elements and build a man-made egg. As a final test this 'egg' was put in an incubator to wait for the interesting results. Would the egg hatch? No indeed! What was missing? After reading this I thought I had found myself still another sign post, as somehow much wiser than anyone on earth had the secret of life itself.

"One day while studying in the university library on some research pertaining to physics I came across a formula and statements about the behavior of certain elements and compounds. The rule is that any compound or element expands and gets lighter as it gets hotter and shrinks and becomes denser as it gets colder. There was an asterisk after this statement, and in fine print at the bottom of the page it said that this is not altogether true of water which behaves in a very peculiar manner.

Water's Reaction

"The characteristic of water is that it becomes denser or heavier as it gets colder down to a point just a few degrees above freezing, then the trend actually reverses. This is most interesting. In a moment I figured out the reason why. Should the water in our rivers and lakes in the northern and southern hemisphere freeze during the winter, and were it not for this peculiar characteristic, the ice would sink to the bottom of the lakes or rivers.

"Another layer would freeze and in short order the entire body of water would be a solid mass of ice. It would take a few seasons until there would be glaciers all the equator and all life as we know it would quickly disappear from the planet. The impact of this unique characteristic hit me rather profoundly. I reasoned that this was no mere circumstance, and certainly ,someone infinitely wiser than anyone I have ever known, had a lot of time and seemingly more detail.

"Leaving my books and work, I walked out on the campus and with tears in my eyes I said to myself, 'I have found all the sign posts I need to prove the existence of God.' The mental struggle was over — I found God all around me."

LET'S TAKE A CLOSE LOOK

One of the most pathetic commentaries upon this newspaper age we live in is the almost unhappy failing of so many of its word mechanics to take off on crying jags in the presence of death.

No sooner does word come that Stalin was on his death-bed, than some were on another eulogistic bender. By Friday, with Stalin known to be dead, he had become the humble scholar's son who lived to be cited by nations. His career was being appraised, with "calm and detachment", in terms of great achievements.

Just how detached were unhinged—can we get?

In advance of the wordy flood yet to come before the burial rites are performed, let us take a good, steady look at the record. Let's leave the prerogatives of calm detachment to the historians and their day.

The Stalin record we see is as contemporary as today's news. Grim chapters of it are known to every Canadian schoolboy. And it is still being written. It is as immediate as death in Korea this morning; as inescapable as death in Korea tomorrow.

In our own time we are witnesses to the most monstrous blot of evil ever left on recorded history. That is the Stalin record.

In no past generation—our generation—the evil works and designs of this man have eclipsed the historic chapters of cruelty and despotism written by the Alexanders, the Caesars, the Genghis Kahns and the Bonapartes.

His deeds of barbarism place his own compatriot, Ivan the Terrible, and his contemporary mass-murderer, Hitler, in the shade. In comparison, the fearful name of Robespierre could be that of one of the Dead-End Kids. In his designs for treachery, Stalin makes Machiavelli read like a page from Jack Benny.

And the authenticated record is only a portion of the grisly crimes against mankind which must be charged against him. The system of violence which his evil genius has spawned and spread everywhere.

What achievements can be held to balance against even the blood-drenched path of Marxism: the liquidation of the Kulaks; the destruction of his closest personal friends and associates among the Old Guard of Bolshevism; ruthless and wholesale extermination of thousands of Christians in the subjugated lands; the millions known to have been condemned to slow death in slave camps?

All that is the picture of Stalin we do well to remember. The London Daily Sketch put it bluntly in the words: "Let no tears be shed—the world is well rid of him."

And that is the position now. We are rid of Stalin. For the time being at least, we are told, his personal protege and lieutenant, Malenkov, has become the dictator. We are rid of Stalin, to be sure, but there is no supposition that we are confronted with less danger with the system which Stalin created and engineered for so long, in new and evolving ways.

All we know for sure is that absolute control by one man has gone. But the change is from certainty in this respect to the uncertainties of. For no other man overnight could become successor to the authority and power which Stalin spent a lifetime to gain and secure—a position of unparalleled power in history—won by unparalleled treachery.

THOUSAND AND ONE PERSONS

In the mail next week householders in Belleville and the surrounding area will receive the annual letter and envelope which bear its unobtrusive appeal each year for funds to assist the work of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

There are one thousand and one reasons why the people of this community should not regard this envelope with casual interest. And each one of those reasons is a crippled boy or girl from the Belleville district who has been helped through the society in years gone by.

Locally the chief community interest of the Rotary Club since its birth has been crippled children. More than a thousand have had treatment, a great many have been fully restored to physical activity and others have been greatly benefited. Local committees, as well as other service clubs have been formed in neighboring communities the area for which the local club is responsible is less than a few years ago but still there is a painful obvious need for the 30 children went through the Rotary Club here last year for special care and treatment.

Many cases can be treated only in Toronto where must be sent to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto where Canada boasts clinic facilities and surgical skill which have earned a world-wide reputation in orthopedics. Some children undergo treatment which involves their transportation to and from Toronto over a period of time. Others are provided with leg braces, special shoes and other aids.

In carrying out this work the Rotary Club spent close to $3,000 last year. The receipts in contributions to the Easter Seal Sale invariably fall short of the cost from year to year but all fees from club memberships are devoted to the fund and other money-raising projects are carried out during the year. A portion of the local collections go to the Ontario Society to help pay for the special camps for crippled children which are operated throughout the summer.

The worthiness of this appeal is apparent. Citizens are reminded not to send back the seals if they are unable to make a contribution. These returns usually mean some cost to the club in "postage due." No canvassing is done.

EQUAL GLORY

You can do a lot of clever things
And not be truly great,
You can paint a lovely picture
And still stain your soul with hate;
You can board up gold and silver till your time of life shall end
And still remain unhonored here and never have a friend.

You may live your generation through and not become a man;
You may build a great cathedral and still fail the Master's plan;

You may be a skillful workman and the topmost heights attain
But still if that is all you do your life is spent in vain.

For the things which make for greatness are not born of power and skill;
The tyrant with his conquering troops remains a tyrant still,
And the sculptor with his chisel may carve his name in stone,
Must find their glory, not in works, but how they lived as men.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 7, 1933.

Miss Hattie Hudson of Toronto, formerly of this city, is spending a few days in town at Hotel Quinte, prior to her departure for Bermuda.

Dr. Mike Scarlborough is the guest of Dr. J. A. Faulkner in this city.

The St. Rev. J. A. Nicholson, V.G., of St. Michael's Church in Toronto, visited yesterday at Stoco.

The Rev. Dr. James Semple of Smiths Falls has accepted a call to become pastor of Bridge Street United Church in this city and will assume his duties there about June 30. He will succeed the Rev. Dr. Ball, who has been...pastor for four years.

The city council is considering the purchase of a road oiling machine.

Miss Mabel Rodgers entertained a number of friends at her home on Cedar Street Wednesday evening in honor of her mother's birthday.

Mrs. Francis Winter and Mrs. Harold Walker of Trenton were guests of Mrs. Francis Carre in this city yesterday.

20 YEARS AGO

March 7, 1913.

The members of the Boys' City Council of a meeting in the police court room decided to put on a minstrel show. The following officers were appointed: Manager, Bill George; assistant managers, Clifford Kelly and Norman Brown; property manager, Bing Hayes; secretary, Warren Soule; Mr. Mikel and Ab. Wheeler, who assisted with the minstrel performances here years ago, were present and gave the boys valuable assistance in making their plans.

The Junior baseball league was re-organized at a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Little was appointed secretary-treasurer in place of Frank Cushing who will be absent from the city often during the season. Fred Liberty was appointed to draw up the schedule.

40 YEARS AGO

March 7, 1913.

In the final game of the Colts' curling bonspiel the rink skipped by Percy Pipes won out. The following composed the rinks: H. B. Stock, W. L. B. Jeffers, Lindsay; Percy Pipes, skip, 17; Phil Harrison, Kingston; Dr. Kinkead, H. Holland, skip, 15.

On Saturday a horse owned by Frank Hamilton of this city and driven by his younger brother, ran away on Pinnacle Street and in its flight collided with a telegraph pole with the result that Bert's neck was broken. The driver escaped serious injury. The horse, though partially blind, was valuable and is a serious loss to Mr. Barrett.

Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., was in town from Ottawa to spend the week-end.

50 YEARS AGO

March 7, 1902.

Mr. W. Flint Jones went to Campbellford today on business.

Mr. Stephen Burrows has returned home from Waterloo, Ontario, where he spent several days on business.

The Salvation Army Mission Band in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a parlor social at the home of Mr. John Fenn, Victoria Avenue, Friday evening. The minister of the church, the Rev. M. W. Maclean, acted as chairman for the programme.

Mrs. George Benjamin will celebrate tomorrow her 84th anniversary of her birth. We extend congratulations.

The Rev. W. D. Harrison of Ivanhoe preached in both services in the Tabernacle on Sunday and also addressed the Sunday School in the afternoon.

EMPTYING THE MAIL BAGS

Have you ever watched Post Office employees emptying mail bags? They are not allowed to shake the bags. They are emptied and then to reach down and see if there are any letters left in bottom of the bag. Regulations require that they turn the mail bags inside out. Letter are having momentous consequences for individuals, corporations and perhaps for the government might be sticking in that mail bag.

We often hear about people getting religion. When people really get religion they turn the inside out. There are a lot of nominal Christians in the world and they are not Christians because they were born Christians and brought up in a Christian home and under the influence of Christian church. They have grown up to be pretty fair people. But there are others who became religious as the result of a profound conversion. There is nothing inherited about their religion. They are born-again men for one reason — epochal for them — they turned their lives inside out.

Psychology and religion both unite in affirming that life can be satisfactorily improved only when it is basically transformed. Said Jesus to Nicodemus, "Ye must be born again." And the truth centuries later was stated the basic situation. Get a new start; turn your life inside out.

Squeeze On Sardines

(Chicago News)

The federal food and drug administration has taken a firm stand on the canning of delicacy which as everybody knows, was already in a tight spot. It has ruled that once a herring gets one inches long, it cannot be sold as a sardine.

This brought moans from New England where fishermen have been packing most of their catch in brown herring in cans labeled "sardine". But the food agency stoutly maintained that these big herrings look no more like sardines than a cow does a mackerel.

We agree, although we wish mackerel had been left out of the picture that already has more fish in it than an aquarium. A sardine at 6 inches a herring is not necessarily a sardine. In Europe and the Pacific a sardine is also a pilchard. The young herrings caught off the New England and legally salable as sardines are not, as far as we can learn, pilchards.

European sardines are Sardina pilchardus and unless they come from the Mediterranean, and then, just to make sure the island of Sardinia is properly publicized, they are Sardina Pilchardus Sardina. Which reminds us that no good reason, that kippers are also herrings, unless they were kippered instead.

Texas Has Discovered Canada

(By Richard Eskenazi In The Christian Science Monitor)

Dallas, Texas has discovered Canada: It is 900 miles from the Texas-Saskatchewan border to Manitoba, and Alberta — but Texans have found out that they speak the same kind of language as the Canadians. Texans, by the newspapers, of course, that Canadians speak English. But not only that, Texans have found the populace of this former republic restless, that north of the border it is people which is also doing big things.

Oil has been a major attraction between Canada and Texas. The discovery and continued search in Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba have been carried out in large part by Texans. Exploration teams, drilling crews, refinery operators and officials number many Texans. The draw of the United States Southwest is quite common. In the small towns and big cities of the Canadian prairies.

This bond of oil has since led Texans to discover that Canada has the same pioneering spirit identified with the Texas past. Texans have put a generation or so from the days when a man could get a big piece of land his own from the vast acres—are finding out that Canada has done the same thing in the West.

And Canada is taking full advantage of the natural and human possibilities by Texans. Many Canadians of top financial and business reputations are coming to Texas to tell of their country's potentialities.

The most recent visitor to Texas from Canada is Irving R. Doherty, youthful president of Canadian Superior Oil, who told a Dallas audience that the pioneering spirit of Texans can be found among the Big Land Men of Canada's Far Northwest.

"Canada's arms are wide open to investors and immigrants," Mr. Doherty told the Texans. "Natural resources are being developed at a tremendous pace and the economy of the Dominion is expanding. Your northernmost neighbor has shown the United States was 50 years ago."

Mr. Doherty told his Dallas audience that four-year foreign and domestic oil operators spent $250 million in Canada in 1950 and bringing in 160 producers (in Canada). It was just six years ago that the country's first producing well was brought in at Leduc, Alberta. Since then, a billion dollars have been spent on oil exploration and development in Canada."

This is the kind of talk that Texans like. Texas, in this state-geographically in the United States—was the great-est industrial booms in the history of the country is under-scored by such figures as the figures such as "a billion dollars" bandied about freely. Such big fiscal terms are used in connection with Texas' petro-chemical and chemical industry now mushrooming on the Gulf Coast and in the high plains. Texas—which provides most of the American oil needs—is also interested in such statements as the one made by Mr. Doherty.

By 1960, Canada will be exporting oil and supplying its domestic demand.

In years past, Canada has imported about 90 per cent of its petroleum needs.

And Texas—which is watching soon as the Canadian pipeline works going up inside its borders—is also interested in the vast aluminum plant under construction at Kitimat, British Columbia, where the Aluminum Company of Ca is is spending $300 million. The steel plant at Kitimat is expected to be turning out half a million tons of steel annually by the end of 1958.

There is a relationship between Texas and Canada is part of the Texas drive to diversify its economy sections. Texans have major roles in oil developments all over the world—in the Middle East, Saudi Arabia, and elsewhere. A Texas group is the first American to explore for oil in Spain.

Texans also recognize a similarity in their own economic set-up with that of Canada. As in Texas, Canada has become conscious now work in factories than in farms—despite extensive use of the urban areas to work in the new industries that boomed in World War II.

Homburg Heaven

(Financial Post)

Understanding the Americans is an important, if not always simple, task for Canadians and we always pass on information that we believe will be helpful. The item we published in a dramatic break with precedent, Eisenhower did not wear a silk hat for his inauguration. He wore a homburg. And the arrival of the homburg must have been booming ever since. The New Yorker magazine said that in two months New York hat shops, homburg sales tripled. "Even the 'Wall Street' for homburgs from the hinterland" says the New Yorker, "even the hat business in Iowa and South Carolina where nobody ever wears anything before." One chain of hat specialists reports of sales increase of 500 per cent. The New Yorker quotes them: "Cleaned, smack out of blacks and blues. One factory is rushing out new stock. Normal sale of homburgs in any one year is three to a guy. Now it's 10 to 12 a day and still rising." Eye to eye with the hat business and never saw the like."

We are delighted about all this happiness in homburg heaven but puzzled.

Mystery Flavor

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Scientists are trying to find out what makes maple syrup have the flavor it does. The theory now brought the question out in the open was the realization that the flavor of the maple tree has no maple flavor.

Apparently the flavor is acquired in the process of making the syrup. This is the last business of the season since maple syrup is not the only product in which the flavor is developed in the process of boiling. Even a plain boiled potato is better after it is boiled than it does in the raw state.

And we might add that pretty good maple syrup can be made from the water in which pancakes have been cooked in the jackets on. Sugar has to be added of course, and given further boiling.

How Long Was That?

(Windsor Daily Star)

A four-pound British "Coronation" cake, for the export trade, will cost $5.50 and keep for 10 years. The life expectancy, we suppose, will be considerably less if there's a six-year-old boy in the house.

Scoop-Shovel Had Its Day

(Drumheller Mail)

The fine artistry of handling coal has improved, since the pride and joy of the dragman disappeared from the local scene as the scoop-shovel became obsolete. Today the dump truck, high-speed loaders and other mechanical aids work down to a few thrusts per load of many tons.

In yester-years, each grain, gravel or sand drew up for delivery, a full load. The report of "short often girls—would be on hand to watch the loading and the man in the scoop-shovels. The reward to the young sub-scriber was to be the liberal loading the last few pounds from the coal pile.

The old-time draymen established the art of placing the load on the back. With a few deft strokes they would clean up the load, leaving it in the best looking the location neat and tidy.

The unloading with mechanical devices is reduced to pulling one or two levers and there is a few quick shovelfuls into the bin.

The performance seldom draws more than a passing glance from youngsters and certainly little appreciation.

Doctoring Everything

(Farmer's Advocate)

For a country as young as this it is really amazing that we have depend so much on drugs, synthetics, condiments and antibiotics. Within the past few decades has been less than a century under settlement and yet the drugs we are finding such a wide range or deficiencies in man and beast that a few quite shortfalls into the bin. The performance seldom draws more than a passing glance from youngsters and certainly little appreciation.

To give further evidence of the divine right of kings, perhaps, is why so many present day rulers wear the ancient crowns. But evidence of the divine right of kings in any man being has always been within the realm of mystery. But it has undiscovered is always something for which you have to dig. But there is an effort knowledge is revealed.

The simplest sum by the wayside has a story. So does every stream, every flower. Men and every flower. Men have written the story of mineral deposits and geological reading the signs and the silent language of nature which have served deep in the earth.

With the coming of every-lies.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

ON THE AIR OR IN THE CUP

Without consumin coffee from which most of the caffiene had been removed was served to a group of physicians and their wives. Most of them remarked that the coffee was excellent and what kind was it? Since that occasion I have tried the great kinds of coffee from which most of the caffeine has been removed, tasted, and found both kinds flat.

On a visit to England we carried a supply of something purporting to give a good imitation of coffee on the addition of hot water. On tasting it was awful. The maid gladly took the rest of the stuff away.

On entering restaurant, dining room, coffee shop or lunch room if your nostrils are greeted with the pleasant aroma of coffee you can be sure the stuff you get in your coffee cup won't be so pleasing.

This is an elementary fact which many coffee users seem unable to understand. The coffee bean contains just so much flavor. Rolling, even for a moment, drives off the aroma (flavor) and the oils so that left in the pot, urn, percolator or whatever you use to make coffee, is necessarily minus the aroma that has escaped into the air.

Never tasted better coffee than we received from a Puerto Rico friend—a bag of the green beans. We browned enough for only a pound or two at a time, ground in our own coffee mill only enough for the day each morning, and thus kept in the coffee much of the aroma or other value that ripes more rapidly after roast-ing and especially after grinding.

To capture the coffee aroma from your cup instead of letting it on the air, follow these suggestions:

1. Boiling even for a few moments not only drives off more of the coffee aroma but extracts from the grounds more of the tannin or bitter substance and the bitterness (tannic acid) doesn't improve digestion.

2. Buy coffee in small quantities and grind fresh, only enough for the day each time. Even in tightly sealed, containers ready-ground coffee rapidly loses its aroma. Add cold water to the quantity of coffee to be brewed and let it stand cold for some time, even over night in a cold, place. The cold water extracts and holds more of the aroma or flavor than hot water does. Then bring coffee slowly to the coffee heat it up nearly but not quite to boiling point. Heat carefully and do not let it boil even for a moment.

3. Then let the heat, low stand a few minutes to settle, or add a few spoonfuls of cold water to settle, or, if you wish some egg white or both white and yolk. Let it settle for as soon as coffee is cool enough to drink.

Who shouldn't drink coffee? In my opinion only children under sixteen years of age and chronic invalids—but only on the advice of their physicians. Most adults of any age may but I believe should take coffee, if they like it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

With binoculars around my neck, I have just completed my spring migration trip down through Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas around the Gulf and up through Texas to New Mexico and Arizona. They all seem to have come back to their old haunts, our birds on their winter vacation, working, nesting, feeding. Grackles, hawks of every description, herons, all the feathered folk. My report is that they do not feel at home down there. They are distinctly out of sorts. They might just as well have had headquarters at the Arctic Circle for looking at me.

When the birds are on their home ground in Canada, they have an air of attachment, of belonging. They have their favorite nest sites to select, and nests to build, and territory to defend to declare and to defend against others of their own kind. But down in the States they have no home here, adopts a proprietorial and hostile air.

This is entirely missing in them down in the South. It appears to me that even though you see them but in passing. They are aimless, wandering. It is a country simply devoid of food for them. The climate is mild; more than half the landscape is covered with trees, green live oaks and pines; the streams run limpidly. There is fresh, sweet country air, and flowers of some kind are to be seen them but in small detail, states is enough space and food for all the birds in America. But for all the millions of them went on down over the equator to winter.

But is not home to them. Its either place. It is merely a winter resort, belray, lazy, abundant in all things. And the birds act properly as any of us who go down for an escape from winter. They sit around. They are indifferent and slightly dissatisfied air. They seem to have come down to another as we do, for no reason, but for a change. At home, they have fears and air and attitude of purpose that few of us ever attain to. They are a person of affairs.

Down in Louisiana, a robin can't find idle, dejected figure you can imagine. At home, a robin starts at the first sign of sun, nothing alarms him. If you stir at him to stir up, he flies off without direction or purpose. He never seems to have just an idler, a bum, killing time.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DIVINITY IN NATURE

It is impossible to look upon any phase of Nature without encountering some of the most wonderful things in the world—every snowflake, in every grain of sand, in every formation of rock or ground, in the tiniest of insects, in the tiniest of flowers, in the tiniest of leaves, in the tiniest of grass, in the tiniest of blades, in the tiniest of twigs, in the tiniest of branches, in the tiniest of trees, in the tiniest of forests, in the tiniest of mountains, in the tiniest of valleys, in the tiniest of rivers, in the tiniest of lakes, in the tiniest of oceans, in the tiniest of continents, in the tiniest of worlds, in the tiniest of universes, in the tiniest of galaxies, in the tiniest of solar systems, in the tiniest of suns, in the tiniest of moons, in the tiniest of planets, in the tiniest of stars, in the tiniest of comets, in the tiniest of meteors, in the tiniest of asteroids, in the tiniest of nebulae, in the tiniest of constellations, in the tiniest of star clusters, in the tiniest of star dust, in the tiniest of space, in the tiniest of time, in the tiniest of eternity.

Springtime Nature spreads Herself. Everywhere one looks in direction the eyes glance. Even the harsh, cold days of winter are full of divinity about it, and unconsciously affects our thoughts and our spirits. Inspired to better work and a happier state of mind. Nature is the same when all is green and fragrant in Nature!

Let us take too much of the wonder and beauty in Nature for granted. Let us not overlook and unimportant, rather than significant signals, as evidence of Nature's Handiwork. Even the most inexpensive microscope is able to reveal to us a world never before entertained — even in dreams!

Let us not, as we are forever seeking to destroy, there are other forces just as busy, seeking to build, and to rebuild, to reconstruct. From Nature we really should learn a lot. Even if we may not Nature first created as a place for man to live, and to love.

"And to Earth, my Mother, whom he love," as expressed in the Rubaiyat of Omar Roadmender," by Michael Fairless.

Will Take Year To Salvage Burned Liner

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) — Raising of the burned hulk of the liner Empress of Canada in harbor here will be the biggest salvage operation ever tackled in Britain, the Liverpool harbor board manager said Thursday.

It will take a year and cost more than $500,000, Mr. Ted Hodges said.

About 80 men, including 10 diving parties, will be employed continuously in the operation.

The 20,325-ton Canadian Pacific liner was gutted by a dockside fire late in January. She keeled over and sank. When raised, the hulk will be sold for scrap.

Twelve tripods will be built on the Empress' upper hull, to be connected by steel cables to winches ashore. Salvage pontoons will be fitted to the upper deck to give the ship buoyancy, while counterpoise weights of about 2,000 tons will be fastened near the keel.

Norman Walford General Manager Central Region

TORONTO — Norman A. Walford, native of Walkerton, has been appointed general manager of Canadian National Exhibition's central region with headquarters at Toronto, it was announced today by Willard H. Eyrie, vice-president.

A veteran railwayman with 46 years service, Mr. Walford has served the C.N.R. in Walkerton, Wiarton, Hespeler, Stratford, London and Buffalo before he became general superintendent here in 1946. His new territory extends from Riviere du Loup to Port Arthur.

Succeeding him is E. Harold Locke who saw service in the operating department in Belleville, London, Sarnia and Montreal before coming to Toronto in 1950 as general superintendent of transportation. He is a native of Montreal.

W. E. Tate, who was born in Hastings, Ont., succeeds Mr. Locke. He was a despatcher at Belleville, trainmaster at Brantford, assistant superintendent at London and superintendent of transportation at Toronto before his latest move.

Victor Borge To Headline C.N.E. Show

TORONTO (CP)—Victor Borge, Danish-born comedian and pianist will headline the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand show for 230,000 this year, Jack Arthur, producer of the show, said Thursday night no contract has been signed but he is confident Borge will appear.

Borge is the third artist asked to star at the annual show, Bob Hope wanted too much money and Georges Formby, English comedian couldn't come.

A supporting comedy attraction for this year hasn't been found, the producer said. Bert Pearl, Canadian radio comedian, hasn't been well and Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster aren't interested.

Arthur said the 1953 show will be 85-per-cent Canadian.

Trenton Ousted By Wellington

Wellington defeated Trenton 4-2 in the lakeside village last night to win the southern division title of the Trent Valley Hockey League.

Leo Goyer scored the winning goal with two minutes to go in the third period.

The game was marred by a donnybrook in the second period when Bob Johnson, Wellington, and Bill Turland, broke out in a fist fight.

Six Charges Robbery Laid Against Two

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police said Thursday six charges of robbery have been laid against two of six Canadians being held by police in nearby Detroit.

Inspector of detectives James Campbell said the two are David Croce, 22, of Windsor and Joseph Clifford Geary of Pembroke.

They gave assumed names and said they were natives of Toronto, where arrested last Monday in Detroit with two other men and two women.

Detroit police said a third member of the group, Robert McDonald, 26, who said he came from Western Canada, has admitted taking part in a series of robberies in Essex county and Alberta. Inspector Campbell said charges may be laid against McDonald later.

Also held by Detroit police on preliminary charges of robbery are: Harry Yarmo, 26, of Toronto, and Sheila Lee, 18, and Violet Gray, 23, both of Windsor.

However, police said confessions of the two women allowed Yarmo and the two girls of guilt in connection with the various robberies.

Inspector Campbell said Croce and Geary have been charged with theft of $400 from the Canada Dry Bottling Company here; $920 from a safe in the Co-Operative Society office in Kingsville; $1,000 from the Metropolitan store in Leamington; twin breaks into the post office and utilities office in Harrow which netted $350 and an unsuccessful break into a Loblaw's groceteria here.

Police said other charges may be laid against the pair.

The group told police they stopped in Detroit to "have a good time" before continuing a planned trip to Mexico. They were arrested after a hold charge reported they were flashing unusually large amounts of Canadian money.

Russia's New Premier Known As Man With Card-Index Brain

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Georgi Malenkov, Russia's new premier, is known as "the man with the card-index brain."

A post-revolutionary figure who rose quickly to the top ranks of the Soviet Communist party as Stalin's favorite, he knows the innermost secrets of the Kremlin.

Pudgy, round-faced Malenkov is an austere, colorless Communist. When Stalin died he became the senior of the surviving nine Communist party secretaries.

His first big job was under Stalin on the state defence committee appointed in 1941 to wage war against Nazi Germany. He was the youngest of the five original members.

Malenkov became a member of the Politburo in 1946 and the presidium which replaced it in 1952. Stalin also made him a vice-premier.

Most of Talking

In recent years he has done most of the talking and speech-making in Soviet councils. In 1946 he told a Moscow audience that a third world war would prove to be "the graveyard of world capitalism."

Malenkov has seldom travelled outside Russia, though he has acted as Russian representative at Cominform meetings.

Hates Western World

The few foreign diplomats who have talked with him have come away with one over-riding impression: Malenkov hates the Western world.

Malenkov has been an effective, solid, well - grooved Communist tactician. But as far as any one knows, he has never contributed anything new or original to Communist theory.

Malenkov became top contender in the successor-to-Stalin sweep stakes last October when he was chosen to make the keynote speech before the Communist party congress. In the past, this chore had been handled by the boss himself.

Little is known about Malenkov's private life. He is said to have only one hobby—hunting.

OVERALL SHAKEUP

Marshal Klementy Voroshilov, formerly a vice-premier, was chosen chairman of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), replacing Nikolai Shvernik. This post (largely an honorary one) is equivalent to the presidency of the United States.

Shvernik was made chairman of the all-union council of trade unions, in place of Vassily Kuznetsov.

Anastase Mikoyan, former commissar of foreign trade, now heads the newly-combined ministries of foreign and internal trade.

Ten other ministries were merged into three.

Those of the automobile and tractor industry, machine and instrument building and the machine tool industry were combined into the ministry of machine building. M. Z. Saburov was relieved of his post as chief of state planning to take over the combined job.

The four ministries of transport machine building, shipbuilding, heavy machine building and construction and road machine building were brought into the ministry of transport and heavy machine building. The combined post went to V. A. Malishev, former minister of shipbuilding.

Streamlined Into One

The three ministries of electric power stations, electric industry and communications were streamlined into one — the ministry of electric power and electrical industry. M. G. Pervukhin was named chief.

The changes were announced by the central committee of the Communist party, the council of ministers and the presidium.

They also set up a new all-powerful 10-man presidium of the central committee, including Malenkov, Beria, Molotov, Voroshilov, N. S. Kruschchev, Bulganin, Kaganovich, Mikoyan, Saburov, and M. G. Perukhin, chief of the chemical industry. The old presidium elected at the big Communist party congress last October included 25 members.

Named Alternate Members

Three members of the former presidium — Shvernik, P. K. Ponomarenko, a former member of the party secretariat, and Leonid G. Melnikov, secretary of the Ukranian party, were named alternate members.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said in an editorial the changes were directed toward preventing any kind of interruption in leading activities of state and party organs."

To aid the 83-year-old Bulganin at the armed forces ministry, the government named Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's first commander in occupied Germany, as one of two deputies. The other subordinate post went to Vasilevsky, the former minister.

CHARGES OF

He urged the national revenue department to provide better income tax offices in Kingston. He suggested the veterans affairs department buy an additional section of land to accommodate veterans wishing to purchase small holdings.

In opening proceedings, Immigration Minister Harris said Canada will not make any special provision to bring to Canada refugees now flocking into Western Germany from Communist East Germany. There was no doubt that many of the refugees were active in the Communist party to the time of their flight.

Claps on Secrecy

In the debate, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government clapped on a lid of secrecy whenever the opposition tried to get at the facts of government spending. The attitude of the government was one of "waste and spend and tax and tax." It refused suggestions that an investigation of administration be made.

Referring to problems in his province of Saskatchewan, Mr. Diefenbaker said adequate transportation facilities are needed to reach vital uranium and other mineral deposits in northern Saskatchewan.

Mr. Argue, a farmer, said Canadian farmers are being plagued by hordes of taxation locusts who go around the country checking on farmers' income. They were putting farmers "through the wringer."

Says Budget Fair

W. A. Boucher (L-Rosthern) said it is generally agreed that the budget is a fair one for all Canadians. However, he would strongly urge an increase in the family allowances and a widening of income tax exemptions as soon as Canada was free of the threat that "comes from Godless Communist aggression."

R. J. Wood (L-Norquay), an outspoken opponent of tariffs, asked that a commission be appointed to investigate Canadian industry. He said some industries, behind the protection of tariff walls, engaged in "abusive practices," charging the Canadian people much more than United States prices.

Weddings

SPRINGER—ASHLEY

TRENTON, (Special)—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the bride's parents' home on Dufferin Avenue, yesterday, when Barbara Ashley became the bride of Mrs. Wilfred Ashley, of Trenton, was united in marriage to George Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Springer, of St. Catharines. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Minielly of King Street United Church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. J. Skinkle, while Cecil Lewis acted as groomsman.

Following the reception the happy couple left on their honeymoon for St. Catharines and points west.

Women's Activities

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

MARSH HILL — The March meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred Campbell with eleven members present. The theme for March was "The Communion of Saints" and Fellowship of the Church as a Means of Grace).

The president, Miss Mae Currie, gave the call to worship. The Scripture reading was taken from Ephesians 4:1-16.

Mrs. F. Finkle, program convenor, opened the worship.

The last program from the study book, "Unrest Awake in Africa," was given by Mrs. Finkle, assisted by Mrs. Marion Mills, Mrs. E. B. Finkle, Mrs. F. Campbell, Mrs. W. Lindenfield and Mrs. L. Finkle.

Mrs. Finkle asked society to think about the following: "A missionary statesman said recently that if Christianity fails in this country in Africa, it will not be because missionaries fail to give their best, but because the white people in Africa, the people in Christian countries fail in their responsibility to the Africans."

Give or Raise Money

Mrs. B. Searles, stewardship secretary, gave a reading, "Money Raising at Stewardship Meeting." Money raising hinders stewardship and the truth cannot flourish in the church. If, to meet every need, church members are in the habit of raising money, quickly lose the habit of giving it. Perhaps the great argument against money-raising is that it hurts the influence of the church. Folks look to the church for spiritual leadership. They expect it to set an example in giving. Citizenship

Citizenship secretary, told of the Mrs. R. Campbell, Christian appalling amount of money spent on drink; far more than is spent on education. Statistics show that an average of $47.50 per person was spent last year on drink. "Do you give that much per year, so for the work of Christ?"

Presbyterial will be held in Holloway Street Church March 25. Mrs. E. B. Finkle is to be the delegate and every member is to go if possible.

Mrs. Finkle pronounced the benediction. The hostess then served refreshments.

—NO REDUCTION

CALGARY (CP)—Theatre managers here rejected a request for reduced admission prices for teenagers. They claimed that teenagers in Winnipeg and Vancouver, who have been enjoying reduced rates, have tended to abuse the privilege.

London Hair Stylists Favor Shorter Cuts

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—To grow or not to grow—this momentous problem in Coronation hair styles has been solved, London hair stylists contend.

When the Queen allowed her soft curls to grow to nape-of-neck length, bursting a perfect wave for the hereditary coiffure and there she now wears frequently, longer hair styles were predicted for wear by Westminster Abbey.

But the latest styles favored by London's best-known hair stylists tend toward worn by the commoners showing the new spring fashions are unanimously short. New coiffures are cut and set on a base for the jewels that crown the Queen and for a new look that may detract from the qualities of heirloom jewelry.

Little Variation

At a special Park Lane preview of Coronation hair styles by top London stylists, a general theme fundamentally the same—upswept sides, flat centre crown and nothing at the back.

Not one hair style was more than three inches long. Behind the head was either brushed upwards in flat curls close to the head, or set in a semi-straight line that curled even closer to the scalp. Diamond tiaras and jewelled sprays would nestle on crown to tuck into soft-waved hair on either side of head and over the ends of the head-dress.

This is usually effective with a centre parting or a tiny curl just breaking the severity, a side-parted style with short curled fringe, or an Elizabethan coiffure brushed severely back from the forehead and temples to form flat side rolls rising from the ears to "not quite meet" at the crown.

A Duchess of Kent style by Mr. Leonard, London hair stylist, is parted at centre and combed smoothly down to slight bangs behind the ears. This gives a short cut version of a style worn by Queen Victoria's daughter.

"Coronation Grey"

For those in the fashion swing who don't wear tiaras, curls can be brushed upwards to a soft crown that forms a frame for a daughter-of-curls set low on the forehead. The ring is broken on the centre forehead and joined by a pendant of pearls suspended on a forehead star.

At the hairdressing show, blondes outnumbered brunettes 10-1. Newest hair color is "Coronation grey," a whitish blonde with a blue tinge. Dressed upwards with curls that soften the forehead line, this shade gives a powdered pompadour effect. Brunettes are delighted by such trimmings as a rose ornament worn dead centre.

to act as an interpreter of Jesus Christ and His way of life.

Mrs. Finkle then paid their fees. The supply secretary is to buy bats for quilts which are to be quilted in the near future.

Mrs. Searles read a letter from Mrs. Denton stating that the allocation for 1953 is the same as 1952 and that Miss Della Cook is the missionary for prayer.

Mrs. Bartindale, literature secretary, asked the members to read page 105 in the March Missionary Monthly.

Drink Whole

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

I noticed a while ago a recipe for beetroot pickling with mint sauce. Would you please give me the recipe for sour cream, and tell how long it takes to cook?—Mrs. F. M.

ANSWER:

I am glad to repeat the recipe for sour cream, for it is always done at letters—mostly nostalgic—from British-born readers overseas. This is a good Pudding recipe, which appeared for January 8.

SOUR CREAM

(For boiled puddings—quantities for 4.)

One-half pound finely crumbled soft cake (your friendly butcher will do this for you), 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 tablespoon salt, about 1-2 cup cold water (the dough should be soft enough to roll out easily). Sift baking powder with the salt and flour into a large bowl. Add crumbled suet and mix in exactly as you would for pie pastry, with finger tips or pastry blender. Add water to make a stiff dough. Roll out on floured board, handling difficult. Divide into 4 portions and roll each portion to a circle about 2 inches in diameter and 1-4-inch thick.

Fill a quarter of the meat mixture (1 lb. cubed steak, 1-3 lb. cleaned and cored kidney, 2 small chopped onions, 3 small chopped potatoes, salt, pepper and butter) out of water, let it drain a little, then place it just off centre on each circle. Season the vegetables and seasonings, dot with butter, wet in crust by folding longer end of dough over filling and quickly sealing all edges, pressing firmly. Fold out outside edges over well, pressing firmly. Wrap each pudding in cotton cloth making several thicknesses of cloth. Tie firmly with string.

Drop into large kettle of boiling water, cover and boil gently at least 2 1-2 hours. Readers who missed the first collection with meat puddings may want more details than above send me request and enclose stamped envelope.

QUESTION:

Would you please advise me how to make oatmeal cookies and to put a date filling between them, also recipe for date filling—Mrs. W. J. M.

ANSWER:

OATMEAL COOKIES WITH DATE FILLING

Oatmeal Cookies— One cup butter or butter and shortening or lard, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups oatmeal (or coarse rolled oats though the latter are preferred), 1-3 cup milk, 1 3-4 cup unsifted flour (sifted should be sifted before measuring though), 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in hot water. Add the butter well and beat in the sugar. Add the oatmeal and milk. Add the flour sifted with the salt and baking powder. Roll dough about 1-4 inch thick. Chill to make it stiff enough to handle. Roll thin on lightly floured board. Cut out with 2-inch cookie cutter. Bake in 350 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes. On half of the cookies spread

Date Filling— One-half lb. dates pitted, 1 cup water, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon of a little lemon juice or rind is optional.) Wash and stone dates, and add water and sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring often, until thick and smooth. Cool. About 1 or 1 1-2 teaspoons date filling is sufficient for each pair of cookies. Press top cookie down but do not squeeze filling out the sides.

Cookies with date filling may be cut in 3 or 4-inch rounds, filling placed on one-half, other half folded over and sealed to make a turnover. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes.

QUESTION:

Hello again, Mrs. Moore: This time I'm writing on behalf of my sister-in-law in England . . . she says she has eaten so much mutton she is beginning to bleat . . . she asks if I know any way to camouflage sheep . . . she'd be delighted to know it.—Marion S.

ANSWER:

I haven't printed your letter in full Marion, for it contained such precious personal notes, Chinooks indeed! I'm fooled.

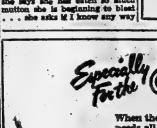
CURRIED MUTTON OR LAMB

Three lbs. breast of shoulder of mutton or lamb, 1 quart of boiling water, 1 green pepper, 1-3 cup minced onion, 4 tablespoons each flour and fat, 1 or 2 teaspoons curry powder, 1 tsp. spoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce or 8 drops Tobasco sauce.

Heat meat in 1-inch cubes, cover with cold water, bring to boil quickly and drain. Add the boiling water and pepper berries and cook covered, until (after boiling point until meat is tender—2 1-4 hours for mutton—2 for lamb.) Drain but reserve liquor. Melt the fat, add onion and saute until delicately browned; stir in flour and seasonings, then 2 1-2 to 2 3-4 cups of the stock, stirring until thick. Add meat, parsley and other seasonings. Serve in centre of hot rice ring, surrounded with border of fluffy boiled rice. This is a favorite with everyone.

Wesley W.A. Holds Meeting

Wesley — The February meeting of the Wesley W.A. was held in the church on Tuesday with 13 members and one visitor present. In the absence of the president the meeting was opened with hymn 504 by Mrs. R. Windsor who was also in charge of the devotional. Psalm 107 was read in unison.



Mrs. E. Windover then rendered a solo "A No Secret" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Middleton. Plans were made for the social to be held in the hall March 30.

Following the business meeting a social hour was spent with refreshments being served by the hostess. The March meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Norman Cook.

On behalf of the Wesley United W.A., Mrs. J. Stewart, Mrs. W. Denyes, Mrs. F. Wallace and Miss G. Middleton collected $102.00 for the European Flood Relief.

The Y.P.U. held its regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Christopher on February 26. In the absence of the president the vice president, Ronald Hockaday was in charge of the meeting. The devotional was in charge of James Wallis and Robert Burgess.

During the business portion of the meeting the vice president read a letter regarding a Religious Sunday to be held at Plainfield on March 8. Several members were hoping to be able to attend. The next meeting is to be held on March 12 at the home of the president and his wife of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook. After a sing-song refreshments were served by Barbara Christopher, Donna Bunnett and Dorothy Genereaux.

Calgary Woman Gets Ear-Rings Bigger the Better

CALGARY (CP)—Women everywhere like to collect things—recipes, antiques and possibly husbands. Mrs. S. R. Farquharson of Calgary collects ear-rings—the bigger the better.

A harpist in the Calgary Symphony Orchestra and president of the symphony board, Mrs. Farquharson has been collecting ear-rings since she was 17 and now has more than 50 pairs. If they aren't big enough to be impressive she remodels them to meet her style specifications.

Mrs. Farquharson does the designing. But it's her husband who does all the work.

Working with tweezers, pliers and magnifying glass, he follows her directions and the result is a fascinating to startle the passers-by.

"I bought my first pair of ear-rings when I was a student at the Stratford, Ont., Conservatory of Music," Mrs. Farquharson said. "They were tiny pearls and I had to wear them discreetly, with my hair combed over my ears, because nice girls just didn't wear ear-rings in those days."

Values as Gifts

When she goes on a trip the ear-rings have a special box and every pair has a story.

Included in her collection is a pair of Mexican silvers from her mother. However, these aren't worn since Mrs. Farquharson hasn't had her ears pierced and the crosses go with pierced ear wear.

Also in the collection is a pair of Chinese ear-rings from France, others with hand-painted china medallions with matching pendant which dangle to a length of five inches, four-inch red hoops and huge plastic flowers.

Skirts Cheaper, More Attractive In British Stores

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Skirts are cheaper and more attractive than ever in British stores. For 37 cents you can buy a pleated nylon skirt for £3 to £3 a good tweed or worsted can be had for £4.

It's easy to learn a civic skirt of chestnut shantung with dark soles by in linen, gold or beige grosgrain, ribbed sleeveless jumper in black spangled with gold, a nylon blouse and shortie jacket—adding alternate straight skirt in grey denim.

Topmost price of any one piece would be £8 for a shortie jacket in linen with gilt navel buttons. Most tops can be found at £5s to £4s. A strapless bra-cum-suspenders belt for smart effects under sheer blouses costs £1 10s 6d.

There are, in fact, countless possibilities in giving last year's suits and skirts the latest look. A girl took from Paris. This year's rage of separates giving that one piece look are wide mid-waisted, high-pleated.

British fashion writers however complain that British stores do not cater to the same extent as those in New York or Toronto. Women, they naturally lazy in fashion ideas. They prefer to buy garments as attractive outfits already teamed for them. Shops should do more with their own style—and find the various pieces.

Britain's color council, advisory body to the clothing trade colors, says it's as "quiet" as, for instance, to get stores to stock gloves, bag, hat, coat, dress and suit all in one colour and matching the fact. Most working women in Britain cannot afford to change their contrast accessories—they haven't time to trek from store to store to match up a complicated outfit.

"It is More Blessed to give than to Receive".

The offering amounting to $2.33 was gathered by Miss Carol Sharpe and Miss Shirley Potts and duly were dedicated by Miss Merle Spencer.

The service closed with "The Stories of Jesus" and benediction.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

You have only to take a short motor trip to find out that most of the restaurants in the smaller cities and towns along our highways are degenerating rather than improving . . . It is hard for a person to believe that government inspectors apparently pass many of these "greasy spoon joints" as healthy. The furnishings are dirty, the floors are dirty, the windows are greasy.

Food is seldom tempting in the run-of-the-mill restaurants. It is poorly cooked and badly handled. Rarely is the food one is served is beyond a person's patience.

Now women have always known a good deal about food because of long experience serving their families. Yet there are few women in the food business. Perhaps this is because profits are made only when poor service and poor quality food is offered. Most women could not be responsible for poor food. They would be ashamed to admit it was theirs.

Men restaurateurs have made such a mess of meals, we are inclined to think that the birth of really clean, fine eating places will not come until women get into the managing end of our public eating places. Restaurants are money-makers. Women, free to take up jobs should not hesitate to look into the possibility of starting a restaurant.

New Bleach

At last there is a good bleach for sale which can be used safely for rayons, nylons and woollens. It comes in powdered form and is used in the sudsy wash water instead of the rinse water.

Women who have tried the new product, like it. It will be most helpful to farmers of small babies who want to keep their woollen jackets and socks white as snow.

Easy Cleaning

Quite a chore round the kitchen with the newer electric ranges is cleaning the shallow recess beneath the burner. Easy way to prevent rust, is to line the recess first with a piece of aluminum foil. This is easily removed and discarded when the burner becomes soiled after several weeks. This way, there is no tedious scouring.

CAMPBELLFORD

Public School Board Demand May Raise Tax Rate 2 Mills

CAMPBELLFORD— A demand for $20,340 by the Campbellford Public School Board has upset the Town Council calculations on the 195 tax rate. The budget had been set to pay the same as last year to the public school ($18,233) but it was pointed out by the request for the larger amount that in June 1953, there were 600 pupils attending, but when school re-opened in September there were 800, with many more seeking to be taken in. Another classroom and teacher will have to be added, as even more children are expected to be seeking admission next fall.

The result of this increased demand would be either to force council to review other expenditures by 1.3 mills or to raise the tax rate accordingly (probably 2 mills). The Separate School levy in the latter case would be affected accordingly.

Councillor MacMillan asked that a budget for 1953 and a financial statement for 1952 be requested by council. This motion was carried and the matter laid over until a full council is present. Mayor Locke and councillors Rutherford and Burgess were absent. Reeve Meadows presided over the meeting.

Housing Dispute

A demand for the return of the local improvement rates on several wartime houses was received from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The Corporation took the attitude that although the houses had been sold Crown still had possession by virtue of their mortgage. This attitude was questioned by council and the matter referred to the solicitor.

The licence for the H.S. Area Board for the use of the school for a St. John's Church concert was waived.

Matters concerning an extension on Garry Street were left to the Road and Bridge Committee to bring in a report.

Reeve Nicholas was appointed a member of the Emergency Relief Committee in place of ex-Mayor Kingdon.

A motion was passed asking the Trent Dehydrated Products to control dust coming from their plant.

Coronation Sum

Councillor Free reported on a meeting called to arrange for the Coronation celebration, and asked council's support by way of a grant. The sum of $250 was voted for this purpose.

Arthur Collette, representing Walter Jones, said that he was authorized to convey to council the figure asked by the latter for his property on Queen St. north. The sum quoted was $1,800, which together with $2,500 asked by the Methodist Church made the figure prohibitive to council. These properties were desired by the town for a park site. Councillor Mayne suggested carrying on with the beautification of the river property from the Black Bridge on the west side of the canal back to the tennis club on the east. A committee comprising Deputy Reeve Maybee and Councillors Free and MacMillan was named to look into the matter.

Park Caretaker

The council will advertise for a caretaker for the cenotaph and the park near St. Mary's church, tenders to be received till March 7.

Chapter 17

A YOUNG GIRL DANCES

In his prison den in the palace Machaerus had been amazed at the works and sayings of his cousin, Jesus, especially like the healing of the withered hand and of the demoniac on the floor of the Capernaum synagogue reports, too, of a greater wonder, the healing again, at long distance, of a Roman's dying servant who became instantly and completely well, without Jesus having to go near the house.

On this long-distance miracle the imprisoned Baptist brooded a long time. Another that made him ponder was an episode at the home of Alan, where Jesus and the disciples, walking thru the town gate, encountered a funeral party. A young man was being carried to the cemetery. Jesus greeted the procession and instantly called the dead young man back to life. The fact had been witnessed by John's own emissaries.

Strange, indeed, he have power over life and death—and yet even he, John, could not. What was the answer to all the doubts among his disciples; perhaps even in himself? And why not? Why was he languishing now facing a moral choice between life and death?

"Do what I ask," he had just been told by Herodias' stepdaughter, Salome, "and I will set you free, King. And I will set you free. Today! But refuse—and I shall have to order your death. There is no other way; my wife gives me no peace about you."

The Fascinated Herod

The shallow king with the egg-shaped head really seemed to want to be John's friend. This was not mere politics on Herod's part, either; he did have to take into account the continuing popularity of the Baptist. But the answer man from the desert not only baffled Herod but fascinated him too. The savage's stouthearteedness and his intrepidity were the talk of the countryside.

The more stubbornly John refused, the more the little king resolved to discover his price. Something in the Baptist's Old Antipas was perturbed; it would mean frightningly much to him if it turned out that after all John had no price. Herod could forgive himself only "weakness" considered no man was above a bribe; no one was incorruptible or being corrupted.

Late at night he would steal to the edge of the pit and look down at his prisoner. Coaxingly he would offer sweetmeats. He had platters of lamb meat, dripping with hot gravies and garnished with tasty vegetables, poked by guards under the lean nose of the fasting prisoner. But all to no avail. John simply called his tormentor to repentance. And more and more the monarch listened; he dabbled with these new ideas of morality, dipping lightly but often. Finally one night the king found his bag-boy tricks and listened seriously as John told him that while he dallied with his inamorata, a new and mighty change was shaking the world. The Messiah had come in person, taking the body of a man. John was His announcer, His messenger.

Herod, squatting on his haunches at the rim of the dungeon, shook with laughter.

"A Fairy Tale"

"For a fary tale—a delusion like this—you would lose your life! Think, Baptist—don't play fool! All you need to go free is to take back your nasty words about my marriage to my brother's wife. Go out and tell the people that my marriage is all right; that Herodias and I are not living in adultery. I will get you a nice wife for yours self too."

Again John tried to make him understand, but Herod stopped his ears.

"No, you are fooling yourself, Baptist. I don't want to wrangle, but this man from Nazareth is not God. You called Him that. But did He ever call Himself that? Couldn't you be mistaken, John?"

"Silently, will you permit me to consult with some of my fellowers about all this?"

"You have only to name them, John, and I will send for them this instant!"

The Executioner

That was how it was that two soldiers straight from John himself again came down to Galilee and confronted Jesus with the question they had been charged with: the answer to which would settle John's life and death decision:

"Are You He that is come? Or look we for another?"

With His hand moving toward a blind man's eyes, in the midst of many healings, the Master gave His answer:

"Go relate to John what you have heard and seen.

"The lame walk. The lepers are made clean. The deaf hear. The dead rise again. And," He finished with an ironical smile, "the gospel is preached to the poor!"

And Jesus waved good-by to John's emissaries in a salute of the hand and a rueful smile.

Two nights later Herod came again in the moonlight to look down into the pit at John. The prisoner stood up briskly and politely; for all his confinement he had never known depression of body or lassitude of mind.

"Well, Baptist. Your messengers have returned."

"Yes, Majesty!"

His Death Sentence

"Then you must have decided. John, will you recant—take it all back—unsay it—admit my wife was right? And go free?

"To all the king's blandishments John had but one answer:

"No!"

In saying that, he knew he was pronouncing his own death sentence.

By now John the Baptist had been kept in prison at the palace in outlying Machaerus for so many months that his friends no longer lived in daily fear of his being put to death. There was really only one person whodelighted his blood: the queen, Herodias. But she had never softened her scolding hatred.

On the night that John said no to the king a banquet was planned in the palace.

Hardly a Sober Head

The night was hot, moist, and still. The tall banquet hall was lit with torches and long tapers and the odor of meats and heady liquors. The voices of the feasters ramparded above the sinuous, devious songs of the minstrels. There was hardly one sober head at Herod's table when, at the height of the feast, the damask curtain parted and the king's stepdaughter came mincing in for the principal performance of the evening.

She was the daughter of Herodias, this Salome, and the daughter also of Philip, Herod's brother. At an early age she was already full-loosened and shapely, with shocking young eyes full of inviting hint and promise.

For an instant the damsel stood poised with outstretched hands, her fingers moist with oils pressed from rare petals, attar in her hair and the exact purpose of seduction in her brain.

The players of the harps, the strikers and incessant beaters of the drums began their rhythmic motions, and Salome in the transparency of a diaphanous veil began to dance. She moved in voluptuous measures; the lifting and weaving of her thin, infantile white arms, the promise of her educated fingers, rhymed with the stealthy insistence of her hip movements, stirred the blood.

"Ask Me Too Want"

Forward and back she moved in barefoot step. At a final chase she retreated across the hall and back to left, there was to loose a very hell of noise, belt and bracelet, and the cingling of hands, stamping of feet. Salome, in the climax of her dancing success, would have run off in the direction of the dressing-room of weaklings men who did not suffer from inordinate desire, cast the veil from the head, and bow on his knee.

"Ask me whatever you want, Salome, and I will give it to you," he whispered hoarsely. There was a long silence of lascivious restlessness in the king, of wanton ogling by the child.

What did the eldritch Salome want? Herod was never really to know. Looking at him sparsingly, like a fledgling parsimour, Salome's face was like in a king's eye, she kept silent. That female demon, her mother, had trained her for this. Then in his ecstasy the king swore his oath aloud:

"Whatever you shall ask, Salome, my sweet, I'll give you unlimited. Up to the half of my kingdom."

Then there was an oath! Salome put her finger in her mouth. For that innocent she was a girlet: a giddy little girl. Then she remembered her instructions and put the finger to the child waited in another apartment.

"Mother, Mother, what shall I ask for?"

The Mother Knew

The mother told the bacchante child quietly enough. The king's lolly boon must be not anything that Salome might desire for herself, but what the mother desired with all her vengeful soul. What man alive! That prude Baptist who had condemned her to the people for her new marriage. That insensible Baptist who, of all men she had known, was untroubled by her voluptuous beauty, unkindled by her fire. That water - spitting, dry - throated, cling, honey-sipping giant who would not yield to the natural passions of a man.

"John, the Baptist!" Herodias commanded intensely. "Ask for his head!"

A little disappointed, now bored and languorous, Salome ran back into the banquet hall, back to the king. He chuckled at sight of her, and while the table remained under its spell he lifted her wrapped body upon his couch.

"Well, Salome, what "will it be?"

"I will that immediately you give me in a dish the head of John the Baptist."

The king put the moist child down from him. His eyes were sobered with unexpected horror. A moment of pudgy inertitude and then, as he realized that his wanton vow must now be paid in blood, Just died in his soul.

No Reason for Delay

But the king knew there was no excuse even for a reprieve, no chance for a temporary delay and so he called for the executioner, of the feast.

"Fetch the executioner," he said miserably, pulling a fold of his robe over his paunch. "Have him bring the head on the head of John called the Baptist. Bring it in a dish."

Hurrying to the prison, the executioner, shoving aside guard, keeper, and turnkey, found John from a peaceful sleep. He ordered the prisoner, clad in a long, sleeveless garment of haircloth, to kneel and lay his head on a butcher block. With one expert swing the well-eyed axeman cut the head from the body, mutilator neck. By the untidy hair he lifted the dripping head and let it fall in a deep dish of gold, then carried it to Herod. And the king gave it to the hand of the dancing child.

Now, as Salome started back toward the damask curtains, at her very first steps the harpists smote their strings and the drummers beat with their sticks, and almost unconsciously the girl fell naturally into the old writhing of her dance. Her hips swayed again as she passed through the curtains, the lifted dish with the dead man's head held high in her little-girl arms. She laid the bloody thing at the feet of her mother and then, like a sleepy sleepwalk, had to be put to bed.

John's disciples buried the headless body and, riding night and day, brought the grisly news to Capernaum.

Now, once again, Jesus retired to privacy and communion; to prepare Himself for the ordeal, to renew His energies; to wash the soul—for the time of the tournumer was at ever and His own mission lay before Him. Once again, in black mountains frowning above the Sea of Galilee, beyond Capernaum, Jesus stole off to be alone. All through one starlit night He remained on the dark height, alone and yet not alone, His heart opened to the Infinite.

When morning came He was ready to take two radical steps.

Club Activities

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

Bridge Street United Church Young People's Union held its meeting on Monday evening.

Further plans for the play to be presented at the Drama Festival in April, were thoroughly discussed. It was decided to have a mixed program and present the play to the public some time during the first week next month.

The group will meet at 7.45 on April 16 to attend the ministerial services in that church.

The worship service was opened with the Scripture reading from Duncan McTavish read the weekly Bible study of the New Testament.

IVANHOE — Beulah United Church Mission Band held its monthly meeting Monday in Ivanhoe public school.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Jean Benson.

A new song, "This Little Light of Mine" was learned. The theme of the worship service was "A Christian stands for something." Scripture: John 3:13.. 9:1-5 was read by Frances Fred.

"Jesus wants us to live our lives so others will see we are good, brave and honest. Let us show others we have a little light shining brightly in our lives."

The third chapter or Mission Study, Nyanga's Two Villages, was given in an interesting manner by Mrs. Earl McMaster, who had made a miniature African jungle from material given in "World Friends." This gave the children a vivid picture of home and life of the African children.

WHITE'S SUNBEAM M.B.

The Sunbeam Mission Band held its February meeting at Quinte View School on Friday afternoon with 37 members and 20 visitors in attendance. The meeting was in charge of Grace Goldie.

Marilyn Bowers read the Scripture, Luke 6:31, 1 John 3:18 and 1 John 4:7, which gives some rules for happy family living in keeping with the theme, "A Christian Shares in His Family", discussed was decided to have a mixed program and present the play to the public some time during the first week next month.

The group will meet at 7.45 on April 16 to attend the ministerial services in that church.

The worship service was opened with the Scripture reading from Duncan McTavish read the weekly Bible study of the New Testament.

A Play

A play, "The Great Stone", was given by Gary Reid as the Squire, Donald Bowers as Farmer Jones, Bobby Cooby as the postman, Barbara Shoemaker as Mrs. Jones, Ruth Bowers as Mrs. Gray Gingers as two school children, Gail and Gary cleaned the road of a stone and earned by donations a total of $1.00 piece of money which showed it was better not to leave a wrong to be righted for some one else.

"Ten Little Icicles" was given by Nancy Hoskins with motions and Audrey Bowers read "Which" showing which feet and hand like of little children should do. Kleinsteuber and Gary Reid read the second chapter of Nyanga's Two Villages" namely "A Day in the Village", after a review of chapte rone. This is a story of a Christian family in Angola, Africa. The father is also a teacher.

After the meeting was closed refreshments were served by Mrs. Campbell, assisted by several children.

Briefs From Britain

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Entire profits of municipally-operated chemical factories in Norway's capital have been added to a fund for construction of an art gallery. The 1953 profits of 314,000 bring the available funds to 800,000.

NEW DELHI (CP)—The government of India has decided to establish a national academy here for philological research among universities, cultural organizations and literary associations in India and abroad.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (CP)—Current reports show the Swedish merchant marine increased by 163,000 tons in 1952 to a total of 3,471,000 gross tons. Of the total, 726 vessels aggregating more than 70 per cent gross tonnage are motorships.

LONDON (CP)—Preparing for Coronation Year, officials figuring on a record tourist influx calculated that last year's tourist settlings totalled 611,000 and brought 500 visitors, Canadian visitors to Britain last year totalled 40,000.

LONDON (CP)—Examples of Canadian knitting and crochet work will be among exhibits from 30 countries at the first international exhibition of knitting and crochet here from March 14 to 28. The affair is sponsored by the International Council secretariat.

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Among many other types of relief equipment flown to the flood victims in Western Europe from Norway were tons of jute sacks. The sacks, for protection against further dikes, were directed to The Netherlands.

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)—The first changeover from white to native police in certain African areas of Natal took place at Maings. An African sergeant and five African constables assumed their posts under the policy of policing African areas with Africans, and Indian areas with Indians.

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—A Swedish expert, Tore Gyllenswärd, is assisting in a colonization project for the Gal Oya valley development sponsored by UNESCO and the international labor office. Until comparatively recently, the principal occupants of the district lived in Veda.

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Norway's first theatre commuter train recently brought nearly 700 persons from Hamar to see a performance at the People's Theatre here. As a special inducement, railway fares were reduced 50 per cent.

LONDON (CP)—United Kingdom refineries in 1952 exported a record total of more than 1,300,000,000 gallons of finished petroleum products, worth more than £36,000,000. The total was almost twice as much as in 1951.

LONDON (CP)—About 4,000 consignments of radioactive isotopes for scientific and industrial purposes are expected to be exported from Britain this year, compared with 2,210 shipments in 1952.

TORQUAY, England (CP)—Rev. Victor Jones, 35, christened his daughter Charlotte Jane. "We never seem to get away from religious books," he said, "so we chose the names of two of our greatest novelists—Charlotte Bronte and Jane Austen."

LONDON (CP)—Hiking enthusiasts overworked the telephone line to a West End firm which had advertised for someone to walk 500 miles to test a new line of socks.

PARKSTON, England (CP)—Hotel opened here by Jack Highfield for "bachelors only" now has been thrown open "to all comers." Although plenty of inquiries came from married couples and elderly widowers, the 13-bedroom building never had more than four bachelors at once.

HULL, England (CP)—The true Marath took aboard a 1818 German mine which had been caught in its nets. A naval mine squad which took over the weapon said it could have exploded.

LONDON (CP)—The progressive conversion from street-cars to buses in London is helping the steel industry's drive for scrap metal. More than 10,000 tons of rails have gone to the industry, and another 30,000 or 40,000 tons is to be delivered this year.

WORTHING, England (CP)—Youth clubs in this Sussex district are being asked to "adopt" the town's old people. The committee department said youths could help by carrying coal, trimming hedges and reading to the old folks.

Biologists, Trying to Discover Reason for Moose Depletion Find Animal Becoming Stupid

By IRVING C. WEYNOT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotia's changing climate is also changing the moose population of the province—changing the majestic big game animal into a woodland moron.

Biologists trying to discover the reason for depletion of the moose population have discovered that the moose is becoming stupid and simple-minded.

Several cases of such simple-mindedness have been confirmed. Examinations of dead animals have shown that parts of the brain have decayed.

Several reasons for the change have been suggested, although none has been proven as the prime cause.

Before the no-hunting ban was applied the moose was a popular big game animal. In 1925 the bull trophied 1,187 and for every five licences issued one moose was shot. Biggest kill was 1,877 in 1927. But 10 years later hunters were having less success—only one in 12 shot a moose. And in that year the ban was imposed.

Biologists trying to improve the animal's lot have concentrated mainly on food in order to determine his eating habits to improve his diet. They believe that once they have the right food the animal will have his physical health and be able to fight off the effects of climate, parasites and other enemies.

Diet Factor

One is that the province's changing climate is also affecting the number and type of woodland plants. The possibility is that the type of food which the moose needs has either disappeared or been reduced. The big problem in trying to improve the animal's diet is known of the animal's eating habits.

Another possible cause is that the moose's general physical condition may be gradually becoming worse because of the warmer climate and the ravages of a parasites known as the moose tick.

Still another theory is that Nova Scotia's ban on moose hunting, in force since 1937, might have made the moose unusually tame.

The population trend of moose above decks is not well defined, but it appears they were most abundant during the 1940s. About 60,000 were killed last season.

Wildwest hunters had another theory. Moose played covers for grouse, snipe and woodcock provided. Only the snipe and duck hunters reported the usual large flocks of birds and game.

Probably no area in North America provides more woodcock in season than Nova Scotia, nesting ground for almost all American species.

HONOR CANADIANS

OXFORD, England (CP)—Two Canadians will receive honorary degrees at Oxford July 1 in connection with the Rhodes centenary celebrations. Dr. W. G. Penfield, OM, of Montreal will receive the degree of doctor of civil law, and Dr. Marius Barbeau, retired ethnologist, will be given the degree of doctor of letters.

ARM NEWLY-WEDS

STOCKHOLM (CP)—The Swedish social board reported that 17 per cent of all couples who marry in Sweden avail themselves of government home-making loans. Loans are granted up to a maximum of 3400 and a total of 153,000 loans have been made since 1938.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching me sewing to herself, and I said, That guy Lucky Leroy Shooter gets luckier and luckier. He wouldn't have an oyster because he didn't like the idea, and his father gave him a quarter to eat one, just to make him more broad minded, and Lucky Leroy bit down on something in the middle of it, and what was it but a real genuine pearl. So Lucky had the quarter and a pearl too, I said.

Goodness, he nails of broken a tooth, me said, and I said, That's just what he did, ma, he broke a hunk off one corner, and it's rite in front where it shows, so now the ladies dont limberries him any more by telling him what beautiful teeth he has, and Leroy claims it's one of the luckiest things ever happened to him. Heck, why cant I ever have luck like that, I said.

Never mind, when Leroy gets a little older and has other ideals, he'll make the French admission of the opposite sex, ma said, and I said, No he wont, ma, because little rich kids never make him big dollers to go to the dentist and have the place fixed, so say those opinions change he can make 5 dollers just by looking exactly the same as he does now.

Anyway, people practically never find pearls in their own oysters, ma said, and I said, O, that's another thing, ma. Lucy, accidently swallowed the pearl, and it was a kind of a crooked pearl with ridges, and now he's lucky it's not around any more to remind him it wasn't perfect. Oh boy, nobody was ever luckier than that guy, I said.

Which I bet nobody ever was.

Glen Roys Defeat Kingston Goodyears 4-3 In Fifth Game Playoff

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A DANDY!

Our friendly contemporary, one Michael J. Rodden, wrote in his column the day following the Kingston Goodyears 7-3 victory over our side, that "George M. Carver closed his book and filed into the night." That is absolutely true. But on our return trip last night from the wilds we met a grey-haired figure gnashing his teeth and screaming, "Say it isn't so." You guessed it. It was the unsung, erudite Michael taking his turn at the Wailing Wall. Let's hope he stays there. He might as well.

For the Glens, vital as end as the rough treatment handed out to them by the Goodyears, mounted on their hands, bared their teeth and flung the gauntlet right smack in to Coach Johnny Carr-Harris and his rejuvenated squad, in Kingston last night. Yuh can't get away from it, folks, the team that scores the needed goals wins. And the Glens in a complete reversal of form, swung themselves back into the good graces of the braves from the banks of the Midra by puncturing the Goodies in their own garage. Hmmmm seems to me somebody said the Goodies were away over their collective heads here the other night. Might be something in that. In any event the Glens are now with a shout last night and the danged series is all tied up. It's anybody's bait-out from here in, and brother, with this win on Kingston ice under their collective belts they'll be up holding these Glens from here in. Let's hope Coach Carr-Harris, who boasted of learning a few lessons from the Glens when our side beat the Goodies 6-1, learned a few other things last night.

At least he learned that the Goodyears are not invincible and can be beaten on their home ice, and it couldn't be done by a better gang. They're back here on Monday, Tuesday and as is their way, it they're exactly up with him. He was last seen heading for the Quebec border after that effusion he wrote about the Glens. Tsk. Tsk. Tsk. Comm on back, Mike, all is forgiven.

VICS TONIGHT!

Coach Don Barrett of the junior Black Hawks, while not selling the highly-touted Kingston team short on Monday his charges are in fine fettle and ready to cram playoff swords with Maxie Jackson's hard-fighting bevy of youngsters. The Vics have given the Hawks plenty of trouble every time they have met them far, and like their big brothers, the Goodyears, will be out for Belleville "blood," as is the sport, when they clash tonight in Memorial Arena in the opening bout of their best-of-seven finals series.

Barrett said he was pleased with the way "Turk" Barclay has shown up since his return to the hockey wars after suffering that head injury. "Turk" has shown the form since his comeback that marked him one of the outstanding goalies of the group, and if he lives up to the form of last season, opposing attackers will have no easy time dunking the doughnut behind him.

The rest of the Barrett crew is said to be in fine fettle and a large crowd should be on hand tonight to view the opening hostilities between these two outstanding junior hockey clubs.

"CAN SPRING . . . !"

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association, which started its 1953 groundwork operations away back in January, (we thought it was spring, too), has almost completed arrangements for the annual convention which is being held in Hamilton next Friday this year.

Secretary Frank Feaver predicts a banner year for softball in 1953 and bases his prophecy on the number of affiliations which have already been received. He extends a cordial invitation to directors of recreation, members of the press, etc., to attend the coming meet, and also states that umpires will be welcome to sit in on general discussions.

While softball has not yet been mooted officially in the city, officials of the Belleville District Softball Association are not letting the grass grow under their feet. An executive meeting will be held shortly and a general meeting called for some time within the next couple of weeks, it is stated. Meanwhile President Don Lee, Secretary Cy Barriage, Harry Rollins and Harry Knott, the latter an executive member of the OASA, will attend the annual reunion together.

Doran Scores Winning Goal Midway Through 3rd Period In Close, Hard-Fought Game

By JOHN GOODFELLOW

Belleville Glen Roys, their back to the wall, defeated Kingston Goodyears 4-3 in the Limestone City last night to square their current final league playoffs. Both teams have now won two, lost two and tied one in the best-of-seven series.

It was Coach Red Doran who sallied away the game for the Glens early in the third period. With the score tied 3-3, Pete Glens carried the puck into the Kingston zone. He slipped it to Jud Senarik at the blue line and the latter slapped one in the direction of the Kingston net. The redhead, standing in front, deflected the puck between his legs and a bewildered Johnson saw what proved to be the winner.

Both teams played it closed to the vest for most of the first period. Parisi had to be good on several occasions, notably on close-in shots by Tinkess and Parris.

Tod Opens It

Ted DeGray scored the first one. With DeLuca serving a penalty for the Goodyears, he outbatted three Kingston players along the left boards and shot a pass to his linemate. DeGray, standing at the edge of the crease, had no trouble flashing it behind Johnson.

The Goodies stormed back and Parisi was great in pulling for a short shot from Parris, then coming right back to stop Mac or at his doorstep.

MacGregor tied it up, breaking from his own end while his team was a man short and going in alone to deke Parisi.

Vern Goyer, who was a fourth forward all night, set up Mulholland in the clear but the puck took a crazy hop and Mulholland cut the effort. Sammy got a second career from Jones and Mulholland later made he went in alone and missed the net completely on a backhander. It was a disappointed beaten cold.

The second period had hardly opened before Goyer almost sank a pass from Jones. Mulholland broke into the clear after stealing the puck at the Kingston blue line, but his shot grazed the post.

The Goodyears went into the lead when White slipped a short shot into the open corner from a scramble. Gerow and Myles drew assists.

New Game

Belleville made it a new game immediately afterwards, Mulholland taking Doy's pass on the right side of Johnson's doorstep, and cashing a backhander.

Parisi broke behind alone the Glens' blue line, but was ridden off by Senarik, who drew a penalty for his efforts. While he was off, Parisi foiled Nicholson from six feet on. Goyer got a breakaway but was beaten by Johnson when he tried to deke the Goodie netminder.

DeGray drew an interference penalty with 34 seconds left and Parisi had to be good to shove away Doran's close drive.

The same DeLuca payed the way for DeGray's goal that made it 3-2. While he was off for elbowing, Goyer combined with Gerow for the marker, big Vern catching the far corner on a five-foot drive from the left.

Kingston tied it at three-all and Parisi had only himself to blame. Nicholson drilled a high shot that was clearing the net by plenty, but the Belleville goalie reached up, juggled the puck and it fell to his feet. Parisi pounced on the wayward rubber and hammered it home.

Doran took over to tally his aforementioned goal for the clincher.

Goyer went off for holding and Parisi had to be in durance, vile Parisi kicked out successive billiards from McKeown and Nicholson.

With 39 seconds to go, the Goodyears pulled goalie Johnson out of the nets. The strategy almost paid off as Parisi kicked out five shots in a row before the final siren.

For the most part, it was a close-checking game. Doran and DeGray were probably the best of the Belleville front liners, while Goyer was dandy both ways. Parisi, who apparently leads a charmed life in the Kingston ice palace, was hotter than a two-dollar pistol.

Parris and Nicholson were the most dangerous of the losers.

Belleville — Goal, Parisi; defence, Goyer, Schrieder; centre, Doran; wings, Jones, DeGray; alternates, Wardhaugh, MacDonald, Mulvihill, Day, Desjardins, Mulholland, Senarik, Bastedo, Green.

Kingston — Goal, Johnson; defence, Watts, Landry; centre, Parris; wings, McKeown, MacGregor; alternates, Myles, Gerow, White, Tinkess, Murray, DeLuca, Nicholson, Stewart.

Officials: Cromble and Walsh.

First Period

Niagara Falls Whips Windsor In Court Opener

TORONTO (CP) — Defending champion Niagara Falls Collegiate Friday night defeated Assumption High School of Windsor 32-27 in opening play of the annual high school basketball tournament of the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations.

It was the third consecutive victory for Niagara Falls over a Windsor team.

Eight teams are competing in the A class quarter-finals.

The Purple Raiders took a 20-13 lead in the first quarter, both teams scored six in the second and Windsor held a 12-point margin at the half. In the third, Niagara rallied and closed the gap to only two points. Windsor played it close in the final stanza but had its margin cut to one point with less than four minutes left. Three minutes and 36 seconds left Windsor's Jack Zalba was put on fouls. Larry Triano tied it up on the free shot. Seconds later he was fouled again and he put his club left unguarded under the net and Sinnaeve dropped the basket to give his club the win.

Forward Triano was top scorer for Niagara with 19 points, followed by Logan with 12 and Bill Sinnaeve with 10. Ron Hood sparked the Raiders with 18 points. Zalba netted 10.

In the evening opener Toronto Runnymede Collegiate downed Peterborough 39-34.

Runnymede led from the opening whistle. It was one point lead in the first quarter, stretched it to four at the half and led 26-20 at the end of the third. In the fourth Peterborough netted six points but Runnymede's

Wings Will Try to Break Scoreless Jinx Against Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings, the dangerous dozen of the National Hockey League, have the unhappy knack of playing their worst hockey when tied on their record — they haven't scored a goal in their last 120 minutes.

Tonight, from a couple of hours of which they will be in fight at least 60 minutes, they'll try out to solve the mess at the Toronto Maple Leafs' home and on the Maple Leafs' ice that have yielded them only one point in two visits.

If there's a jinx involved, the Leafs might try playing the game with their sleeves rolled up. The record points heavily.

Detroit's only home victory in the 10-game series with the league-leading Leafs was chalked up in Detroit Monday night, and it was the first time the Wings had won on home ice since they defeated the Leafs on the first four clubs counts for Stanley Cup competition.

The Maple Leafs, last week-end at home, taking on the last-place New York Rangers, played listless and entertaining Chicago Black Hawks to a 2-2 draw. Meanwhile, the points leaders of Toronto and Boston still aren't in the clear but have looked improvements in winning their last two games.

The Hawks are in Montreal tonight to wind up their schedule completely. The week-end finds them in Detroit to meet New York Rangers.

If the Leafs get past the weekend with any luck they'll be in good shape. They may have reinforcements for their stretch drive. Defenceman Bill Barilko and Bill Ezinicki and Max Bentley, both out with injuries, are hoping to be ready by the Maple Leafs' next home game against Boston a week from Saturday.

Bentley, who has spent 10 days at home in Delisle, Sask., recovering his health and spirits after a siege of illness and injuries, notified the club Friday night that he'll be back Tuesday and hopes to play in the game. He was covered from a shoulder separation that has kept him out since New Year's Day when he first came back.

Another Leaf casualty, winger Harry Watson, who took a severe knock on the head in a game with Montreal Canadiens in Chicago Thursday, will be in action against the Wings.

Gowanlock, Manitoba, Win Canuck Curling Championship

By CHARD ARMSTRONG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUDBURY (CP)—The cool head of ship Ab Gowanlock plus fine performance with a rock gave Manitoba its 16th—and second straight—Canadian curling championship Friday night.

Gowanlock, forced into a playoff with Quebec, also won his second playoff victory in the 36-year history of the event. The pilot of the Dauphin rink won the event in 1938, the year the Manitoba rinks victory has been garnered by a non-Winnipeg crew. The Bowsers had also won it twice, in 1929 and 1935, as native Glenboro II years ago.

While the final game of the week was the highlight of the five-day round-robin series, the style of play Ab Weldon's Quebec four was not overshadowed. The Montreal St. Georges-ers may not expected to go the route, let alone finish in second place after an extra game.

After losing their first game Monday to Manitoba, Ontario, Northern Ontario, British Columbia 14-2, the Quebecers run up eight straight victories before Gowanlock's rink trimmed them 9-4 Friday afternoon to force the extra game. There were any previous Quebec entry had done so with six five games and that was the first time it had done it twice.

It was the seventh time in the 36-year history of the Macdonald's Brier Canadian title playdowns had decided in an extra game—and every time Manitoba has been in the playoff.

Winnipeg rinks won the first three contests, but in the fourth, Gowanlock swinging the pendulum back to Manitoba's favor, last playdown in Saskatoon in 1946, Alberta won after a three-way playoff with Manitoba and Northern Ontario. Last year Bill Walsh of Winnipeg took the silverware home, winning 10 straight games. In his previous victory, Gowanlock won 11 in nine straight.

Friday night's game was one of high tension. Two ends were decided with the last stone, both rinks playing a deliberate, steady game.

Manitoba was one up going into the final end, with Quebec last and Sadie to throw their stones. Quebec had one in the ring and a third in front protecting it. Gowanlock raised it out leaving his stone in. Weldon then tried to draw one of Gowanlock's rock and both went out, leaving the house empty. The veteran Dauphin skip then drew in almost to the button.

Despite the tremendous pressure, threw his final rock wide to the left, failing to touch Manitoba. He needed to count that one possible to force the game into extra ends. Gowanlock had all the counts and ended 3-0 after five ends, 5-3 after eight and 6-4 after the 10th to clinch the lead in the 11th. Gowanlock and Skip Bob Ramsay, and Weldon, in taking one out, also sent his own out to leave one Dauphin stone in scoring.

Ironically, three members of the Gowanlock rink, all born in Manitoba

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 H	Pass	2 H	2 S
4 H	All Pass

The opening bid of one heart by south was just dandy. With two biddable suits of the same length, first bid the higher rank. Even if the lower rank has much in it.

Partner of an opening one bidder is assumed to have two tricks. With no more than two tricks he should pass. So, if his response is anything but a pass he admits having more than two tricks.

North has a count of exactly two tricks and no more. They are his two high cards of hearts and queen of clubs. With only two tricks, north lied to show his heart support.

Of course, south did not know north stretched about the number of tricks he held. He relied on the tricks promised by his partner. With seven in his own hand, south went to game in hearts.

Ordinarily, south would show his diamond suit before going to game in hearts. But there was no point in doing so here. It seemed utterly futile under the circumstances.

When a pair agrees to take ten tricks with a count of only nine between them, the play for it is usually tough. In this case, however, south was equal to the occasion.

West started out with the opening lead of a spade. Pitch right in there and take the needed nine tricks. You can do it.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 4, 1951

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Opportunity is a traveller stopping in odd places, surprising at odd times, too. We must be ready for him if we are to benefit from his gifts. Above all, don't forget opportunities for the soul.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Put a little extra philosophy, everyday common sense into Sunday and all free days, and into small matters as into other days and "important" affairs and note the inner contentment gained.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Don't make things out bigger, or less important, more drastic, or incredibly essential than they should be. Don't neglect church.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Others may not understand you at times. That's all right, others aren't always rightly judged by you either. A give-and-take spirit paves way for harmony.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Without realizing it, a well-ordered day plan some, eliminate dead-end thought from next week's schedule. Charity, religion, study highly-favored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—If your week was hectic, days ahead will be fun. You should be pepping up, do! Look into yourself for the answer.

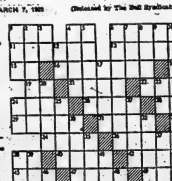
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Take advantage of ill wind. It blows one into difficulty, though may seem to offer momentary gains. Shun those who aren't essentially honest.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Don't put "all your eggs in one basket". Divide your time sensibly, your efforts, and your pleasures.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—No matter how forceful others may be and how trying activities are these days, be not coerced into a give-in spirit where you know rightful opposition is the order.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)— Completeness, accuracy, good disposition, are important meanings to heed in the spirit of this holy day and all days.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Think in broad terms, as your Sign usually does. Be not side-tracked by personal items that could mar better effort on a bigger scale. Forward with sturdy courage!



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Double-check in these departments: co-operation (with right, avoiding undue sources); learning (your increasing knowledge and delivery under your care); and undue apprehensiveness.

YOU BORN TODAY: In "Pisces" above, interpreting the kind of day is for your Sign, we used "apprehensiveness." A big worry to many a Pisces life. The right preparation, in case things happen thus or so, is always advisable. But undue apprehension—rendering the individual nervous, fretting, is a power that works against true progress and can undermine health. You can reach great heights when you overcome fear of criticism or of failure. Birthdate: Oliver Wendell Holmes, jurist; Claire Trevor, actress; Sir Wm. Hamilton, Scot. metaphysician.

HOTEL MAN DIES

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—Safron Frank Podhora, 56, who had the oldest hotel business in the city, died Wednesday. He had run the Falls View Hotel for 25 years.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NO. 6473

A By-law Requiring All Open Trucks Operating Within the Corporate Limits of the City of Belleville Hauling Refuse to be Equipped With a Tarpaulin.

WHEREAS Section 260 of The Municipal Act, R.S.O. 1950, Chapter 243 provides that the Council may pass by-laws for the health, safety, morality and welfare of the inhabitants of the municipality;

AND WHEREAS it is deemed detrimental to the health and welfare of the inhabitants of the Corporation of the City of Belleville that open trucks hauling refuse through the streets of the City of Belleville do not have the said refuse covered by a tarpaulin or similar material;

THEREFORE, COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS:

1. That no by-law shall mean and include any type or kind of vehicle, whether motor driven or not, and its case.

2. That no open truck hauling refuse shall operate within the limits of the City of Belleville shall have such refuse covered by a tarpaulin or some similar effective method so that the refuse cannot blow or scatter or come off the said truck and the said truck shall be equipped with the said tarpaulin at all times when it is used to refuse shall be covered and remain covered at all times during the time of loading and unloading operations.

3. Any person who violates any provision of this by-law shall be liable upon conviction to a penalty not exceeding $100.00 exclusive of costs which shall be recoverable under the provisions of The Summary Convictions Act, and in lieu of payment, to a term of imprisonment not exceeding ten days.

Read a first time this 16th day of February, 1953.

Read a second time this 16th day of February, 1953.

Read a third time and finally passed this 16th day of February, 1953.

GEO. HAIG, C. LUMMISS,
Mayor. Deputy City Clerk

I HEREBY CERTIFY the above is a true copy of By-law No. 6473 and that the same will come into force and operating within the limits of the City of Belleville when every open truck hauling refuse to be equipped with a tarpaulin.

C. LUMMISS,
Deputy City Clerk.

IVANHOE

How 'Ivanhoe' Received Name

Ivanhoe — The recent showing, 'Ivanhoe' at the local theatre has given rise to the question, "who named Ivanhoe?"

Searching in the Department at Ottawa, this post office was established under the name of St. George (Hastings) on the 1st July 1851, the name was changed to Ivanhoe on the 1st of April 1857.

Ivanhoe

A history of the early days of Ivanhoe is given in the book by F. Clements, tells of Thomas Lee, a young Irishman, a school teacher (father artistocratic in manner and appearance) who left Ireland with Walter Scott's historical novel "Ivanhoe" in his hand, and decided that the settleries the Irish named the post office "Ivanhoe". He later became a town of Burlington and county warden.

The first postmaster was Mr. William Francis who was succeeded by Mr. Thomas Lee on the 1st June 1854 by Mr. John Francis and he in turn was succeeded by Mr. Thomas Lee who held the office until the 13th of December 1860 and resigned the charge of the office until the 1st May 1863.

The present postmaster is Mrs. Thomas Lee, Mrs. Thomas Lee Fleming was appointed in 1946 and she received the long service badge" presented to postmasters, postmaster post offices, who had 25 years or more of service to their credit.

Belleville, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and boys on Sunday.

Mrs. Gray is staying with her daughter for a while, Mrs. Roy Boldrick in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Treverton, Harold and Clare, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treverton on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman and Clarence visited on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. John White and family.

YOUNG HELPERS AT ST. CATHARINES (CP)—

Training in civil defence work will start in public schools shortly, according to Brig. G. Whitelaw, director of the local civil defence organization. Pupils at each level will be taught to assist teachers or warden and older younger pupils to places of safety.

Sidney Twp. Council

The council of the township of Sidney met on March 2, 1953, at Sunday evening. All members were present. The minutes of the February meeting and special meeting were adopted. It was moved by A. Hamilton and seconded by J. Campbell that road voucher, No. 3 for $14,366.42, March relief account for $82.00 and March pay sheet be paid. Moved by J. Campbell, seconded by B. Brooks and H. Hardee and A. Hamilton be a committee to deal with the municipal drainage act and be in the interests of the municipal drainage act and the problems to be held in the town hall, Canniffton, on Thursday, March 26 at 1.30 p.m. conducted by a drainage engineer from Kemptville Agricultural School who is official from the Ontario department of public works.

Moved by B. Brooks, seconded by B. Harder that council adjourn to meet April 2 at 1 p.m.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Emhart

"They're worth it, Nina."

"Of course! But Tod should think of you once in a while."

"Tod's doing the best he can. He has to take care of his sister."

Nina stared at her for a moment or two.

"I don't want to hear any criticism on Tod," Jenny said. "If you don't like him Nina, we can't keep on being friends."

Without another word Nina picked up her coat and hat. At the doorway she turned back and said, "If you'd rather hide your head like an ostrich, boo. I guess it's not my place to spoil things for you. Let me know if you need me. Maybe you're right. Maybe I'd better stay away because I can't keep my mouth shut about Tod."

Tod came home half an hour later to find Jenny crying as she went about getting their supper.

Jenny faced him bravely, her face flushed and moist, her eyes puffy from crying. "Nina critici zed me for not getting new clothes and — well lots of other things. She wanted to tell me things about you too. But I wouldn't let her."

"I wouldn't let Nina upset me," Tod said. He went into the other room, where one of the twins was whimpering.

He felt guilty at Jenny's words because only this afternoon, Liz had wanted him to come to a cocktail party Conover Advertising, Inc., was giving for a big industrialist — a client of Liz's. Liz had said, "If you think Jenny would disapprove of your going, we'll take her along."

He knew he didn't dare go with Liz. If he went to that party with her, he might start going other places with her. He'd start to let places standstessly — well, it was just no good.

While Jenny got the twins ready for bed he said, "I wish I could find the money Jenny for you to get some clothes, but you know how it is."

She was in an awful mood tonight, quite unlike herself. She whirled around, her face red and said, "I suppose you're ashamed of me!"

"No Jenny, it isn't that at all." He turned away and went into the bedroom to get ready to go visit Ma at the nursing home. He went twice a week, thought he knew it was a good thing he was going out.

After Tod had gone Jenny took up the sewing paper and tried to read, but she was too restless. She got ready for bed and tried to relax then, but she was too exhausted to go to sleep immediately.

Not having enough money was a dreadful thing. It spoiled one's outlook. And besides that she was awfully tired from staying up late nights with the babies. Yes, she was awfully tired.

She lay there awake a long time thinking, trying to remember exactly how she had felt that March day so long ago — no, not so long ago either, only two years when she had gone down to the Union Station to meet Tod.

It was snowing, she remembered, and the store windows were full of spring things. She had been so excited about seeing Tod again. He had liked her hat. That little brown velvet bonnet. She still had it, only she never had any occasion to wear it any more.

But Tod had said she looked cute in it.

She crawled out of bed suddenly, throwing back the covers, and went to the closet and found the box where the old hats were. She fished out the velvet bonnet and brushed it off. The tulle ribbons were frayed. She went to the mirror and snapped on the dressing table light and put the hat on her head. She stared at herself for a long moment, her heart sinking. She looked terrible, her face puffy, no make-up, hair stringing down on either side of her face. And then too, a velvet bonnet doesn't look too becoming atop a pair of faded cotton pajamas. She flung it on the dressing table, where rolling down, hat cheeks now. Tears of self pity.

—XIII—

Jenny was sleeping soundly when Tod came in that night. Even his turning on the light in the bedroom did not waken her. He looked down at her for a moment, seeing the shadowy hollows of her throat and cheeks, the dark circles under her eyes, the wild scattering of her brown hair on the pillow.

Then he caught sight of the velvet hat lying on the dressing table where she had flung it. He picked it up, reminded suddenly, as Jenny had been, of that day at the railway station.

He sat down on the edge of the bed turning the hat in his hands. Not only he could have been more sense and waited. Ma had known it wouldn't work out. The longing for Liz, subdued, crushed down through two long years, was a living pulsating thing in him.

He raised his head and looked again at Jenny asleep. She, only feeling he could summon toward that inert small figure was angry, overwhelming pity. She seemed so pathetic and helpless and beaten. He had failed in almost every way possible for a man to fail a woman. He had been physically faithful, that was true. But in his heart and mind he supposed he had been unfaithful a dozen times.

Liz phoned again the next day. "Please, darling, come to the party. Father's anxious to talk to you again. Besides you'll see lots of people it would be nice for you to meet. You do want to get ahead, don't you, darling?"

A small voice inside him whispered, "You know of course that are the real reason Liz wants you to come." He said to himself, "Why not go? More men get starts on the road to success at cocktail parties than anywhere else. Where does all this dullness get you?"

He went, and the party was everything he had expected it to be.

• • •

Jenny meanwhile, was hurrying to the grocery because Mrs. Slattery could only watch the twins half an hour. It was a misty, rainy day.

Rick came around the corner and almost ran into her. "Jenny!" he exclaimed.

Rick took her elbows and gave her a little shake, looking down grinning with little wrinkles fanning out from his eyes. "I've missed you like the very dickens. I was on my way to see you parked my car around the corner as I could anywhere you. But this is even better—just like that other day."

"When we were living in the trailer!" Jenny remembered that golden day in October when she had hardly known Rick, but what him they had.

"You're on your way to the grocery, I see."

"How can you tell?" Jenny's laughter bubbled up.

"That old shopping bag. I'm sure it's the same one you were carrying that other day I went to the grocery with you."

Rick took her arm. "You were wearing a bright red beret and a short red coat with some kind of fancy stitched scarf and you looked cute as a button."

"Why Rick, you do have a memory!" Jenny cried. "It's incredible. That was a long time ago."

She was uncomfortably aware all at once of her old black shoes that were a bit run down at the heels, the too short skirt.

Rick noticed her quietness. "The bad day?"

She nodded.

She nodded again. He grinned and gave her arm a squeeze. "Remember, Jenny, the other day the gypsy things we bought, and then Tod? I know I was wearing one of your aprons cooking up some concoction or other." He opened the door and they went into the market. Rick got a cart and they shopped.

It was so good to laugh with Rick, to have him come to supper an early bus home, the three of them could have a wonderful evening together.

Rick was delighted with the twins, tottering about now on unsteady legs, with many a delightful though bubbly effort at conversation. He was glad to make good Mrs. Slattery.

A hilarious time ensued, with Jenny and Rick shooting all sorts from behind chairs and the twins making the room echo with laughter.

"I'll never get them to go to bed," Jenny cried happily. It wasn't often they had such a time. Rick helped her get them into their sleepers, and he washing their faces while Jenny got their milk ready.

It was now 6 o'clock and no sign of Rick's party did not diminish. He insisted on going out to the kitchen to help Jenny. Together they kept cooking to the front windows of the living room every time a bus was due.

All were still so Ted. The potatoes, delightfully fluffy had an hour ago were stiff now. The gravy, made by Rick's own recipe with sherry wine, had congealed into lumps.

Jenny filled two plates, while Rick poured the chilled wine. He sat down in a chair for her. "Don't worry so, Jenny. Nothing's happened." he said, smiling down at her.

They had just unfolded their napkins when the door opened and Tod saluted them from the doorway. He came unsteadily into the room.

Malenkov Says Policy Is Peace At Stalin's Bier

Beria, Molotov Follow In Orations at Funeral

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The body of Joseph V. Stalin was entombed today in Lenin's mausoleum on Red Square after his successor, Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, in a funeral oration said his new all-government's foreign policy is one of peace.

Speaking beside the bier of the dead leader of world communism, Malenkov declared in ringing tones that the Soviet Union desires international co-operation and business ties with all countries, and that the chief task of his government is to prevent a new world war.

Asked to be Ready

Malenkov also called on the Soviet people for an "uncompromising struggle against external and internal enemies." It is their "sacred duty," he told the Russians, to "strengthen the Soviet armed forces and maintain their readiness to repel aggressive attacks."

He was echoed by his chief deputy premier, Lavrenti P. Beria, who said the Soviet soldiers "have modern weapons and are ready to ward off any aggression."

Our country's friends and foes will bring disarray to our ranks. They will be disappointed," he declared.

The No. 3 man in the new government, V. M. Molotov, was the third speaker.

Moved on Gun Carriage

Stalin's coffin was moved on a gun carriage across Moscow's Red Square just before 10 a.m., today Moscow time (2 a.m. EST) from the Hall of Columns of the House of Trade Unions, where it had lain in state since Friday, the day after his death.

There millions of sorrowing citizens had filed past the bier to say farewell to the man who in 30 years at the helm of the Soviet government had become a god to them.

Surgeon Adds Special Note For Nimrods

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — The Medical Journal of Australia reported the finding of nine shotgun pellets and large grains of sand in the appendix of a woman who had been partial to duck and quail.

The operating surgeon, Dr. Leslie Clay, added: "For sporting members of the profession, a short appendix will be number 6 and number 10."

54 Men Die In Sinking Of Navy Frigate

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Fifty-four men died Saturday in the sinking of the Canadian-built Egyptian Navy frigate Solium in a fierce storm off this port.

A Polish freighter, the Czech, rescued 61 of the Solium's crew of 115 by towing hastily-built rafts for the sailors to clamber onto. Two rescuing waves prevented launching of lifeboats.

One of the men picked up died later in hospital. Only one victim's body was recovered.

The Solium was built in Canada in 1941. A 572-tone bangor class minesweeper, it was commissioned in the Royal Navy as the Wedgecomb. It was turned over to Egypt after the Second World War.

The vessel was pounded for seven hours by the Mediterranean storm before she sank. As the rescue ship approached at dusk Saturday, many of the sailors from the frigate leaped into the sea. The captain was among those saved.

Six Children Burned to Death At Flint, Mich.

FLINT, Mich. (CP)—Six children, ranging in age from six months to six years, were burned to death early Sunday when flames destroyed their home.

Their mother, Mrs. John D. Allen, 25, was visiting friends nearby. Her husband, a factory worker, was singing at a night club where he works during week-ends to earn extra money.

The fire was first noticed by a neighbor who notified the fire department and then made a useless attempt to enter the flaming building to save the children.

Valerie, 16 months, and six-months-old Laran died in their cribs on the main floor. The other children were trapped in an upstairs room. They were Cleopatra, 5; William, 4, John, Jr., 5, and Cheri, 6.

Charged With Murder

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Thomas Kelly, 36-year-old accountant, was charged Saturday with murdering a foundry worker and slaying in the home of his mother.

Mrs. E. Kelly, 68, and Kelly's brother, Esther Heffernan, 61, were found dead in the hall of the Kelly home early Saturday morning. Kelly has been charged with the murder of Miss Heffernan. He was not asked to plead and was remanded for eight days.

Police said both women appeared to have been beaten with a blunt instrument.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Colder air is heading southward from Hudson Bay and has reached the northeastern third of the province. Tuesday it is expected to affect all the province. In the meantime mostly sunny weather will prevail with occasional cloudy intervals and snowflurries.

Girl Guerrilla Escapes Death Given Life Term

Her Case Taken Up By World Communism

IPOH, Perak, Malaya (AP)—The Sultan of Perak today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed by a British judge on Lee Meng, pretty woman guerrilla whom Communist Hukbalahap party recently tried to save by bargaining with the British government.

The tiny, sullen 25-year-old ringleader of Red terrorism in Malaya had been sentenced to be hanged on a charge of carrying a grenade a capital offence under the state of emergency here.

Her case was taken up by world communism several weeks ago when Hungary offered to release an imprisoned British businessman, Robert Sanders, in return for her freedom.

Prime Minister Churchill tentatively turned down the offer, saying there can be no question of bartering a human life." He added, however, that this did not rule out a later consideration on the question of clemency appeals had been made to the British Malayan authorities.

Sanders, serving a 13-year prison term in Hungary on espionage charges, was convicted along with three others who were acquitted by an American, Robert Vogeler, about two years ago.

An official statement issued after meeting today of the Perak state executive council said: "The sultan in advice of the council commuted the sentence passed on Lee Meng, alias Lee Tai Tai, unlawfully in possession of penal servitude for life."

Three Brothers Held for Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Three brothers were arrested Sunday and charged with a series of break-and-entry cases. Police said about $7,000 worth of merchandise has been recovered.

Ernest Cooper, 18, and James Cooper, 19, both of Toronto, were charged on seven counts of breaking and entering. Their brother, Alfred Cooper, 22, of Pickering was jointly charged with five of the break-ins.

The suspicions of a policeman about a car loaded with groceries led to their arrest. A search of the car uncovered a fur-lined hood coat, $1,000 worth of dresses and men's clothing, shoes, rubbers, four rifles, a typewriter, tools, hardware and $15 in cash.

Wife of Missionary Attacked in Colombia

BAGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Evangelical Confederation of Colombia said Sunday the residence of a Protestant missionary was attacked February 2 by twenty or more men armed with crowbars. The minister's wife was beaten and probably would die, the confederation said.

The residence is located in Piedecuesta, South Santander department, and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wright. He is from Tisdale, Sask., and she is from Hessaintville, N.Y.

The confederation said Mr. Wright was not at home at the time tife intruders climbed over a back wall.

CHUTES LOST IN FIRE

WEST BUXTON, Me. (AP) — Five thousand chicks, a horse, a cow and two calves were lost with a three-storey barn and outbuilding Sunday in a blaze that swept Fred Bird's farm here. Bird estimated loss at $20,000.

$100,000 Fire Loss

OTTAWA, (CP) — A stubborn fire Saturday night in a warehouse estimated at $100,000 damage to shops in a business block at the corner of Bank and Somerset Streets.

One fireman was overcome by smoke but was recovering in hospital Sunday. Firemen battled the blaze for hours before bringing the fire under control.

The fire was apparently started in a switch box in the basement of the Bank Tavern Tuesday night, spreading to the basement of Ritchie's sports goods store.

Busy Bank Street was closed to traffic for 2 1-2 hours.

Psychiatry, Armored Vest Reduce Front-Line Casualties to Minimum

By HOWARD C. BETTS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Front-line psychiatry and the armored vest have proved vital aids in producing Korean casualties to a level approaching the absolute minimum, says Maj.-Gen. Silas B. Hays.

Hays, the army's chief surgeon in Korea, also credited such improved medical technique as the helicopter for evacuation, which work like plasma in fighting shock.

Hays reported on his command in Korea only about 2½ per cent die, of the wounded who reach medical installations. Hays told doctors at the annual convention of the College of Medical Evangelists.

During the Second World War, about 4½ per cent of the wounded succumbed, against eight per cent in the First World War.

Statistics on the effectiveness of the vests are incomplete, but Hays said he had heard reports of only two cases of fatal wounded among those wearing vests, and added: "when the figures are in we expect the ratio to be about one in six, perhaps one in seven."

Hays' reports are too new for speculation on the number of lives saved. Hays told the conference:

"The American casualties sent home from Korea, those suffering wounds — mental breakdowns account for only 4 per cent, compared with 22 to 25 per cent evidenced home after such breakdowns during the Second World War, he said.

"The number of breakdowns produced by front line battle was not at all three wars—World War I, World War II and Korea—but we have been able to do much better in the field in Korea; and the number sent home is far less than before.

In Korea, two-thirds of the breakdown cases are rehabilitated and returned to duty without leaving the division. Of those who must be shifted the line for treatment the percentage of returns is five.

Soviet Embalming Secrets May Preserve Stalin's Body For Other Generations to See

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters)—The body of Stalin may be seen by future generations of Russians, according to claims made by Soviet scientists.

They reported perfecting an embalming process which preserves the human body in every feature and detail for an indefinite period.

An ancient Egyptian process for embalming presupposes desiccation as a result of which organs shrink and skin shrivels. Mummies are dark brown, almost black corpses.

The body of Lenin, who died in 1924, was embalmed under the new process by Professor Vorobiev, biochemist, and V. Vorobiov, anatomist.

Sharkey said a few years ago: "We are convinced that Lenin's body will remain in the present state for hundreds of years to come."

Stalin's body has been embalmed presumably by the same process.

The Moscow News, an English language paper formerly published in Moscow, said in 1947 that since Lenin's death, the government several times appointed special commissions of eminent scientists to examine Lenin's body and express their opinion on its condition.

Problem Solved

In a 1947 report, an expert commission found that the "problem of preserving Lenin's body for a protracted period of time has been successfully solved."

The scientists' claim is disputed, however, by Rudy Swaiden, Stalin's nephew who declared in a book published last year that the body lying under a glass case in Lenin's mausoleum is only a clever reproduction.

Swaidze, now living in the west, said experts reported to Stalin in 1930 that Lenin's body was deteriorating and could no longer be preserved.

Stalin Quoted

Stalin is said to have ordered that an attempt to do so should be made at all costs.

Svanidze quotes him as saying: "Among people are very capricious. If Lenin's body should become unsightly or even decayed, they will take it as a bad sign and their right might even affect the conduct of the war."

Svandize added that he learned afterwards that an artificial statue of Lenin was made in complete human likeness by a group of sculptors.

Lenin was in fact cremated in 1942 and ashes placed in an urn submerged in the Volga near Lenin's birthplace.

Dulles Says Death of Stalin Increases World Chances Of Peace at Press Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) John Foster Dulles, U. S. state secretary, said today the death of Stalin has increased the world's chance for peace.

Dulles, in his first press conference as top State Department secretary of state, said Stalin's death, however, would not bring any changes in U. S. policy.

He said the U. S. would continue to follow the course it has on the cold war, but that, with Stalin dead, that course wod have more chance of success.

Three Brothers Held for Theft

TORONTO (CP)—Three brothers were arrested Sunday and charged with a series of break-and-entry cases. Police said about $7,000 worth of merchandise has been recovered.

Ernest Cooper, 18, and James Cooper, 19, both of Toronto, were charged on seven counts of breaking and entering. Their brother, Alfred Cooper, 22, of Pickering was jointly charged with five of the break-ins.

The suspicions of a policeman about a car loaded with groceries led to their arrest. A search of the car uncovered a fur-lined hood coat, $1,000 worth of dresses and men's clothing, shoes, rubbers, four rifles, a typewriter, tools, hardware and $15 in cash.

$100,000 Fire Loss

OTTAWA, (CP) — A stubborn fire Saturday night in a warehouse estimated at $100,000 damage to shops in a business block at the corner of Bank and Somerset Streets.

One fireman was overcome by smoke but was recovering in hospital Sunday. Firemen battled the blaze for hours before bringing the fire under control.

The fire was apparently started in a switch box in the basement of the Bank Tavern Tuesday night, spreading to the basement of Ritchie's sports goods store.

Busy Bank Street was closed to traffic for 2 1-2 hours.

To Question Man In Recent Slaying

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today they have arrested a 22-year-old man in the theft of $30 worth of groceries and will questslaying.

Acting inspector Stanley Gaylard of Hamilton said the man will be questioned further in the killing of Charles Askew, 70, in his grocery store Feb. 24. Askew's body, discovered beyond recognition, was found beside a small safe which searchers had plugged with explosive.

Police said the suspect is being held without bail in the theft of groceries from a downtown supermarket.

COLOR PROBLEM

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—The South African gold mining industry's policy of importing immigrants was criticized by Dan Ellis, general secretary of the Mineworkers Union. He said immigrants from Britain are bringing with them color problems.

Ellis added the time for treatment the percentage of returns is for the return of Europeans.

Engineer Fails To Halt Train Killing Friends

MOUNDVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Engineer Jim Hassell couldn't stop his freight train in time to save the lives of five youngsters who had won his heart.

His freight plowed into a pickup truck at a crossing three miles south of here Sunday.

The shaken 39-year-old Birmingham engineer then learned that its occupants had been a brother and sister who had waved to him passing train for many years.

Dead are Jean Lee Cantrell, 17, and Benjamin Douglas Ferry, 15, were killed instantly.

Hassell first noticed the children eight years ago, when they began running down the railroad tracks to wave as he passed.

He decided Christmas presents with his name on them, and the children sent him presents, too. He had learned that Ben and other members of his family.

Can't Defeat Robot Brain In Own Game

LONDON (AP) — Scientist Donald Davies, who helped to build a big electronic brain for the national physics laboratory, says he can defeat a machine to play naughts and crosses" with him in his spare time.

"It works on a simple principle," Davies said, "But unfortunately, it usually beats me."

Brutal Slayer Of Two Girls Hunted in N.Y.

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y. (AP)—Two school girls, eight and three, were brutally slain near here Sunday. A doctor said there was evidence that both had been attacked sexually.

The bodies of the two children, who lived at a school for underprivileged children, were found Sunday in a snow-covered section near the school. One girl had been stabbed; the other had received a savage blow at the base of the skull.

Police today checked a number of state mental institutions in the general area, but there was no report that any inmate had escaped.

The slain children were Marjorie Rhodebeck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boudreau, of Staten Island, N.Y., and Esther Ann Nagey, 5, whose father, Brown Nagey, is a plumber and lives in Spring Valley. He is a widower.

Marjorie and Esther were reported last seen alive by another small playmate who said she was playing with the two girls on the school's playground at about 3 p.m. Sunday.

Police and firemen, aided by bloodhounds, laer joined the hunt for the two school youngsters.

About 5:30 p. m. Marjorie's body was found in woods about a half mile from the school.

Her skull was fractured, apparently by a heavy object, a rock.

Six hours later, Esther's body was found 300 yards into the woods from the spot where Marjorie was found. Esther had been shot in the back.

BOOSTS PRODUCTION

CAPETOWN (CP)—Experiments in the Cape coastal area have shown the unproductive stretch can be turned into a great food-producing area, says Dr. L. S. Pretorius, biological chemist. In the tests copper and cobalt were added to factory-producing soil and to livestock feed.

Millions Damage As Fire Spreads In Wilmington N.C.

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Wind-fanned flames roared along the Wilmington waterfront today and ate their way toward the city's business district.

Firemen concentrated on halting the fire's spread as explosions rocked this port city of 45,000. First estimates indicated the damage would run into millions of dollars.

Flames sweeping through warehouses along the Cape Fear riverfront pushed the blaze past five firemen and less seriously hurt several others.

Huge clouds of smoke spread above this river port, materials stored in warehouses exploded in buildings of the Wilmington Terminal Co. Fire Chief J. Alvin Croom said $1,000,000 worth of major in one of the firm's four buildings was the total loss.

Chief Croom said shortly before noon that he had ordered a pump where a stand would be made against the spreading flames. He said then if a stand could not be maintained there, he planned to abandon that effort. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad's freight yards to establish a line across which the flames could not leap. The line would be about half a mile from the city's business area.

BRITAIN, U.S. ASK HELP TO TIGHTEN BLOCKADE

First Move to be Taken Through Secret Group

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain and the United States today planned to seek prompt help of other free countries in tightening an economic blockade against certain shipments of war-useful goods to Communist China.

The first move, informants said, will be taken through a secret international group which has headquarters in Paris and which is concerned with preventing the flow of strategic goods into Communist countries. Members of this group are American and European countries and Japan. Its existence is known unofficially but its operations are secret.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain and State Secretary Dulles, talking up a round of political and economic talks here Saturday, assertedly will deal primarily by Britain, to disrupt maritime shipments of strategic goods to the Chinese Reds.

New Licensing System

A communique issued late Saturday quoted Eden as promising Britain would set up a new licensing system for ships registered in the United Kingdom and the colonies to prevent such ships from carrying to Red China strategic materials from non-British countries. The British government said this kind from Britain has long been banned.

Railways Awarded Freight Increase Of Seven Per Cent

Fifth and Smallest Hoist Of Post-War Series

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners today awarded the railways a general freight increase of seven per cent, the fifth and smallest of the post-war series of hoists.

The $38,500,000-a-year increase is the second in three months. On Dec. 30, the railways obtained a nine-per-cent boost to compensate them for wage increases to non-operating employees.

The board's judgment granted the full amount asked by the railways as an "immediate" increase. The board assigned the railways to put it into effect March 16.

Apart from the seven-per-cent application, the board still has before it a railway request for a further nine-per-cent general increase and for a new method of settling the which would involve additional but unspecified increases.

Decides Unanimous

Today's board decision was unanimous on the part of Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, chief commissioner, and the other members of a three-man panel. It authorized a seven-per-cent hike all along the line except for coal and coke on which the board limited the increases of between 10 and 20 cents a ton.

In determining the amount of the increase awarded today, the board again made use of the formula it had previously adopted, under which it reviews the costs for the yardstick Canadian Pacific Railway to be able to obtain still earnings of $46,000,000 a year to meet fixed charges, dividends and surpluses.

Even with the full seven-per-cent increase, it said, the company will not be able to reach that figure in 1953, or ever in a full year of the new freight-rate levels because of increased operating costs.

However, the chief commissioner wrote in the judgment that adoption of the formula in this case "should not be taken as indicating that I am disposed indefinitely to perpetuate its use."

Rejects Provincial Argument

Pending detailed study of the points, the board did not give weight to the provincial argument that the seven-per-cent application should be turned down on the ground that railway conditions had not changed enough since it handed down a similar application for a general eight-per-cent increase in 1951.

The eight-per-cent turn-down was followed by a nine-per-cent increase in December, a decision to rate the carriers partially for a further increase to their non-operating employees.

AIDS FARMS

KARACHI, (CP)—Work has started on a fertilizer plant for Pakistan that will cost more than $20,000,000, including contributions from the United States. Pakistan has large deposits of gypsum, one of the ingredients essential to produce ammonium sulphate.

Three Canadian Regts. Will Send Men to Guard Route at Coronation

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Canadian Reserve Army regiments can count on sending men to London in June for the coronation route at the Coronation of their colonel-in-chief, army headquarters announced today. Their men will be among 204 reserve force members to be chosen for the duty.

The three units—the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders of Hamilton and the Chaudiere regiment of Quebec—are among the units in Canada of which the Queen is honorary or honorary colonel.

As such, the army said, they will be represented by either an officer or senior non-commissioned officer.

The announcement said members of all corps in the reserve army will be chosen for the London trip, with two exceptions, their part in the ceremony will be to line the streets in their respective corps, dental, intelligence and CWAC once each.

Space Cadet Lands Safely In Own Yard

CLITHEROE, Eng. (AP) — "She's out of control, Sam," yelled a jet pilot. "We'll have to bail out."

Sam Carlyon, 11, gritted his teeth and jumped.

He landed with a thud just outside his own front door and to fet down from his bedroom window.

"It was a very realistic dream," Sam said later. He was not even bruised.

"We're calling up his bedroom window," said the boy's mother.

Atomic Projectile Will be Fired From Cannon

WASHINGTON (AP)—An atomic projectile will be fired from the world's first cannon to have during the spring series of nuclear experiments starting shortly at the Nevada proving grounds, it was announced Saturday night.

The 280-millimeter guns, of which several have been made, were fired frequently during the last year but never with an actual atomic shell.

A joint defence department-atomic energy commission announcement said a unit from the Fort Sill, Okla., team of the army's artillery service will fire the gun.

The announcement says the unit will be "using a projectile armed with an atomic warhead."

The announcement said the firing will take place during the series of tests, but not at the public demonstration for civil defence officials and newspaper men on March 17.

"The series of tests," the announcement went said, "is designed to advance development of new and nuclear devices and will provide that weapons performance data essential to military and civil defence affects studies."

Psychiatry, Armored Vest Reduce Front-Line Casualties to Minimum

By HOWARD C. BETTS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Front-line psychiatry and the armored vest have proved vital aids in producing Korean casualties to a level approaching the absolute minimum, says Maj.-Gen. Silas B. Hays.

Hays, the army's chief surgeon in Korea, also credited such improved medical technique as the helicopter for evacuation, which work like plasma in fighting shock.

Hays reported on his command in Korea only about 2½ per cent die, of the wounded who reach medical installations. Hays told doctors at the annual convention of the College of Medical Evangelists.

During the Second World War, about 4½ per cent of the wounded succumbed, against eight per cent in the First World War.

City and District News

DEADLINE DRAWING NEAR FOR LICENCES FOR MOTOR CARS

With the deadline for 1953 motor vehicle licences drawing near, there are still a great many motorists in the Belleville district who have not yet purchased their new markers.

The office of Fred Symons, local license issuer, stated today that less than two-thirds of the normal number of licenses for this district were still unsold.

Provincial police noted that the deadline for passenger vehicle licences was March 18, while the last day for commercial vehicle and trailer licences was March 23.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT FOR THREE GRASS FIRES

It seems a bit early but firemen were called out for grass fires on three different occasions over the week-end.

Saturday night firemen were called to Gibson's Crescent for a grass blaze and again on Sunday they were called to Churchill Heights and to Rossmore.

Early Sunday morning the crews were called to 339½ Front Street for an oil burner, which was giving trouble.

APPARENTLY FAILED TO HEARD WHISTLE APPROACHING CROSSING

Walking into the side of railway locomotive when he failed to hear the approaching train, Ernest Deston, 83, of 90 South John St., escaped with a scalp and his forehead and a cut on his ear.

The elderly man, who is quite deaf, apparently failed to realize the locomotive was approaching the crossing and it is said to have walked into the front corner of the engine. The accident occurred shortly after seven o'clock this morning.

The man was taken to Belleville General Hospital by Bush's ambulance.

BAGS OF GRAIN FOUND SCATTERED ALONG HIGHWAY

With the price of grain and feed still high, few farmers can afford to drop it along the highway.

But that is what occurred on Saturday when some farmer dropped a number of bags of grain from his truck as he was leaving the city. Apparently the bags were not tied securely and the bags dropped off one at a time and were found scattered along the highway. Provincial police will turn the grain over to the owner on proper identification of his property.

HEALTH OFFICER TAKES PART IN CIVIL DEFENCE

The M.O.H., Dr. A. M. Breuls, returned today from a week's training in Chemical, Bacteriological and Chemical Defence. The five-day program, held at Camp Borden was an indoctrination course for medical officers, sanitary officers from all municipalities, and a man who escaped from the Siberian slave camps several years ago. He also addressed the expected packed house on Thursday. Mr. Breuls said the book, "One of the Fifteen Million," was recently reviewed in the Ontario Intelligencer.

Continued on the course, Dr. Breuls said: "This course convinced me of the value of civil defence measures in reducing casualties from the use of modern weapons. I have arrived at the conclusion that civil defence may be regarded as a form of insurance."

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OFFICE TO OPERATE ON TWO-DAY WEEK

The National Employment Service office in Belleville will operate a two-day week and will be closed all day Saturday it was stated today by Herb Reed, office manager. Beginning will be 8.10 a.m. until 5 o'clock p.m. Monday through Friday.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR BRIG., MRS. GAGE

Special services are being held tonight in honor of Brigadier Reg Gage and Mrs. Gage, of the Salvation Army, who have been transferred to the west coast.

The services will take the form of a special farewell to these well known and loved officers, who made many friends in the city and district during their stay here.

Captain Brightwell, senior officer here, extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend the called services. A special program of music and other features has been arranged.

Dogs in Pound

Three dogs were reported in the city pound today by city dog catcher Charles Thorn, Cannifton Road.

In the dog house were a black female spaniel pup; a brown and white with a Thurlow tag, and a male red spaniel with collar but no tag. These dogs will be kept the conventional 48-hour period awaiting owners, actual or prospective.

CALLS FOR EXECUTION

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Jessie Mosz, national commander of the Jewish War Veterans, Sunday said Zibel and Julius Rosenberg, convicted atom spies, should be executed immediately. Speaking at ceremonies at a local JWV post, Mosz said: "Plans at their crime been committed on the battlefield, the immediate sentence would be death. We are calling for the full fulfillment of that sentence now."

Farley Faulkner To Carry Fight Across Canada

The man the Communists invited to start a campaign against them, is going to take them at their word. In a brief interview with Farley Faulkner at the basketball play-offs in Toronto Saturday afternoon, where he had taken time out from his campaign plans, Mr. Faulkner told the Ontario Intelligencer his meeting on Thursday in Massey Hall will not be his last.

Mr. Faulkner, a former resident of this city, was escorted from Massey Hall when the Red Dean of Canterbury was speaking recently. He had taken exception to a statement of the speaker and was removed from the meeting, backgrounded by Communist Literature. "I'll be glad to speak, hire a hall."

The former Belleville boxerman is going to take his group from coast to coast across Canada, speaking of the many lies the Reds are telling us.

"This will not be the last meeting," he said, "there will be another, and another, until we have driven it across Canada. Everything we will talk about concerns what is going on right now on the floor," he said, indicating the playing.

Mr. Faulkner's son, Bert, was the top scorer in the basketball play-offs in Toronto. Alma College, where the youth attends school, is the senior YWCA championships on Saturday.

Farley Faulkner is not going to be the only speaker at the meeting on Thursday. Nicholas Frynchuck, an employee of the Massey Harris Company in Toronto, formerly employed in Belleville, and a man who escaped from the Siberian slave camps several years ago will be to address the expected packed house on Thursday.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Division "B" of the Frankford Minor League saw the Aristocrats strengthen their first place position. Milford Maracle took two more points from Earl Rogers' Merry Macs, who have been badly during the past few weeks. Selbourne Sharpe's Flyers are also taking on the role of "spoilers" as they handed Elmer Rogers' Senators a 5-3 setback when it really hurt. The Screwballs are making a bid for first place, having been the hottest team in the league for some weeks. Highlight of the evening's play was Jessie Reid's 264 game, and consequent membership in the 250 club.

Standing: Aristocrats 102; Screwballs 93; Merry Macs 90; Kareless Kids 65.

Residents Will Be Able to See Four Planets

You needn't "Let the Stars Get in Your Eyes," but if you are a star-gazer and not scared of a few cluttered planets, tonight is the night to keep your eyes aloft.

Take a look at the western sky right after dusk, if it is a clear night, and you will see a phenomenon that occurs once every eight years—four planets in a row — and all visible to the naked eye.

The four — Venus, Mercury, Mars and Jupiter — will become visible as dusk falls, although Venus may be seen all through the day if you know where to look high—a little east of the sun.

Of the four, Venus will be the easiest to spot as it proved to be at its brightest for the year. Mercury will be extremely faint.

Looking upwards, these four planets will appear as follows: Mercury is closest to the horizon with Mars not far above it. Then follows Venus with Jupiter the highest.

Both Mercury and Venus give off a bright white light, while Mars assumes a reddish color and Jupiter a dull yellow. Mercury, closest to the earth, but not close enough to bite, followed by Mercury, Mars and Jupiter in that order.

Newsmen Could Not Fulfill Wish of Boy

Chilly March winds have chilled the prevailing tulips and other harbingers of spring, that were reported dutting April showers, but nobody has didn't discourage a friendly little cricket found at Frankford this week.

Reggie Irvine, aged 11, found the cricket outside the kitchen door of his parents' home. The little boy took the cricket's appearance as a sign that spring had arrived so he packed him up and forwarded it to the reporter's office.

But the cricket's trip through the mails must have been too lengthy or else the weather was too cold for the little fellow on arrival.

So the request of the little boy that he be turned loose to enjoy the sunshine could not be fulfilled. Instead he was buried.

FIND ANCIENT TOMB

NICTSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — A tomb structure, dating back to the 10th century B.C., was accidentally unearthed by archeologists last week at Nicosia, near Larnaca, in southern Cyprus, the Department of Antiquities reported. Four chambers were found when the tomb was opened. Two were empty. The third contained the cremated remains of a single person, and pottery of the Early Iron age.

Linton Read Heads Y's Men's Club

Thursday night, at the weekly meeting of the Belleville Y's Men's Club the officers for the year 1953-54 were elected.

President, Ed. Littlejohn, presided over the meeting and elections. After the counting of the ballots, it was announced that the following members will form the executive for this year, Linton Read, president; Robert Clark, vice-president; Willis Hutchinson, secretary; Carm Lowther, treasurer; Gordon Trill, chairman program; Geo. Thompson, chairman of projects; Ted Wooding, chairman of Boys' Work; Scott Denton, chairman social committee; Archie Boyd, Chairman of World Outlook committee.

The announcement was made by president Littlejohn, and congratulations were extended by fellow members of the club.

Another highlight of the evening was an entertaining and interesting talk by Commander Buskard, compliments of the Coca-Cola Company, regarding the birth and growth of the carbonated beverages industry. Mr. Buskard was introduced by Mr. Gordon Trill.

Thanks of the club were given by Mr. Ed. Littlejohn.

JEEPS FOR JUNGLE

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — Second World War army trucks, jeeps and bulldozers are now being brought here as salvage from inland jungles on the South Pacific. A first load of American-built vehicles some of which had never been used — arrived in the 460-ton freighter Vila Star from Biak Island.

Associates Honor E. M. Clarke On Retirement

The Bay of Quinte Zone, Customs and Excise Officers' Association, is one of the largest meetings of its history, paid tangible tribute to years of efficient service to a retiring members on Friday night.

The guest of honor was Mr. E. M. (Mel) Clarke, chief clerk of the port of Belleville, who was honored by his associates and friends with the gift of a handsome watch on the eve of his retirement from active association.

The presentation was made by Mr. Arthur Briggs, national president of the association, who commended Mr. Clarke on his years of service.

Mr. Clarke joined the service in the early twenties, rising to the position of second officer of the excise staff at Corbyville, later transferring to the Belleville office in the capacity of chief clerk. Mr. Briggs also presented Mr. Clarke with a life membership for the Customs and Excise Association.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. A. C. McFee, former Director of Excise Duty, Ottawa; Mr. J. R. Williams, Deputy Director of Excise Duty, Ottawa; Inspector of J. F. R. Lynch, of Brockville; Mr. R. Hall, Chief Excise Officer at the port of Brockville; Mr. Fred Hall, Chief Excise Officer at the port of Cornwall; Mr. Jack Hutchinson, secretary; Mr. Van Allen, Margaret, — At Royal Dieu Hospital, Kingston, Sunday, March 8th, to Mr. and Mrs. Van Allen, 24 Grand Avenue, Rochester, N.Y., a daughter, Mary Margaret Ann.

Mr. Clarke's many friends in Belleville were present at the meeting and also presented him with a gift.

Collectors of customs and excise present, were: Mr. G. M. Miller, of the port of Belleville; Mr. P. Roberts, of the port of Trenton; Mr. J. Leonard, of the port of Corbyville; Mr. Ray Hall, chief excise officer at Corbyville.

The appreciation of the Bay of Quinte Zone was expressed to Mr. Wilfred Laporte, manager of the Canadian Legion Memorial Club, who lent the use of the private rooms for the occasion, also to the Carling Conservation Club, who provided the fine fishing and fishing in Canada.

The meeting was held under the direction of Mr. R. Hall, president of the Bay Quinte Zone of the Customs and Excise Officers' Association.

After the meeting, lunch was provided, when the many guests of Mr. Clarke, who worked with him at the distillery and port office, wished him a joyful and happy life of retirement.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Base metals led a moderate advance in forenoon stock market trading today.

Low-priced mining issues attracted support but few issues moved actively. Volume for the first hour totalled 600,000 shares. Uraniums, New Brunswick base metals and Northern Ontario rare metals gained.

Higher-priced base metals were strong and Falconbridge added 50 cents. Other gainers were Campbell Chibougamau, Steep Rock, East Rim and Opemiska.

Gunnar led uranium prospects higher although a few unproven issues weakened. Chimo and Goldfields gained. Leading Bathurst area issues were mixed as New Larder U gained and Brunswick slipped, but most others added pennies. Northern Ontario rare metals rose on gains in Inspiration and Tungsten. Tungsten added pennies in a turnover of 78,000 shares.

A wide list of western oils traded for general gains. Anglo-Canadian, Great Plains, New Superior and Security Free led the rise.

12 Persons Lose Lives Violently During Week-end

(By The Canadian Press)

Two women apparently hindered to death in Nfld., Johns. Nfld., were among 12 persons to lose their lives violently in Eastern Canada during the week-end.

A survey showed that six died in Ontario, three of them in traffic accidents, four in Quebec and two in Newfoundland.

The St. John's victims were Mrs. E. Kelly, 58, and her boarder, Esther Heffernan, 65. Thomas Kelly, 34, was charged with the murder of Miss Heffernan after the bodies were discovered in the hall of his mother's home.

Three children were burned to death when fire raced through their wooden home in St. Omer de L'Islet, Que. They were Lucien Chalnard, 4, Lucille, 5, and Fernande, three months. Both parents were out, but the father returned in time to rescue a fourth child.

Ontario deaths: Arthur Scott, 61, of Cornwall, of injuries suffered when he fell off a ladder on to a pitchfork; Marilyn Buckingham, 20, of Tilsonburg, when the car in which she was riding crashed into a hydro pole; Harmon Zeiter, 45, of Ingersoll and Emil Laskman, 23, of Norwich, when their car was smashed by a speeding passenger train near Tillsonburg; Charles Rombout, 56 of Wallaceburg, was drowned in a ditch; Bruce Little, 5, of Sudbury, was drowned in a function creek.

William Croteau, 68, of Sheenboro, Que., was drowned when his auto went through the ice of Lake Mazo.

Small But Powerful Group Of Courtiers Helping Queen Prepare for the Coronation

By JAMES NORTHCOTT

LONDON (Reuters) — A small but powerful group of courtiers, almost unknown to the British public, is helping the Queen prepare for the Coronation on June 2.

"As men round the throne have been throughout British history, they wield great influence. They have the Queen's ear and she often guided by them.

Unlike their counterparts in the history books, they do not spend their time in court intrigues, or fearing that a sudden whim of the monarch may drop them from favor.

Most important official in the royal household is the Queen's private secretary, 45-year-old Sir Alan Lascelles. He is the direct link between the Queen and her ministers.

Lascelles was private secretary to the late King for nine years, and for nine years before that he was assistant private secretary to the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales.

Called Eyes of Govt.

He is the only person in Buckingham Palace outside the Queen with access to state secrets.

Sir Alan has been called the "eyes and ears of the sovereign." As such, his job in Coronation year is doubly important.

The titular head of the royal household, the man responsible to the Queen for its management and administration, is the lord chamberlain. This post is held by the 59-year-old Earl of Scarbrough, who is able to trace his ancestry back to King Ethelred II (968-1016).

As Capt. Sir Roger Lumley, before he succeeded to the title, he was governor of Bombay through times of riot in India. He has been, at various times, soldier and parliamentarian and now he is the grand master of English Freemasons.

One of the most powerful men near the throne is Sir Piers Legh, 61-year-old master of the Queen's household. He has had longer service in the household than any other top official, and has the reputation of not being afraid to speak his mind to the sovereign when he thinks duty requires it.

Sir Piers was the only member of the court to accompany King Edward VIII into exile after his abdication in 1936.

In Charge of Servants

His royal post places him in charge of all domestic servants and arrangements at the Queen's palaces and residences.

Son of Lord Newton, he joined Edward VIII, then Prince of Wales, as an equerry and was once aide-de-camp to the Duke of Connaught, then governor-general of Canada.

The financial brain of Buckingham Palace is 46-year-old Lord Tryon. As keeper of the privy purse, it is he who signs the Queen's cheques.

He administers the £415,000 a year granted to her by Parliament, out of which comes her £50,000 personal allowance, the £185,000 for royal household salaries, and the £231,000 for running expenses.

He is a former army brigadier who became a business man in the City, London's financial district.

The crown equerry, Sir Dermot Kavanagh, 62, is in charge of the royal mews at Buckingham Palace where 20 horses, several coaches, including the gilded 4½-ton state coach in which the Queen will ride through London to Westminster Abbey for her Coronation, and the 17 royal cars are kept.

His ancestors were kings of Leinster (Eire) in the 12th century.

One of the women nearest the throne is Mary, duchess of Devonshire, whom the Queen appointed recently as her mistress of the robes.

Widow of the 10th duke of Devonshire, she will personally supervise the robing of the Queen at her Coronation. Another of her duties is to arrange the rotation of the Queen's ladies-in-waiting.

To all these household officials and many more, lords and equeries in waiting, women of the bedchamber, gentlemen-at-arms and yeomen of the guard, Coronation year is bringing hard work as well as the honor of serving the Queen on a historic and memorable occasion.

British Airman Guilty But Insane In Murder Trial

BELFAST (CP)—A jury Saturday night found a 21-year-old British airman guilty but insane in the stabbing murder of a high court justice's daughter over a rebuffed kiss.

Ian Gordon was ordered to be detained "during Her Majesty's pleasure" — that is, indefinitely.

Patricia Curran, 19, was found last Nov. 12 on the grounds of the lonely estate of her father, Justice Lance Curran. There were 37 stab wounds in her body.

Gordon was one of several hundred airmen housed in a former country mansion near the Curran home and had been introduced to the girl by her brother.

The prosecution said Gordon told police he met Patricia near her home and she asked him to escort her. He began to kiss her and found he could not stop kissing her, he told police.

Ottawa Cuts Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa board of control Friday night announced a record surplus of $1,153,223 on 1952 operations and cut the city tax rate for both public and separate school supporters. Public school supporters this year will pay 50.75 mills, a three-mill cut from last year. The tax rate for separate school supporters is 50.76 mills, a decrease of 2.55 from last year.

In announcing the surplus, Mayor Charlotte Whitton told the city council with a wink that "maybe it is a high time for Prime Minister St. Laurent and Opposition Leader George Drew to bid for her service."

Public Will Be Allowed to See Havoc Created

NEW YORK (AP)—The U. S. atomic energy commission will allow the public to see for the first time, via television, the havoc created by an atomic explosion during its tests March 17 at Yucca Flat, Nev.

A pooled telecast, over ABC, CBS and NBC, will be made of the blast itself, expected at 8.20 a.m. EST. Later in the day cameras will be allowed to move in close to show the damage caused to two typical frame dwellings, several automobiles and various types of bomb shelters in the target area.

An atomic explosion at the same site was telecast a year ago over improvised relay facilities, providing somewhat spotty and shaky pictures of the blast, but cameras were not allowed to show the effects of the explosion.

High Egg Prices Will Continue

TORONTO (CP)—Consumers are paying 10 cents a dozen more for eggs than at this time last year and prices will continue to rise until next fall, Toronto producers and retailers report.

The reason: A decline in hen population and a four-cent increase in the retail price six weeks ago.

Today's prices for grade A large eggs are 63 to 71 cents a dozen.

Poultryman W. G. Bartley said by next fall consumers will be paying 15 cents a dozen more than last fall. But he predicted that would be the peak.

Mr. Bartley said he felt higher prices would be retained owing to good export shipments. A rise in poultry prices is also predicted.

BREAKING DOWN THE STATISTICS

Every few weeks the mail brings another statistical breakdown of the mass of information compiled in the 1951 census. Anything that, according to their own figures, there are only 742 statisticians in the whole of Canada it begins to appear as though they are bent upon keeping themselves busy through this decade on doing little else than breaking down the statistics into interesting items of Canadian trivia.

However it is only fair to observe that historians in another day will note, perhaps with some significance, that in 1951, trapping was still a pursuit of importance because the census showed that 4,535 persons were engaged full time in trapping and fishing. More interesting, perhaps, will be the fact that in this year of jet propulsion the horse-drawn vehicle was by no means a thing of the past. There were, for instance, 12,823 tearsters and draymen as compared with a mere 9,366 locomotive engineers.

For all that some might take a dim view of the carryings-on of our generation, the whole country required only 20,074 policemen and detectives to enforce law and order. At the same time there were only 596 bootblacks. Hardly a shining example of a fastidious nation!

Housewives of another era will no doubt note with interest that in this decade there were nearly 8,000 engaged in ringing doorbells and plied themselves as canvassers, demonstrators and solicitors. More in number, but less of a household nuisance, were 12,000 citizens engaged as artists, authors, editors and what the records describes as "journalists", but which is probably intended to mean working newspaper people such as reporters and deskmen.

There were a few outstanding women in the year 1951, notably one woman prospector, one woman quarrier, one woman rock driller, and one woman engineer, or derrickwoman. Or should it be derrickwoman? In due time the statisticians will probably break that category down to more specific terms also.

A SALUTE WITH A FLOURISH

With hardly less prominence than in our own country the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II is receiving in the public prints and all other media of publication in the United States. 'Much attention is being given to British tradition, the monarchy, the Royal Family and kindred subjects.

For the most part all this is highly acceptable to the average American citizen but occasionally there are some who protest and are inclined to sneer at all things British and particularly on an occasion such as the Coronation. A typical letter of this kind criticized the Christian Science Monitor recently for its "sympathetic treatment of the British Coronation this year and the pomp and ceremony that is to accompany it." A few days later one of the Monitor's readers wrote a reply to it which smacked controversial aspects of question and at the same time gave a fitting answer in these words:

"Queen Elizabeth II, Head of a Commonwealth of nearly 600 million people, nearly a quarter of the population of the globe. The vast majority of these people live in self-governing realms, territories, or republics, freely and voluntarily associated with the British Commonwealth, free to leave if if they thought it to their advantage. This Commonwealth sets an example of political co-operation and good will unequalled in the history of mankind, now or at any time.

"When I pass a young lady of my acquaintance, I take my hat off to her. When 500 million people salute a young lady on the occasion of her undertaking a lifetime of arduous service in their interests, they naturally take off their hats to her too — with somewhat more of a flourish."

DEALING WITH ROBOTS

More than ever before, people are "helping themselves" to cigarettes, candy, gum, and other items carried in vending machines. There are now more than 2,750,000 robots dispensing goods in the United States. Last year 60 made 19 billion individual sales, according to a report in the N.Y. Journal of Commerce, and took in $1¼ billion. This figure may be doubled, tripled, or even quadrupled within the next few years, the report says.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

Canadian women will note with interest statistics which may help to get husbands out of their easy chairs. A survey appearing in the U.S. shows that 54.1 per cent of "masters of the house" do the food shopping; 38.5 per cent help with the children; 37.2 per cent do the dishes; 31 per cent do general housework; and only 14.6 per cent do "nothing."

JUST FOLKS

GARDENING

This I'll say for gardening:
It keeps the soul from hardening
And keeps the days from growing stale
With pain and strife and care.
A patch of ground where Blossoms grow
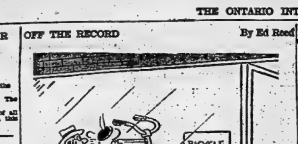
Proves there is something more to know
Than pain and loss and food and sleep
And burdens hard to bear.



A garden takes a man away
From all the trials of the day,
The envies and the jealousies
And bickerings of men.
It lets him fully learn to express
In little bits of loveliness,
And cheers him at the noon tide
With song of thrush and wren.

It saves him from the bleak despair
Of needless pain and hopeless care,
And gives to him the happier world
Of phlox and columbine.
It gives to him the glorious thrills
Of victories in daffodils
And grants to him a closer view
Of things that are divine.

This I'll say for gardening:
It keeps the soul from hardening.
The mind from growing cynical.
The heart from turning cold
For though the world seems
Man's garden plot will comfort
And tenderness
Of blossoming marigold.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 9th., 1933

The regular meeting of the Minden Lodge in connection with Holloway Street Church was held at the home of Mrs. E. M. Hubbs, Howard Street, with Mrs. Harold Howard presiding. Miss Aileen Provins and Miss K. Anderson gave sketches of the work of Dr. Duclos in Alberta and of the missions in that province.

The seventh annual Bay of Quinte Seed Fair will be held in the Armouries here next week. This is the third time Belleville has selected such a place of meeting.

Mrs. Charles W. Lee, Cedar Street, spent the week-end in Detroit, Mich.

Miss Mary Hawkins, of Tweed, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. S. A. Bandy, of Montreal, is the guest of Mr. C. H. Robinson in this city.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 9, 1923

The band in connection with Eureka Lodge, No. 223, A.F. and A.M., was organized four years ago and recently the anniversary was marked by a banquet which was tendered to the members of the band. Those present were: Bro. Bandmaster Wm. Ellis, presided over the chair. Speeches were made and songs rendered and the evening was most enjoyable. The following composed the band: Mother Jr., Day, piano; H. A. Thompson, trombone; M. W. Young, violin; W. B. Riggs, violin; E. R. Mallory, cornet; E. K. Wemett, cornet; D. J. Sword, cornet; H. J. Deshane, cornet; G. W. Elliott, violin; Jas. Reynolds, horn; G. E. Dobbs, saxophone; E. T. Symons, saxophone; W. H. Hart, clarinet; W. Wonnacott, clarinet; W. Hubbs, flute; James C. Cordes, horn; W. G. Grant, drums; W. B. Hubbs, leader. Associates (associate member) drums.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 9, 1913

A Prentice Boys' Lodge was instituted at Napanee last week. Mr. James Warham, P.G.M., and Mr. O. C. Brickman, Grand Chaplain of the order, Belleville, were present.

Mr. S. Leslie, Park Street, still leave shortly to reside in Western Ontario. Last evening about sixty of his friends met at his home and presented him with a handsome club bag.

Mr. J. J. Lewis has arrived here from the Old Country to visit his son, Mr. J. Lewis, Lewis St.

Mrs. E. A. Brickman, of Phillips, Adams & Company of Prince Edward County, is here to visit her sister, Miss E. Templeton of Pinnacle and D. Institute. Mrs. Brickman left here twenty years ago.

Mr. Ray Tuite has left for Vancouver, B.C., where he will join a survey party which will be engaged in work in connection with the Alaska boundary.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 9, 1903

Mr. Will Power is home on a visit and many friends are glad to welcome him.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dolan have returned home from Sioux City, Iowa, where they visited their daughter, Mrs. Edward McHugh.

With the river open, the robins in sight, the sap running and the boys playing marbles, surely gentle spring must be here.

On Saturday at the close of business the employees of D. V. Sinclair and Company presented a handsome gold locket to their fellow employee, Mr. W. J. Gould, who is leaving after eleven years with the firm to accept a position with a large drygoods firm in Woodstock, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. William Oliphant, former residents of Belleville, but now residing in the Old Country for the past five years, have returned here to make their home.

Mr. R. H. Clute, Q.C., of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is in town on legal business.

Coronation Candles

(Kingston While-Standard)

At first glance, it seems strange that the candles for the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II should be furnished by a firm in a little town in New York State. One would think that some British firm would be able to supply these important items for that great spectacle to be presented to London in June. But a little would especially be the case when Britain is so busy about defiance. Nevertheless, the candles—2,300 of them—are being created now in an obscure factory shop about half a block from the railroad station in Mamaroneck, and it seems that there is nothing at all strange about the matter.

The firm that made the candles is Andrews, Ajello and Brothers, and a spokesman, Ralph Ajello explains that "We always do the special jobs for Westminster Abbey. We did them for Elizabeth's wedding, and we did them for her father's funeral. You see, we sort of specialize in that type of candle." All of which, while it may explain matters, does not explain why Ajello in a class by himself when it comes to Coronation candles.

When he said "we sort of specialize" he was referring to a family that has enjoyed a reputation for five generations as candle makers to royalty and kingdom. He was also referring to a firm that has been commissioned on the candle-of-state business by anyone in well as in North and South America. It supplies St. Peter's in Vatican City, St. Patrick's in New York and the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Montreal, among others, and other customers, which should thoroughly entitle the firm to call itself purveyors to candlesticks without the slightest qualification.

The design for the coronation candles that were ordered was a blue, red and gold replica of the Crown for a base, on which there is a candle-stick, also gilded, in the lower half and white in the upper half. The candle is described in the company's "Florentine design," which is explained as an irregular flaky effect. All are of the same design, but they vary in height from 12 inches to six feet.

Under the circumstances, it is not at all surprising that the Coronation candles will come from Mamaroneck. A few weeks from now Mr. Ajello hop to make the 5,20 p.m. train which the firm occupies the position it does. He can, his head delightedly over one of the Coronation candles and said: "I think we can be proud of this one."

Scots Trace Family Trees

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Scots have a great pride in their nationality. Even Scots who are several generations removed from their homeland seek to trace their families back to th land of the heather. As a result the Scots Ancestry Research Society, brought into being in 1945, meets a steady demand for the tracing of genealogies by persons from various parts of the world who are in search of their lineage. And the society seldom fails to produce a family tree.

More than a thousand applications a year are received by the society was formed for Scots who emigrate never seem to lose their intense love of their homeland and even if they cannot visit it they want to know all about their ancestors and where they came from. The earliest data traced back for a client went to 1100 and recently an American from Pennsylvania was traced back to the year 1200. Reports are normally go back to about the middle of the 16th century. Investigations usually take about twelve months and the fee charged is about five or six guineas, and never more than ten, for reports on the origin of a surname, on either the mother's or father's side. Some reports cover only a third or fourth generation from the original emigrant and the Society's offices are busy at the time of the Edinburgh Festival, when visitors come to make requests in person. A great number of these are from people overseas with pardonable pride in their establish their descent from some famous Scot. Thus the name Burns Brooklyn "wants to know if Rob Burns comes into the family tree." A Stuart living in Pakistan writes wondering if he is a descendant of Bonnie Prince Charlie. A Miss MacDonald in Peru would like to know if she is descended from the ancestor of hers. It's the same quest in the Scots Society's offices and so on. All the research involved, consulting records and examining wills, family histories, documents and even tombstones is carried out by the workers, and only three of these are full time.

Moods Of March

(Ottawa Journal) .

Each season of the year, each month of a season, has its own distinctive flavour and moods. There is something about the blue-skies of March, the canals flocks of white-puff clouds, the increasing warmth from the sun and the feel of a new season that lifts a man's heart. True, the moods of March vary unpredictably. There are years when the first part of the month holds steady cold. There are other years when Spring seems to arrive suddenly and to stay for days along toward April. But whether the month be heavy and sunny, or raw with cold winds, you know each day brings things the resurrection nearer.

Buds are swelling on the willows and the south side of the woodlot shows a widening band of brown where the sloughs and swampy woods, red maples fling out branches of scarlet-ribbon flowers. And the sap in the shed door begins to crack its bud scales.

Across northern areas man and boy were long busy on sugar orchards and grey clouds of steam billow from open doors of frame shacks where boiling of cold, weathered sapbuoses. Male canadians, from the days of the grass-lined nests and go search-ing for a mate; skunks begin to waddle out in the bright sunshine and the first bees of the season begin to hum around the willows. Then comes the robin and the bluebird comes on the orchard behind the barn.

Tea at 4:30 Is the Secret

(Ottawa Journal)

"After tea at 4.30 he will normally get some exercise and fresh air, either playing golf, tennis or golf or sailing — according to the season."

This account of the life of a British governor of a colony from Mr. Churchill's book records that the unfortunate man had to be up at 5.30 a.m. to start his office in a dressing gown until 8 a.m. breakfasted and was back at his office at 9.30, conducted business until 1 p.m., entertained guests from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m., to business at full speed, tried to fit in an hour's rest before tea to his desk at 6.15, dressed for dinner at 7.30, and, played hoot until 11 p.m. or 12 midnight.

We admit to feeling sorely tried when about one day a month here in Ottawa although we take care never to be caught in movement at 4.30 p.m. when it becomes full saleep — to the embarrassment of the driver of the passing sleeper. We thus have reason to admire the administrators of the empire who manage to run never sets, and their ability to keep a stiff upper lip in the face of adversity.

The secret must be, we are convinced, tea at 4.30. We have seen the bricklayers and the peers of England sink their pints of tea at tescups in times of stress and comfort revived by the cup that cheers. As observers we have thought they might be using their time to better advantage, but reading history and you instead of looking with disdain and anger and a turgid brew. The trouble is that they are not to be in control on indefinitely, fortified by their pauses and their gentle sips while we reach for the pill that will feeling we have been building the Pyramids under the direction of a slave master.

Post Office Assisted

(Calgary Albertan)

As an antidote to all the distressing news of these days, we appreciated item from Wolseley, Saskatchewan.

Charles Kenneth Thompson of Broadview, Sask., and Colona and a girl by the name of Carolyn Ann Thompson, from a Scotia. Because their initials and the same last name, the mail was frequently mixed up. Getting it straightened out meant a lot of letter writing and much work. So they were married. That was the end of the problem.

Now I have not had a baby, as a good many readers have realized, but I have had the reassurance a prospective mother gets from Dr. Read's book and other expositions of doctor directed method of the art of moderating the pains of labor, regardless of the method employed in her delivery.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

START LIVING

George Bernard Shaw used to speak of people who died at 30 but were not buried at 60. A lot of these corpses still continue to walk around. Some of them hold public office. Others preside over corporations and year by year, because they refuse to entertain any new ideas, lead their companies directly to the junk yard. Some of these corpses are even ordained and seated in pulpits on Sunday. Most amazing of all, some are drawing salaries as teachers. And what is most alarming of all, are influencing the educational life of the nation.

Are you dead? A silly question? But it is silly as it sounds. People sometimes have dreams in which they believe they are dead, and they pinch themselves and try to wake up and be alive again. A lot of us would do well if we started pinching. There are areas in the lives of us all which are as dead as Montmagari. There are corpses running about our streets, going to lodge parties, dancing at the night spots, or perhaps growing moldy in libraries as they pursue their quest for a sterile variety of knowledge.

Wake up, folks. That vehicle coming down the street is not a conveyance for the dead to bearse, and the undertaker is bothered only if he has failed to run after you, to these many years.

You can fool him if you will. Start living.

At Home In the North

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A husband and wife who live at Fort Simpson in the Northwest Territories told Winnipeggers they couldn't wait to get back home. Since 1947 J. A. Gilbey has run a Federal Government experimental station at the Mackenzie river settlement some 600 miles northwest of Edmonton.

To lovers of soft living in the lower regions of Canada the blustier at 40 below is very thought of living anywhere close to the Arctic Circle but Mr. and Mrs. Gilbey had interesting things to say. They have their home indoor plumbing, hot and cold running water, central heating, electricity and a telephone.

"The climate is marvellous," they said. Right above is a warmer temperature during the season, than early in June to late in August. They felt the cold more in Winnipeg than they did at Fort Simpson.

Personal Health Talks

NATURAL CHILDBIRTH AND ANESTHESIA

An obstetrician, deploring my advocacy of natural childbirth and rooming-in, enumerates as one of what he calls scientific obstetrics: adequate medication, good anesthetics, forceps and episiotomy. (Episiotomy is cutting or nicking the outlet on one side so that if a tear occurs it will not do much harm). From the context I infer that the above critic thinks natural childbirth precludes the use of these aids.

If the reader is fortunate enough to have Dr. Grantly Dick Read's Childbirth Without Fear at hand (some one has swiped my copy) it will be made clear (I believe) that the patient can have an anesthetic whenever she wants it. Let's not be naive about it. Natural childbirth is not barbaric.

The obstetricians, who intimidates me at the outset by mentioning casually that he has delivered—hand onto your chair, ladies—3,500 babies, and not mention a procedure which seems to be increasingly necessary in scientific obstetrics, namely labor in areas section.

Reading Dr. Read's book, published by Harper, and available at the public library, is bound to have a wholesome, reassuring influence on prospective parents, whether they go for natural childbirth or the method their doctor thinks best for them.

In the booklet, Preparing for Maternity, I quote part of a letter from a mother:

"When I was carrying my first child I used to dramatize myself as about to enter the Valley of the Shadow . . . Now I can tell the world there's nothing simpler or more rewarding than natural childbirth, and it's time to admit it. Every effort I made in trying to victimize our husbands and children by telling them how terribly we have suffered for them. This is to convey to you the joyful message that your subjects about natural childbirth . . .

This mother's statement that there's nothing simpler reminds me of several occasions when older doctors called me to give the anesthetic for their obstetrics. I obtained consent to start anesthesia before preparations were completed and had the satisfaction more than once of seeing the patient, who had been making little or no progress for hours, bear down with her contracted with fear, quiet down under the obstetric siege of anesthesia, following instructions and by the time the doctor was ready to begin operating was in the first stage of labor under her own power, so to speak.

Now I have not had a baby, as a good many readers have realized, but I have had the reassurance a prospective mother gets from Dr. Read's book and other expositions of doctor directed method of the art of moderating the pains of labor, regardless of the method employed in her delivery.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THOUGHTS WHILE ILL

We need the pain and discipline of illness. For two weeks now I have been experiencing what many another has had, and suddenly led from the route to my office to a sick bed. Confined to my home and told to stay there until all omens invite me out again.

We should learn to be philosophical about illness. Resign to say what the degree. I have been confined in hospitals for many weeks at a time. Some of the best things that normally pass through my mind as material for important lose their cast when you are ill. I have thrown aside from the little book of my Marcus Aurelius very comforting. He said, "Nothing happens to any man which he is not formed by nature to bear."

I have kept that in mind. How very wonderfully constructed is the body of man. It is not formed to last a long time. It deserves and expects, endless attention and kindnesses.

When we are ill we have to be extra kind to our body, and give to it every consideration.

Thoughts tumble in the mind as we lie on our back and meditate. Some of these thoughts are of new and fresh, like new-born babies, that they stimulate all activities. Others are meditations, whether thoughts or people who always seem to come to the feelings of years comes to me while awaiting a return to health. I haven't time to remove the many volumes from my shelves, as I, in thinking, or as some of them have long ago become condensed and filed away in my mind.

I have found that I would never tire to turn, like friends, who always seem to come to be at for us in an emergency. How lucky many of us may always be! Whatever may be the final ending of the day when I shall return to work again. God only knows! We are ill and often loans us a group of angels who give us hope and ethereal cheer!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Having just been on a motor trip of some thousands of miles with companions who are confirmed listeners to the radio, I have had no choice but to form sundry opinions about radio that might just interest those who come to me. Usually, I just switch off the thing and the conversation comes on. But I have had to soak in about five thousand miles of it.

The first thought was this. Some years ago the popular dance bands were trying their best to make themselves into bass and saxophone utter sounds that imitated the human voice speaking. I suppose that they could do, if I recall, was to get some courage and say that word "Oo-wucks-OO-wucks", and "Nya-nya-nya." Now they did their darndest to make band instruments speak human words. They failed.

But now they have simply reversed the effort. They have decided this time, in making singers, who can utter words, sound like trumpets, trombones and saxophones.

The geniuses in command of popular music have scoured the singing world for girls and men who have voices, after training, can take on the formed listeners to the radio, or woodwind instrument. I have heard singers — and my company might just as well be raised at the very top of the profession — who can imitate a trumpet tone-voices at all, but almost perfectly imitated. Or they are trained by muted trumpet or trombone resemblance is uncanny. During their long hours on the air in which it is impossible to distinguish the singers' voices from the instruments accompanying him or her.

It is doubtless a triumph in which the band industry takes great pride, but I think that we make instruments speak words, and we make words—refused to imitate instruments. And vast numbers of listeners appear to be unconcerned by the effort. It amongst whom I am happy not to be counted. I still love best the singers whose voices can not be imitated by anything or anybody. Not many of them, it is true; but enough.

In proportion to her population, Ireland is wealthy in agriculture. That applies likewise to New Zealand, Australia, Canada and others in the top brackets. The Irish may have more than cows, carriers, cattle, mink coats or other luxuries in the variety of food. They long have been famous for their cattle, hogs and sheep.

Another aspect of these figures is that consumption is relatively high proportion of their population on the land consumed their big enough land for their population are good eaters. High food prices may restrict urban diets, but they mean those in rural parts can eat well.

Fairbanks Make British Social History by Throwing Party For Queen Elizabeth, Duke

By ROBERT JONES

LONDON (AP)—How do you get the Queen to drop in for dinner at your place?

American film star Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and his wife, Mary Lee, know the answer to that one—but they aren't telling.

The Fairbanks made British social history a few weeks back by throwing a dinner party for the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and Princess Margaret at the plush London mansion they bought from the Duke of Leeds two years ago.

It was the first recorded time that a British monarch has stepped outside court circles to dine and wine at a private house, and it set the seal on the social career which the Fairbanks have been building in London.

On Chatting Terms

It's a career which brought them on chatting terms with royalty, got them week-end invitations to Cowpins, the country home of the Duchess of Kent, and has taken them on polo friends of London's night spots and society dances.

It's a life that glitters—but takes a back seat with Fairbanks when real work comes along.

To Fairbanks—film star, unofficial diplomat and philanthropist—real work means a daily grind of business conferences, transatlantic telephone calls and hasty luncheon snatched at an office desk.

That doesn't bring much glamor, but it has brought him a British knighthood, a chest sprinkled with decorations from Europe, Latin America and Korea, and the unofficial title of U. S. ambassador of goodwill.

The decorations have followed in the wake of Fairbanks' work for better international relations round the world. At the moment he is in charge of American relief for Korea.

Making Relations

To Fairbanks, his main work—one of the most worthwhile things in life" is how he described it—is helping Anglo-American relations.

"I believe in Britain," he once said, "and I believe that by coming here often and living and working with you I can get a slant on how you are thinking."

This belief—a three-page citation called it "untiring work on behalf of Anglo - American amity" — brought him his knighthood six years ago, when King George VI made him a Knight Commander of the British Empire.

He doesn't use the "sir," however, because as an American citizen the title is honorary. He does get a place in Debrett's Peerage alongside Dwight Eisenhower, Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich and other American "knights."

The "untiring work on behalf of Anglo-American amity" really began 43 years ago when Fairbanks paid his first visit to Britain. He was only a few weeks old then. He came back later to go to school here. Now he spends at least half his time in Britain and calls it his second home.

Fishing Vessel Capsizes, Sinks, Two Are Drowned

LADYSMITH, B.C. (CP) — A fishing vessel jammed with passengers capsized and sank off Ladysmith Saturday night but 31 of the 33 persons it carried were rescued by two men in a rowboat. The other two were drowned.

Dumped into the frigid water 150 yards off the gangplank of their boat were 32 Indians who had piled aboard the fish-boat for a 10-mile voyage to their homes at Kuper Island.

The craft, which also carried a heavy deckload of lumber, was making a turn when it capsized, going under almost at once.

Ralph Jones and Cassel Alec of Nanaimo made three trips in the rowboat to pick up the struggling passengers, rescuing all but a boy and an elderly woman.

Drowned were Earle August, 6, son of the fishboat's owner, and Mrs. Lurlen Peter, 75, both of Kuper Island.

BANCROFT

Accused Given Three Months For Car Theft

BANCROFT — Charged with the theft last spring or a fellow construction worker's car, Donald Gallinger, 21-year-old Barrie resident, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Magistrate R. C. Jackson in police court here on Wednesday.

The Magistrate convicted Gallinger on the lesser count of taking the car without consent of the owner, after Edward Sutcliffe had informed the court that he had loaned Gallinger the car to go from Bird's Creek to Bancroft for cigarettes and did not see it again until it was recovered by Toronto police two days later. Gallinger was arrested shortly before Christmas at Orillia on a similar charge and was returned here to stand trial on completion of his jail term there.

Murray Kelusky, Bancroft merchant was fined $50 and costs on a conviction of a charge of failing to file the required income tax forms laid by R.C.M.P. officers. He pleaded guilty to the charges.

Conviction on a charge of driving while his ability was impaired, resulted in a fine of $50 and costs for Cecil Woodcock after the Magistrate extended benefit of doubt to the defendant and reduced the charge from one of drunk driving. Accused was defended by J. D. O'Flynn. Woodcock was arrested by police last week after they found him at the wheel of his car stopped crosswise in the road near the village limits.

Charge Withdrawn

A charge of careless driving was withdrawn against Edward Reid, L'Amble, when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. The guilty plea resulted in a fine of $50 and costs being imposed on the accused. The fine and costs were paid to the court.

Charles Johnson, formerly of Bancroft, paid a fine of $100 and costs to the court on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. Johnson was arrested by Chief Constable Chapman at a hockey game in the arena last week after he was seen coming in. Illegal liquor in an interdicted person prohibited from purchasing liquor.

Carman Griggs, Belleville, won dismissal of a charge of careless driving laid as the result of an accident on the highway last month in which the Griggs vehicle was overturned and wrecked. He was defended by Bernard Hurley.

Mr. Louis Marsakas acted for the Crown in the absence of S. G. Robertson.

BURGLARS REMANDED

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Leonard Bourgeois, 23, and Dean Rohrer, 24, pleaded guilty here Friday to stripping household effects from three Lake Simcoe summer cottages, one belonging to Toronto's Mayor Allan Lamport. Both were remanded for sentencing next Wednesday. Police have recovered more than $5,000 worth of the loot.

Vic Frederick Explains Use of Resuscitator

Bancroft — Vic Frederick, of Peterborough, District Deputy Governor of Lions Clubs, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Lions Club here on Monday night. On the occasion of his annual visit to the club he commended the club on their good work and many projects in the past year and spoke on the many aspects of work of the organization.

Cecil McAlpine thanked the speaker and made a small presentation of a pair of cuff links on behalf of the club.

Dr. C. W. Anderson lectured the meeting on the use of the resuscitator which is maintained by the club for emergency use. Dr. Anderson's lecture was followed up by a demonstration by O.P.P. Constable J. Hawkins on use of the machine. Constable Hawkins announced that a class would be held at the police office later in the week in an effort to have every member familiar with operation of the machine.

During the business part of the meeting favorable reports were heard from committees in charge of various projects including T.B. seal and European relief.

Prayer was offered for a father and son night to be held March 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Mackenzie were Sunday visitors at the home of their son, William, Paudash.

Messrs. Baker and Woods, of Toronto, made a flying visit to the area last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Stringer have left on a vacation to Florida.

Sapper Eugene Tanner, R.C.E., Ottawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Tanner.

A MESSAGE TO FRIENDS IN FLORIDA

I send you word, you—who are far away,
That o'er the meadow that lay brown and bare,
The wings of March are drifting all the day
Filling the foot-path o'er the meadow, mere
The children lingered in their winter play.

But these are things that you have known before,
The winds of March, the bluster and the blow
Rattling the windows and the close-shut door,
Blinding the view with clouds of drifting snow;

But lest you forget beneath a southern sun
The music of the March winds (fitful strain);
The fires of sunset when the day is done,
The hopes that stir the winter heart again—
I send to you this word on spirit wing
That you may feel with me the hope of Spring.

—Helen B. Anderson.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Shabby Way to Treat a Young Man!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past year, I've been going with a fellow who is in service. Not long ago, when he was home on leave before going overseas, he gave me a friendship ring. . . .

Since he went, I have been having dates with other fellows, and this boy's mother is mad at me, as she says I'm engaged and have no right to have dates. The trouble is that I would really like to break up with this fellow, because we have never got along very well and have had frequent quarrels, but I don't think I should do it while he is overseas.

Should I wait until he comes home to break up with him, and do you think I'm doing wrong in going out on dates and enjoying myself?—B.H.

Dear B.H.—Where I think you did wrong was in accepting the ring from this young man in the first place — if you knew he considered a friendship ring as virtually the same as an engagement ring. Certainly you knew at the time that you didn't get along well, and must have had your doubts already as to whether or not you wished to marry him. If your idea was simply to send him away happy, and then do as you pleased thereafter, I think you treated him shabbily.

Things being as they are, I certainly think you had better tell him directly that you have changed your mind, instead of running the chance of his hearing from his mother, or someone else, that you are dating other boys while letting him believe you are still his girl. The only decent thing for you to do would be to clear up the whole situation by writing him the truth about how you feel and setting the matter once and for all. Naturally he's going to be hurt. But he won't be as deeply hurt to know that you cared enough to be honest with him, as he will be eventually when he finds out that you made a practice of deceiving him during his absence.

Better Mind Your Mother, Jackie

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 15, and a few years ago I started writing to a boy in the Philippines whom I heard about through a friend. We have grown very fond of each other.

Recently he asked me if I would help him come to the United States. My mother didn't like it at all, and has forbidden me to write to him any more. My girl friends say I should write to him and have his answers come to their houses. Do you think that would be all right?—Jackie.

Dear Jackie—Of course there would be nothing whatever that you could do to help this boy come to the United States, so I can't feel that point is of much importance in itself. Your mother probably feels, however, that it is in poor taste for such a very casual acquaintance to start asking any favors of you whatever, and she may be afraid it means that he may follow this up with other requests for various kinds of help. She might be right, too, you know, and you might sometime find yourself in a very uncomfortable position.

My opinion is that you should do as your mother believes best, and that you certainly should not continue behind her back a correspondence she disapproves.

Last-Minute Desserts

By Mary Moore

Desserts are such a problem at this time of year that they should be given serious consideration. I have to admit that I am a dessert addict, but often find myself in the midst of a dilemma.

What can be made for dessert in the least—possible amount of time? There is always the comforting thought that a bowl of fresh fruit is better than anything for it is better for us all and the added dividend of no preparation . . . but we can't work that dodge every dinner time and still hang on to our jobs.

Cottage Pudding is fine if the oven happens to be hot. I've given you my best recipe for it.

But another little beauty that I've re-discovered lately is Orange Ambrosia Custard. It may be made before you put the vegetables on to cook, for it is then chilled and ready to serve by dessert time. It has quite a company air too. . . .

Baked Lemon Pudding is another cricket, full of flavor, that makes my mouth water to think about.

COTTAGE PUDDING

(With Butterscotch Sauce)

One-quarter cup butter or margarine or good quality shortening, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1-2 cup milk, 1 3-4 cup flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cream butter or shortening very well and beat the sugar into it. Beat in the egg. Sift flour and measure it then sift it with the baking powder and salt and add it alternately with the milk. Turn into buttered baking pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 35 minutes. Cool on rack, transfer to serving dish and serve with

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

(1) Melt 1 1-2 tablespoons butter, add 4 teaspoons cornstarch or to keep it very clear use only 2 teaspoons arrowroot flour, then add shake of salt, 1 1-2 cup brown sugar, and 1 cup boiling water and stir until thick. Cook over boiling water, stirring occasionally, until there is no taste of raw starch—about 20 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, and if desired, a little more butter and on salt. (2) Another richer version of butterscotch sauce is to melt 1-4 cup butter and add 1 1-4 cups brown sugar to it. When blended stir in 2-3 cup each corn syrup and evaporated milk or cream. Cook over boiling water 10 minutes.

ORANGE AMBROSIA CUSTARD

To serve 4 or 6, peel 4 large seedless oranges and separate from membrane skin into sections. Do this over a place to catch juice. Put sections in large glass serving bowl or into individual sherbet glasses and sprinkle with shredded cocoanut—about 3-4 cup. Make 2 cups Soft Custard. Heat 2 cups milk in top of double boiler. Mix together 4 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, then slowly pour the hot milk over this mixture. Return to top of double boiler and stir until thick enough to coat silver spoon. Remove from heat at once. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Cool, then pour over cocoanut and orange sections. This may be topped with whipped cream and chilled, or topped with baked or unbaked meringue made from the remaining egg whites beaten until stiff with 6 or 8 tablespoons fruit sugar. If you have a sweet tooth you may want to sprinkle the oranges with 2 tablespoons fruit sugar before adding remaining ingredients.

BAKED LEMON PUDDING

Juice and grated rind of 1 large lemon, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, 4 slices bread. Add lemon juice and rind to the sugar and let stand until sugar is dissolved. Mix cornstarch with 1 tablespoon cold milk; add remaining milk to cornstarch paste until thick, then add this to the beaten egg yolks. Butter a baking dish and put in half of the bread from which crusts have been removed. Spread with one-half of the lemon-sugar mix. Repeat. Pour custard mixture over. Stand dish in larger dish containing hot water and oven-poach until firm in pres. or 325 deg. Fahr. Cover with meringue made by beating the remaining egg whites with 4 tablespoons sugar until stiff. Return to oven to bake—meringue golden brown. Serve this pudding warm.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W.I.

The Foxboro Women's Institute met in the school hall on Tuesday evening, with a good number of ladies present.

The guests for the evening were Carmel Women's Institute and Bethel-Zion Institute.

Mrs. Hollinger, president, conducted the meeting.

It was decided to have the home nursing course in October when a class will be planned. The ladies voted on a new coat rack for the school hall. Motion carried. A bingo will be held March 21 followed by a pie social. The nominating committee is as follows: Mrs. L. Brough, Mrs. B. Hollinger and Mrs. C. Lallue.

Mrs. W. Manson reported on agriculture in Sweden in March."

Mrs. Purleigh gave two lovely piano solos.

Mrs. Waller gave a splendid paper on citizenship, "Our Flag." The standards to which we must live up to in order that our flag might always fly."

Mrs. R. Robson, district president, thanked Mrs. Waller for her wonderful paper and expressed her thanks for the invitation.

Mrs. C. Hubbs gave a reading after which the Carmel Institute presented a skit entitled, "Man's View" and "Woman's View."

Mrs. V. Harry gave a reading on the Irish. Mrs. W. Simmons gave an address of welcome to the visiting ladies.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

HOPEFUL PUPIL

VANCOUVER (CP)—A grade school pupil here was hopeful.

Bright and early he telephoned a newspaper office when he learned of the death of Prime Minister Stalin.

"Do we get a half holiday today because of Mr. Stalin's death," he asked.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

In this unfortunate shower-elimination, there are many lessons to be learned

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A dear friend of mine and I would like to have you answer a question of etiquette. This friend got word from her son that he was coming home the next week-end to be married. Although with such short notice she kept her promise to him that she would give a shower for his bride-to-be. How she worked to make the shower a success! She invited about 65 guests, practically all of whom were her friends, only a few friends of the bride. The food was wonderful, the table prizes very fine, and the shower presents lovely.

My friend was so busy being hostess that she had no chance to see the beautiful shower gifts, nor when she left the bride-to-be to leave them for her to see the next day, the bride's mother insisted that the bride-to-be take the gifts home that day, insisted that this was "etiquette" Is this true? Her friends are still calling to thank her for the wonderful party, and is enthuse about the lovely presents, and my friend has not heard that she didn't see them (although, as I said, the presents were brought by the hostess' friends!). Most of them wonder if the girl and her mother-in-law don't "trust" the hostess! Are we all wrong?—A. M. C

This shabby treatment of the bride-to-be and her mother must be forgotten by all concerned as soon as possible, so that the shadows will not settle on the important relationships that must these days be established between the two families.

The etiquette questions really involved are: (1) It is not considered proper for the mother of the groom-to-be to give a bridal shower, and (2) to a bridal shower only friends (and/or relatives) of the bride-to-be should be invited. Etiquette rules—or suggestions of this kind are so practically based on common sense and experience that it is well to respect them and to follow them . . . as your friend now will realize. There is more to a shower than presents . . . there are charming conventions to be observed, graceful amenities to be honored.

Who gives the wedding rehearsal Party?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Whose place is it to give the supper-party after the wedding rehearsal, for all those who attend the rehearsal? Would it be my mother's responsibility, or my prospective mother-in-law's? — S. T.

This party is given by the bride's mother . . . unless some relative or intimate friend of the bride's family or the groom's family asks for the privilege of giving the party. Sometimes the bride's godmother gives this party. And very often it is given by the groom's parents. . . and a very charming and appropriate gesture it is, for there are practically no social duties concerning the wedding that are the responsibility of the groom's parents, and therefore they often plan to give this party as their social gesture. And this party, whether it is a dinner before the rehearsal or a supper after the rehearsal, comes on a particularly busy day, before the wedding, and so is a release for the bride's parents from one social responsibility.

ALLISONVILLE

Community Friends Hold Farewell Party

ALLISONVILLE — Over 100 relatives and friends and neighbours gathered in the Orange Hall, Allisonville, last Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Ronald Hubbs, before he leaves for Korea. Mr. Sherman Weir read the address signed on behalf of Bowerman's community by Messrs. Ray Bird, Bruce Ferguson, Gerald Morris, Ken Wood, Sherman Weir, Claude Maxwell, wishing him a safe journey to Korea and a safe journey to He was then presented with several gifts including a beautiful wrist watch and ring to match, also a billfold, for which he thanked the community friends for their kindness to him.

Everyone sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

Refreshments were served.

The Greatest Story Ever Told

By Fulton Oursler

Chapter 18

CHOSEN

The first step was to complete the selection of His principal followers, who would be trained to carry forward His work when He would have to leave them.

Back in Capernaum He sent out Peter and James to bring to Him ten others whom He had named from among the throng that helpfully and for months had followed Him wherever He went. An hour later He ranged the Twelve in a circle around Him, as they stood on an unfrequented part of the pebby shore of the lake.

A hybrid crew those twelve! Derived from incongruous sources! Yet Jesus informed them that He had chosen deliberately, and that His official mission must begin at once, with the end of John the Baptist. In the language of that day the term apostle meant "one who is sent" and applied especially to couriers who carried letters from rulers or others in authority. Explicitly He named His Twelve as messengers. He would send them out to preach, promising that they, too, should heal the sick and cast out demons.

They followed Him, as He made His way along the shore, healing many along the way, until the press of people grew so large that once again He took refuge in a fisherman's boat. Then He had come when He and His chosen must put the multitudes off from them and be alone together.

The Second Step

The time had come to make one speech to these Twelve that would sum up all His teachings, a complete and formal statement of His message, which the Apostles would learn by heart.

As the disciples sat on their heels in a ring around Him, He began to teach. There was never heard in this world, before that day of divine revelation, or since a more concise or orderly statement of a universal philosophical system; nor has there ever been another such chart of human behavior. Here was all the soul needed to know of God and creation and daily life, of today and hereafter. Here, too, were the most audacious promises ever made to humanity; the good news of eternity according to Jesus Christ.

He began by telling them how a human being could be happy in his life on this earth. There were only eight rules one had to follow and one would be blessed, rules to keep that man serene and capable in the midst of any disaster.

The eight rules, which were to be called the Beatitudes, were simple and wise but admittedly difficult to follow. The way to destruction was broad and inviting; the way to glory, straight and narrow. First of the rules was that a man must be poor in spirit; he must be gentle, practising humility, not heady and proud and arrogant; if one had succeeded in some great task, he was not to sit and gloat and brag, but must go right on, planning another job, a harder and better one.

Must Be Meek

In the second rule a man must be meek; that was not to be a cringing coward but to believe in the goodness of God and in the friendliness of the world around, even when the soul is suffering and can see no reason why it should suffer; the rule meant acceptance of God's will.

To mourn, too, would be a third blessing, but happiness would come, not in being sorry for ourselves so much as in feeling compassion for others and trying to help them.

Again the dynamic follower of His message would hunger and thirst after justice and righteousness; not merely in a legal sense, but in a desire to understand and follow the laws that govern life and that are part of the will of God.

We must also be merciful; so will we earn mercy for ourselves. And who shall not need it?

Those shall be happy, too, who are clean and pure of heart; Jesus promised them that they would see God. But He meant what He said in the fullest sense; purity meant more than just a lack of lust; it called for a goal, a purpose in life.

Again, those who were persecuted for the sake of justice, for the teachings He gave them — they, too, would be happy, for theirs was the Kingdom of Heaven.

"Your Reward is Great"

"And," He finished with the last beautitude, "blessed are you when they shall revile you and persecute you and speak all that is evil against you, untruly, for My sake. Be glad and rejoice, for your reward is very great in heaven."

To the gasping Twelve Apostles, there to learn their immortal lesson, He said they were not to resist evil. Not to resist evil! No, bewildered Twelve, and bewildered posterity, you are not to resist. When you learn that force is not the answer to force, peace will come to the world never until then. That is true in your private lives as well; if a man punches you on the right cheek, don't hit him back; turn the left cheek to his fist.

Audible gasps from all Twelve! For months now they had heard His merciful ideas, but neither so radical and shocking as this calm instruction.

Jesus was fulfilling the old law with a new and gracious expansion. Twelve listeners, get it straight and clear; if a man takes away your coat, give him your vest as well. And if, under the cruel and oppressive laws of this occupied land, a Roman soldier compels you to walk with him a mile, carrying his shield and sword in the hot sun, go with him another mile, freely given when you don't have to.

Thus, Man is Free

A light of understanding was shining on the faces of the listening Twelve. Thus a man could make himself over, the giving of more than required did that — the new, astonishing, wholly Christian doctrine of the law of surplus service.

With a sense of increasing power and glory they heard Him go on to the golden rule that a man must do unto others as he would have others do unto him—an improvement over all similar statements because it was positive, dynamic like Jesus himself. They were to give, when asked to give; lend, when asked to lend; and whereas the old law allowed one to love his friend and hate his enemy, "I say to you that love your enemies, do good to them that hurt you, and bless them that curse you, and pray for those that calumniate you."

The whole design of a man's life should be to accumulate the treasure, not of time but of eternity. To do this he should love God and serve Him and nothing else. It was a basic mistake to let the exigencies of the world centre on moral decisions; God feeds the birds and clothes the flowers of the field more richly than the glory of Solomon, His earthly children should have confidence that He will care for them as well.

"Oh, you of little faith," exclaimed Jesus sadly, when He had enunciated this point. "You must seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you . . ."

From the comfort of this great promise He passed on to others, even more audacious.

"Ask and it shall be given you — Seek and you shall find. Knock and it shall be opened to you.

"What man is there of you, who, if his son asked for bread, would give him a stone? If you then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father in heaven give good things to them that ask Him? Therefore, all things whatsoever you would that men should do to you, do you even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets."

The Lord's Prayer

All these things and more Jesus explained to the Twelve as they sat around Him on the ledge of the mountain overlooking the distant lake. The sun vanished behind the waters, the gloaming came and deepened, and a little sickle moon began to rise as He told them that only by prayers could a man find the strength to live a life like this. And how should a man pray? Not with the vain repetitions that bored and disillusioned him in his childhood; remembering always that God the Father already knew the needs of His children and the hours of their prayer therefore should be:

"Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil . . ."

That was the Sermon on the Mount.

VILLAGE TO DISBAND

BRONTE (CP) — Ratepayers, by a vote of more than double those of last year, voted Thursday to disband this village of 1,100 which was incorporated less than two years ago. A meeting of more than 300 ratepayers made the decision as "the only way we can get out of a situation" which has raised cost man's taxes from $120 to $600 since incorporation. The group voted to rejoin Trafalgar township.

Farm Forum Notes

The discussion was lively when the Hastings County farm forums met on Monday to discuss "Is Equality in Education Possible?" Attendance was as follows: Brookdale 13, Foxboro 10, Hazzard's 25 and Melrose 15.

Brookdale said, "no" the rural school did not give the same advantages to the pupils as the town school. They stated disadvantages as follows: (1) too many classes; (2) criticism of members of school section; (3) poor qualifitications (the better teachers are drawn to urban centres); (4) not sufficient salary.

Rural Teachers Good

The other three forums believed the advantages were on the rural side. They all three agreed that rural schools were high school as early an age as the urban ones. Melrose said: "Our depth of education came from a rural school as have many successful people. The rural teacher knows all her pupils personally, all their shortcomings and tries to overcome them to help them. The teachers must be good or the city wouldn't offer them higher salaries."

Foxboro said: "We believe the rural student is superior to the urban. The rural student has the advantage many times over, having the same teacher for a number of years. We believe there is a considerable advantage in the home environment when the boy or girl has chores to do after school and on holidays which in the long run offsets the planned program of the urban school."

Hazzard's said: "All poor teachers are not in the rural schools and a first class certificate does not necessarily mean a good teacher. While rural teachers cannot handle the frills with all 8 grades, they do have a more personal contact with each child. Rural pupils must of necessity learn to study independently and often compare more than favorably when in high school or college."

All four forums believe the salaries should be more comparable with those in other walks of life. Brookdale says: "More financial aid from both federal and provincial government needed. The declining income of a majority of farms makes it impossible to carry any higher taxes for education."

Regulations governing qualifications must be increased or, as Foxboro says: "We will just have more glorified baby-sitters." Schools should also be kept up to date.

WOMAN

"The woman acted as Malayan chief of the British-controlled state in which she had been convicted. The reprieve brought satisfaction to many Asians who had been critical of her conviction. At two trials, Asian members of the court had voted her innocent.

In the first hearing last August, a British judge ordered a retrial after an Indian and a Chinese who had heard the case voted to set her free. They had acted in the capacity of assessors—a sort of advisory jury.

The British judge at the retrial the next month named a Chinese and a Briton as assessors although only Asians customarily are chosen at trials of Asians. The British assessor and judge found her guilty. The Chinese again voted her innocent.

Besides a petition of clemency to the sultan from 30 members of the British House of Commons, there was another from the president of the Malayan-Chinese Association, Sir Tan Cheng Lock, and one from seven Singapore city councillors.

Since the start of the emergency in Malaya in June, 1948, 13 women have been sentenced to death. Seven were reprieved and five went to the gallows.

Police also blamed Lee Meng for 13 murders around Ipoh, a tinmining centre which the Chinese Communist underground has made a hot spot for the British.

BRITAIN, U.S.

Eden also told Dulles the British government has decided to make certain no Russian ships or ships of any other nationality carrying strategic cargoes to China should be refueled or supplied in a British port.

The third point Dulles and Eden agreed upon was that "the U.S. and British governments will concert their efforts to secure the cooperation of other maritime and trading nations in the measures designed to exclude the shipments of strategic material to the mainland of China."

No other countries were named, but officials suggested that combat fleets would be approached. Chief fleets would be approached. They mentioned Norway, Sweden, Holland, France, Italy, Finland and Panama.

The American-British agreement was officially reported to have covered these other points:

1. Dulles endorsed as "reasonable and fair" British proposals submitted to Iran's Prime Minister Mossadegh Feb. 20 for settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

2. Eden and Dulles swapped opinions about the Soviet government shakeup following the death of Joseph Stalin. No results were announced.

3. The two agreed that the European Defence Community treaty, under which West Germany would be armed, must be "ratified as speedily as possible."

A vast throng stood silent as military bands played Chopin's funeral march and the cortege made its slow way to the rostrum at the mausoleum. On the rostrum were party and government leaders, top Communists from Russia's Allies—including Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai—and diplomatic representatives.

Carried by veterans

The top leaders of the Soviet Communist party and the government carried the coffin to the rostrum. After the orations, they slowly descended from the platform, bearing the coffin to the mausoleum, as the Soviet anthem was played.

At noon the hour of interment every steam whistle in the Soviet Union blew for five minutes and the big cities across the country rocked with artillery salutes in Stalin's memory.

Then, as the nation's leaders returned to the platform, troops of the Moscow garrison and of the funeral cortege marched past the mausoleum, paying last honors.

Build New Pantheon

The bodies of Lenin and Stalin will lie in the mausoleum until construction of a vast new pantheon—a shrine of Communist "immortals"—is built for them and for other dead Soviet leaders.

Malenkov's oration was his first pronouncement of his new government's program. He said he supports the doctrine of Lenin and Stalin that capitalist and socialist countries can long live in peaceful "co - existence and competition" with one another.

He called also for further strengthening of the Soviet state and its armed forces, and of friendship between the Soviet nationalities, with Communist China, and with the "peoples' democracies" allied with the Soviet Union.

The government and the Communist party, he continued, must and will develop Soviet industry and agriculture and improve the material, cultural and living standards of the people.

Demands Party Unity

The new premier demanded party unity on the home front and an "implacable" struggle against internal and foreign enemies.

"The Soviet Union protects peace, is against war and is for friendly relations with peoples," he asserted. "The peoples want peace. We must avert bloodshed and secure peace. We must avert war and live in peace with all countries. We consider the policy of peace among all nations is correct and proper."

Malenkov concluded:

"We have everything needed to build a communist society.

"No force exists in the world to arrest our advance to communism.

"Farewell—our dear leader.

"Glory to Stalin!"

Described as Tested

Beria described the Soviet Communist party as "united and unified." He said the Soviet people "approve our internal and foreign policy," the head of the state's secret interior ministry and of its internal security forces promised to — co-operation with Communist China, and the peoples' democracies, and said the government "will strengthen friendly relations with workers in the capitalist and colonial countries."

"We are friends of the heroic Korean people," he added.

Of Russia's armed might, he declared: "Let no one think our enemies can rout us. Our soldiers have modern equipment and are able to ward off any aggression." And the Soviet people, he added, "approve the appointment of Comrade Malenkov" as Stalin's successor and the accompanying "government changes."

Repeats Malenkov's Call

Molotov, third member of the top government triumvirate, repeated Malenkov's call for peace and a truce against possible attack and "against spies and agents of the imperialist power."

"We want peace and we do not want to interfere in the affairs of other countries," he declared, reiterating the first public statement of his foreign ministry on Saturday that Russia will continue Stalin's policy of "consolidating peace and co-operation in business relations with other countries."

RHEUMATIC PAIN Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Gladchenko, Wilton, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. My pain became increasingly severe and spread from hip to ankle. Out of bed, the leg felt cold as though in ice water, so I stayed in bed. A friend persuaded me to take MINARD'S and after 2 days I felt better, while by the end of my pain had gone and soon on the job again."

Black Hawks Defeat Kingston Vics 7-3 In Opening Game Junior 'B' Finals

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Tonight they start again from "scratch." The Glen Boys and the Kingston Goodyears have once more evened the score in this blazing senior "B" semi-finals series and from here in it should be best-of-three affair. The Glens came up with a dazzling 6-3 victory in the Goodies' back-yard last Friday avenging that decisive setback handed them by the Glens here in Belleville a couple of nights previous.

Michael J. Rodden, who was down at West Point to cover the annual R.M.C.-West Point hockey game, was not available, although it is doubtful if they accepted Mike as a "kayded" down West Point way.. He will be around tonight, likely, wondering what bit his favorites and why.

Tonight's tilt is the sixth of the series and the winner will take a definite stranglehold on the series title. The teams have each won two with the fifth game a five-all stalemate. Both squads have proven they can "take" the other in their own ballwicks and it looks like even money from here in. It all depends on which team is hot and which is cold, or it may develop into another of those blazing duels that featured the first meeting of the teams when both sides were hotter than the south-end of a firefly.

"Red" Dornn's crew, satisfied at last they can best the Goodies at their own style of play, are highly confident regarding the outcome of tonight's clash, and it should go down in the archives as one of the best. On the other hand Coach Johnny Carr-Harris' gang are grimly determined to repeat the close they handed the Glens in their last meeting. It should be a thriller.

NICE ONE TO WIN!

The Junior Black Hawks rebounded with a bang from that tough series with the Lindsay Warriors on Saturday night and took the fancied Kingston Vics in their stride with a decisive 7-3 victory to pry the lid off the best-of-seven group playoffs finals.

The Hawks flashed the skill and ice artistry that swept them through to the top spot in the league standing and if they maintain this pace and style it could be Lindsay might repeat itself. They were definitely masters of the situation on Saturday.

Doug Hull, one of the better, consistent players of the Hawks' attacking division with linemates Ken Halstead and George Jacklin, stole the scoring thunder and came up with fourteen scoring points. Hull, who was flying all night, grabbed himself the hat trick while Jacklin tebled a pair and Halstead and Jacklin accounted for the assists. Solid likewise and Halstead three. Not bad for any man's line.

The Jones, Therrien, Gilmour line, which accounted for the other goal, were marked men all night with Max Jackson's hard shadowing crew doing a good job in holding this potent trio down to one marker. However, the second blasted their way through for a clean half dozen, which proves that you can't always tell how cook the milk will come from.

However, tonight's another night and the scuada clash on the Kingston Community Centre's large surface in the second bout of the series with the third back here Wednesday. The Vics, stung by the first game setback, will be in no amiable frame of mind and they realize a defeat tonight will endanger their chances considerably of winning the group confalon.

HAIL, THE CHAMPS!

Coach Johnny Hayman, of the Albert College senior basketball squad, and the COSSA's genial secretary, "Pete" Resch are wearing broad smiles today and those grins on the black-and-gold-jerseyed court gladiators of the college are happy ones, too. For the big crew from Albert won the second provincial championship for their alma mater in Toronto on Saturday when they took the coveted senior "B" basketball bauble in the OFSAA tournament. The Hayman lads swept through their district schedule undefeated, won the title and the semi-shrough to sweep major honors in ollmax a season of splendid effort.

It is the third provincial title to come from a city that has been championship-hungry for several years and to the college team goes the honor of winning two of them, the football and basketball baubles, with the Glen Boys junior "A" softball team, which won all-Ontario honors, getting the third.

Sportsmen of the city and district join this department in extending well-earned congratulations to Coach Hayman, and his line team for an outstanding achievement in the realm of basketball.

TRENT VALLEY SERIES:

Wellington turned back the potent Trenton threat in the southern division of the Trent Valley League in what is reported to have ended in a hockey brawl ip the lakeside village the other night and now meet Frankford in a best-of-three series for the division title. Marmora and Campbellford are battling it out for the northern honors. Should Marmora win, or Campbellford, for that matter, it should be quite a series with some of the games probably being played here.

Doug. Hull, Jacklin, Halstead Have Field Day With 14 Points; Grab Early Lead, Never Headed

By JOHN GOODFELLOW

Belleville Black Hawks got away to a flying start in their best-of-seven junior "B" league final playoffs Saturday night by defeating Kingston Vics 7-3 at the Memorial Arena.

Whether the Vics were shale after a 16-day layoff after knocking out Peterborough in the semi-finals in three straight games, or the Hawks were hardly after their tough series with Lindsay, is a question that will have to be answered later on in the series. 6% Saturday's tussle, the Cook-Barrett crew were just too much hockey team for the visitors.

Kingston coach Max Jackson, well aware of the high-scoring front line of Belleville's Davey Jones, Hank Therrien and Pat Gilmour, concentrated on keeping his defence pairs from getting to this trio. As it turned out, this manoeuvre was a failure. The line of Doug Halstead, George Jacklin and Doug Hull—most efficient forward line in the series in recent weeks — had themselves a field day as they netted all top six of the seven Belleville goals and gathered 14 scoring points for their efforts.

Hull got three of these goals, Jacklin two and Halstead one. Hank Therrien counted the other marker on a pass from Jones. Dick Cherry, Wilson Reid and Les Ullman scored for the Vics. Terry Ford.

The Vics shot into an early lead at 4:34 of the first period. Reid, parked in front of the Belleville goal, accepted a pass from Don Senior and Montgomery into the first tally.

The Hawks didn't get even when Halstead set up Hull on a fine rush from the blue line to post—an occupational hazard that plagued the Kingston forwards at least seven times during the evening. Therrien finally made it 1-1, grabbing a fine pass from Jones at the blue line and going in on Ford Senior cleanly.

Hull started on his goal-scoring binge three minutes later. Pete Green set the play in motion, handing the puck to Halstead at the Belleville Blue line. Halstead slipped the puck to Hull at centre ice and the crew-cut winger roared in around two Kingston defencers to tally without breaking stride.

Hull came back to make it 3-1, accepting a fine pass from Jacklin and snapping it behind the unhappy Senior in the Vic nets.

The Vics got as close as they were going to get midway through the second period. After Therrien had hit the Belleville line seven that ended in frustration at Senior's doorstep, Kingston applied the pressure. Ullman closed the gap to 3-2, banking a shot past Barclay that bounced off a Belleville player's leg.

Jacklin sent the Hawks two goals up with the aid of Armand Deibocco. With the power play in motion, Deibocco let loose a smoker from the blue line. Senior blocked it but Jacklin corralled the rebound and tipped it into an empty net.

Gets Hat Trick

Hull completed his hat trick at 1.54 of the third session. Halstead and Jacklin did the leg work on this effort before the left winger steered it home from Senior's front position.

Cherry cracked through Barclay's armor, however, two minutes later, stealing the puck at the Belleville defence, circling the net, tucking the marker neatly into the corner.

Jacklin upped the count to 6-3 at 5.46. Halstead and Hull did the manipulating to get the puck up to "Big Sam" at the edge of the crease and his slider went under a falling Senior.

Halstead wound up the scoring at 14.35, parlaying a play that was typical of the line's efforts. Jacklin's shot sent Senior to his knees, Hank Schaffer sent him sprawling and Halstead had no trouble in placing it where nobody was home.

Cherry, Don Senior and Ullman were outstanding for Kingston. The Halstead line, as noted, had no competition for Belleville standom. Deibocco and Stocco played a sound defence, while the third line of Hermiston, Brant and Barker comprised a strong checking unit.

The team:

Kingston —Goal, R. Senior; defence, Montgomery, Pettitt, D. Senior; wings, Reid, MacNeil, Alternates Cherry, Ullman, Vallier, Wilding, Sherman, Reynolds, Korn and Marsele.

Belleville — Goal, Barclay; defence, Goyer, Stocco, centre, Halstead; wings, Jacklin, Hull; alternates Jones, Therrien, Gilmour, Deibocco, Green, Hermiston, Brant, Baker and R. Green.

Referee, Herb Payne, Peterboro; linesman, Tim Williams, Belleville.

Red Wings Blast Leafs Twice, Win Fifth Straight NHL Title; Boston Takes Over 4th Place

By ED SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Until a better one comes along, Detroit Red Wings will do as the best hockey team of the 1952-53 season and possibly of the next decade or two to follow.

The Wings counted to their precedent-shattering fifth straight National Hockey League title during the week-end wiping out the record they previously shared with Boston Bruins of approximately five years earlier.

They way they did it underlined their supremacy. Up against Toronto Maple Leafs, desperately fighting for a playoff spot, in a home-and-home doubleheader, they whipped Leafs 3-0 at Toronto Saturday, even though the Leafs checked top-scoring Gordie Howe to a virtual standstill. Line-mate Ted Lindsay fired the first and winning goal.

Howe Adds Another

At Detroit Sunday the Leafs kept Lindsay, who had scored nine goals in his last four games, off the score - sheet, but Howe broke through to score the winning goal and the Wings went on to a 3-1 victory.

Defenceman Red Kelly slapped home his 19th goal Saturday, drawing within one of the record set for blueliners by Flash Hollett of the 1945 Wings. Reg Sinclair took a pass from Kelly for the third tally.

On Sunday it was Marcel Bonin and Tony Leswick, both generally known as defensive forwards, who made the grade. Tod Sloan gave the Leafs a brief lead in the second period.

The Leafs' only break was that their chief rivals for playoff positions had the minimum of success in their week-end campaigning. Chicago Black Hawks, in third place, staying three points ahead of the Leafs by losing 1-0 to Montreal Canadiens and 2-1 to Boston Bruins.

The Bruins blew a 2-1 verdict to the last place New York Rangers before breaking their fourth-place tie with the Leafs with their victory over Chicago. Meanwhile the Rangers, shorn of their last mathematical chance for a play-off spot, knocked off the Canadiens 4-3.

A first-period marker by Billy Reay stood up for the Canadiens' victory over the Hawks as goalie Gerry McNeil stopped 29 shots for his 10th shutout of the season—tops in the NHL.

Sunday, it was Ally Hergesheimer, who had fired both New York markers against the Bruins the previous night, beat McNeil early in the second period after Maurice Richard had put the Habitants one up with his first Madison Square Garden goal in more than a year.

Then Ron Murphy, Mick Mickoski and Harry Howell all scored within nine minutes of third-period play to salt the game away for the New Yorkers. A second tally by Richard and one by Floyd Curry made it close before the game ended.

The Bruins struggled unsuccessfully for the tying goal against the Rangers after Johnny Peirson had punched one of Hergesheimer's goals Saturday night, then successfully overcame a Chicago lead to win their Sunday contest on Jerry Toppazzini's last-period tally. The Hawks' Harry McFadden and Boston's Peirson had scored within less than half a minute of each other in the opening frame.

Bruins meet Leafs again Wednesday night, when the Wings meet the Rangers in New York.

Albert College Annexes Scholastic Senior 'B' Basketball Championship

Defeat Pembroke High School In Masterful Court Display; Whip 'Porkies' in Semi-Finals

By JACK BRETT

Albert College, COSSA Bay of Quinte senior "B" basketball champions, climaxed an undefeated season at Toronto on Saturday when they defeated Pembroke High School 53-36 to win the Ontario "B" Junior high school championship.

Niagara Falls, two-year champions, won their third straight title in a row in the "A" class, defeating North Toronto Collegiate Institute 62-44.

Albert's black and gold quintet disposed of the South Percupine High School 43-36 in the semi-final earlier in the day. Niagara Falls' semi-final victims were the Runnymede Collegiate. The score was 61-42.

Pembroke defeated the Exeter High School in the "B" semi-finals while North Toronto disposed of Sudbury High School in the "A" first game.

The final games culminated a two-day tournament of twelve teams sponsored by the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations.

Were Outclassed

Completely outclassing Pembroke in the first quarter, Albert ended it with a 30-8 edge over an opposition which couldn't seem to get started. Bert Faulkner started off the scoring by dropping an even deg-shot in the first few seconds of play. A holding penalty set J. Trugher up for a free throw which was successful.

Pembroke managed three points off a free shot by Beirdeman and two points gained by Campbell. Of Albert's ten points acquired in the first quarter six are to be credited to Bert Faulkner.

In the second quarter, Albert rang up 18 points to Pembroke's six making the score 29-9 at the end of the half. Again it was Faulkner on the top end of the scoring. He accounted for 11 points. Ross King got two, Trugher two, Raimer two and Black two. For Pembroke, Ziegel got four points and Wesenko got the other two.

By the end of the third quarter Albert had rung up another 14 points against Pembroke's 11 to jump the score 43-20. Pembroke put some effort into the game in this quarter as they began a close checking campaign on Albert. Rob King of Albert had the scoring, however, Pembroke retaliated as Bierdeman neatly dogged one in. Black for Albert, was right behind to add another two points, followed by Faulkner and two more points for Albert. Ziegel scored a free basket as the teams exchanged fast setiers. Top netters for Pembroke were Bierdeman, five points; Ziegel, five points and Stenberg with one. Faulkner, Vaughan, Black and Black were Albert scorers.

Pembroke outshot and outscored Albert in the last quarter, which ended in Albert's walking away with the title by copping 10 points against Pembroke's six.

Showing excellent defensive play in the first few minutes Pembroke went on the offensive as Albert began to tire. Wesenko followed Ross King's successful dog shot with one of his own. Ziegel scounted a free throw and Wesenko did it again a few seconds later. Ziegel stepped in to net one for Albert, but Ziegel was back with a shot from some feet out. Faulkner netted his third point by a beautiful set up, Ziegel copped a free throw and another two points. Bomber for Pembroke also did it twice more with King scoring the last Albert points.

Bert Faulkner led the winners with his 26 points and Ross King aiding 14. Pembroke top scorer was Don Ziegel with 15.

Win First

In the first game which was the qualifying stint, played Saturday afternoon, Albert knocked out South Porcupine 43-36 in a speedy, well-played contest. The two teams battled out the first two quarters fairly evenly. At the end of the first, Albert led by a 5 to 4 score and at the end of the first half, Albert had racked up another 10 points and the Porkies had counted seven more to make the score 16-12 at the end of the half.

Albert put on a concentrated drive in the third to lead 30-22 at its conclusion. In the last quarter Albert netted themselves 12 more points while the Porkies were only able to get six.

Ross King led the Albert team with 15 points, followed by Faulkner with 10 and Vaughan with five.

Class B Final

Albert College (53)—King 14, Harris 3, Black 2, Goetz, Faulkner 23, Balmer, Slack, Chase, Taugher, Vaughan 6, Burk; Springer.

Frankford Enters Division Finals

Frankford — Frankford eliminated Stirling two-straight in the Trent Valley Southern Division second round of the playoffs, by virtue of their 5-3 victory over the Redmen in Stirling Friday night. It was clean fast hockey, as both teams concentrated on the game rather than roughing it up, as was the case in the previous game.

Once again, it was Frankford's power line that did the damage, picking up eleven of the fourteen points, Rankin with two goals and two assists, Graham with the same record, and Watson with three assists. Wannamaker was sterling as top marksman, with a goal and two assists. Frankford now meets Wellington in a best of five series.

1st Period

1 Stirling, Wannamaker (McCrory)	1.28
2 Frankford, Rankin (Adams, Graham)	7.15
3 Frankford, Graham (Rankin, Watson)	8.50
4 McCrory (Wannamaker, Nichol)	14.20

Penalties: Moran, Pokancik.

2nd Period

5 Frankford, Graham (Farmer, Rankin)	2.45
6 Stirling, Mason (Wright, Wannamaker)	8.30
7 Frankford, Rankin (Graham, Watson)	15.09

Penalties: Pukancik, Mason.

3rd Period

8 Frankford, Farmer (Rankin)	9.00

Penalties: Bone (M) Bastedo. Stirling: Goal, Bater; defence, Armstrong; Farmery; centre, Mason; wing, McCrory, Wannamaker. Alternates, Mason, Burgess, Stewart, Stapley, Wright, Bastedo, McMurray, Hermiston, Bone.

Frankford: Goal, Foxbay; defence, Farmer, Watson; centre, Rankin; wings, Watson, Graham. Alternates, Dockerty, Cooke, Foster, Adams, Carey, Stephens, Pukancik, Moran, Belford.

Frankford District League hockey club carried their unbeaten string into the first game of the playoffs, as they downed Glen Miller 7-3 in the first round in Frankford Friday evening. Frankford led a very short rounded team, and for the first period it looked as if Glen Miller would hand Frankford a bad lacing. Then and again, Glen Miller broke through on goal, but Jimmy Appleby was equal to the task in the Frankford goal, and held the Miller boys to a 2-1 margin through the first period. Reserves arrived for the second period, and Frankford got into the game then, taking the lead 6-2. The third period saw Frankford tiring fast, as they added three more goals to their total.

Jim Hanna was Frankford's top marksman, with three goals. Bobby Robert Tomesek netted two.

The second game of the series will be played in Marmora Saturday night. Thursday some relaunch-stretching, Asharown-Centenary Combines failed to tie a team against Bellefonte in the other playoff series, and the game is therefore forfeited to Soringbrook. The team representative was notified by telephone, but apparently he did not contact his team.

Bentley Will Rejoin Leafs

SASKATOON (CP)—Max Bentley, veteran centre for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, left Sunday for Toronto where he will rejoin the Leafs.

Bentley spent last week resting at his Delisle, Sask., home. He was suffering a back injury and also had an attack of flu. He said he would go to Toronto Tuesday morning and would be out for practice the same day.

Miller 2, Bombay 4, Horricka, Rogers.

Class B Semi-Finals

Albert College (42)—King 13, Black, Goetz 1, Faulkner 12, Balmer, Slack, Chase, Taugher, Vaughan 6, Burk; Springer.

South Porcupine (28)—Belisle, Carrotte 3, Johannes 4, Mitchell 15, Pellizzari, Reid, Vukovich 2, K. Peacock, 880.

Don Smythe Retains Canadian Badminton Crown

By ALBERT ROGERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Don Smythe of Toronto continued his string of Canadian badminton Saturday by capturing the Canadian men's singles championship for the third straight year.

Smythe, a former football halfback who has played the game only six years, defeated Gord Simpson of Montreal, 15-18, 15-14, 15-7, in the final at the Canadian badminton championships.

Smythe played his way into the final without trouble, taking a 15-8, 15-5 match from John Houck of Vancouver in the semi-finals. Simpson, Quebec champion, took his semi-final win from Toronto's Bev Wescott, 15-6, 9-15, 15-7.

The women's singles trophy also went to Toronto. Top-seeded Margo Hodd won the award for the first time by defeating Lois Reid of Vancouver, 11-4, 11-3. The defending title-holder, Marjorie Clapp of Montreal, did not enter the tournament.

Smythe teamed with club mate Dudley Hayes to win the men's doubles crown for the second consecutive year by beating Jack John Houck and Daryl Thompson of Vancouver, 15-2, 15-12.

The women's doubles crown went to Lois Reid and Jean Bardsley of Vancouver, who defeated Barbara Ince and Joan Warren of Toronto, 15-7, 15-4.

The mixed doubles championship which saw the defending Johnnie Johnnie-Margo Hodd pair become eliminated in the semi-final, went to Barbara Ince and Dick Birch of Toronto after they jolted Vancouver's Jean Bardsley and Daryl Thompson, 18-15, 15-8. The Toronto duo won the award in 1951.

Jim Carswath of Woodstock became the junior winner of the junior men's singles title. The powerful Carswath proved too much for outclassed but game Peter Clarke of Toronto, as he beat him 15-11, 15-13, 15-3.

The junior women's singles crown went to Nancy Cusack of Toronto for the first time when she ousted her club mate, Elizabeth Rorke, 11-2, 11-3.

In the veteran men's doubles Ron McAllister and Bob McGregor of Toronto vaquished another Toronto pair, Dick Robertson and Jack Stewart, 15-4, 15-13.

Next year's championships will be held in Vancouver. It was announced at the Canadian Badminton Association's annual meeting. Ted Elliot of Saint John, N.B., was elected president, succeeding George Crawford of Calgary.

Marmora Dunks Campbellford 12-4

MARMORA — Marmora Millionaires bounced back into contention in the Trent Valley Northern Division hockey finals, whipping Campbellford 12-4 here Saturday night.

Campbellford leads the best-of-five series, 3-1.

Ernie Trumble with three goals and an assist, Ken. Trumble with a goal and four assists and Buck Mantle with two goals and one assist, paced the homesters. Glen Lavender notched a pair of goals, with Bob Mayers, Bill Lowe, Chuck Loveless and Earl Leonard also scoring.

Glenn Wilson, Wib Blake, Jim Jeffs and Archie Eady scored for the visitors.

Quebec Senior Hockey League Breaks Cleanly With CAHA

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the greatest upheavals in Canadian hockey came into clearer focus today with a clean break by the powerful Quebec Senior Hockey League from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Under threat of suspension by the CAHA, the league decided Thursday, without a dissenting vote, to set out as an independent organization.

Representatives of the seven clubs were told by President George Slater that he is satisfied all rights and protection enjoyed by the QSHL in its relation to professional leagues through the CAHA will be accorded under the new set-up.

To be kept about the break with the CAHA, the QSHL had to resign from its own governing branch, the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, with which it has no quarrel.

The CAHA has suspended Feb. 28 for defying an edict of the CAHA. The dispute involved the playing status of 18-year-old Ron Attwell, now with Montreal Canadien juniors of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

The QAHA maintained it was within its rights and within regulations of the CAHA by issuing Attwell a playing permit. The CAHA held otherwise.

Controlling executive of the QAHA have stood by the Quebec Branch's decision. No league or club was suspended by the CAHA when it took this action against the branch. But all are threatened with suspension if they don't align themselves with the CAHA on the issue by March 10.

It was this prospect that brought about the league's resignation—an effective immediately the motion was carried.

President Slater said if the league was suspended there would be complications over the CAHA agreement with professional leagues. But if the QSHL was free to engage in a series with a pro league, the agreement again might be affected.

"If we are an independent body we cannot be suspended by the CAHA," he said. "As to the professional leagues, I have satisfied myself that our rights will be protected."

Hockey observers assessed the QSHL's action and the possible results this way:

1. The CAHA has lost its most powerful league in terms of financial gates in schedule and playoffs rate it a $1,000,000 concern. QAHA.

The Maritime Major League is the only other circuit of that rating left. Ontario teams do not operate the junior series. The Western Hockey League has been a pro loop for a couple of years.

2. The Allan Cup Quebec Cup series—between the two major leagues—is wiped out.

3. The new QSHL controlling 200 players at least of minor league professional calibre, can remain amateur as a separate amateur entity still working in agreement with the National Hockey League and other pro leagues. It can also arrange playoff series with one or more of the minor circuits. A playoff like that with the WHL has already been talked about.

4. The new organization, continuing as an amateur body, can rejoin the QAHA—possibly by next season—or it can flirpolt with the CAHA is settled.

5. The final status of the junior and lower-rank senior sections of the QAHA is not yet determined. If a satisfactory agreement is reached with the CAHA, they can enter Memorial Cup and Allan Cup play after their current playoffs. If they are suspended March 10, one of the youngest annual contenders for the Memorial Cup—the Minor—will be eliminated automatically be out of the series.

During the discussion preceding Sunday's vote the status of QSHL players as free agents after this season was considered.

It was the general opinion there would be a "gentlemen's agreement" that was felt that salaries paid in the QSHL obligated against transfer of players or incurring raids by amateur clubs within the CAHA.

As for raiding by outside amateur clubs, the QSHL members felt they are well able to look after themselves and could raid in return.

In Midland, Ont., secretary-manager George Dudley of the CAHA refused to comment when made Saturday, saying "the CAHA does not recognize the right of any league to withdraw this way at any time it desires."

He said the QSHL "is an organization registered with and operating under the authority and control of the CAHA and there is no middle ground."

Unless QSHL "signifies its intention to continue with the CAHA by March 10 it will be suspended," and the CAHA will insist QSHL remain in the CAHA series as the agreement between the two bodies provides.

Today the resignation was carried out in prescribed fashion and the CAHA can't suspend a league that is no longer in the CAHA.

'Hap' Emms to Protest Marlies Win; Says Law Refused to Remove Smythe

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The field of six teams originally in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs has been narrowed to five.

St. Catharines Teepees, who finished fourth in the final standings were eliminated from Memorial Cup hopes in five days — three games after they started their best-of-five-game series with St. Michael's College.

St. Michael's brought the six down on the Teepees at the Toronto arena on Toronto Ice Sunday. The collegians won the opener 6-1 in Toronto Wednesday and took the second 4-3 in St. Catharines Friday. St. Michael's now advance into a semi-final series with the winner of the Galt Black Hawks-Oshawa Generals best-of-five-game quarter-finals.

Galt Ties

In Oshawa Saturday, the Generals goaded Galt on home ice and then came back strong in the last half of the game to tie the contest 6-6. Overtime was not played because it was too' close to the Sunday curfew. Galt leads the series 1-0.

In the other week-end game Toronto Marlboro came through with a 3-1 overtime victory over Barrie Flyers in Toronto Saturday. The best-of-seven-game semi-final series now is tied 1-1.

Paul Knox was the hero for St. Michael's. He banged in three goals, the last one into an empty St. Catharines net. Murray Costello and captain Bob Brown scored for others. St. Catharines' captain Brian Cullen, scored all three for St. Catharines.

Jim McBurney, Ken Wharram, Hillary Bernard and Hec Lalonde gave Galt a 4-0 lead to work on in Oshawa but the Generals made the game on two goals by Roger Malcolm-Cowan and singles each by Bernie Mader and Rick Collins.

Barrie coach Hap Emms said that he will lodge a protest following Saturday's game with the Marlboros because the police in Maple Leaf Gardens failed to heed behind the Marlboro bench after Barrie manager Staff Smithe, moved from his box seat Sergeant Jack Hewson ordered Smythe made a "personal remark" in the middle of the third period. Barlow asked a policeman to remove Smythe from the seat but the officer refused to act. Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens and father of Staff, is sitting elsewhere in the Gardens, approached Barlow and suggested the game be resumed. Barlow continued play and Stafford Smythe remained in his seat Had Barlow invoked Rule 19, however, the referee's decision would have been compelled to obey or the referee would have forfeited the game to the Flyers.

'Glesga' Loses To Clyde 2-1

GLASGOW (AP)—It was a rough, tough soccer game between Glasgow Rangers and Clyde Saturday. The referee sent three men off the field for infraction of the rules, and another player fractured a leg. Woodburn, the Rangers' centre half, and Simpson, their centre forward, got marching orders. Murphy, the Clyde right back, was also sent off.

Buchanan, the Clyde outside right, was taken to hospital. Clyde won 2-1.

Gary Schreider Breaks Record, Pulls Muscle

Gary Schrieder, former St. Michael's High School athletic star, established a new Canadian junior record for 1 mile in Hamilton on Saturday, Schreider ran the 60-yard junior dash in 6.3 seconds, clipping a tenth of a second off the former mark.

Running under the colors of the Toronto Olympic Club, Gary, had the misfortune to be disqualified in the 60-yard open event, when the starter claimed he made two false starts. He finished third and then went on running two semi-final heats in which he again won was in 6.5.

But that was not the only bad luck that attended the fleet-footed youngster. Running in the 300-yard dash in the finals he had qualified with the time of 34.3, he pulled a muscle in his thigh which will necessitate his retirement for at least two weeks.

He is entered in a big indoor meet in Montreal in two weeks but as the extent of his is not known if the injury will permit this.

The meet on Saturday was the 91st Highlanders Regiment annual Affair.

Goalies Hurt In West. League

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three Western Hockey League goalkeepers were injured during the week-end, one perhaps for the remainder of the season.

Jerry Colonde of Victoria Cougars suffered a possible fractured elbow Saturday when he was clipped by an errant stick in a game against Tacoma. The Rockets went on to win 5-2 with playing coach Eddie Dorohoy subbing for Colonde in the Victoria net.

Lucien Dechene and Emile Francis both were injured when Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals battled to a 1-1 tie Saturday night. Francis of the Canucks was hit on the head by a flying puck in the first period but returned after a 10-minute rest. Dechene hit his back on a goalpost while making a save and also was out for 10 minutes in the third period.

Calgary Stampeders erupted with four goals in the final four minutes to down Edmonton Flyers 4-1 in the other Saturday game.

Seattle's Joe Bell rattled in four goals Sunday night to lead the Bombers to a 5-1 victory over Tacoma.

Barons Win Two, Tighten Hold On Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland Barons, league-leaders of the American Hockey League, scored two week-end victories to tighten their hold on first place.

Sunday night the Barons defeated Syracuse 4-2, and Saturday walloped Providence Reds 9-2.

In other Saturday games, Pittsburgh Hornets tied Buffalo Bisons 3-3, and Rochester Americans shaded Hershey Bears 3-2.

The Warriors, fighting for a play-off berth, seized a 2-1 lead in their game against the Barons. Their first-period edge was wiped out by Fred Glover of Barons, who scored the deadlock counter in the middle session and the winner in the third period. Eddy Olan and Bailey scored the other Cleveland markers, while Kelly Burnett counted both Syracuse goals.

A four-goal outburst in the second period Sunday night gave Buffalo Bisons a 5-1 victory over Hershey Bears.

Gus Farwell paced the Bisons with a goal and three assists, while Rob Fryday scored two. Lorne Davis and Carl McKay counted the other Buffalo markers. Junior Wilson scored the Hershey goal.

Providence Reds edged St. Louis Flyers 6-5 Sunday night, with the winner notched by Barry Sullivan in overtime.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday date can find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 10 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Promising period if you run your affairs eagerly with eye to smoother future gains, rather than immediate. Economize with time, material.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Advantages to be found in polished efficiency, moving at proper pace. Many avenues for your talents. Promote harmony in business and home.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Manager and employee, office and private should seek the fresh benefits available. Working together, facing respect for one another, will help.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Benefic influences for personal and professional gains. Don't let others unduly influence your mind, thinking or action. Aim high.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Essential business work, money problems are in top-notch position. Watch tendency to slip over things that demand immediate attention.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Stimulating day for rational pursuits, activities that have definite need and purpose. Know what is going on before acting.

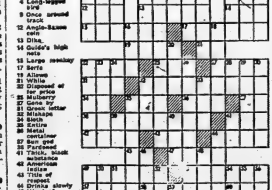
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Mixed outlook but by no means lacking advantages. For the present, material gains less important than spiritual progress.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You should find day perceptive to your efforts. Work diligently but not in strained manner. You can accomplish commendably.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—You may not be rarin' to go, but achievement is in the making now. Putting odds and ends together often proves the day's most valuable endeavor.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Be thorough. Don't allow self to be dominated by outside influences. Have faith; avoid worry.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — You should plan well each effort. Follow your blue-prints carefully and with confidence. Have faith in yourself.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Aim not to spend time, energy on useless ventures. Plan for Spring activities. Building masonry, planting favored. Heart interests, too.

YOU BORN TODAY: Are genuinely capable. Pursue steady ambition; be most careful to make only worthy friendships. Don't accept things as you see them at first glance. Penetrate to the core of problems by study. Overcome restlessness, obstinacy. Birthdate of: Dudley Buck, American composer.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

STARTS FIRST MOVIE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jill Holdsworth, whose mother embezzled $25,000 to give her "a chance in Hollywood," has begun work on her first movie. The 18-year-old Detroit beauty is doing a five-minute role in "Steel Bayonets," which stars John Ireland and Lon McCallister. She will be paid $500. Miss Hollingsworth says she hopes to earn enough to repay the money her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Hollingsworth, 47, was convicted of embezzling.

Where can I get a "YES" to my LOAN request?

...at Personal to be sure!

OVER THOUSANDS OF LOANS made at Personal last year to employed men and women married and single — in all walks of life.

Admirals Bow To Wellington

Trenton (Special)—Carr's Admirals went down fighting on a 4-3 defeat to a better team on Friday night after leading up until four minutes of the final bell. Winger Joe Scott beat D. Hill with the equalizer and centreman Leo Goyer dispatched the winning goal with two minutes remaining. Wellington the league leaders in the south division all season now meet Frankford in a best out of five series starting in Wellington, tonight.

Some blood was spilled in the middle of the second period. Defencemen Bill Turland of Trenton took a swing at pivot Bob Johnson of Wellington and appeared to have the edge in the first round. Round two saw Johnson outpolating Turland and referees George MacPaul and Dick Fitzpatrick trying to pry the fighters apart. In the melee Turland suffered a cut on the face which bled profusely, smearing the referees white sweaters and causing a mess in general. Both boys drew match penalties on match misconduct charges and remained off the ice for the duration.

The score indicated the Admirals had the upper hand in the first two periods. D. Beale tied the count after eLo Goyer and Scott scored on Wellington's first goal. Then Jones put Trenton out in front with Scott's pass and two up on a save from Beale.

After a rough start the play settled down and there were no penalties in the last period.

The teams:

Trenton: Goal, D. Hill: defence, Turland, Black: rewire, D. Beale: wings, Jones, Scott: centre, Goyer. Leavey, MacDonnell, Barr, P. Scott, DeMille, Stead.

Wellington: Goal, G. Parks: defence, B. Hurst, B. Greer: centre, L. Coughlin: wings, Turland, Carl York. Alternates, Hatfield, Mowatt, B. Johnson, B. Twigg, E. Cousins.

Summary

First Period

1 Wellington, Goyer (J. Scott) 18.33
2 Trenton, D. Beale (Jones) 19.00
Penalties: Coughlin, Greer, Jones, Beale, Black.

Second Period

2 Trenton, Jones (A. Scott) 1.05
3 Trenton, Jones (Black) 14.00
Penalties: York, Johnson (match — misconduct), Turland (minor and match misconduct), MacDonnell, P. Scott.

Third Period

3 Wellington, Goyer (Coughlin) 4.00
6 Wellington, J. Scott (Cousins) 16.00
7 Wellington, Goyer (Coughlin) 18.00

No penalties.

Eddy Gilmore Describes Funeral of Joseph Stalin

...Eddy Gilmore, chief of The Associated Press Moscow bureau, was the only American newsagency correspondent present in red square today to get an eyewitness account of the ceremonies. Here is his dispatch: .....

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—They laid the body of Joseph Stalin beside Lenin today.

So now the two great figures of the Russian revolution—of the days that shook the world—lie side by side in the big marble tomb by the old Red square.

Beginning at the beginning, here is the way Stalin's funeral went:

Georgi Malenkov and other top men of the party and government gathered early at the Hall of Columns where the dead leader's body has been lying in state since Friday.

Chou En-lai, the Chinese premier and foreign minister, and party and state leaders from Eastern Europe and other countries were there, too.

The troops in long gray overcoats stand motionless on the cold cobblestones.

A 750-piece band is just before the tomb. It, too, waits.

Thousands of civilians holding black-bordered portraits of the dead leader are in the square. They are very quiet and it is difficult to tell when how 200,000 can be quiet.

Another 10,000 people are in the stands where I am standing—stamping, stamping, stamping to keep our feet from freezing.

The great gilded clock on the Spassky tower chimes every 15 minutes. At its first note, a military guard before the tomb changes—every 15 minutes.

The slug, slug, slug from their booted feet is the only sound in the spacious distances of Red square.

Faintly in the distance comes the sound of music. It is the stately and awesome Chopin funeral march.

The music swells. It is 11:30, and up the slight hill into Red square there comes a procession from Hall of Columns.

The honorary bearers walk behind the caisson with the military leaders. I can't recognize them all. Each has a portrait in his hand before him. On it lies the coffin of Stalin.

The coffin is covered in crimson cloth but through a rounded section of glass you can see the features of Stalin.

Just behind the gun carriage and its coffin walk Stalin's relatives and friends and companions.

The procession halts before the platform. Gently—ever so gently—Stalin's successors lift his coffin off the gun carriage. They handle it so tenderly. Very, very slowly they set it down.

Now, there is movement at the foot of the tomb.

The party and government leaders are going up the flight of marble stairs to the top of the mausoleum.

From here I should, you can get a very good view of them and their faces. But my eyes are blurred with grief. Their faces are sad and set.

At 10.58 an announcer introduces Georgi Malenkov.

Malenkov has a vibrant voice. He speaks without hesitating in clear strong tones. Loudspeakers bring his every word to the listeners in Red square and the millions in Moscow.

Malenkov never hesitates. He speaks out over the crowd. Every eye is on him. He finishes promptly at 11:15.

There is the slightest of pauses. The announcer presents Lavrenti Beria. He starts out in strong measured tones. People hardly move.

Beria finishes at 11:30 just as the Spassky chimes are striking. Molotov is introduced.

The foreign minister begins, and grief-stricken, his voice almost breaks. He goes on.

At 11:55 Molotov has said what he had to say.

There is a pause. The announcer says that the funeral orations have finished.

Movement on the tribunal. Malenkov leads the procession back down the marble steps and out in front of the tomb in the light of the sinking sun. Stalin's coffin stands.

Six men lift up and move off toward the wide open metal doors of the tomb.

It is 11:58. The first gun roars over in the Kremlin—the beginning of the salute. The bands begin to play again the funeral march of Chopin. Gun after gun roars.

Softly at first and then louder and louder go the whistles of the factories, mines, mills and vehicles on boats in the nearby Moscow river, moving through channels cut in the ice.

Cannons fling their fiery volleys into the March sky. The clock rings out the last strokes of 12. It is midday. The chimes are very much louder. The chimes, Chopin, roaring guns and whistles—Stalin's requiem.

At precisely five minutes past noon the guns cease—sounds the 30th shot. The whistles die away and the last notes of Chopin fall from the brass horns.

It is strangely silent again.

Then there is a slow movement in the massed bands. Trumpets to a muffled tune. A great blast over the square. The first note of the Soviet hymn. The troops stand even more rigidly than before, if that is possible.

Gun after gun. The party and government leaders come to salute. With the last note of the hymn, I look back over my shoulder at the Kremlin. The red flag of state which has stood at half staff since Stalin's death is slowly rising. Two men pull it to the top.

Someone to Love

By Irene Lonnen Emhart

—XXIV—

Tod had been drinking quite a lot. He was very gay and effusive, especially when he saw Rick. He kept saying, "I had to work late. That's my story and I'm going to stick to it. And if Jenny doesn't like it, you can cheer her up."

Between the two of them they got him to bed and as he drowned off he was still muttering about Rick being the one to "love her and take care of her."

"I don't know what to say, Rick," Jenny whispered as they cleared off the table later.

Rick looked at her gravely. "You don't have to say anything."

"I don't think Tod's happy!" The words tumbled over one another in her eagerness to make excuses. "He doesn't care too much for his job, and we're in debt, his mother's sick, and well, things keep piling up. But I'm sure everything will be straightened out."

"Of course, Jenny."

Jenny's eyes fell away from his. She twisted a paper napkin into a ball in her palm. "I'm especially ashamed of Tod for saying the things he did. He'll be ashamed too, tomorrow."

There was a queer look on Rick's face as he stared at her for an instant, as though he was about to say something.

He didn't speak, but Jenny knew all at once that Tod was right, and Nina had been right. Jenny herself had been incredibly stupid and blind. Rick was in love with her!

Tod wakened the next morning bewildered and contrite. She was pouring his coffee when he came out all shaved and ready to go to the office. "I hope I wasn't too obnoxious last night, Jenny."

"You weren't." She tried to smile.

"I remember saying something about—"

"Forget it," Jenny said. "All of it." She poured her own coffee and set the pot back on the stove.

"I can't remember much what happened after I left the party."

"Party?" she dropped her spoon in the saucer. It made a loud clatter in the stillness.

He gulped his coffee down and then looked at her. "You'll probably find out sooner or later anyway, so I might as well tell you. I went to a cocktail party at the Conover Agency. It was a special shindig for a client. A big shot."

Jenny felt a little numb. Or maybe she hadn't wakened up enough yet to grasp what he was saying.

He stood up and reached for his hat, from the top of the ice-box where someone had put it the night before. "We had quite a time. There were even reporters there and photographers. That's why I thought I might as well tell you. They might sort of play me up a little on account of my football career." He flushed as he gave her a quick goodbye peck on the cheek.

"You mean you wouldn't have told me, except that I'd probably see the pictures and read about it in the paper?"

"Why make—of course I'd have told you." He turned his hat over in his hands. "Why should I try to hide anything. After all, Liz invited you, too."

"Liz?"

There was a long frigid pause. "I knew you couldn't go on account of the kids, and—"

"Go on. You knew I didn't have the proper clothes either, that if I went you'd be ashamed of me."

"Jenny, for heaven's sake, don't be so dramatic. If I'd have thought you cared about going we could have got a sitter and managed a new dress."

She stood unmoving listening to the slam of the front door after him, and then his footsteps going up the stairs. One of the babies wakened and began to cry. She moved toward the sound automatically.

So Liz had asked Tod to the party, and he had gone, without telling her anything about it at all.

Tod phoned at 2 o'clock, his voice strained. "Jenny, I'm dreadfully sorry about last night, and about the things I said this morning too. It's been on my mind all day." When she didn't say anything because she couldn't, he went on. "Jenny, are you there? Did you hear what I said?"

"Yes."

"And listen, I'll be home early, because I've got great news."

• • •

She was still apathetic after Tod had told her his "great news." "But Jenny, you don't seem at all excited. Think what it will mean."

"I am thinking."

He took hold of her shoulders and gave her a little shake. "If you're worried about me getting mixed up with Liz, just because I'm going into the Conover firm, you're being silly. Why, this is the chance of a lifetime."

"We'll look for a house to buy, a suburban, where the kids can have plenty of fresh air and sun. And we'll buy a car. Gosh, won't it be swell to have a car again! Gee whiz, Jenny, you know when Conover called me over there this afternoon and made me this proposition, the first thing I thought was, 'Now Jenny and I and the kids can really begin to live—like other people! No more basement apartments and skimping. I can pay up that nursing home and get Ma back into a decent place.'"

• • •

—XXV—

The write-up of the Conover party gave more space to Tod than it did to the guest of honor, it seemed to Jenny.

The pictures of Tod were extremely flattering—"Tod Duncan, former All-American." And Liz was looking her usual perfect self like something out of a fashion magazine.

Jenny didn't blame Tod for feeling heady, after such an experience, and to have received Mr. Conover's job offer on top of it.

They began at once to look for a house. The bright young men in the Conover Agency could not live in a musty basement in an obscure and slightly tawdry section of town. Tod would have chosen a house in some exclusive new development, but Jenny found one in a less pretentious suburban neighborhood, a modest colonial with an acre of ground and a small orchard.

It was wonderful to get the twins into the pink and white freshness of a nursery all their own. Nine, too, to be able to buy the things one needed from Max, without feeling guilty.

Max was thinking of selling his shop. Business had declined some and he had always dreamed of buying a trailer and going to Florida. Now seemed an opportune time. He suggested that Jenny go into partnership with Nina and take over the shop.

"But, Max, there's no need now for me to work with Tod's new wife Nina. She's a capable enough girl, and besides I haven't the money to invest in anything like that."

Max waved his hand and shrugged. "Borrow like I did."

"There's still Tod and the twins, my first and most important job."

Max turned away, lighting one of his long cigarettes. "If you change your mind," he broke off, shrugging again.

There was something vaguely puzzling to Jenny in Max's attitude, and in Nina's too. Nina had forgotten the quarrel and she warmly urged Jenny to do as Max suggested.

Ottawa Announces Issue of 1st 'Elizabeth' Stamps

The post-office department in Ottawa has announced the issue of the first "Elizabeth" stamps since the Queen ascended the throne. New, regular issue stamps with a portrait of the Queen will appear in May, in one, two, three, four and five-cent denominations. A month later, day before the coronation, a special stamp will mark the day to mark the Westminster Abbey ceremony. The only previous time Canada has printed such a stamp was when King George VI was crowned in 1937. The coronation stamp, seen above being examined by engraver, will be on sale for only about two months. There'll be a printing of perhaps only 30,000,000 to 40,000,000 of stamps, which is a profile of Queen done in plates. Central Press Canadian.

MORE PROMOTION NEEDED TO GET TOURIST DOLLARS

—Cecile

Suggests Labor Day Date be Changed

TORONTO (CP)—An untapped market of $50,000,000 in American tourist dollars is waiting to be developed through intensive promotion work, Travel Minister Cecile said Monday.

Speaking during the throne speech debate in the legislature Mr. Cecile said business would jump by at least that much if tourists could be induced to stay one day longer.

"Our survey show that 75 per cent of the tourist visitors have vacations lasting from 14 to 21 days. Only 10 per cent spend two to three days in the province," he said, "in other words the tourist is here and then he's gone. That is how it has ever been."

He also suggested that Labor Day be changed from the first to the third Monday in September. He said this would extend the tourist season by two weeks, and greatly increase the revenue from American visitors.

Could Increase Business

He said a one-day increase in the length of stay for persons who stayed one or two days increased would increase tourist business by 28 per cent.

"This would figure out to about $18 for every man, woman and child in the province," he said. "It doesn't work out quite that way but eventually some portion of every tourist dollar affects everyone in the province."

Mr. Cecile described "Americanization" of Canadian tourist attractions by hanging out the "Hot Dog, Cold Beer" symbols of catering to the patriotism of Americans.

Details on the Toronto-metropolitan bill occupied most of the time at Monday's sitting. Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver criticized the plan.

Called Undemocratic

He said it would probably result in higher taxes, and was undemocratic because it did not first seek the opinion of the people through a referendum.

Mr. Oliver said the bill set "a dangerous precedent" for other municipalities in the province where similar problems could arise in the future.

Premier Frost said the Toronto problem could occur elsewhere again, because most cities with growing suburbs were annexing their surrounding territory.

A. Kelso Roberts, deputy speaker and Prog.-Con. MLA for conservative member for Toronto St. Patrick, criticized the bill last December but they were presumed to come from the bombing range. Civil defence authorities at Washington refused to comment and USAF officials could not be reached.

No Case for Optimism In Malenkov's Omission of War Threat in Funeral Oration

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just because Malenkov didn't threaten war in his funeral oration for Stalin is no reason for the West to feel safer.

It's the Communist line; Russia is the No. 1 peace-loving nation. Stalin established it. Malenkov has been following it. He must do so here at the start of his regime, at least, to build confidence of the Russian masses in him.

War talk the first time he opened his mouth after Stalin's death would scare more fright than devotion.

Malenkov said his policy is based on the "Lenin-Stalin premise of the possibility of the peaceful coexistence and peaceful competition of two different systems, capitalism and socialism."

The trouble with the word "prolonged" as Lenin and Stalin laid down its use is that it does not mean "forever." Prolonged means for a while, which plainly says the doctrine which plainly says "peaceful co-existence" can't last forever.

"As long as capitalism and socialism remain," Stalin said, "they will live in peace. In the end one or the other will triumph—a funeral dirge for one or the other over which the Soviet republic or over world capitalism. That is a respite for war."

Differed From Hitler's

The Stalin-Malenkov problem is different from Hitler's. When he came to power Hitler promised and humiliated by their First World War defeat, they hated all the conditions of nationalism and felt cruelly. Hitler could direct them to war with promises of more living space and revenge for the First World War. By threatening war he strengthened his position with the Germans.

But the Russians came out of the Second World War victorious. They are not humiliated nor mistreated. So they had neither need or desire for revenge. How then could they be prepared for war and be inclined to support it?

By repeatedly telling them they were innocent peace-loving people surrounded by enemies getting ready to attack them. That puts the 6,000,000 Communist party members and the other 204,000,000 Russians not permitted in the party in a fighting mood.

Put Stirred Up

That's the pot Stalin stirred up and Malenkov kept boiling last night. Besides, addressing the 19th all-Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow, he accused the United States of trying to "unleash the peace."

In addition, the Russians probably have a healthy respect for the atom bomb supply in possession of the West, and probably don't feel ready yet to start talking it away.

The West's best hope that the Russians will not start some adventure that would start a third world war may lie in the fact that Russia is in transition from one regime to another.

COMMONS REJECTS PROBE OF GOVT. ADMINISTRATION

Drew's Motion Lost By 96 to 43 Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has defeated a new demand by the Progressive Conservative party for an independent investigation into all phases of government administration.

The demand was made Monday by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. He said the government should "lift the veil of secrecy surrounding agencies of the government."

He proposed a motion for an immediate inquiry to bring about "more efficient and economic organization of the government, its departments and agencies, the investigation could decide how the inquiry should be conducted.

The opposition leader got support from CCF and Social Credit spokesmen. They agreed economies could be made in government business totalling $4,500,000,000 a year.

Def c e Production Minister Howe, speaking for the government, rejected the request. He said "there is no foundation for the suggestion that the government is inefficient or that there is waste and extravagance."

Progressive Conservative members called a formal division on the issue and it was defeated by a vote of 96 to 43. Progressive Conservatives were supported by the CCF and Social Credit parties and J. L. Gibson (Ind—Comox-Alberni).

New Envoy to Peiping Is Believed Significant

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—The new Russian government named deputy foreign minister Vasily Kuznetsov its envoy to Peiping today, emphasizing Prime Minister Georgi Malenkov's promise of continued unity with Communist China.

The announcement of the appointment of Kuznetsov, a leading figure in the Soviet Communist party and long the head of Russia's trade union movement, was made in one of the Moscow newspaper Pravda as a salute of greetings to Joseph Stalin, written by Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

Kuznetsov succeeds Alexander Panyushkin, former Russian ambassador to the United States. Panyushkin, the announcement said, was recalled in connection with his "transfer to other work." He had shifted from Washington to Peiping only last June.

In his Pravda eulogy, Mao, said the great friendship of the peoples of China and the Soviet Union is inviolable. Any imperialist aggression whatsoever will be routed by us.

"We deeply believe," the Communist Chinese chief wrote, "that the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union and the Soviet government headed by Comrade Malenkov, can unconditionally continue the cause of Comrade Stalin, successfully carry forward and brilliantly develop the great cause of communism."

Visit Red Square

Many Muscovites visited Red Square today to see again the bier and marble tomb of Lenin in which the body of Stalin was buried Monday.

Above the huge mound doors where previously was carved the single name "Lenin," the two names now appear in red letters on a black sign—"Lenin" above, "Stalin" under it.

Trygve Lie's Personal Views Under Question

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Trygve Lie's personal policies toward the United Nations secretariat be heads were set for an airing today. The Soviet bloc and perhaps India, Norway and Sweden were expected to quarrel over his cooperation with United States government investigations of American employees at the world organization.
